TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 17 (CP) — Industrials continued advancing for the second successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Steady demand lifted market leaders as much as two points as the group rose to the highest price level since August 1946.

Golds slipped backwards from Wednesday's firmness and base metals had a difficult time holding their ground. Western oils climbed steadily in the quiet dealings.

Volume for the first four hours was 620,000 shares.

In papers Abitibi featured in climbing into new high ground. Utilities, papers, refining oils and textiles were stronger.

Canadian General Electric gained $10 at a new high at $50 on sale of 25 shares following news of an extra dividend of $6.

FEMALE BEAGLE HOUND IN POUND

A female Beagle hound wearing neither collar or tag is in the custody of city pound-keeper Thomas Thorn. The hound was picked up in the vicinity of the Swift Canadian plant on Station Street and will be kept by Mr. Thorn awaiting its owner or some other interested party.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 17. (AP)—Cattle 250; good and common and medium 710-lb. Canadian steers sold at $18.50; beef cows $13.50-$15.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter $18.50-$17.50; good weighty sausage bulls $17.50-$18.00.

Calves 100; good and choice handyweight calves $31.00-$34.00; culls and bobs $15.00-$31.00.

Hogs 400; good and choice hogs $16.00-$17.50; good sows $12.50-$14.00.

Sheep and lambs 200; good and choice lambs $23.50-$24.50; good and choice handyweight ewes $8.00-$9.50.

Local Nimrods Keeping Quiet About Prowess

Whether the local nimrods now sojourning in the deer haunts of the northern woods, are not being too successful in their quest for the elusive buck and doe, or are too modest to say something about it, very little word has been received from the gun-toting sentry up to the moment.

Two or three bucks, deer, that is, were noticed passing through the city this morning, bound for out-of-town destinations.

It is reported in the city that Frank Domenico has downed a handsome buck.

However, somebody is getting their share of the venison. Travellers returning from Peterborough last night said they met at least seven deer-laden cars proceeding between Marmora and Peterborough.

POLICE COURT

Pleading guilty out of court to a charge of fishing or whitefish without a commercial fisherman's licence, Walter Kellar, Foster Ward, paid fine and costs amounting to $25. The case was listed on the docket of the county magistrate's court, the charge being laid by F. W. MacDonald, game overseer.

Traffic charges predominated the court proceedings with a large number of motorists and truckers paying fines for operating their vehicles without the proper number of lights; or speeding and for failure to stop at "Stop" signs.

Three youths from the College Hill area outside the corporation pleaded guilty to destroying insulators on hydro poles at the hydro sub-station on the west side of the river at the former Lazier's Dam.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills suspended sentence for one year and ordered payment of damages to the hydro property and also court costs.

NORWAY'S PARLIAMENT

The parliament of Norway is called Storthing.

Market Vendors Protest Against Street Peddlers

Two trade district farmers who have been marketing their fruit and vegetables here for years have joined forces to fight peddlers and hucksters, who continue to sell from door to door at prices lower than market quotes.

From a market square that was lined with scarce but entirely vold of buyers, Mr. O. Lounsberry of Foxboro and Mr. Wm. Bedford of R. R. 1, Belleville claimed today that most of the peddlers were operating without a license or paying compulsory market dues.

Mr. Lounsberry pays $20 as annual rental for two stands because a fee of 20 cents three times a week as market tariff. Mr. Bedford has three stands and accordingly his yearly tax is heavier.

Both are satisfied that out of town and local peddlers are not giving the farmer who sells on the market a square deal. Both are satisfied, too, that they cannot do much alone, but feel that if a group could get the support of the local authorities the condition could be remedied quite easily.

Fruit, Vegetables Plentiful On Local Market

There was an abundance of good fruit and vegetables on the local produce market today but buyers were not so plentiful although the weather was favorable for it's time of year. Growers were asking $2.50 a hamper for No. 1 Spys. $2.50 for No. 1 Delicious. $1.50 to $2.00 for high colored MacIntosh while Snows brought $1.50 a bushel for the best varieties.

The price of Talman sweets was set at $2.75 a hamper for the top grade and Greening domestics brought $1.50 a bushel. The only Sheldon pears showing were going for 50 cents a six quart basket.

Large heads of cabbages were bringing 20 cents each while the smaller ones sold for 10 cents and 15 cents respectively. Citrus were quoted from 5 cents to 20 cents depending on size, Hubbard squash and Individual pepper squash were displayed at prices ranging from 15 cents to 20 cents for the former and 5 cents to 10 cents for the latter.

Winter pears brought 10 cents a quart and a half peck 40 cents along with cauliflower at 10 cents to 25 cents a piece according to size. Turnips 10 cents to 15 cents, carrots 25 cents a six quart basket, broccoli 10 cents a bunch, savory and sage 10 cents a bunch, parsnips 50 cents a six quart basket and celery at 10 cents a bunch were the other vegetables offered.

Sweet cider offered in quart and gallon receptacles demanded attention and quarts were selling for 20 cents while a gallon jug netted 75 cents.

Seventy-five pound bags of potatoes brought $1.75 each.

Murney Reynolds Heads Foxboro Farm Forum

The Foxboro Farm Forum met on Monday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coulter's home for their second meeting this season. There were eighteen members in attendance.

Presiding the broadcast Mr. R. Prindle asked Mr. R. Longwell to take charge of the election of officers which had been postponed at the previous meeting. The results were as follows:

President, Mr. Murney Reynolds; Vice President, Mr. Fred Campbell; Secretary, Mrs. Vernon Harry; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Harry Coulter; Treasurer, Mr. R. Joslin; Reception Leaders, Mr. T. Prindle, Mr. H. Coulter; Monthly Discussion Leaders, Mrs. F. Campbell, Mr. B. Mitts.

The Section of officers was followed by some discussion regarding a proposed Community Centre in Foxboro. Mr. R. Longwell and Mr. J. Reynolds, were named as a committee to keep the Forum in touch with other societies interested in this project.

After listening to the National Farm Radio Forum over the CBC network, Mr. H. Joslin, discussion leader of the evening, divided the members into three groups to discuss the topic, "All Work".

In answer to the question "Should town and farm people get together for recreational purposes?" the groups felt that it would lead to a better understanding of one another's problems and point of view.

Suggestions for a well-balanced recreational program for the community were sports, dramatics and concerts.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. V. Harry and Mrs. F. Campbell served refreshments.

The next meeting on Nov. 21, will be at Mr. F. Campbell's home.

Congregational Gathering Held At St. Andrew's

The Sunday School room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was filled almost to capacity Wednesday evening for the annual congregational social gathering following their anniversary services on Sunday.

Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. C. A. Perkins, minister at Holloway Street Church, who spoke on individual responsibility to church members in connection with the various phases of church work.

Musical entertainment was provided by Dan LaFrance who favored with violin solos, and by Mrs. Harry Brown who gave several vocal solos. Both Mr. LaFrance and Mrs. Brown were accompanied by Mr. Clifford Temple at the piano.

Three colored films, one on Australia, another on lobster fishing in Nova Scotia, and the third depicting the scenic beauty of Jasper National Park, were shown at the meeting which was in charge of Rev. J. B. Hornsby, minister at St. Andrew's. Refreshments were served by members of the Women's Guild.

DISTEMPER SWEEPING DOG POPULATION

An epidemic of distemper is sweeping through the local dog population, it was stated today by Thomas Thorn, local dog catcher.

Mr. Thorn states that a great many cases of the disease have been reported in the city, the distemper striking the dogs very quickly and in many cases proving fatal before veterinary assistance can be obtained by the owner.

NEW SECRETARY TREASURER

Mr. Frank A. Stanley

Mr. J. F. F. McQueen, President of Trinidad Leaseholds (Canada) Limited, announces the appointment of Mr. Frank A. Stanley as Secretary-Treasurer to the Company. Mr. Stanley joins the Company with considerable previous experience gained with Messrs. Thorne, Mulholland, Howson and McPherson, Chartered Accountants, and more recently with Loblaw Grocterias Co. Ltd. He will be located at the Company's administrative offices in Port Credit.

Threat of Tram Strike Averted

Montreal, Nov. 17 (CP)—The threat of a tramway strike in Montreal has been averted—at least temporarily.

Some 1,000 tramway employees Wednesday night agreed to submit their grievances against the Montreal Tramways Company to a provincial arbitration board before taking direct action.

The move was suggested by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, bargaining agents for the 4,300 tramway employees.

Present basic wage in the tramways is 70 cents an hour plus a $4 weekly cost-of-living bonus.

TOLL OF ROAD TRAFFIC

In the month of October there was noticeable a slight falling-off in the toll taken by motor traffic. This is only the second time that the total of deaths from road accidents in any one month has been lower in the present year than last.

It is noted that 79 persons were killed in last month's traffic. This compared with 89 who lost their lives in October 1948.

But there is another side, the ten-month toll ending with October was higher this year than last year, in fact 17 per cent higher.

Pedestrian hazards are at a peak at this season of the year because of early nightfall and the changeability of the weather, marked by poor visibility in the hours when many persons are travelling to their homes after the day's work.

There is a warning in the figures for October and that is for the pedestrians, more of whom lost their lives in October than members of any other group of travellers on the roads and highways. Of the 79 deaths no less than 30 were pedestrians. Also a matter of tragic import is the fact that 13 of the pedestrians who were victims were children under 15 years of age. Children lost their lives, one a bicyclist and the other a passenger in a car.

In some months there have been very heavy losses through multiple accidents. This October that was not the case. Nor was there the heavy toll at level crossings which in some months is reported in other months. But the record was tragic enough. Two cars which left the road each caused two deaths, while one person died in a collision with a train.

COFFEE

Coffee is an article which figures in meals and entertainment and has won an international fame. Just now it is attracting more attention than for a long time for it is scarce and the price is up. It is even said that prices may remain high for some years, that is the view of those who have discussed the coffee situation for several years of drought and floods in the coffee-growing areas of South and Central America have had their inevitable result.

The drink is one which continues to gain for all concerned. The world of today has a worldwide significance. The coffee bean has a reputation built up among those who have been devotees of the steaming preparation which is so popular. It has been accused of keeping people awake and is said to be used for that very purpose to keep people alert if such a vigil is required. It is given credit as a valuable food for the stimulation of the mind and is said to increase the heart beat and so lessen blood pressure.

"Coffee is that indefinable something. It is the companion of vigils, the lifter of spirits, the oiler of bones. How could a newspaper shop function without coffee, clockaround? For long cold jobs it is the internal warmer par excellence. It is the inimitable reviver of parties that bog down.

"Coffee can be wonderful. It can be horrible. Yet, stuff that you'll taste and run out in Manhattan, you would gulp greedily over a camp-fire in the Adirondacks. It is a true love, mountain high, river deep. The second and third cups flow matters of high finance, high state, common gossip and low comedy. It is a social binder, a warmer of tongues, a soberer of minds, a stimulant of wit, a father of spirit if you will. From roadside mugs to the classic demi-tasse, it is the perfect democrat. It hurts one to see such an old and truly cultivated friend come off the perch of art and contend with economics like the rest of us."

Some users of coffee are said to be wasteful in their preparation of the drink and it is claimed that quality and flavor would not suffer if the water were run through the ground beans several times instead of once.

SAFETY IN TRAFFIC

How many people are there who drive cars or walk across streets as carefully as they would expect their children to do? The truth can be as embarrassing as it is dangerous. Safety in traffic has to be a family affair. Every parent or older child has to set the kind of example on the streets and roads that will keep the family out of traffic accidents for the whole of their lives.

CAREER

In looking back, I now regret
When I was just a youngster small
I wished a carpenter I'd know
And thought his work I'd like to do.

But later, came another plan.
I saw an elevator man
And fancied that it must be fun
So wonderful a car to run.

My mother hoped that I would be
God's servant in the ministry.
My father, thinking I'd be sawyer
Talked of the money lawyers made.

At other times he said to me
They needed men in industry,
And if I'd plant with care
I might become a millionaire.

Now fortunate and glad am I
To be a poor newspaper guy.
I am less worried than are they
Being called "Big Interest men" today.

Letter to the Editor

Re: Zwick's Island

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Permit me to answer my views regarding a letter published in your paper on Monday, November 14th. regarding the development of Zwick's Island.

Once again it goes to show the lamentable attitude of some of our city officials responsible for the laxity in our city. We, the taxpayers, have had increases in taxes year after year which is understandable from the fact that the city is expanding rapidly. However as one who is deeply interested in expansion we must first investigate the city's financial conditions.

I certainly agree that with one mill of the taxation we can not expect facilities for our children in parks as we have. We as parents were deprived of these advantages, but we can now provide as much for our children without cost. This Zwick's Island deal, as was stated in our local press of November 15th, 1949, is not going to cost us one cent. Besides it is going to bring us (the taxpayers) from $3,000.00 to $5,000.00 per year in taxes from what is now a dead eyesore at the entrance to our city, to a park, beach and in fact a place for recreation which we can be proud.

Perhaps our forefathers did not look for individual gain in a city but in a sea daily we are becoming bigger and bigger, and certainly we should endeavor to progress for the benefit of all citizens. Our city council has seen fit to offer a proposition to the best prospect and surely we should not fail to support the council as they are the elected representatives of our local democratic government. Why should the parks board refuse to accept offers from our elected representatives. I note in the same letter I did not have the time for consideration This seems ridiculous. After all we the taxpayers are paying for this application and must consider it a benefit putting, as it seems to those who accept appointments of this nature surely that is what they are there for. It seems that Zwick's Island deal has been going on for years and why can not be the answer can it?

The city council elected to see that our citizens get all that is coming to them and I feel that they did a good job in recommending a meeting with the parks board. I do hope that the council will see to it that the parks board consider their responsibility also to the citizens if not then who are the representatives of the city of Belleville.

Were Backed Into A Corner—By Profits

(Montreal Gazette.)

The story of two business men who could not make up their minds whether business is told in the current issue of the magazine, Canadian Affairs. The two men did not have to give up their business because of it. It is a delightful little story well enough. They went out of business because it was doing too well. They could no longer be forced to stay in it.

The situation does not make sense. Nobody knew this better than the two businessmen concerned. But it is the sort of unreasonable situation that the law created. It is the sort of thing successful business to commit suicide to avoid. It is said in the United States,

The root of the matter lies in the process called "the make up of a mere empty bit of space, or a reckless day of delights, interests and occupations. The inside of the world may be housed within it; small dogs on the sidewalk, paths may walk the noblest and great of the earth. Within its confines may be erected a gallery by which many of the masterpieces of the world will hang.

Never can this country of the mind be over-built or over populated. There will always be room for more beauty, more hospitality, and more things to be make it a haven for peace and personal contentment. There we can gather about us, at will, the select and elect of all time, for conversation and pleasurable events. What a thing of wonder is the kindred of time.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Simple literature and Style."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COUNTRY OF THE MIND

Upon entering a strange town, or city, to which I have never been, at nightfall, I am wont, my hotel room I like to wander about, studying the fates I meet, look into shop windows, engage shop keepers in conversation, and generally get the feel of the place, for all places have a personality of their own.

The automobile has been a great democratizing force in the world, for it has enabled millions to get out into the clean air of the country, and to enjoy all its salubrious beautiies and blessings. It has done so much to take people away from themselves. And it has helped them to discover that there are people in the world besides themselves.

There is a country of the mind, as well as the one in which we were born and bred. We are solitary travellers in this one. In it we may have cultivated a garden, built a library, and hung room after room with memories. When bond alone is the time in which to walk about in this country of the mind. Especially at midnight time, when about to commit this body of ours to its rest for the night. A little walk about it at this time, is the best way to bring peace and relaxation, and perhaps happy dreams.

We are the sole ruler in this country of the mind. We are the governments. We make of it a mere empty bit of space, or a reckless day of delights, interests and occupations. The inside of the world may be housed within it; small dogs on the sidewalk, paths may walk the noblest and great of the earth. Within its confines may be erected a gallery by which many of the masterpieces of the world will hang.

Never can this country of the mind be over-built or over populated. There will always be room for more beauty, more hospitality, and more things to be make it a haven for peace and personal contentment. There we can gather about us, at will, the select and elect of all time, for conversation and pleasurable events. What a thing of wonder is the kindred of time.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Simple literature and Style."

Action Removes Present Chance - U.S. Recognition

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press News Analyst)

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States was using plain, though unemotional, language when he said in Washington Wednesday that Chinese Communist forces under Generalissimo Chu Teh and Chairman Mao Tse-tung have "established a hostile regime over a large area of China and have driven the lawful government of the country in the United Nations.

Immediate Outlook

This far none of the members outside the Soviet bloc have shown any disposition to oust the representatives of the Nationalist side with ranks as one of the Big Five in the peace organization.

Britain has been seriously considering the question of recognizing the Peiping government. Her economic interests in China are greater than those of any other foreign power, and she maintains a large consulate-general in Shanghai. However, one would expect Downing Street to move slowly now in view of the American situation. In fact Foreign Secretary Bevin told the House of Commons Wednesday regarding recognition, that "I am more concerned in acting together with the Commonwealth and other friendly foreign governments rather than taking hurried decisions. I do not think a combined decision in which the Commonwealth can co-operate in this business is much the best."

The Dept. of Consul General Ward and his staff has produced much resentment throughout the United States. Consequently observers has even brought a reference in President Truman's Roosevelt's handling of the Hiss-Chambers-Pumpkin papers in 1904.

Perideria, a wealthy American' had been seized and held for ransom by the notorious bandit chieftain, Raisuli. The message which went forward to the Dept of Moorish affairs in the signature of State Secretary, John Hay was:

"Perideris alive or Raisuli dead."

GOOD MORNING! HAVE YOU HAD BREAKFAST

A report issued by the West Virginia State Nutrition Committee in reference to the popular television campaign for better breakfasts includes the first page of L.G.A. Retailers' Guide, titled Today's Modern Breakfast, by E. V. McCollum, Ph.D., Sc. D., LL.D., one of the outstanding nutrition authorities.

Dr. McCollum observes that "upon awakening in the morning, many bodily stores are depleted since the last dinner meal, the evening meal. If they are not replenished" by breakfast, certain functions are impaired. Hunger, whether felt or not, sets in, and with it nervousness, irritability, decreased acuity and reduced stamina. Maximum efficiency on a full day's work or room or in industry cannot be attained in these circumstances. Hence the need....for breakfast."

In that isn't sound science and good common sense, I don't know what is.

Dr. McCollum gives as a Basic "Breakfast Pattern" the following: Fruit. Juice: Preferably citrus or tomato.

Cereal: Ready or ready to eat (whole grain, enriched, or restored).

Milk: Served on cereal and as a beverage.

Butter: Fortified with vitamin A.

Other foods may be required are easily supplied by adding eggs, breakfast meats and/or larger portions of the "basic pattern" foods.

A breakfast of average servings of each of the "basic" foods will provide total calories of almost every one's needs.

Far be it from me to raise an eyebrow at the dictum of Dr. McCollum, Professor Biochemistry, School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University, but you know me, all, it does seem to me that a breakfast could be worked off a whale of a lot of carbohydrate, in his basic breakfast pattern. Cereal, bread, Cereal and bread too! Why not serve cookies and cake to round it off?

I'd say you may have your choice, but I'd prefer cake, and both at the same time. Try some plain white cake and cocoa sometime as you like, as breakfast cereal today. Tomorrow take toast, pass the butter by small, then don't don't play hog with the carbohydrate.

Especially when pancakes are Dilly Co.)

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

It is helpful to reflect that despite all the mighty weapons that man has continuously devised for war, culminating now in atom bombs, rockets, guided missiles, tanks, the sword has been in continuous use from the very beginning of time.

In fact, the modern beyond affixed to the muzzle of the Indo-fantryman's rifle, is closer in design to the short sword of the Roman army of two thousand years ago than it is to anything during the centuries in between.

It has always been the dream of conquerors that they could wreak their will without taking the awful risks involved in using man. But the little devil always got in the way. He had to be used to conquer men. But you can't conquer man.

Beyond, instead of being the symbol of conquest, might very well be recognized as the symbol of freedom. For it has always been the weapon of the individual man. The Roman army was the first drilled organization to be used on any large scale. The soldier was equipped with a javelin for throwing, and a short sword, usually 28 inches long, for coming to grips with the enemy. The Roman soldier carried every-story; but for several centuries, with two spears and a sword was the Roman infantry equipped with two short swords.

Then, in the fifth century, the last of the Roman legions was withdrawn from Britain by the pagans on horseback using lances. Gradually the cavalry reached ruled the world for another few centuries by mailed men horses, practically sitting birds.

Back came the boys on foot. But as it had been in the days of all, it was found that muskets needed the protection of bands to warfare. So the bayonet was born.

Meanwhile, throughout the centuries in the hands of cavalry, infantry, elephants and seamen, the sword in various shapes and sizes was the symbol of death. In full dress the field marshals, who today pilot the employment of the atom bomb, wear a curved cavalry sabre of the design adopted by the Duke of Wellington in the period of the Battle of Waterloo.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE INDISPENSABLE WORD

A little girl was told that she must use a conjunction to her father who was in Europe. She composed her cablegram with care and ended with the word "love". But that made the eleventh word and would have to be paid for. "Drop the word," said her mother, "because if you don't they will charge you extra." "Why," replied the youngster, "they certainly wouldn't charge extra, for that word; love is such a lovely word."

It is such a lovely word. It is not only a lovely word to young people who have yielded to the heart's desire in each other; it is a lovely word to old people also who have clung to each other through the years. It is a lovely word, more often on the lips of food mothers without it there would be no fidelity and ardor between friends.

And we can be sure when people are careless in the employment of that word and push it ahead of it such words as "liberty", "duty", "expediency," "necessity," "wealthy," "pleasure," and "power," the whole of human society is reeling along like a drunken man headed for the ditch.

The little girl was right in saying that love is such a word. If she had known the meaning of the Greek conjunction, she might have added that love is one indispensable word in the language.

COMMUNISM SEEN

Should Realize Threat

Canada and other countries of like thinking should realize the threat of Russian aggression is "no less because of this shift in strategy."

Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East) said there must be economic as well as military co-operation among nations if "we are going to lay the foundation of lasting peace."

Mr. MacInnis, acting C.C.F. leader in the absence of M. J. Coldwell, visiting the atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., said he feels the most disturbing aspect of the world situation, aside from Russia's actions, is the fact that not all Western European nations accept co-operation as a good thing in itself.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—MacLeod), speaking in the absence of Social Credit leader Solon Low who also was at Chalk River, said any action in respect to China or Yugoslavia should be taken with the realization that the fundamental principle of Communism is complete world domination.

Canada must never lose sight of this fact in considering whether to aid Yugoslavia-of differences with Moscow and in deciding whether to recognize the Communist government in China.

Mr. Pearson spoke for 20 minutes to an attentive, well-filled house.

He charged Russia with "exerting every effort short of war" to bring Yugoslavia to heel and to [illegible] to "unquestioning and abject obedience."

He indicated the possibility of Canadian recognition of the Communist regime in China if the new government could show it was independent and had the support of the Chinese people. But any such action would not carry with it moral approval of the government's policies.

Mr. Pearson reiterated past contentions that any plan short of international inspection and control of atomic energy would be dangerous. It would be a false facade of security behind which aggressors could plan evil schemes.

Agreement with Russia on control of atomic weapons had to be reached before we are all blown to bits.

Mr. Graydon said that Canada's Cardinal Foreign Policy "must be the maintenance of permanent peace and security for our people."

Canada had nothing to gain from war, it had everything to gain from peace.

He stressed the need for building an Intelligent Canadian opinion on world affairs.

Want Conference

Need for top-level discussions to tackle the problems of maintaining world peace was emphasized.

A big-three conference should be held providing "chiefs of the world" with the "opportunity of putting their feet under a common table and clearing the air for the people of the world."

Mr. Graydon urged that Canadian industry be given a greater part to play in atomic energy research. In this regard Canada was lagging behind the U. S.

He wanted to know exactly what "specific obligations" Canada had as a result of signing the North Atlantic Pact.

He noted that in leading off the external affairs debate Mr. Pearson had referred to the Commonwealth of Nations rather than to the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Possibly many members had been guilty of abbreviating the title from time to time, but they should make clear that in doing so they were still referring to the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Mr. Pearson had indicated in his introductory remarks that Canada has turned her back in some respects on the British Commonwealth designation. This was indicative of the surprise which came out when the people were not given sufficient information on external affairs.

Mr. MacInnis said that while the North Atlantic Treaty provides for economic as well as military co-operation he was convinced "we haven't done as much to co-ordinate and co-operate on economic matters as we have on military matters."

If the parties to the treaty were not economically strong they could be strong in a military sense.

Unless solutions were found to economic problems they would be provocative of friction. Cutthroat competition and co-operation could not be carried out at the same time.

Objected to Use

Mr. MacInnis said that Mr. Graydon, who preceded him in the senate, objected to the use of the term Commonwealth of Nations rather than British Commonwealth of Nations.

The title, said Mr. MacInnis, was changed at the last commonwealth conference of prime ministers when it was a question of having a British commonwealth without India and Pakistan, which had been granted their independence, or a Common wealth of Nations in which both India and Pakistan could play their full part.

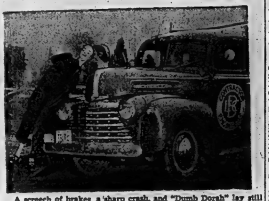
The British government now was using the shorter Commonwealth of Nations designation.

Mr. Hansell said he fears Canadians are becoming lax about Communism within the borders of this country. This might have resulted from the spy trials several years ago. But it should be emphasized that removal of a few Communists did not change the course of Communist endeavors. Vigilance was the price of freedom.

YEAR-ROUND PLAYGROUND

Montreal — (CP) — A $200,000 project is being studied to provide year-round recreation facilities for children living in northeast-end Montreal. It would provide softball and baseball diamonds, hockey rinks, a football field and gymnasium, together with dressing rooms and lockers in Beaubien Park.

D.D's Mistake



A screech of brakes, a sharp crash, and "Dumb Dorah" lay still on the road, her arm in two pieces and her head rolling toward the gutter.

Flash bulbs popped, sirens wailed, and before long the police accident squad had taken charge while the limp body of Dorah was lifted into an ambulance and rushed away.

Dumb Dorah was only a store dummy, but she managed to imitate perfectly the action of hundreds of Ontario citizens each year. She stepped from behind a parked car into the path of a moving vehicle. As a result, Dorah became a statistic.

The "accident," which took place this week on a busy Toronto street, was staged by the Kiwanis Safety Council in co-operation with the Toronto Police Department and the Toronto Traffic Safety Council. Its purpose was to draw public attention to the dangers of careless walking habits which each year result in hundreds of serious accidents — accidents that could be avoided.

Don't be a "Dumb Dorah." Think before you step off the curb, says officials of the Kiwanis Safety Campaign. Never walk from behind a parked car or step off the sidewalk without first making certain that it is safe. The distance you travel in three steps may cost you your life.

PAKISTAN CEREALS

In Eastern Pakistan the staple food consists of wheat and barley in the summer and wheat and maize in the winter.

STAG'S LAST STAND

The red deer or stag which was once found throughout the whole of Great Britain is now found chiefly in the Scottish Highlands.

River Valley W.I. Holds First Autumn Euchre Party

Rawdon—The first euchre party of River Valley Women's Institute for the autumn season, was held Friday evening last at the home of Mrs. Jennie Donohoe, Stirling, with ten tables at play and others in attendance.

The awards were $11.25 and prizes as follows: men's 1st, Mr. Don Donohoe; men's consolation, Mr. Ross Bush; ladies' 1st, Mrs. Katherine Donohoe; ladies' consolation, Mrs. Ed. Salisbury.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Next week on Nov. 23, at 7.30 p.m., a district rally of all institutes in West Hastings, under the direction of the President, Mrs. Roy Bush, will be held in Stirling theatre. The new Canadians at Bataws will be guests at this rally.

MAKE TRAVEL HARDER

Trenton, N.S.—(CP)—A new trend in railway cars is making it tough for hobo travellers. In place of the hoppers and goodies in the nooks of old cars, new railway cars being made here have nothing at the ends but hand rails and a platform big enough to stand on.

SPLASHING FUN

Montreal—(CP)—Daily swimming classes in the city's 17 indoor public swimming pools have increased the number of regular swimmers. More than 4,000 children go swimming every week, compared to less than 900 in pre-swimming instructions days.

Belleville Kinettes Entertain Tweed Kinettes at Dinner

Tuesday evening, the Belleville Kinettes entertained the Tweed Kinettes to a dinner meeting in St. Thomas' Parish House, with the President, Helen Wilbur, presiding.

Miss Helen Sulman favored with delightful readings for which she was graciously ,thanked by Mary Lane.

A presentation was made to the retiring secretary, Miss Vivian Hamilton, who is leaving the city to reside in Cornwall. Ruth Pollwell will be the new secretary, filling the office left vacant by Miss Hamilton.

Miss Rose Munroe, of Kingston, and teacher of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, who, herself has been blind since a girl of 16, described the work done by the teachers in helping those partly blinded to re-adjust their lives. Miss Munroe was introduced to the Kinettes by Maude Rollins.

Miss Eileen Martin extended, on behalf of the Kinettes, a vote of thanks and appreciation to Miss Munroe for her fine address.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social time, with bingo being enjoyed by all.

E. G. Gurnett Will Be Guest Speaker

Regional manager of the east central region of the Ontario Hydro with headquarters in this city, Mr. E. G. Gurnett will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Belleville Study and Lecture Club on Friday evening. Subject of Mr. Gurnett's illustrated address will be the development of Ontario Hydro.

A native of Owen Sound, Mr. Gurnett received his early education there and is a 1916 graduate of the University of Toronto with a degree of Bachelor of Applied Science. He is a member of the Professional Engineers of the Province of Ontario.

He joined the R.E.P.C. in 1916 and was with the municipal engineering department until re-organization operations were set up late in 1948. His first regional appointment was consumers' service engineer in the Ottawa region. He came to Belleville as successor to the late Leonard G. Dandeneau, who was his classmate at university.

PHIAT CLUB MEETS

Mr. Bill Pope , Y.M.C.A. advisor, addressed the Phiat Society at their last meeting. He congratulated the girls who won their radio debate against the Phalanx Club. He also remarked that the girls were lucky during the last week in winning two prizes at the Phalanx dance and the door prize at the Y's Men's supper meeting.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to planning the Phiat "Snow-Ball" to be held next month. It is hoped to make this Christmas dance a gala annual affair.

The members of the Phiat Club would also like to take this opportunity to thank the wives of the Y's Men who prepared such delicious refreshments for the workers at radio auction.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

There was an intimate connection in the old days between love and soup.

The tie that bound these topics together was the love spoon. A token of affection which it was the custom for eager young men to bestow upon their lady loves. A popular girl might collect dozens of such spoons which she proudly displayed upon the family mantelpiece in the same way that her father might show off mounted game or fish.

This is the type of year when soup spoons shouldn't be idle. Children race home from school with a hunger that amounts to a pain. There is no better way to assuage young impatient appetites than with a bowl of hot fresh chowder or velvety cream soup with crisp croutons.

Cream soups should be creamy but never thick or pasty. They should have the consistency of heavy fresh cream. If made in advance of dinner, they should be kept hot in a double boiler. Reheating over too strong a flame can easily curdle the soup.

If a cream soup tastes watery or dull, add a teaspoon or two of butter just before serving. This same advice can be followed if you use canned soups. Worcestershire sauce or bottle sauce will also give a bracing tone to their flavor. Use fresh broccoli in the following recipe.

Serves 4

Trim and wash enough broccoli to fill 3 measuring cups, using flowrets and stems. Chop broccoli fine.

In a soup pot melt 3 tablespoons fat. Add 1-2 cup finely chopped onion, 1 small clove of garlic and 1-4 cup chopped celery. Simmer slowly until onions are tender. Add 3 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Do not brown flour.

Add chopped broccoli and 1 quart of stock or water, mixed with 3 bouillon cubes. Simmer slowly 30 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper or more to taste.

Force soup through a sieve or food mill—the latter will make the job easier. Skim off any excess fat.

Add 1 cup hot light cream or top milk. Keep soup hot in double boiler. Serve with bread croutons—slices of ,white bread, cut into 1-2 inch cubes and placed in a moderate oven until brown.

Do you want a particular recipe or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope, for his reply. —Ed.

Tea And Bazaar Sponsored By St. John Mission Enjoyed

In spite of rain, snow and slushy streets, members, patrons and guests gathered to participate in the yearly tea and bazaar held under the auspices of St. John Mission, in Christ Church Parish Hall, yesterday afternoon, where warmth, the aroma of new made bread, delicious cakes and pies more than compensated for the outside chill.

Three booths were strategically situated around the assembly hall, while the rectangle thus formed, constituted the tea room with its three rows of little tables seating four, each with its centre of baby bronze of mums and white tea cloth; and at the end, the long tea table, dainty in its appointment of gleaming silver services, bronze and orchid — tinted 'mums, and beautiful cutwork table cloth of cream linen.

Presiding here from three till six, were Mrs. G. G. Wright, and Mrs. J. Grant Sparling, while Miss F. Ellis, Mrs. W. Williams, Mrs. H. Putman, Miss J. Redner, Mrs. C. Lance and Mrs. R. Babcock were kept busy replenishing the plates with delicious salads, cakes, cookies and the empty cups with tea.

Convening the apron booth were Mrs. W. Meens, Mrs. H. Putman and Mrs. W. Connor, where aprons of many designs and colors, shapes and sizes were for sale. Some were blue, others were pink, and some were green with borders of black, yellow and black, each stripe having tiny flowers of pansies, roses, daisies and 'mums like a garden border. Others were frilled, and still others made for hard usage, overall and plain, easy to launder.

Latest Word in Cloths

Nestling among the aprons, was a cuddley Dutch doll, with massive yellow braids of yarn, a pretty violet colored print dress topped by a white frilled apron. A cherubic face with dimpled chin, and blue eyes. Here too, was the latest word in dusting cloths a mit inset within a square piece of cotton, to keep the grim from tender fingers, and a firm hold on the cloth as well. Little pot holders depicting apples, fish, and peppers were for sale, as well as the regulation square holders and various colors, knit scarves in yellow, neat and pretty, just large enough to go around the throat with one end to slip through the other; tea towels with embroidered borders, and a crocheted baby set in blue, jacket, hood and tiny booties.

On the Touch-and-Take table were little parcels wrapped in yellow, blue and white, tied with mauve, blue and red ribbons. The catch was, if you touched one, you bought it, which trapped more than one inquisitive person who cheerfully parted with the price noted on the wrapper, and carried off their package of the "unknown". Over this table, and the rosy apples in baskets the hard-headed cabbages, and bunches of the greenest parsley ever seen, not to mention the tiny pots of cacti, baby's tears, and other rooted plants, and a huge watermelon cake, donated by Mrs. E. Coughlin, and iced with pale green icing, dotted with little silver balls and salmon-pink rose buds, was carefully convened by S. Fitzgerald, who was kept busy taking the silver pieces for the 'cake' draw.

Home Cooking Booth

The home cooking booth, convened by Mrs. C. Gerow, and assisted by Mrs. C. McFee was filled with samples of the culinary art; luscious apple pies with crusts that would melt in the mouth, taffy tarts filled with walnut pieces, little gems, puffed full with whipped cream, long white loaf cakes with mounds of icing, chocolate cakes with heaped up frostings, hermits oozing raisins, and nuts, cookies, pickles, fruits in jars and hunger-provoking home made bread in loaves, large, medium and small, smelling like nothing in this world but home made bread!

To the convener of the tea and to the bazaar, Mrs. W. Connors, to the treasurer, Mrs. W. Collyer, and to all who had part in serving and helping, appreciation is extended for the dainty tea, and attractive displays.

The cake was won by Mrs. A. J. Briens of Doctor's Hotel.

St. Michael's Alumnae Make Plans For Christmas Party

A meeting of St. Michael's Alumnae was held in St. Michael's high school on Monday last.

Presiding was the President, Arnfind Duffy, who announced plans for a Christmas party to be held Christmas week, or thereabouts. St. Michael's Alumnae and their friends are cordially invited. Tickets for the dance may be procured next week from any member of the executive, or from Ernie Cowan, Jack Barrett, or Gerard O'Connor.

Plans were made for the raffling of two turkeys with Bob Lucy and Lawrence Powers taking charge of the raffle.

The president called on Joan Moher and Mary Dolan to organize bridge and euchre party. Those wishing to partake may contact either of these girls.

Arrangements and organizing of committees having been made for the Christmas party and the raffle, the meeting came to a close.

Women's Activities

ELDORADO-ZION W.M.S.

The Eldorado and Union W.M.S. burn with 17 members and three held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Blackwidors present.

The president opened the meeting. The various secretaries reported — Community Friendship Secretary, Mrs. Clayton Blackburn, stated that there were several people indisposed in the community to whom she had sent cards. Different members reported making sick calls; "get-well" card was autographed by those present and sent to a member, Mrs. Wm. Childley, who is confined to bed.

Mrs. Albert Empey read an article "Christian Stewardship" and offered prayer for Miss Ryan.

Mrs. Cecil Blackburn and Mrs. A. Empey reported on the rally held in Madoc.

Mrs. Arthur Robinson conducted a short worship service.

Mrs. Albert Empey spoke briefly on "Remembrance Day" and all joined in the singing of an appropriate hymn.

The Rev. Mr. Poulter offered a special prayer for Peace.

A portion of "Growing With the Years", was summarized by Mrs. Arthur Robinson. Mrs. Clifford Chambers as head of the nominating committee presented the slate of officers for 1950 and the Rev. Mrs. C. W. Neeland Speaks On Greatness of Israel

Alkens' W.M.S. held their Autumn Thank-offering meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Moon on the afternoon of Nov. 10. The ladies of Centenary Auxiliary were guests at this meeting and were warmly welcomed by Mrs. I. Stubbs.

The president, Mrs. S. Westover, also welcomed the guests and led in the worship service which had been especially prepared for this service, with several members taking part. "These hearts respond, with full accord, We lift them up, We lift them to the Lord", was the theme throughout the worship.

Mrs. H. Hamilton, Mrs S. Marshall, Mrs. W. Bush, and Mrs. S. Spafford offered prayers for material possessions, and for spiritual blessings for the missionaries, for the privilege of service, for the church through which service can be given and for the gospel that has been entrusted so that it might be passed on to others.

Mrs. R. Marshall sang as a solo "These Hearts Respond".

A letter was read from Mrs. W. May, of Belleville, with a donation enclosed in memory of her mother, Mrs. Bruce Hogle. The president appealed to members when asked to accept office for 1950, to accept willingly as it was an honor, and a privilege to serve in an organization such as the Woman's Missionary Society. Each member was asked to consider ordering a copy of the study book "Growing with the Years", to be read and studied in the home.

Reports of the Sectional Rally were given by Mrs. G. Denike and Mrs. E. Hubble for the forenoon session, with Mrs. L. Vanosten giving the afternoon session. Mrs. K. Jones expressed the appreciation of all present for their very fine reports.

Mrs. Stevenson, of Centenary, favored with a lovely solo, "Heartaches, Take Them all to Jesus".

Story of Israel's Greatness

Mrs. S. Westover introduced Mrs. Neeland as the special speaker, Mrs. Neeland said she planned to tell something of the story of Israel and the things which make her great. Briefly, clearly and with appreciation of her subject she told of the religious institutions of the nation, of their growth, of the various sacrifices and their significance; of sacred places and times, of the cycle of seven, of vows and the use of the Ark of the Covenant.

Mrs. Neeland explained how sacrifices as a part of the religious service, grew less prominent and how prayer, the reading of the law and discussion grew.

Music was added and many Psalms were written for this purpose. Then came the prophets, who had great influence, not only on the people of their time, but continuing unto today. Their mission was to show to the people God and their relation to Him.

Special mention was made of Isaiah, Amos and Micah, stressing their entire devotion to God and the Mission He gave them. The life of the prophets paved the way for the coming of Christ. To them religion was a vital part of everyday affairs.

In closing Mrs. Neeland reminded her hearers that among the many things for which one should be thankful, should be included those things which had come to us through the despised and persecuted of Israel. Gratitude for the tradition they handed on, for the Saviour, who came through them and for the lessons they have given the world.

Mrs. R. McMullen expressed the appreciation of the group for this wonderful address.

Mrs. H. Hamilton and Mrs. L. Grills favored with a piano duet "The King of Love My Shepherd Is".

The president, Mrs. S. Westover expressed thanks to all who had helped in any way in making this meeting so worthwhile. To Mrs. Bailey, the convener of the tea, so nicely planned and to the hostess for her hospitality. Mrs. G. Sills and Mrs. F. Aikens, of Centenary, thanked the ladies of Aikens, for a very pleasant and profitable afternoon spent with them. The Thank-offering received was very gratifying.

A social half hour was enjoyed with tea being served by the committee in charge.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose, Chapter 435, held their first meeting of the month in the Saco club rooms on Nov. 10, with Senior Regent Kathleen Donovan, presiding.

The minutes were read by Recorder, Mary Peoples. Plans were made for the children's Christmas party to be held on Dec. 15. Recorder Mary Peoples, and Co-worker Peggy Minty, are in charge of this event and are planning an exciting evening for the kiddies.

Madoc.—On Monday night, the officers of Madoc Chapter 143, O.E.S., were installed for the coming year.

Mrs. Ida Broad and Mr. Newell Broad, with their staff of officers had completed a very successful year in the history of the Madoc Chapter. Before retiring from office, Mrs. Broad and Mr. Broad thanked their officers for their loyal support and co-operation during the year. Mrs. Coral Adams, P.D.D.G.M., took charge as installing matron, assisted by Mr. J. Pinch as patron, and Mrs. D. McGlashon, installing marshal. Mrs. Jean McCoy was chaplain, Mrs. Lola Fraser, organist; Mrs. Catharine Frost, soloist; Jesse Reed, sentinel. Others assisting were, Mrs. Embury, P.W.M., Trenton Chapter; R. Don Buchanan, P.W.P., Havelock; Mrs. Georgie Nobes, D.D.G.M., Dist. No. 12; Mrs. Edna Broad, P.D.D.G.M.; Mrs. Getrs Baker, W.M. No. 55, Belleville; Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, P.D.D.G.M., and Mrs. Blanche O'Neill, P.W.M., Madoc Chapter.

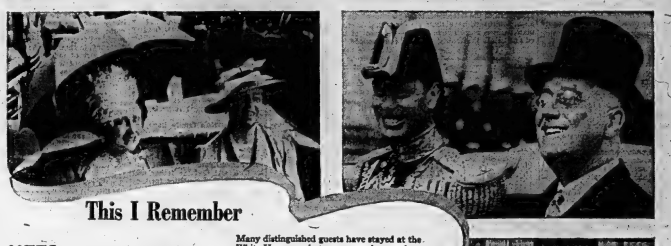
During the ceremony the soloist, Mrs. Frost, sang "My Task", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Sweet Hour of Prayer".

The retiring matron, Mrs. Broad, was presented with her past matrons' jewel by Mrs. Elsie Franks, Assoc. M., and Mr. Broad received his jewel from Dr. Fraser.

Among the many gifts received by the newly installed Worthy Matron, Mrs. Teresa Kilpatrick, was a silver necklace and a sheaf of 'mums, from her daughter, Mrs. Ross and Mr. T. Ross. The installing officers were suitably remembered with gifts from the Worthy Matron. Visitors from Belleville Minerva and No. 55, Trenton, Havelock, Tweed and Bancroft, were present.

Following the close of chapter, refreshments were served.

Officers installed were, Worthy Matron, Mrs. Teresa Kilpatrick; Worthy Patron, Tom Lloyd; Assoc. Matron, Mrs. Elsie Franks; Assoc. Patron, Jack Baker; Secretary, Mrs. Irene Ross; Treasurer, Mrs. Audley Reed; Conductress, Mrs. Mary Barton; Assoc. Conductress, Mrs. Margaret Dyrry; Chaplain, Mrs. Beatrice Loveless; Marshal, Mrs. Mabel Lloyd; Organist, Miss Marion Robertson; Adah, Mrs. Evelyn Baker; Ruth, Mrs. Audrey Hegadorn; Esther, Mrs. Minnie Miller; Martha, Mrs. Margaret Armstrong; Electa, Mrs. Violet Thompson; Warder, Mrs. Nettie Buskard; Sentinel, Newell Broad.



This I Remember

"We entertain the King and Queen"

by Eleanor Roosevelt

Many distinguished guests have stayed at the White House . . . but none caused so much excitement as King George and Queen Elizabeth in 1939!

Eleanor Roosevelt remembers the hot water bottles required for the Royal beds, despite the unbearable heat . . . the servant who fell with a loaded tray . . . how her mother-in-law criticized the President for offering cocktails to the King.

She reveals how the President sought a firm basis of friendship with Winston Churchill and the Russian leaders. She tells it in great length in "This I Remember", in The Standard's EXTRA 8-page rotogravure section.

Foot Loose in HOLLYWOOD

Staff writer, Gerald Clark, recently spent six weeks in Hollywood . . . and he came back with a notebook crammed full of observations about the so-called glamour of the film capital and its stars. His story will surprise you, and other movie fans. It starts in The Standard Magazine section this week!

THEY BATTLE OUTLAW FISHERMEN

Federal fisheries officers in fast patrol cutters have been battling lobster poachers off the New Brunswick coast. Maritime Staff Writer Cyril Robinson gives a thrilling eye-witness account of what happens when Federal men tangle with these outlaws.

The Cat Wears A Mask

A lady with the determination of a North-West Mountie, a poison pen writer, a rambling desert home, and an Indian snake dance all figure in this top-notch murder story—The Standard's Book of the Week—in rotogravure!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Same Procedure for "Housewarming" and "Open House"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our new house is to be completed soon, and we will move in at once. It will be our first home, for my husband was in the army for three years, and since his return we have lived in my mother's apartment. We are so happy at the thought of having our own home that we would love to give a "housewarming party" after we are settled, But due to the limited space of our new home . . four rooms and bath on the first floor, and an unfinished second floor . . there wouldn't be enough space, for we would like to invite quite a number of guests. My mother has suggested having an "open house" instead of a "housewarming party": say from 2 to 5 o'clock on a Sunday afternoon, and then the guests would be coming and going, not all guests there at the same time. Would this be appropriate?

2. If you say this would be appropriate, please tell me how to write the invitations.

3. And what refreshments should be served? (Our families and friends do not drink liquor.)

4. Would it be customary for guests to bring gifts to an "open house" as to a "housewarming party"?

M. A.

1.You are, apparently, somewhat confused by these terms . . . actually there is little difference between the procedure of a "housewarming" and an "open house". That is, either may be, and usually is given on a Sunday afternoon; the hours named usually three hours, two to five, or, more often, three to six, or four to seven. And at both afternoon parties, guests arrive at any time during the hours named, and stay for as long as they wish.

Since your party is to be for the special occasion of welcoming your friends to your new house-and-home, you should, I think, invite your friends to a "housewarming". "Open house" is a more general term, not necessarily a party to introduce your friends to your new home. (And, by the way, the term "housewarming", not "housewarming party".) And don't worry about your available house space . . . today that's a lot of space, and besides, the majority of guests at an afternoon party like to be crowded!

2. You may invite your guests verbally, or by telephone, or by notes or by cards, visiting-cards or informals. It's good timing to order informals now, either with your new address engraved or printed on them or planning to write the new address in the lower right corner of the front page (or on note-paper, if you prefer):

Dear Polly,

George and I are going to have a housewarming for our new home on Sunday afternoon, December 18th., from three to six o'clock. And of course we can't christen our new home without having you and Bill here . . so please say you'll be with us!

Devotedly.

3. The usual tea-menu is appropriate and customary: small, simple sandwiches; tea and/or coffee or chocolate; small cakes or "interesting" cookies; and such accessories (and food-accessories are mighty important for "nibbling" on such occasions!-or occasional) as potato chips (and these now come in several delectable flavors), popcorn, nuts, candies and any or several of the great variety of cellophane-packaged party tidbits. For those guests who prefer a cold drink, you should provide any non-alcoholic beverage—gingerale, a cola, grapefruit or any drink popular with your friends.

4. Gifts are more often brought to a housewarming . . but this gift-bringing gesture is not necessary.

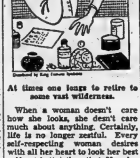
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Don't Sidestep Beauty Chores

There are times when some busy women entertain the thought that it would be just dandy to retire to some vast wilderness, chuck all the goodlooks duties, grow old and homely in peace. But let the permanent wave go limp, let them see themselves with scrambled, whispy hair and the vast wilderness idea evaporates. They can't endure the company of that ever-present woman in the mirror. They rush to the telephone, make an appointment, have their stimulated waves and ringlets restored and rejoin the beauty parade.



At times one longs to retire to some vast wilderness.

When a woman doesn't care how she looks, she doesn't care much about anything. Certainly, life is no longer zestful. Every self-respecting woman desires with all her heart to look her best —if not better than that. Her figure, gait, facial expression, daintiness, freshness of person." Beautifying begins with the daily bath, and she knows it. She'd rather skip a meal than the tubbing that sets her up, starts the day right. If she can't spare the time in the morning, then the rousing old scouring begins the bedtime beautifying session.

Necessary to this ritual are hair brushing, complexion creaming, hand lotioning, nail friction. After that she says her prayers and crawls into bed, feeling very righteous.

To get good marks in the universal school of beauty ,in which every girl and woman is a student, there are other small considerations to be kept in mind and executed on the dot. The career girl, especially, must keep herself in tip-top form.

Outdoor exercise is necessary if the youthful figure is to retain its graceful contours. A brisk walk every day is well worth the investment of time. Pick up your heels, hoist your chest and march! Have a rhythmic swing, taking deep breaths with a certain number of steps, inhaling and exhaling. Nothing like it for bringing natural color to the cheeks. The lungs are also washed, circulation picks up. The weary thighs and calves remain cannot abide the idea of walking. English women think nothing of clipping off ten miles, and most of them have beautiful complexions.

There is the matter of keeping the wardrobe in shape. A stitch in time not only saves nine, but it may save the price of a new frock. Fresh stockings should be put on every day, shoes kept in perfect condition. Run over heels will weaken the ankles, and they look terrible.

Buy powder puffs in dozen lots, so you can feel reckless with them. Sidestep sale ads showing talcum, cause blackheads, grind atmospheric dust into the pores.

MELROSE

Melrose—Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Weese, also Jackie and Shirley, spent Sunday at Ebenezer with Mrs. Weese's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sexsmith. They all attended church service there at which time the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Sexsmith was christened.

Mr .and Mrs. Jack English, John and Lynn, accompanied by Mr. William English, visited the Mr. and Mrs. Fred English.

The Reverend Herrington, of Newburgh, recruited the pulpit at Melrose on Sunday morning and evening. There was a tea hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley.

Mr. and Mrs. Silrton Badgley spent Sunday evening with Mrs. A. W. McLaren and Malcolm.

Several veterans and their wives attended the veterans' banquet and dance in the Armories on Remembrance night.

Miss Joan McLaren, and group of Collegiate students, attended the rugby game in Peterborough, on Friday afternoon.

The local teachers attended the teachers' meeting at Mrs. McGurn's school, Lonsdale, on Monday afternoon. There was a 100 per cent attendance of teachers and the I. P. S., Mr. Macklem.

Ladies of the W. M. S. have arranged for a pie social in the church on the 23rd.

Mrs. Chas. Bates, and Betty Bates recently returned from a trip to Toronto.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Girl Who Has Sadly Foolish Parents

Possibly it is only a natural human reaction, but it is always hard for me to understand why people so often regard with suspicion the sons and daughters, of men or women of bad reputation.

I have a letter from a young man of 29 who tells me that he and a young woman one year his junior have been planning to be married this coming January, after having known each other for five years. Now his fiancee has suddenly refused to marry him because of circumstances he describes as follows:

"My mother died when I was a baby," he says. "Father remarried and separated from his second wife when I was a child. He always avoided discussion about this marriage and I respected his wishes.

"But my fiancee's family have recently discovered that my father deserted my stepmother during an illness, and to this day has never supported her. When I heard this I investigated and found it to be true, and that my father was guilty of other cruelties towards his second wife.

"My fiancee refuses to marry me because her family feels I will act the same way toward her after we are married as my father did toward his wife. I can hardly blame them, for my father is only human, and I have lost all respect for him. But why should the sins of the father be visited on the son, so that I am losing my fiancee because of his extreme selfishness? I am thinking of leaving him and never seeing him again. To think that friends and relatives of mine have acted courteously to him all these years, though knowing what a scoundrel he was, while I, his son, was kept in ignorance!"

I think the writer of this letter shows quite unusual amount of character when he says that he can hardly blame his fiancee's parents for feeling as they do about the situation. For my part, however, I do blame them. I think they show a very narrow-minded and tragic lack of understanding in taking such an attitude.

There is no reason in the world why this young man would treat a wife badly just because he had the misfortune to have a miserable beel for a father. I would say, in fact, that because he has discovered after all these years just what kind of father he did have, he would be all the more likely to be an even kinder and more gentle husband than he would otherwise have been, in his eagerness to show that he is a different sort of man himself. If the parents of this girl had real sense insight, they would certainly realize this.

It is very disappointing, too, that the girl herself should not take her stand firmly beside the man she said she loved, and make it clear to her parents that she has confidence in him even if they do not. If she knows him so little after five years, that she suddenly loses faith in him because of what his father did to years gone by, she needs to grow up a great deal herself before she will be a fit wife for any man.

If this girl is really as completely without the ability to judge character as she seems to be, then I think this young man would be well advised to let things rest as they are, and forget about her. I am quite sure he is the type of person who will find a more worthwhile girl to love later on.

The male stickleback fish, in the breeding season, constructs a nest about three inches wide of grass and other matter.

Velvet trimmed wool suit

Afternoon Costume

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A GOOD wardrobe pal is the wool suit dress that can be worn with or without a blouse. Putty colored wool polished up with bright black velvet collar and buttons marks this one. Both jacket and skirt are snugly fitted with back swept treatment. The jacket, fitted at the waist, has a half belt in back, from which falls a bustle-like flare. The skirt has a flared inset in back that falls into two unpressed pleats, both worn down part way. This is an important afternoon costume.

Fashion Flashes

AS A CHANGE from the black or brown coat, try one of navy blue so very new and fresh looking, and so nice with touches of bright red or winter white. Smooth woollen is used for a navy blue coat cut on princess lines, gored, and buttoning from back to hem, with red piping on the buttonholes.

ARMS OUT for sleeve interest, visible in the newest dresses. A slender black crepe dress has fitted sleeves of black satin that flare to a musketeer cuff a little below the shoulder. Buttons parade up the sleeve sides. Tailored collar is faced with satin, also used to line the peg-top pockets.

VERY USEFUL in the wardrobe is at least one fine beaded blouse, to dress up a suit or make a smart afternoon costume with a separate skirt. Beige tissue faille is used for a handsome blouse with a beaded motif in tiny gold beads. Jewel neckline and short sleeves.

STILL ATOP black, young heads is the bonnet, with the Dutch type bonnet starting to appear. Heaven-blue velour is used for a bonnet with moderately high crown and brim that curves out into points at the sides. Embroidered in pink bugle beads along the brim edge and on the scarf veil border.

TWEED

Municipal Bldg. Tender Accepted With Reservation

Tweed—Tweed municipal council at a meeting held last week-end, accepted the tender of The Jos. Rashotte Company, Tweed, amounting to $61,300 covering the construction of Tweed's new municipal building. The tender was accepted, however, on the understanding that the council will have the privilege of discussing with Mr. Rashotte, a proposal to proceed with the construction of the building on a cost-plus 10 per cent basis, subject to the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The only other tender opened was one from J. R. Rashotte of the White Lumber Company of Belleville, for $56,885.

Extras Included

The Joseph Rashotte quotation of $61,300 included extras as follows, not included in the specifications: one cement block partition in the basement, 6-inch soil pipe from street and running up to the roof for roof drain; 2-inch water main to feed building and also give fire protection, with necessary fire hose on each floor, drinking fountains for each floor, boiler suitable for oil-burner to provide extra radiation for heating basement; 1,000 gallon fuel oil tank.

The White Lumber tender stated that "all labor and material required would be supplied". The extra equipment offered in the tender by Jos. Rashotte was estimated by the council to be valued at approximately $1,000. Reeve McCarty pointed out that Jos. Rashotts plans had previously been approved by the Department of Public Works, and they are not available for another contractor.

Would Be Added Costs

"If new plans have to be drawn by an architect, it would mean an additional cost of approximately $3,613.70 on the usual basis of 6 per cent on the White Lumber Co. contract," he noted.

"As I understand it Mr. Jos. Rashotte can prepare plans for his own use, but it is illegal for him to submit them to another contracting firm."

"We wouldn't be one cent further ahead by accepting the lower tender, if we had to pay an additional 6 per cent to an architect on the outside contractor's price," Councillor Trudeau said.

"We will get a fair price for the library building, and for our present municipal building as well, and therefore, we should keep the cost of the new building well under the $80,000 basing it all on Mr. Jos. Rashotte's tender," the reeve continued. "We must remember that Jos. Rashotte lives in Tweed and if anything is found out of order within six months, he would be right here to make necessary repairs at small charges. He has already guaranteed us the best of materials for the work." After further discussion, the tender of Mr. Joseph Rashotte was accepted.

NEW GREAT LAKES SHIP PLANNED

"Hull No. 11" will be the name of the largest Canadian-built ship the Great Lakes. Her keel will be laid in a few days at Port Weller, Ont. She will be 634 feet long and have 6,500 horsepower, compared with the present giant of the lakes, the recently launched Hochelaga, 640 feet and 3,500 horsepower. Shown here, examining the bow of a 14-foot half-model of the bulk carrier, are, left to right, John O. McKellar, secretary-treasurer of the Colonial Steamships Ltd.; Naval Architect Alex R. SHANNONVILLE

Rev. E.M. Caldwell Speaks On Relationship Between God and Man

Shannonville—The local Orange Lodge held their annual church service on Sunday afternoon in Holy Trinity Anglican Church, the rector, the Rev. E. M. Caldwell, being the officiating clergyman.

The lodge which was quite well represented, paraded to the church from their local lodge rooms.

The church organist, Mrs. Cecil McCarthy, presided at the organ, and rendered suitable music before the service. The choir sang the old familiar hymn "Jesu, Lover of My Soul". While several old familiar hymns were sung during the service.

The Psalm chosen for unison reading was the ninety-first. Rev. E. M. Caldwell read the Scripture Lesson from Exodus 7:3, in his remarks he welcomed his brother Orangemen to Holy Trinity Church for this service.

The sermon text was chosen from Proverbs 22:27 "The Spirit of man is the candle of the Lord."

Mr. Caldwell stated that the vital relationship that exists between the life of God, and man is the great truth enshrined in Orangeism. That, this text suggested a simple picture, but strikingly arresting. A darkened room, many objects of metal and a candle, man touches with light each article and each reflects, but only the candle sheds light through the room—the only article responding to the fire.

God—Through the Holy Spirit

The speaker remarked that "God comes with the light of the Holy Spirit, grace, purifying love and power. All nature reflects and rejoices in this light but it is only when this light touches man that he has affinity with it. Man is made for God and only does he fulfil his existence when he takes the fire from Heaven, said the rector. He continued his remarks with the thought that Orangeism had impressed him in that way. It teaches everything subsidiary to the one thing—God.

"It is only as we respond as candles and burn for Him do we fulfil our destiny in men," stated Mr. Caldwell and "unless we respond to light, we are no better than the brute creation—that is the difference between men and beast.

"Orangeism is light in a darkened world", continued the speaker "but it is always borrowed light from God. Everything we have we owe to God; the Church and the Book. If there is any weakness today in the Order it can be traced to the neglect of the light and true sources." Mr. Caldwell continued with the thought that no lodge exists today unless the church is behind it. That any order will die a natural death if the Church and God are neglected.

Need of Scrupulous Care

"We must take scrupulous care of this light of the candle—as its light can be easily snuffed out. We must guard against words of hatred, race and class prejudice, stifling that these will put out the candle and are violent throughout our world.

"If we can lift our flag once or twice each year we must keep the greater light—the candle—burning all the time." The rector referred to the Arch of Triumph and the scrupulous care taken of the candle burning in front of this monument. This candle has burned day and night since the First Great War to revere those who dared to live in love and true brotherhood—a sign of true patriotism. Our patriotism begins in the heart, the home, then the community and the whole world. Then we can reach pray, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven", was the summing-up remarks of Mr. Caldwell's inspiring address.

FRANKFORD

Arthur Duncan Again Heads Valley League

Frankford—A meeting of representatives of the Trent Valley Hockey League was held in the Batawa Institute afternoon, to discuss plans for the coming hockey season. Seven clubs were represented, Hastings, Campbellford, Marmora, Norwood, Frankford, Madoc and a new applicant, Warsaw. It is not known at present whether Warsaw will enter a team this season, or will combine with Norwood, if their application is accepted.

In the election of officers, Arthur Duncan was re-elected as president, and Herb Rankin as secretary treasurer. 1st vice president was S. Stevenson of Hastings, 2nd vice president, H. MacArthur of Campbellford, and 3rd vice president, W. Regan of Marmora. This executive will handle league affairs, rather than the large, unwieldly executive of previous years, which was made up of two representatives from each team. Frankford expects to enter a team again, although to date, nothing definite has been set in the way of plans.

IN U.S. CABINET

TWEED

Springbrook Team Visits I.O.O.F.

Tweed—Bro. Roy Brown, captain and 23 members of his degree team from Springbrook Lodge visited Tweed I.O.O.F. Lodge on Monday night and conferred the initiatory degree on two candidates.

Lunch was served and a social half hour was enjoyed by all Visiting Brothers.

The Harmony Club of St. John's United Church, Tweed, visited the Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, recently, and a pleasant evening was entertained. Miss Clarke, a returned Missionary, spoke of her work in Japan prior to the war. It will be recalled that Miss Clarke was interned along with a number of other Missionaries when war was declared. She was at one time a teacher in Tweed Public School. Mrs. Morgan, an elocutionist, also entertained the group. The Energetic Club was responsible for the organization of the Harmony Club.

The 59th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Tweed, was held last Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Alexander Mills of Arnprior, was the guest preacher.

The choir was assisted by some of the members of the choir of St. John's United Church. The local Canadian Legion branch attended in a body for the annual divine service parade.

KEEPS OLD WEST STILL ALIVE

While others groom their cattle and select their grain for judging at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, Joe Fisher reminds visitors that Alberta is a ranch country too, where saddle horses are prized. In wide-brimmed hat and spurs, and with bekuffed leather saddle trappings he entered the saddle-horse judging at the fair.

HAS FORGOTTEN HIS ENGLISH

Valentin Gubitchev, Soviet engineer and former employee of the United Nations, is shown as he arrived at New York federal court for opening of his trial on espionage and perjury charges. He is co-defendant with Judy Coplon, former Justice Department political analyst, who is under sentence of from 40 months to 10 years as result of her conviction of removing state documents with the intention of transmitting them to a foreign power. Gubitchev has been free on $100,000 bail since arrest with Miss Coplon last March. Since his arrest, he says he has forgotten how to speak English, talks through an interpreter. — Central Press Canadian.

I WANT 2000 PEOPLE TO TRY SYNTONA FOR ONLY 25 CENTS

SUFFERERS FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, WEAK KIDNEYS, LAZY LIVER, NERVOUSNESS AND GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION

What It Is!

SYNTONA is an advanced medical compound of 13 of the finest medicinal herbs, and not one a habit-forming drug. It is taken before meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus thwarting off the poisons that foster stomach troubles. It acts quickly, relieving gas, sour stomach, nervousness, bloating and belching. At the same time, SYNTONA helps to clear up from the kidneys and relieves backache, bladder irritations and weakness.

What It Does!

It acts on the stomach, liver, bladders and bowels. It DRIVES out stomach and intestinal worms, and helps to tone, cleanse and other organs. ELIMINATING THE CAUSE! It will free your system of the supply of acidity. Those ravaging acids that accumulate and irritate your stomach — fill you with gas — sour your food and cause constipation.

Now, whether SYNTONA will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or week — remains to be seen, but in light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25c, only a fraction of its worth. This offer good after in effect Friday and Saturday ONLY. Act at once. Use this fairness to yourself and your family.

STUDY CANADIAN NEWS

Andre Schuwer, 35, an editor for The Netherlands news agency, ANP, and Roy Ferros, 33-year-old reporter for The Straits Times of Singapore, are in Canada as winners of the United Nations fellowships. Ferros, right, reads an incoming teletype dispatch at the Toronto bureau of The Canadian Press as Schuwer watches the "sending" of CP Operator Frank Forsyth. Ferros and Schuwer will study news, radio and film methods in many parts of Canada during their six-months visit. — (CP Photo.)

Editor and Reporter in Canada Study Papers, Radio and Films

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 17—(CP)—Andre Schuwer can tell you how to plan a mass escape from a gestapo prison. Roy Ferros knows the niceties of unloading tobacco on the wartime black markets of the far east.

But both prefer to talk about Canada, Canadians and Canadian newspapers.

Schuwer, 35, an editor of the Netherlands Press Agency, ANP, and Ferros, 33-year-old reporter for the Straits Times of Singapore, are in Canada for a six-month study of newspaper, radio and film methods.

They are among 84 persons from war-devastated countries who have won fellowships sponsored by the Canadian council for reconstruction through the educational, scientific and cultural organization of the United Nations. The others are doctors, teachers, agricultural specialists.

Schuwer and Ferros are impressed by the "in between" role Canada plays in dealings with Britain and the United States. But several weeks in Ottawa and Toronto has convinced them that a Canadian is a far cry from either a Briton or an American.

Schuwer said in an interview: "I like the proud way you people say, 'I'm a Canadian.'" Ferros, on the other hand, has noticed among most Canadians a love of British tradition.

More American in Ways

Ferros agrees with Schuwer, however, that Canadians are "much more American than British in your ways."

Schuwer was helping edit a provincial paper in the Dutch town of Zwolle when his homeland was overrun by the Germans in 1940. He remained at his job for a year before slipping into the Dutch underground as editor of a mimeographed publication which never ran more than a few issues ahead of the gestapo.

With false papers identifying him as a slave laborer bound for the anti-invasion fortifications along the French channel coast, Schuwer made his way to the safety of Switzerland. He went back to France after the allied invasion, joined the Dutch army air force and served three years with the Dutch naval air arm in Indonesia before returning to The Hague in 1946.

Raided Jail

A raid on the gestapo prison was one of the many of the Dutch underground exploits in which he participated. He and his friends stole two German officers' uniforms to gain entry to the jail, where 20 underground men were being held for execution.

"We cleaned out the whole person," he said. "About six people were shot as a result of what we did but we still saved the lives of 20. That's the way it was."

Ferros says his wartime experience was "tame" by comparison. The Malaya Tribune for which he was working when the Japanese invaded southeast Asia, was seized by the Japanese navy.

"You might say I then started down 'Tobacco Road'," he said. "I sold tobacco on the black market for a year or so and business was very good until the supply failed. One day two Japanese who seemed to know all about me came and 'suggested' I go to work for Domei, the Japanese News Agency.

"The British seemed so far away at that time that I had no alternative.

THE CHIPS FLEW

Melbourne, Australia (CP) — E. G. Parker, a Queensland lumberman, set what is claimed a world record by winning a treefelling contest in one minute, 57 seconds. He had to climb a log standing 13 feet, six inches above the ground and chop it in two.

Manitoba Beaver Flourish In Huge Northern Nursery

By DAVE CROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Winnipeg (CP)—Vast areas of Northern Manitoba have been turned into a huge beaver nursery.

Compared with a closed season in 1941-43 when there was no profit from the declining beaver population, Manitoba last year netted $425,000.

A Northland cruiser of dog-catcher's regulated trapping to keep the pelt yield steady and eliminate "nuisance" beavers.

For years the beaver was a problem to railwaymen, damming culverts and causing floods on the lines. Once a rail crew spent three successive days cleaning out a culvert, only to find it plugged again by morning. They finally had to shoot the beaver. Six carloads of gravel were needed for repairs.

In 1945 a "nuisance patrol" was formed to travel the railway on gasoline hand-cars and trap the pests. In their first year, the crewman team caught 1,187 beavers. This year their objective is 250 —an important figure when it is realled three females produce about 300 descendants in five years.

Beavers caught by the patrol are not killed, but transported by airplane, train, truck or dog sled to areas where there are a few of the animals.

The Manitoba government, having seen the provincial beaver trade fall to a point where a "closed season" sign was needed brought in the registered trap lines system in 1940. The idea is to control the annual kill so that enough beavers are left to breed a new crop.

A Manitoba game and fisheries branch official said "transplanting animals is an important part of the control set-up."

"There was a closed season as far as beaver were concerned in 1942-43, because of the scarcity of the animal," he said. "In 1947-48, however, 10,763 beavers were trapped and their pelts sold.

"While Manitoba's future is not nearly as impressive as that of Ontario or Quebec, the latter has a crop about four times as big—it is fair the province's size in comparison with the other two."

Author's Memory Honored by Plaque

Goderich, Nov. 17. (CP)— The memory of Sir John Willison, editor and author, was honored Wednesday at the county courthouse with the unveiling of a bronze plaque provided by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

The plaque was unveiled by Warden J. W. Armstrong, after an address by Arthur Ford, editor of the London Free Press, Chancellor of the University of Western Ontario and a friend of the late Sir John. Prof. F. E. Landon, vice-president of Western, also spoke, and dedication was by Rev. L. H. Turner of Victoria Street United Church.

Sir John Willison was editor of the Toronto Globe from 1890 to 1902 and the Toronto News from 1902 to 1910. He was born at Hills Green, Huron County, in 1856, and died in Toronto in 1927.

Mr. Ford recalled that he was associated closely with Sir John when the latter was editor of the Toronto News, because he was Ottawa correspondent for the paper. Sir John was Canadian correspondent for the London, Eng., Times, and under him Mr. Ford represented the Times at Ottawa.

"It was a great privilege to work with Sir John, and I owe to him much of the training I received as a newspaperman," declared Mr. Ford.

Rum, Whisky, Some Wines May Be Cheaper

Ottawa, Nov. 17 (CP)—Imported rum, Irish whisky and certain wines may be cheaper in Canada if a government bill before the Senate receives parliamentary approval.

The bill would amend the customs act so such goods, imported into Britain for processing and export to Canada, would enjoy easier Canadian customs regulations.

The legislation is sponsored by Senator A. K. Hugessen (L—Quebec). He explained the bill to the upper chamber Wednesday, but said he could give no assurance that the provinces which administer liquor laws, would pass to the consumer any saving involved.

The customs bill was aimed primarily at enabling Britain to sell more goods to Canada, Senator Hugessen said. It was intended to cover liquor from Britain, but in effect, it gave the government power to reduce tariffs on any goods imported to a country which then exported them to Canada.

Reason for the bill, Senator Hugessen said, was that Britain imposed high tariffs on liquors and wines imported to the United Kingdom in bulk. The bottled product came to Canada with this assessment added to the value on which duty was charged.

SCHOHARIE

Schoharie—Mrs. John Shaw is spending sometime with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. McGee, while Mr. McGee is back north deer hunting. Mr. John McGee and Mr. Norman Leavitt are also among the deer hunters.

Ross Foster accompanied by his friend, Donald Cockburn, spent several days last week in Toronto, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foster. They attended the Ice Capades, toured Casa Loma Castle and visited other points of interest in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartman and family, Frankford, visited his sister, Mrs. Charles Leavitt, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster, Misses Norma and Shirley Foster spent several days visiting relatives and friends at Newburgh, N.Y., and New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster will be guests during their visit of Dr. Charles McWilliam and Mrs. McWilliam, Newburgh, N.Y.

Mr. Theodore Foster spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster.

Mrs. Beasie Leavitt and Faye, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Preston, Gilead.

Miss Lillian Wheeler, Picton, was a Sunday afternoon and supper guest of the Misses Smith.

SMALL BLESSINGS

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"There are people who have no wills and no motorcars. Some of them can't go to a dance because they have only the one wretched blue suit that the waiter laughs at. And one pair of brown shoes. And when the soles wear out they can't sleep all night for thinking over and over again how they are to have them mended. What is the matter, May?"

"Nothing. I'm only laughing. Everything will go right with us now. You are speaking out at last. Tell me more about it."

"You can imagine that such people have got to be angry to cheer up, keep up their spirits, or their strength—or whatever you like to call it. Otherwise they would go to the wall. They have to work for years at an idea. When a man is schooled in poverty he puts up with a devilish lot. He sets himself to a problem and doesn't give in till he has solved it. But you don't understand anything of technical matters, and so I can't explain all that," said Martin, as he looked away from May over the lake.

"There, and now let me speak," she said in her husky deep voice. "You've had a horribly bad opinion of me, dear Martin. Because stay at the Petermann and have a motorcar and because I spend my days with men like Bobby and the tall count, you think that there's nothing in me. But that's just at Francesca, just for the holidays. Here you are only a swimming instructor whom the women run after. But at home you are an engineer and a capable man. And here I am only a silly girl having a lazy time of it but a home I do the English correspondence for the firm, and that is no light job. I put in my eight hours like any other self-respecting person and I don't by any means live in the clouds as you imagine. Tat made me work for two years on the welfare side, and a year in the stat' room. And so I have a thorough inside knowledge of our work people. I have had no technical training. But you can explain that to me. That explains to me all about his conch-making business, and I can follow it quite well."

Martin's reply to this was perhaps a little beside the point. "What brown eyes you have, May . . ." he said, and looked at her.

"You must go on," she said, and gave him a little nudge.

"Very well," said he. "It's to do with an unisflammable film made up of paper and quite cheap to produce. Now that is a matter of great importance with an immense future. Everything that's been tried so far—gelatine film and viscose and so on—is all quite useless. All much too expensive. But I have got it, you see. So that's what it is May."

"You've got it? Marvelous! And now?"

"Now I have to wait. It's being patented. There is a big film company interested in it, too. Now I am waiting for news. But it's a great secret, May—"

"This is really marvelous. How long will it take? How long have you been waiting already? And is it quite certain that your invention is more practicable than the others?"

"Yes, quite certain. I got at it from quite another direction. My film is not celluloid at all, but paper. That opens up immense possibilities. In ten years people will be taking in films as they do illustrated paper now. You'll see. I'm expecting to hear every day. I've been waiting a good time now."

"How long?"

"A year?" repeated May, and then she fell into silent reflection.

Now that Martin had spoken out and told her the full extent of his difficulties and his hopes, he felt a trifle empty and discouraged. His invention was as far in the past, and all those months of excitement and anxiety and suspense had taken the sheen and freshness out of it and left it threadbare. As he sat there beside May in the sunshine, after telling her all about it clearly for the first time, he felt almost a fraud. What he said was the naked truth—but he scarcely believed it himself. And it did not seem that May thought much of it either. She had suddenly become silent and thoughtful and serious.

"Listen," she said after a while with a sudden alacrity, "Wouldn't you like to discuss the matter with Tat? Tat is very well up in the business. Perhaps for the time being he could find you a job in the business. Or listen, Martin. Tell me, wouldn't you like to marry me perhaps?"

"There you see how it is. I have to drag everything out of you with a pair of tongs. So you'll talk it over with Tat?"

"That is just why I'm waiting so desperately for the letter May. I can't speak to your father until it comes. I am not going to Herr Lyssenhop as a beggar on my uppers to ask for his daughters hand," he said obstinately.

"But there's no question of asking for my hand. We're grown up, after all, and we agreed, by only thought you might like to speak to him."

"Then I have the letter," Martin replied shortly.

"Heaven, what a pig-headed fellow!" said May. 'Right. Then we'll wait for your letter. And who is it who was sizzling boiling oil?"

"May, when you sit in the sun like this you are all gold. Your hair and your eyes and your skin and your body—all of gold. The whole May is made of gold inside and out ." said Martin, as he looked dreamily at her.

May took hold of the edge of the plank in her strong hands and held tightly onto it. Dearest she thought to herself, how slow and clumsy and good and stupid you are. Everything has to be done for you. She turned her head away from him and looked out over the lake.

"Look, Martin," she said slowly. "We'll make an expedition into the mountains together. We'll go up into the Iron Tooth and over the Dorngrat and the Blassecharte and over into the Tauer. I'll arrange to have the time free so must you. Would you like to?"

Martin nodded without a word. There was a song within him, May, this new, beloved May, his comrade and mate, both girl and woman he walked with her among the mountains, amid those mighty solitudes.

"May" looked at him, and perhaps her eyes were wet. "What a quarrel we've had," she said laughing. "But now we understand each other again. And now it's for good and all, isn't it?"

"Yes," Martin answered, "for good and all."

After this they sat for a while longer in silence on the diving board, dangling their legs, May got up, went to the edge of the springboard and balanced herself on her toes.

"Come on," she said, "we'll do a somersault together."

He stepped to the edge of the board beside her, and each laid an arm on the other's shoulder They braced themselves and laughed as they looked into each other's eyes.

"Now then—go!" said Martin. The next moment they shot out into the air, turned a well-executed somesault and splashed into the water. Green and silver the cool water rose in spray above them.

And this was how May Lyssenhop and Martin Heil became engaged.

Herr Birndl was quite right about his risks, for no sooner had August begun than the receipts from swimming lessons fell off in an alarming and depressing manner. By this time everybody could swim with Martin's assistance. In fact there was little left for him to do beyond standing in all weathers in his bathing dress on the gangway to see that nobody got drowned. Occasionally he indulged in a swim himself, reciting May and Varia for fun over a two-hundred-meter course or even taking on Bobby or the lean and swarthy Count Carreey, who with his monocle and artistocratically nasal voice was the last word of social distinction in the exclusive circles of the Big Petermann.

So Martin's midday meals were now irregular; they occurred perhaps every second or every third day. After lunch he lay on the beach for a short time, for he felt tired and out of form. Later in the afternoon there was usually a thunderstorm. And afterward, Martin had to wade out into the non-swimmers' pool and bring the flags closer in shore. The level of the lake was rising daily.

The storm always came from the same point in the southeast. The thunder reverberated from mountain to mountain with echoes that never ceased. The lake began to stir as suddenly as if it had come to the boil. Two minutes later everything was in tumult, and the hall beat on the red-painted zinc roofs of the bathing huts like a whole regiment of drummers.

Martin ran to his hut and shut the window. It was not really a window, but a hole in the boards with a round shutter of wood in front of it. His hut was at the end of the row numbered eighteen to thirty-six, and was actually no more than a bathing hut itself. Pouring down from the gutter in a torrent, past the lintel of the door against which Martin always bumped his head, the water came, trying to find an escape through the boarded floor. The pills too that supported the bathing huts were no longer on dry land, now that the level of the lake had risen, and Martin could hear and see the water through the cracks of the floor as the dark waves were in foam against the woodwork.

While Martin stood in the doorway one afternoon breathing in the moist air and listening to the racket of rain and storm outside, he was astonished to see a small leather suitcase come flying over the railing that divided the bathing enclosure from a plot of vacant ground. A moment later a foot put cautiously over the fence and the strand of barbed wire. The foot was a small one, and it was shod in very muddy white shoe. It was followed by a very pretty leg and then by a dripping wet white shirt, as Martin was able to see by craning out his head below the gutter. Finally Anika jumped to the ground inside the enclosure, leaving a shred of her white flannel skirt hanging on the barbed wire.

Anika was a pitiful spectacle as she ran across the beach through the drenching rain with the suitcase. She was wearing the white sleeveless frock she had put on for a sultry afternoon. The black lacquer cap of her Chinese hat was in wild disorder. She was tattered and torn, wet through, and splashed with mud from head to foot. Martin had no idea what to make of this strange apparition. He ducked his head and went a couple of steps through the downpour to meet her. Breathless and moaning, Anika fell into his arms and pushing him back into the hut closed the door behind her.

ROBIN HOOD POPOVERS

1 cup sifted Robin Hood Flour	1 cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt	2 eggs
1½ teaspoons melted shortening

What wonderful puffed-up popovers you make the Robin Hood way — crisp and golden outside, light as thistledown!

1. Preheat oven to 475°F. (Very hot oven.) Place approximately 9 thick muffin pans or custard cups in oven to heat while making batter.
2. Measure sifted flour into sifter, add salt. Sift together into mixing bowl. Add milk gradually, beating until smooth.
3. Beat eggs until thick and light. Add to flour and milk mixture, then add melted shortening. Beat for 2 minutes with rotary beater. — Batter should be thickness of heavy cream.
4. Remove pans from oven and grease thoroughly (butter gives best flavor.) Pour batter into pans, filling half-full.
5. Bake in a very hot oven 475°F. for 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 350°F. (moderate oven) and bake 20 minutes longer.

Serve warm. Yield — approx. 9 popovers.

Lord Beaverbrook And N.B. Premier To Visit Fair

Toronto, Nov. 17. (CP)— Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian - born British newspaper publisher and Premier McNair of New Brunswick, are expected to be among the thousands who will visit the Royal Winter Fair today, third day of its eight-day run.

The horse show arena in the Coliseum's building of the Canadian National Exhibition lakefront park was packed Wednesday night with 8,000 fans who watched Mexican and Chilean international army teams jump off for first place in the military handy course, Hatsey a Mexican mount won the event in the third round of jumping. Canada and the Republic of Ireland were eliminated in the first round.

At a meeting of the Canadian Horse Show Association Wednesday Lawrence J. McGuiness of suburban Minico, charged some of the mounts appearing in the show were being doped. He said the practice was common at many shows.

C. S. McKee, general manager of the Fair, and the Fair's official veterinary surgeon said they had no knowledge of doping of Royal Winter Fair horses.

John Etiuk, a middle-aged farmer from Hairy Hill, 70 miles northeast of Edmonton, became the first to win two of the Fair's world champion titles when his entries won the oats and barley classes.

Judging of grain, cattle, sheep and swine from farms across Canada and the United States continue today. At a dinner last night the 100 representatives of Canada's junior farmers received their awards from Farm Competition.

May Never Return To Prison On Old Charges

Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)— Master jewel thief Arthur Barry, his youth, his money and his arrogance gone, has a friend at last on the right side of the law.

As a result, he may never return to prison.

"Barry is a changed man," Nassau County District Attorney Frank Gulotta said Wednesday, indicating that Barry has paid his debt to society during 19 years behind bars.

"I feel that if a man hasn't learned his lesson by now, he never will," Gulotta told Judge Henry J. A. Collins, "I believe the humane thing to do would be to give him an opportunity.

"It will be our recommendation that sentence be suspended or, if imposed, that execution be suspended."

Barry, jewel-thieving scourge of Long Island's wealthy in the 1920s, pleaded guilty to six 20-year-old indictments. They grew out of some of the thefts that were reported to have netted him from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000. The bulk of the loot never was recovered, but Barry says it is gone.

"In those days, it was easy come, easy go. There isn't anything left. If there was — even a cuffink — I'd tell you about it."

Barry was released Tuesday from Attica State prison after serving 19 years for a $60,000 jewel robbery. He immediately was arrested on the old charges which were held in abeyance during his years in prison.

Persian Ruler Frankly Seeks Greater U.S. Aid

Washington, Nov. 17. (AP)—A frank bid for increased United States aid today launched the youthful Shah of Iran on his month-long goodwill tour of the United States.

The dark-haired young monarch addressed himself directly to President Truman, Wednesday night at a state dinner which followed by a few hours his arrival from Teheran in Truman's plane, The Independence.

Iran, he said, needs American friendship, and hopes for "even closer co-operation and intensified help in the future."

The Shah—His Imperial Majesty Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlevi—made his remarks in response to words of greeting offered by the President.

His oil-rich country, an uneasy neighbor of Russia, already is receiving some American assistance. Iran is one of 14 countries sharing in the new U.S. $1,314,010,000 Arms-aid program, and its 115,000-man army has American advisers.

The visit is the Shah's first to the United States, and the White House and State department prepared a welcome befitting the chief of a small state which has showed courage in meeting Russia's southward pressure.

That pressure has assumed great international importance in 1946, rising to crisis proportions before the belated withdrawal of Russian troops from Azerbaijan province.

It was Russia's apparent designs on the strategically-located country which prompted U.S. assistance.

WITNESS INJURED

Napanee, Nov. 17 (CP)—Keith Gourley Selby, one of the Crown witnesses at the murder trial of Alfred Childs, suffered a shoulder injury Wednesday night when thrown from his motor-cycle. He was treated in Kingston hospital.

Selby testified Wednesday that he sold Childs a box of rifle bullets the day before Elijah McQuaig was shot and killed on his farm near here last June 29. Childs is accused of murder in McQuaig's death.

Alger Hiss Faces Second Trial On Perjury Count

This trial, like the first one, is expected to revolve around the conflicting claims of two men—himself and ex-Communist agent Whittaker Chambers.

Hiss, now 43, was indicted by an espionage-probing federal grand jury nearly a year ago, Dec. 15, 1948. He was accused of lying before the jury, in two instances:

1. When he swore he did not pass confidential government information to Chambers.

2. When he swore he had not seen Chambers from Jan. 1, 1937, until the espionage investigation began.

At the end of the first trial the jury was split eight for conviction, four for acquittal.

MAY VISIT CANADA

London, Nov. 17 (CP)—A Buckingham Palace official said today that the suggestion made in the Canadian House of Commons Wednesday night by Gordon Graydon, Progressive-Conservative member for Peel, that Princess Margaret should be invited to visit Canada next year would be of "interest" to the royal family.

The official added, however, that no comment is possible at the present time and said he knew of no official Canadian invitation to the Princess so far.

Acheson Faced By New Problems In Chinese Strife

U.S. Finds Self At Odds With Both Belligerents

Washington, Nov. 17 — (AP) — The United States found itself at odds today with both sides in the conflict in China. State Secretary Dean Acheson was trying to figure out what to do about the situation.

He had the problem of taking new and if possible more forceful steps to get Consul-General Angus Ward released from a Communist jail at Mukden.

He also was confronted with a need for decision on what position the U. S. government should take regarding the shelling of the American merchant ship, the Flying Cloud, by a Chinese Nationalist warship. The warship was seeking to enforce a blockade of Communist held ports which the United States does not recognize as a legal blockade.

Efforts to Secure Release

Acheson told a press conference Wednesday that the effect of the imprisonment of ward and four other consulate staff members at Mukden had already been to end any possibility of ever considering American recognition of the Chinese Communist regime.

He added that the State Department is doing everything it can and considering all possible steps to obtain Ward's release.

In the case involving the detention of two staff members of the Economic Co-Operation Administration by Communist authorities in Northern Korea, the United States asked the Russian government to obtain their release. Acheson disclosed Wednesday that the Russians had promised to intervene with the Korean Red regime. This raised the speculation that a similar appeal might be made in the Ward case.

The Flying Cloud incident had already produced an American protest to the Chinese Nationalist government.

CROSS BORDER SERVICE WILL BE RESUMED

Hamilton, Nov. 17—(CP)—The T. H. and B. train service, cut off by the United States coal strike, will be resumed Monday. This service includes the train leaving Hamilton for Buffalo at 5.10 p.m. EST, and the train reaching Hamilton from Buffalo at 5.10 p.m. This resumption of the schedule follows the Interstate commerce commission order restoring coal-burning train service cut off by the strike.

GIANT AIR-SEA HUNT GOES ON FOR LOST BOMBER

Ran Out of Fuel and Crash-Landed Somewhere Near Bermuda

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 17— (CP)—The biggest peacetime air rescue search in history was under way today for a lost B-29 bomber which ran out of fuel and crash-landed in the sea somewhere near Bermuda Wednesday. Twenty United States airmen were aboard.

First search patrols Wednesday were fruitless.

The last word from the superfortress, whose navigation instruments failed on a flight to Britain, was a radio message: Going to ditch in five minutes.

After that message Wednesday morning a U.S. coast guard vessel heard weak S O S signals spurring hopes that the crew members had taken to rubber life rafts equipped with automatic wireless distress signals.

Lost His Way

The plane, part of a B-29 group en route to Britain from March air base, California, lost its way when its radio navigation equipment failed and it encountered bad weather.

The bomber was due in Bermuda at 8:10 a.m. Wednesday. At 7:46 a.m. the pilot radioed that he could not fix his position because his radio navigation equipment had failed and bad weather prevented his taking astronomical sights.

Kindley air base gave the plane a radio bearing. Two search planes went out to act as guides, but were unable to make contact.

At 8:40 a.m. the B-29 pilot radioed he had enough gas left for two hours flying at maximum speed. At 11:45 a.m. he sent his last message heard by Kindley base, that he was preparing to ditch the plane in five minutes.

ALL SIGNS POINT TO PRESIDENTIAL ACTION ON STRIKE

Truman to Request Reference to Board

Washington, Nov. 17—(AP)—All signs pointed to presidential action today to stop a new United States coal strike from starting in two weeks.

President Truman was reported ready to ask union leader John L. Lewis and coal operators to submit their contract dispute to a special fact-finding board for a peace plan.

In lieu of that method, Truman could invoke the Taft-Hartley labor law. This calls for naming a fact-finding board to hold hearings and report on the issues in dispute, after which a strike-banning court injunction could be sought.

The six-month-old coal dispute was put in the president's hands Wednesday. Cyrus S. Ching, federal mediation and relief, reported to the White House there seemed to be little use in trying further to get Lewis and the operators to agree on a compromise. Lewis has asked for more wages and shorter hours for miners. He also wants a boost in the present 20-cents-a-ton royalty on coal production which goes to finance his union's welfare fund. The fund pays or miners' pensions and insurance benefits.

Coal operators have refused to boost their labor costs. They have offered to renew their old miners' contract. It expired last July. But the operators, demanding some contract pledge against frequent strikes, also safeguards on welfare fund spending.

Lewis called off a 52-day strike last week. But his truce expires Dec. 1 and he has broadly hinted the walkout will be renewed there if his demands aren't granted.

50 Farmers With 20 Tractors Rebuild Home

Meaford, Nov. 17.—(CP)—More than 50 farmers with 20 tractors gathered at Mr. and Mrs. John Ballard's farm near here, 15 miles east of Owen Sound, Sunday to construct a home to replace the 10-room building destroyed last week by fire. The same group recently erected a new barn for James Wiley, of Eugenia Township, whose barn was also destroyed by fire.

"Each country may request tariff concessions from each other country on those products of which it is or may become the principal supplier to that country," the department said. "All concessions granted will be extended equally to all the countries which join the agreement."

Twenty-eight countries who did not participate in the first two conferences have been invited to join the 1950 meeting.

In addition to customs tariffs, the negotiations may include mining regulations, tariff quotas and protection afforded through the operation of import and export monopolies.

Briefs to the government from business men should concentrate on the possibilities of "enlarging the access of Canadian industry to external markets," the department said. They should state what concessions Canada should seek from other countries and what concessions Canada should give, or should not give, in return.

JUST A COUPLE OF MODERN D'ARTAGNANS

The much-publicized duel between Parisian lawyer, Jean Louis Tixier-Vignancour, at left, and schoolteacher Roger Nordman "rages" in a secluded dell on the outskirts of Paris, with both men showing great respect for the other's sword point. Police had trailed the pair for days to prevent what they feared might be a duel to the death. However, the affair did not have such a grisly ending. Nordman, whose "sleight" angered his lawyer opponent and started the affair of honor, went home with a pinked arm. Honor was satisfied all around.—Central Press Canadian.

Canadian Exporters' Opinion Sought By Government On Concessions Desired

Ottawa, Nov. 17 — (CP)—The government today asked the advice of Canadian exporters on the tariff concessions Canada should seek from other countries at the General Tariff Conference scheduled for next September.

The External Affairs Department announced the third round of post-war multilateral tariff conferences will be held Sept. 28, 1950.

It said government departments now are preparing for the conference and "in order to aid these preparations, Canadian business firms and organizations interested in trade with the participating countries are invited to submit written representations."

Canada's main aim in the conference — a follow-up to negotiations at Geneva two years ago and at Annecy, France, last summer — is to obtain more tariff concessions in the rich United States market.

Greenwood for the conference will be planned at a conference in Geneva in February. The 33 participating nations must exchange requests for concessions by Jan. 15, 1950, and briefs from Canadian firms should be sent into the Trade Department by the end of that year.

SaysTimeNotRipe For Submitting Bill of Rights

Ottawa, Nov. 17. (CP)—Senator L. M. Gouin (L—Quebec) opposed in the Senate Wednesday night a proposal that a bill of human rights and fundamental freedoms be submitted to the forthcoming Commonwealth Provincial conference on constitutional matters.

Chairman of the joint parliamentary committee which sat for two years on the question of human rights, Senator Gouin said he felt the government would be ill-advised to introduce the matter at the conference.

He spoke on a motion by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) to have a bill of rights considered as the conference.

MALE PATIENT, NURSE ARE SLAIN, MAN WOUNDED

Lonely Country Lane Is Scene of Tragedy

Bridgewater, VL, Nov. 17 — (AP) — A 45-year-old nurse and her male patient were shot to death and another man wounded Wednesday night in what police described as jealous-crazed attacks by the woman's husband.

Mrs. Antonia Saiola of Bridgewater, and Randolph Ogilby, 38, of Washington, D.C., were shot to death after their automobile was blocked by another machine on a lonely one-lane country road.

Shortly thereafter, Lloyd Bramhall, a camp owner, was wounded in the right leg a quarter of a mile from the scene of the double slaying.

Police charged the woman's husband, Antonio Saiola, 46, at gunpoint later. He was arraigned in court and held without bail on two counts of murder and assault with intent to kill.

Sheriff Melvin Moore said that Saiola, who was estranged from his wife, acquired a jealous fit of rage when the wounded couple were involved in a love tri-angle.

Ogilby came to Vermont several months ago and had been a patient at Spring Lake Ranch at Cuttingsville, Moore described him as "a mental defective." He moved recently to Bramhall's camp.

Moore said that Mrs. Saiola, who had been Ogilby's nurse at the Cuttingsville camp, moved to Bramhall's to care for her patient.

Guard Suspended From Penitentiary Pending Probe

Ottawa, Nov. 17 — (CP) Maj. Gen. R. B. Gibson of Ottawa, Commissioner of Penitentiaries, said Wednesday night that he expects to have a full report "early next week" on the fire in the east cell block at the Kingston penitentiary Nov. 7.

At the same time Gen. Gibson said that a guard at the penitentiary had been suspended pending further investigation into the fire which destroyed the attic structure of the cell block.

He said the investigation was probing the possibility that the fire had been set by convicts instead of caused by defective wiring as believed earlier.

Gen. Gibson said the investigation into the fire was being conducted by Inspector H.M. Allan and that he expected it would be "finished by the beginning of the week."

R.C.A.F. Builds Up Fighting Arm Says Air Chief

'Strong Air Force Surest Way To Discourage War'

North Bay, Nov. 17 — (CP)— Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of Air Staff for Canada, says the Royal Canadian Air Force now is turning most attention to building up the fighting arm of the R. C. A. F.

Since the war's end, he told a banquet of the North Bay and District Branch of the R. C. A. F. Association Wednesday night, the R. C. A. F. has concentrated on ground crew training, photography, air search-rescue and transport developments.

Presenting No. 406 Wing with its charter, he said that development of a strong air force is "the surest way to discourage war."

But if another war comes he felt that Canada's air role should be that of a fighter force. "The U. S. Air Force and the Royal Air Force should do the long-range atomic bombing," he said, "and Canada would supply fighter squadrons." Long-range bombers at present were beyond the economic ability of Canada to produce in quantity.

F. B. Steacy, 81, Brockville, Dies

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 17 (CP) —Frederick Boyd Steacy, 81, president of Steacy Jewellers, Ltd., prominent Brockville sportsman and business man, died in hospital here today. He had been in poor health for the last five years.

Mr. Steacy entered his father's jewelry business, one of the oldest in Canada, in 1887. He assumed ownership of the firm upon the death of his father in 1900 and continued to take an active part in its running until failing health which forced him into semi-retirement a few years ago.

Mr. Steacy was a past president of the Brockville Rowing Club and the Eastern Rowing Association and a member of the executive of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

He is survived by his widow, the former Florence Elizabeth Bell, and a son, Adlel.

GRAYDON WANTS CLEAR STATEMENT ON AGREEMENT

Industry and Labor Are Prevented From Sharing Atomic Secrets

Ottawa, Nov. 17—(CP)—Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) Wednesday in the Commons called on the government for a clear statement on what "agreement or understanding" exists between Canada and the United States that prevents Canadian industry and labor from sharing in atomic secrets.

Mr. Graydon said testimony before the recently established Commons atomic committee showed that Canadian industry was barred from participating in atomic research for reasons of secrecy.

"Now, he said, the American policy "in vivid contrast to ours" apparently is "to make available to industry such information as is possible within the limits of national safety and security."

Mr. Graydon said "this policy adopted by one nation and not another might easily put Canadian industry and labor behind the 'eight ball' . . . in the competitive field of power and other atomic uses in the future."

He said the chairman of the Canadian Atomic Energy Control Board, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie had termed it a tragedy that secrecy requirements prevent industry from playing the role it could play in the atom's early era.

Sheik Be Told

"Since this appears to enter into the field of our external relations with the U.S. we should be told upon what agreement or understanding on the international level, these facts are predicated upon.

"As compared with the partnership between government and industry which characterizes the development of atomic energy on a peacetime basis in the U.S. industry in Canada seems to be completely hobbled.

Trudeau Motors Invite Public to Inspect Fine New Garage At 'Open House' Saturday

Completely Equipped To Service Chrysler Products, Allis-Chalmers Tractors, Equipment

Rising from the ruins of the fire which less than a year ago caused damage estimated at close to $150,000, the new garage of Trudeau Motors Ltd., Station Street, represents an ultimate in structural appearance combined with provision for unexcelled service for the motorist customer.

Now completed, the new Trudeau garage will be officially opened on Friday and Saturday of this week. Friday evening commercial men and suppliers will be invited to inspect the new building, while all day Saturday will be "open house" for the general public.

The new garage is almost a completely new structure measuring 179 by 150 feet. Together with another building there are about 70,000 square feet of floor space. Emphasis has been placed on continuous combined with facilities for practically every conceivable type of repair work which can be done on an automobile.

Finest Garage

In fact, Mr. J. J. Trudeau, owner of Trudeau Motors Ltd., has spared no money or effort to make his new garage the finest in Ontario. In the opinion of motor suppliers with which the firm deals, the Trudeau garage is just that—the finest in Ontario.

It was a black day for Mr. Trudeau when less than eleven months ago he returned from a business trip to Ottawa to find his Station Street garage a jumbled mass of ruin. Just a few months previously he had officially opened what was then his new garage.

But from the day after the fire Mr. Trudeau commenced planning a new and finer garage which would make possible even better service than that which for years Trudeau Motors Ltd., had been noted.

First the ruins of the fire-gutted garage were cleaned out. Then work was begun on the new structure, the back part of which is built of concrete block. Today the garage is completed and is justification of the faith which Mr. Trudeau has in the future of motor transport.

Planned For Service

With service always first in mind, the new garage has been planned with provisions for servicing the heaviest vehicles operating on Ontario's road system of highways. Four sets of twelve-foot doors will accommodate the largest buses or trucks while a staff of competent mechanics is ready to effect practically any type of repairs.

Any and every type of repair work which we cannot handle in our new garage is upholstering." Mr. Trudeau commented when showing this reporter through his new business establishment. And the mass of equipment ranging from motor hoists and stalls to frame straightening presses, lubrication pits, cylinder honing and valve grinding tools more than bears out his statement.

Mr. Trudeau is particularly proud of the parts department of his new garage. Here almost every conceivable part for products and other lines of cars, for Chrysler and Plymouth cars, and for Fargo trucks and Allis-Chalmers tractors and farm equipment, as well as accessories, are tagged and placed for convenient accessibility in rows of stalls and shelves. On almost a minute's notice the attendant can check whether the required part is in stock and can be produced for the customer. The parts and accessory display room at the west front end of the building attractively displays various parts and other equipment.

Complete Tire Equipment

As district distributor for Dunlop tires, Trudeau Motors Ltd., carry a wide range of tires on their racks. Also their tire vulcanizing department has the latest electrical vulcanizing equipment. A new glass cutting department, enabling replacement of any type of auto glass, has also been opened.

The main service department of the new garage instantly gives the impression of spaciousness with double mechanics' benches forming a wide line down the centre of the garage. Each mechanic's bench is wired for electric drill or other tools. Provision is made for drawing off motor fumes through a central port in the floor which has a fan suction.

In the southwest corner of the garage is a special machine shop containing lathe for the manufacture of parts difficult to procure. Here also is the cylinder grinding, valve refacing and brake drum refacing equipment.

Cleaning Tank

A special feature of the garage is the de-greasing tank. Motors, transmission and other large parts thickly covered with grease are dunked in this tank and come out clean. This keeps the garage cleaner and makes for better working conditions for the mechanics.

Comfort of mechanics has also been taken into consideration. There is a mechanics' rest room with lockers, and a lunch room is provided also.

The lubrication department contains the latest equipment and will accommodate the largest truck or bus.

In a special building, also newly constructed only a short distance from the new main garage, is the body and paint shop. Here wrinkles and dents in fenders and bodies are smoothed out, paint is applied and the vehicle comes out looking good as new. Complete new paint jobs are also offered.

Undercoat Facilities

This building also contains the undercoating department. Here new vehicles are undercoated, while those which have been on the road first have underparts steam cleaned making for a permanent and satisfactory undercoating job.

Part of the body and paint shop building has been partitioned off as a display room for Allis-Chalmers farm equipment.

The main garage presents an imposing appearance, the central portion being taken up with the appointed show room for new Chrysler and Plymouth cars for which Trudeau Motors Ltd., are distributors.

Beautiful Showroom

The ceiling of the showroom is finished with Wallex and Richwood, especially finished plywood products. These plywood squares of contrasting shades make for especially beautiful showroom walls and ceilings.

The service manager has his own special office to the side of the main entrance to the garage. Here work orders are taken and turned over to the staff. Also on the first floor is the parts department office where parts cards are kept containing information as to the number of each respective part.

On the second floor of the garage are the main offices providing clean and comfortable quarters for the office staff. Here also Mr. Trudeau has his private office.

The Trudeau staff consists of 30 employees divided among the several branches, with 50 being in the city. The firm also owns 11 service trucks, five of which are used for service in the city.

Trudeau Motors Ltd., has not confined its business activities to Belleville alone. Besides its headquarters on Station Street, and branch on Front Street, the firm has branches at Napanee, Picton, Tweed and Stirling.

Dr. D. G. Ridout Guest Preacher At Anniversary

Tweed — St. John's United Church was filled to capacity for the anniversary services on Sunday morning and evening. It was a day of deep spiritual significance and pride as the congregation celebrated 97 years of religious preaching and teaching in this magnificent stone edifice.

The special preacher for the day was Dr. D. G. Ridout, Toronto, secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Department for the United Church of Canada. The pastor of St. John's Rev. A. L. Rice, was in charge of both services.

Fine Choral Program

For this occasion, the choir had prepared a fine choral program, led by S. Conway, choir leader, with Fred Porter at the organ. Guest soloist was Mrs. F. E. Johnston of Belleville, who rendered "The Lift up Mine Eyes" at the morning service and in the evening "Teach Me To Pray". Miss C. Sharpe and Mrs. Y. Ardron took solo parts during the anthems. Beautiful white mauve and bronze mums, presented by Mrs. Stanley Webb, flanked the pulpit and were a perfect setting for the white robed junior choir, which rendered "Love You Down in the Garden", and "Saviour, Now the Day is Ending". This choir, supervised by Mr. Conner, have gradually been moulded into a well-toned and skilled choral group.

"The Consecrated Life"

Dr. Ridout's theme of his morning message was "The Consecrated Life." He based his topic on the 17th chapter of St. John, where it "I have made myself known to them, and will do so still, so that the love which you have had for me, may be in their heart, and I may be there also." When Jesus uttered these words, He was in the Upper Room with His Disciples; He was in low solirits and He was pouring out His soul to His Father.

This Dr. Ridout pointed out, is the privilege of every Christian, for he can always fall back on spiritual help; he is consecrated or set apart and dedicated to the service of God.

The speaker comparing the love of Christ to the tender feeling people have in their hearts for those dear to them in this life, and emphasized that we receive on this love from one generation to the other. That is why we have our churches, we learn to love the Testaments, the same New Testaments that was read from this pulpit on the beginning of the United Church in June, 1925.

Dr. Ridout went on to say that people can be found the world over who are happy with the United Church. "I challenge you to find folk who are more concerned with the well-being of humanity than these people who meet in halls, churces and homes for church service Sunday after Sunday."

Large Affiliation

Dr. Ridout reported that one-fifth of the Dominion of Canada was affiliated with the United Church, but there were still great possibilities for this great institution. "Jesus consecrated Himself that we, in turn, may be consecrated to the divine love", Dr. Ridout concluded, "and by being so consecrated, we are touched by human love and the touch of the divine."

The pastor spoke in the evening, using as his topic "Harmonious Living". He gave several illustrations to prove to his congregation the duty and pleasure of the Christian was steady growth in everyday living, with others, with themselves, with God. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, soul, strength and mind and thy neighbor as thy self" he concluded.

Publisher Says Universities Not Brimming Over With Heaven-Sent Journalists

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 17 (CP)—What sort of training ought a newspaper man have?

At the best preparation found in a university education, in early slumping into the hurly-burly of the profession, or in some combination of the two?

For weeks—ever since the publication of a Royal Commission's report on Britain's press—readers have been writing about it to their weekly and daily press and centred upon the Times.

Lord Kemsley, a Conservative press baron with a 17-newspaper empire, took the discussion to the independent "Thunderer" with a half-column letter.

"Journalism," he wrote, "lacks the formality and organization of other professions for both recruitment and training.

"An academic qualification cannot of itself make a journalist, and on the other hand the impetus to write may arise in any brain—it is none imagine that the universities are brimming over with heaven-sent journalists."

Recruitment At All Levels

He suggests recruitment at all levels, and where education has yet to be completed that the junior attend lectures arranged by his firm with neighboring universities are arranged by the Kemsley organization for all grades, from office boy to editor and "several hundred members of the editorial staffs have attended one or other."

He is sceptical of the university man's value. "If the university graduate desires to be a newspaper man in the fullest sense of the world he can only be so by undertaking on entering the profession, a basic training in the necessary routine of journalists' work . . . Those who believe that newspapers would do better if entrusted wholly to a graduate staff are out of touch with reality.' Supports Graduates

Support for the graduate, however, came from John Pollock, long-time Paris correspondent of the Daily Express and Morning Post, now the Daily Telegraph.

Asserting that in this time five of the best foreign correspondents' posts in Europe were held by university men, he wrote:

"If a foreign correspondent's work is not characterized by what Lord Kemsley calls 'the rough and tumble' of the newspaper offices, it has to be done at express speed and with the maximum of news sense, brevity of expression and accuracy."

One correspondent suggested that newspapers usually were staffed by "able, intelligent, narrow technicians," whose "competence is great, their knowledge small, and wisdom negligible." He considered wisdom —the fruit of travel an study—the prime requisite and, suggested two-year scholarship to promising reporters and news editors during which the first would be devoted to study and second to travel.

Avertisement To Point

Tom Clarke, former director of London University's discontinued School of Practical Journalism, said an advertisement which appeared in the Times 140 years ago, setting classical qualifications for a newspaper man.

It said: "Literary employment —to superintend a long-established and respectable literary concern, a gentlemen is wanted who combines with liberal education a general knowledge of the world, and intimate acquaintance with the occurrences of the present times . . . an active mind and the habits of attention are also essentially necessary. Some acquaintance with the mechanical arrangements of the press would be desirable, though it is not essential."

A flexible tube runs from the barrel to the bar, and the barmaid lotes it around like a spray gun. On the pipe is a pistol tap. She carries it to the glass, presses a trigger and the beer shoots into the glass.

Pudgy Ol' Turk Broda Keeps Pace With Best of Goalies; Earns Shutout Over Canadiens

By JIM BASTARLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Turk Broda may be the oldest and chubbiest goalkeeper in professional hockey, but it didn't show Wednesday night.

The ol' Turk, shifting 190 pounds on his five-foot, nine-inch frame like a bouncing boy, made every move count when he racked up his third shutout of the National League season as the eager Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Montreal Canadiens 1-0 in Toronto.

It was a sweet victory for the 36-year-old product of Brandon, Man., who has snatched the Vezina trophy twice in 11 years with the Leafs.

He tallied brilliantly as the hustling Canadiens tested him with 5 shots. Twice within a few seconds in the last period he turned back dead-on shots by right-winger Maurice Richard, the Canadiens' rocket who leads the N.H.L. goal scorers.

While the Leafs recorded their seventh victory in 14 starts to move into second place, the leading Detroit Red Wings overpowered Chicago's Black Hawks 4-1 and New York Rangers edged out Boston 5-1 in two other games. The victory pulled the Rangers out of a last-place tie with the Bruins.

At Toronto the season's largest crowd—14,408 paid admissions—watched the Leafs ride to victory on a first-period goal by Sid Smith, aided by linemates Sweeney Macknell and Ted Kennedy. The loss dropped the Canadiens in third place with 18 points—one behind the Leafs.

Tied With Durnan

Broda's two previous shutouts were registered against the same Canadiens and the Black Hawks. He now is tied with Montreal's Bill Durnan in the shutout class. Meanwhile, Durnan played a terrific game. He had 26 shots to handle and several times came up with unbelievable saves.

Coach Tommy Ivan's Red Wings took advantage of Chicago penalties to chalk up their ninth win in 13 games. It was also their sixth straight game without a defeat.

At New York a crowd of 9,737, smallest of the season, saw the Rangers win their first game since Oct. 26, when they defeated the Bruins. In their previous seven games the Rangers managed only three ties against four losses.

The Rangers didn't hit the score sheet until 4:44 of the second period when Alex Kaleta drove a hard angled shot into the nets on a pass from centre Buddy O'Connor. Bud Polle got his first goal of the season when he put the Rangers up 2-0 a little later. Boston's only tally came at 4:46 of the last period.

Metras Keeps Mustangs Behind Closed Doors

London, Ont., Nov. 17 — (CP) — Coach Johnny Metras kept his powerful University of Western Ontario Mustangs behind closed quarters today as he drilled them for their sudden-death game against Montreal's McGill University Redmen for the intercollegiate football title at Toronto Saturday.

The stern-eyed coach said the Mustangs, who finished up the regular schedule in second place behind the Redmen, will leave for Toronto on a special train Saturday morning.

Besides losing the services of regular end Harry Wade for the season, Metras said starry captain Jack Parry will be hampered with his leg injury, sustained in a game several weeks ago.

If Parry is used it will be sparingly to toss some passes. A 26-year-old native of Windsor, Ont., he is regarded as one of the finest running backs in Canadian football and was given a position on the intercollegiate All-Star team last season.

But the line will get some additional strength with the return of middle Reg Ort, on the sidelines for the last two weeks. Metras is thinking of using him as a reserve centre instead of Bobby Knox.

Special trains are expected to be packed with some 8,000 western fans late Friday and early Saturday.

FAIR AND WARMER

Montreal (CP)—Montreal's weather has been getting progressively warmer ever since 1890, says Prof. G. H. T. Kimble of McGill University. Average temperature in October, 1890, was 44.3 degrees. This year the average for October was 49.3 degrees.

Renfrew Lions Score 5-2 Win Over North Bay

North Bay, Nov. 17 — (CP) — Bill Quackenbush's Renfrew Lions, making the most of their opponents lapses, fired three goals in the first 10 minutes of play Wednesday night and then settled back to bottle up the North Bay Black Hawks for a 5-2 Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League victory.

It was Renfrew's third game in as many nights but it didn't appear to effect their play. Black Hawks were unable to shake up any kind of scoring punch when they had the man advantage. Renfrew drew eight of the 10 penalties during the contest but the Black Hawks showed no polish around the nets.

Again the work of the Milne brothers, Stan and Andy, turned the tide for Renfrew. Andy Milne scored twice before being injured in the second period when Dave Morland put him out of action with a hard body-check. Stan Milne scored once and Renfrew's other brother combination, Larry and Charlie Lesterchick, added one each to finish their scoring.

Dave Morland and Bill Dwyer fired the North Bay goals in the first period and the Baylies were off the score sheet the rest of the way.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Turk Broda, who chalked up his third shutout of the National Hockey League season by blanking Montreal Canadiens, while teammate Sid Smith scored the only goal to give Maple Leafs a 1-0 victory.

Bud Polle of New York whose winning tally midway through the second period clinched a 2-1 victory for Rangers over Boston Bruins.

Physician Says Leave Boxer Alone After Knockout

(By the Canadian Press)

Do you know the best thing to do when a boxer is knocked out? A boxing physician gave the answer in Havana Wednesday. Do nothing.

Dr. Leon S. Gordon, medical examiner of the District of Columbia Boxing Commission, recommends this treatment for a kayoed boxer.

1. Let him remain on the floor of the ring. Remove the mouthpiece.

2. Do not rub his neck, shake his head, slap his face, or try to arouse him with an ammonia inhalant.

boxer to remain "as is" until he is fully regained consciousness and can walk away without aid.

If he doesn't come to after a reasonable time, the injured man should be moved to a bed "on a stretcher exactly as he lay on the mat" until medical examination can be made.

Dr. Gordon was a speaker on Wednesday's program of the National Boxing Association convention. He said efforts to revive boxers might aggravate brain injuries or bleeding.

Williams sought the postponement on the grounds that he needs the extra week to get in shape for what he considers his toughest title defence.

The Trenton, N.J., champion, who weighed 140 in a one-sided 10-round decision over French welterweight Jean Walasck here Monday, had signed for the Dawson fight only Tuesday.

At a result of the switch in dates, the non-title match between Oscar Ray Robinson, welterweight king, and George (Sugar) Costner was also set back a week. It will be held at Philadelphia Monday, Dec. 12.

An atomic energy by-product eventually may prove a boon to dub golfers.

How? By imbedding radioactive materials in golf balls to make them easy to find in the rough.

Dr. William L. Davidson Jr., director of physical research for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, suggested such a possibility in an address at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Davidson said a radioactive golf ball could be found easily by a golfer armed with a small geiger counter, a device for measuring radiations.

Britain Pruden of St. Catharines, Wednesday night scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Harry Hart of Columbus, O., in the co-feature of a boxing card that drew 2,113 fans and a gate of $4,500 to the Akron, O., Armory.

The touring Hull Volants split up into two teams for an exhibition hockey game at The Hague Wednesday night, and the Volants edged out their rivals, dubbed Hull City, 6-5. Several Netherlands players were used to round out the Hull City team.

Professional champion Jack Kramer gained his 12th victory in 15 exhibition tennis starts with Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, the 1949 United States amateur titlist, 6-4, 5-4, Wednesday night before a 7,430 crowd at the Boston Garden.

The Ontario Hockey Association's 60th annual meeting will be held at Toronto Dec. 3. Secretary W. A. Hewitt announced Wednesday night. that amendments to the Constitution and suggested rule changes must be sent to O. H. A. headquarters before Nov. 18.

Barons, Reds Still Rolling In American Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons and Providence Reds are still rolling in the American Hockey League and gaining momentum with every outing.

The classy Clevelanders, who have dropped only two games this season, racked up their 12th victory Wednesday night by swamping the hapless Cincinnati Mohawks 8-3.

The Barons now lead the runner-up St. Louis Flyers by six points atop the league's western division and also have two games in hand.

Meanwhile, Providence maintained their winning ways on top of the eastern division with a 4-3 win over Indianapolis Capitals.

Pittsburgh Hornets halted Springfield Indians seven game unbeaten streak by humbling the Tribe 7-3 in the only other contest.

Roy Kelly and Les Douglas led the Cleveland onslaught against the willing but unexperienced Cincinnati crew. Kelly rammed home three goals while Douglas, who has led the league in individual scoring most of the season, picked up two goals and three assists.

The game turned into a Pier Six brawl in the final frame with Charlie Gagnon, Mohawk defenceman, as the storm centre.

Receives Two Majors

The fiery rear-guard received two five-minute major penalties, a 10-minute misconduct and $25 fine as the result of a fracas with Harry Taylor and Dan Sproul of the Barons.

Veteran winger Johnny Chad was definitely Johnny-on-the-spot for Providence as he pumped home three goals in the final minutes of play enabling the Reds to shade Indianapolis 4-3.

The Capitals, who held a 2-0 first period lead on goals by Don Morrison and Jerry Reid, completely dominated the play until the final nine minutes.

The Reds got one goal back in the middle frame as Jack Bionda scored but Nels Podolsky tallied early in the last period to give the Caps a 3-1 advantage.

Then Chad went to work and scored his three goals, the final coming just 61 seconds from the game's end.

At Springfield, Pete Backor and Ray Hannigan tallied twice apiece for the Hornets while Phil Samis, Eddy Kobussen and Andy Barbe fired singles. Ralph Hosking and George Detilio were the Springfield scorers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight in Memorial Arena the master minds of the teams entered in the No. 1 Senior "B" grouping will hold a special meeting to iron out wrinkles and get things in shape for the coming race. Lorne Cook, Kingston, member of the Ontario Hockey Association will be in charge of proceedings and present will be representatives of Mr. Peter-borough "Petes", Lindsay, Kingston Frontenacs, Belleville Bees, Trenton Golden Hawks, Oshawa Generals and possibly Cobourg. The latter it is reported, will enter the Intermediate "A" group this year, but will play in the Senior "B" schedule. Also present will be OHA Convener Frank Buckland of Peterborough.

* * *

We would not put from the OHA regarding a Junior "B" grouping. A Belleville - Peterborough, Lindsay - Oshawa grouping has been suggested along all fronts. All four teams have been contacted, and a report out of Peterborough states that the only team not exactly in favor of such a set-up is Oshawa. We do not know the Oshawa objection to such a grouping, but we say they will see the light and come in.

* * *

Both RCAF hockey squads roar back into action tonight at Memorial Arena with the rampaging Flyers taking on the Diesels and C. S. D. Flyers clashing with the Belleville Rockets. After Tuesday night's battles that saw the air laddies show decidedly improved form, the party tonight should be productive of some fanciful pastimes. The Rockets should bounce back into form after their display on Tuesday and if they do they will make the Flyers step all out in their quest for their first victory. Diesels will meet foemen worthy of their steel in the Flyers and the outcome should be worth seeing.

* * *

The Toronto Maclaurs, a galaxy of Queen City (sometimes dubbed "Hogtown) puck orphans who have adopted Lindsay as their winter residence, will be the guests of the Belleville Bees at a dinner and puckchasing party to be held in Memorial Arena next Monday night with the festivities scheduled to start at 5:45.

* * *

Is some you're wondering what we meant when we called the hometown crew the "Belleville Diesel Electrics", that is the moniker the Senior "B" entry from this village will bear during the OHA grind. The reason Diesels will be reinforced by their signed players now with Northern Electric and the names were decided on at a meeting of the clubs held a few days ago. It's a nice sounding name but a heck of a thing to squeeze in a single-column head.

* * *

It should be quite a party. The Meteors have been wheeling and dealing for some and exhibitional fees for the past five or six weeks and should be near the pink of condition. We haven't any word yet as to the personnel of the team, but from reports we gather they are a fairly quick push-overs. We'll have more information on them before the weekend. Meantime keep the date open and remember the starting time 8:45.

* * *

There will be no exhibition tilts here on Friday night as was anticipated. Officials at the Belleville Hockey Association, spearhead of the Belleville Recreation Club in securing opposition for the proposed Friday night game. All three Toronto teams contacted had previous hockey commitments.

* * *

Well, mes amis, 'tis said a half-loaf is better than none and last night a Diesel Electric "half-loaf" trekked to the hockey haunts of Peterborough "Petes" and TO Joe declared if they didn't turn back that peaky crew of "Red" Creighton's by the odd goal in seven.

Yep, they did and that look say too good for our newly-dubbed Diesel Electrics when only an even dozen players turned up for the hunt. And when Red Creighton tested out eighteen hunkies dressed in all sorts of uniforms, the feeling of pessimism did not decrease.

* * *

But, rah, rah, we didn't know the fighting qualities of those D-E's. For, not only refused to be daunted by the apparent strength of the Creighton crew, but they met them stride for stride, handed out two checks for one going both ways; and like gentlemen accepted ten of the sentences handed out by the white - sweatered gentry who tooted more whistles than seven locomotives in the CNR freight yards. Not only that but they poked in one more goal than did the Petes, and you all know what that means.

* * *

Two of their speedy front lines stayed at home. But it must be said, and at times we sat in the press-timekeepers' box with eyes bulging when we saw it, that the gang that did make the trip went out there and turned in an exhibition that would make some of the local railbirds be kind to their wives and referees.

* * *

The Diesel defence and Art Plumley turned in a sensational game especially the bespectacled Nanaimo youngster. Rabid Peterborough fans rubbed their eyes at times and wondered if he had invisible steel curtain dropped over the goal aperture behind him. Up front, the attacking divisions skated miles going both ways. It was a fine all-round exhibition, and the sheet-handed crowd deserves the kudos.

* * *

There were other times too, when we could not believe our eyes or ears. We are more or less accustomed to hear Belleville hockey crowds verbally go after the referees. But not in comparison to the Remo chorus of pretty names, and boos that greeted the official twosome in Peterborough last night. Eighteen penalties were handed out and some of them were of the cheap variety. It can't be said that the gentleman in question are of the "home-town" type. Far from it. The Petes players were licensed, too, and they made no bones about it. We are safe in saying that the arbiters were not, by any stretch of the imagination, handed the freedom of the city, or gold watches by the Peterborough hockey populace this morning.

* * *

But for all that, it was a rugged hard-checking game. Both teams were out there to win. There was nothing at stake except the honor and glory, and it seemed that was sufficient. It was good ere-planing hockey that had its tense moments and which could not at any time be categorized as a tea-party.

* * *

But make no mistake, these "Petes" are going to be plenty tough before the daw-worms daw whatever the daw worms do. Coach Creighton is still in the experimental stage with his squad, and by whittling time, he'll have a team that will have to be reckoned with. They're fast, tricky, know a lot of the hockey answers and carry plenty of the old beef.

* * *

Aside to EQMS C. P. Ro that rule we were discussing. Rule 56 Section "E" says:—"A player shall be permitted to step or bat a puck in the air with his open hand, or push it along the ice with his hand, and the play shall not be stopped unless in the opinion of the referee he has deliberately directed the puck to a team-mate, in which case the play shall be stopped and the face-off shall be at the spot where the offence occurred unless otherwise stated in the rules." Okies, and for this we get a penalty. G'night.

Diesel Electrics Sweep Series With Peterborough Eking Out 4-3 Win In Rugged Battle

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Belleville Diesel-Electrics celebrated their baptism under the new swanky moniker in Peterborough's Civic Arena last night when they edged the Peterborough Hockey Club by a 4-3 score to sweep the team's home and home exhibition series. The D-E's defeated the Petes 12-7 in the first game here last week.

Their victory is all the more impressive because of the fact they could muster only twelve players to make the safari. Missing were Leo Goyer, Timmy Williams, Doug Free, Mujvihill, Jack Semark, Peter Jones and Gerry Bodner.

Coach "Red" Creighton had eighteen players dressed in various uniforms and he tested every one in an effort to hunt out the hard-checking fast-skating Diesel crew. And he might have done just that if it had not been for the sensational work of Art Plumley in the Diesel nets. The spectacled youngster rose to almost dizzy heights at times as he thwarted the desperate Peterborough front lines when they were on the door step.

Typical Battle

It was a typical Peterborough-Belleville tussle with eighteen penalties and cold being dished out by our buckos drawing ten and the Petes the remainder. Only once was stiff sentence, a misconduct was handed out, that going to Tommy Schreiber when he so far forgot himself as to address the referee by a name that wasn't all complimentary.

It was a wide open hockey with heavy checking on the part of both sides predominating. The Belleville defence had an edge on the "backfield" of the Creighton men, and that proved another factor in the victory.

Indicative of that is the fact that the Petes failed to score when the Diesels had four men penalized in the first period.

Diesels Score First

Diesels broke the scoring ice after five minutes of play in the first period when Joe Nolan who played a grand game throughout, raced down centre and lofted a pass to Jackie Wardhaugh, who made no mistake.

Jopling tied it up after three minutes of the second period with one of his old - time specials. He fired a waist high shot at Plumley and the well out Plumley caught the puck, juggled it and it dropped at his feet and trickled into the net.

Petes Grab Lead

A minute later the Petes took the lead from a ganging attack when Griffin marred a drive past from Whiteman and poked the rubber into the net. Wasson and McMaster drew penalties and the Locals swept in the attack but they failed to hit paydirt until the 14-minute mark when Vern Goyer relayed Bastedo's pass past Harding. The D-E's again took the lead 23 seconds later when Bastedo's drive sailed into the rigging.

Play speeded up in the third chukker and the bumping became a bit more rugged. Referee Callichio and Giardino drew the wrath of the 600 fans and the Peterborough players with some borderline decisions. Tompkins and Hurst got the gate for roughing and Bastedo followed them a few seconds later. The Petes surged to the attack but a stubborn Diesel defence and Plumley held them off until the sinners returned.

Tompkins again tied the score with a shot from centre ice point and the tempo again quickened as both teams battled for the tie-breaker.

Here's the Winnah

Plumley went off for repairs and got a nice hand from the Peterborough crowd when he returned ten minutes later. The Diesels put on the pressure and at the twelve minute mark Knobby Day slipped Don Barrett a pass and the centre raced in and around the net and poked home what proved to be the winning goal.

The Petes battled desperately over the rest of the period but they could not beat Plumley and the Diesel defence. Vern Goyer on the other hand missed an open net on a sudden breakaway foray.

Under their short-handed handicap every player on the home team gave an outstanding performance especially Plumley, Vern Goyer, Joe Nolan, Dougie Bastedo and Williamson.

Fife was the standout for the Petes with West, Tompkins, Horton and Legrow going well.

The teams:

Diesels: Goal, Plumley; defence Nolan, Schreider; forwards Barrett; wings, Wardhaugh, Day; subs, V. Goyer, Bastedo, Semark, Hurst, Williamson, Woodman.

Ogdensburg Fans Open Campaign To Sell Stock

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Ogdensburg baseball fans Wednesday opened a campaign to sell stock in a corporation designed to buy the city's Class C Border League baseball franchise at $10 a share.

Gerald McAvoy, chairman of a committee designated to form a corporation to operate the team as a community project, said a goal of $25,000 would be needed to purchase and operate the club.

That sum will allow approximately $15,000 for the purchase of the club from Russ Weina, sole owner of the club, and $10,000 working capital, he said. McAvoy added that the fans group must negotiate w'h Weina for the purchase.

Sale of the stock will be limited to $500 or 50 shares for each person, McAvoy said.

Ogdensburg fans last year raised $6,000 to keep baseball here last season.

BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit Red Wings today occupy the National Hockey League's three top individual-scoring positions with Ted Lindsay holding down first place with 17 points. Gordie Howe's two goals Wednesday night put him in second place one point behind Lindsay and two ahead of teammate Sid Abel. Five N.H.L. stars are deadlocked in third place, each with 13 points. They are: Maurice Richard, Montreal; Paul Ronty, Boston; Doug Bentley, Chicago, and Sid Smith and Fleming Mackell, both with Toronto Maple Leafs.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts
Lindsay, Detroit	7	10	17
Howe, Detroit	7	9	16
Abel, Detroit	6	8	14
Richard, Montreal	12	1	13
Ronty, Boston	6	7	13

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Nov. 17 —(CP)— The ol' man of Western Canadian Football, Ranji Mathu, is all in a dither about the big clash between his Cinderella team of the west, Vancouver's Blue Bombers, and Hamilton Wildcats.

Ranji's been getting so worked up about the prospect of his boys coming up with the 1949 championship her Saturday that he's resorted to crystal-gazing to find out what the Bombers may expect in the way of opposition.

Ranji enlisted the aid of an east-westerner, Andy (Vancouver Sun) Lytle, in his efforts to ensure a blue ribbon victory this weekend.

"Unlike your orphans of the western storm, the Junior East clubs have backing and material support from the rich clubs like the Argonauts, Tigers and Wildcats. It's actually like a farm league for the Big Four and O.R.F.U. teams . . . ."

Overpaid Columnist

While everyone else is speculating the eventual winners of the Vancouver-Hamilton affair, Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead is still much more concerned about where the game should have been played.

Whiteheed—Fearless champion of a 10,000-seat sports stadium for Vancouver—complained there will be room for only 2,500 seated fans at University of British Columbia Stadium for the game.

STILL IN OFFICE

Sydney, N.S. (CP)—It was a tight success but A. D. H. MacKinnon was returned as councillor in Cape Breton county by only one vote. Mr. MacKinnon trailed his opponent, John Neil MacKinnon in returns after the election but a recount showed a tie vote. The returning officer cast his vote for A.D.H. MacKinnon, who has been a council member for more than 34 years.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There are bridge players who put their faith in honor tricks. Others depend on what is known as a point count. Still; others use losers to determine the trick taking value of their hands.

All these methods have merit. In the final analysis there is very little difference between them in efficiency. All reach about the same result in the contract that should be played.

Some, however, are more difficult to apply than others. It may be said that only a matter of taste distinguishes one from the other.

We Horse Sense players rely on expected tricks backed by high cards and sure tricks. An opening bid of one guarantees five of the expected tricks, among which are four high, or which two are sure.

Our opening is still one even if we have more than five tricks. Even if we have more than four high. Even if we have more than two sure. If we have nine tricks we open with a bid of two in a suit.

South holds the hand you see here:

♠ None
♥ A K 4
♦ A K 5
♣ K J 10 7 5 4 2

How many tricks does he count? Each high card is counted as a trick. Each short card is counted as a suit trick. He has eight; five highs (aces, kings, queens) and three shorts in spades.

This tells us the opening bid is not two in a suit. It is a bid of one. We thus tell our partner we have not less than five tricks and not as many as nine. With the needed highs and sures, of course.

An opening bid of two in a suit is forcing until game is reached. This hand is not quite strong enough. It needs some help from partner to make game. If partner has such help he will answer to a bid of one. If he lacks such help we should not be there.

Did I hear somebody say a game should be tried with this hand? A wish is father to such a thought.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 17. (AP)— The good old American custom of sleeping in the raw finally will be depicted on the screen.

I guess it was inevitable. Movies have been going down the road to realism for some time. Actresses have been shown without makeup, without fancy hairdos. And now without clothes.

This new blow for realism is being struck in the film, "In a Lonely Place." In case about discussing a confab with Producer Robert Lord, Director Nick Ray and Star-producer Humphrey Bogart. Also present: Gloria Graham, the co-star and Ray's wife.

"We've got a scene of Gloria waking up in the morning," said Bogart. "What'll we have her wear—nightgown or pyjamas?"

As Natural.

The men mulled the momentous matter for a few minutes. Then Miss Graham spoke up:

"What's the matter with you dopes? I sleep in the nude and so do millions of other American women. Why don't you do it that way?"

The men were stunned. "It's been done," said Ray defensively.

It was true. For years, glamor girls have been clambering out of king-size film beds attired in gowns that looked no more slept in than their other costumes. Much Better

So the scene was shot with Miss Graham in the altogether. Ray, a stickler for the real thing, had her slip under the covers and slither out of her clothes. Of course, she didn't clamber out of bed; she played the scene with her arms and shoulders above the sheet. Miss Graham was nonchalant about the whole thing. "I was born this way and I sleep this way," she said.

After the scene was finished, Ray realized his wife's wisdom.

"The scene is much better this way," he told me. "Actually, a nightgown is most ridiculous thing a woman can wear.

"A woman is bound to be self-conscious in it. She appears before a man and the gown is so obvious that he has to say something about it. Then he gets embarrassed because he can't think of anything to say. Thus the whole effect is ruined."

Forest Hill Village Reeve To Retire

Toronto, Nov. 17—(CP)—Reeve Fred G. Gardiner of adjacent Forest Hill village said Wednesday night he intends to retire from municipal life in which he has spent 14 years. He said he reached the decision because of chairman of the Toronto and York Planning Board he may "have to make recommendations concerning a number of municipalities, while . . . holding the position of reeve of one of the municipalities.

ZOO ANIMALS EXCHANGED IN THREE-WAY SWAP

Toronto, Nov. 17.—(CP)— A couple of Himalayan tar, a pair of elk, two otters, two peccaries, a moose and a pair of Pere David's deer are changing hands in a three way swap between zoos in Toronto, Detroit and London, England.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking and thinking and ma was just thinking, saying I herad a good lesson today, William, if you just wait and be patient, your faith in human nature will always be restored, she said.

I was sure, you'd come to appriciate my good qualities in time, pop said, and ma said, I'm referring to the Buy and Save Market. Really, William, I mean really, if I was the complaining kind instead of the easy going type, I'd of gone to the manager of that market long ago and threatened to take my trade elsewher unless he got some people in there who knew the meaning of common politeness, all things. It's an announcement by the management that the most polite employee will be awarded a month's vacation with pay, and the winner is to be decided by the customers votes, she said.

Yes goda, pop said, and ma said, Oh Well, I dont care, he made me feel like life was worth living and markets were worth patronizing.

Probably meaning she'll vote for him

The vegetable man was the worst, she said.

How were the vegetables? pop said, and ma said, They were all rite if I picked them out myself, but if I let them to him it was a matter of complete indifference. It was all I could do to get his attention, much less his best vegetables. But today, believe it or not, Lord Chesterfield himself couldn't of been more attentive in picking me out the freshest carrots, and when I didn't seem quite satisfied with the lettuce he had on display, he insisted on opening a fresh crate for my special benefit, she said.

Maybe he wasn't feeling well, pop said, and ma said, On the contrary, he was the picture of good spirits and animation. By the way, he handed me a card of some kind. I think I put it in my bag. Yes, here it is. Well of all things. It's an announcement

DANCES — DEER

Brantford, Ont —(CP)—Even in this heavily settled farming area deer are becoming too plentiful. Game officer Roy Arbuthnot in Middleport has issued warning signs on highways where deer are known to cross.

A MEMORABLE WEEK

Fork River, Man. —(CP)— Progress is being made here in a rush. Within one week the district's 102 telephones were put on 24-hour service and the Manitoba Power Commission turned the power on in the new rural electrification system.

Premier At Ceremony Honoring Maori King

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Hamilton, N.Z. (CP)— New Zealand prides itself on its loyalty to the British crown, but the anniversary of the coronation of another king was celebrated here recently. This year's celebration was attended by Prime Minister Peter Fraser and the deputy leader of the opposition, K. J. Holyoake.

The ceremony was the 16th anniversary of the crowning of the Maori King Korokl. Fifth holder of the title, Korokis is a direct descendant of the chief who was given royal status by the Maoris during the wars with the Europeans in the 19th century.

Even then, however, the movement was not essentially anti-British. The aim of the Maoris was to unite the tribes under their king, and so to preserve their own way of life and give the race a cohesion which it lacked.

After the Maori wars a king continued to be elected, though the relations between the holder of the title and the British steadily improved. One king was nominated by the government in New Zealand's upper house, the legislative council.

Backed by Princess

In recent years the movement has been turned by Princess Te Puea, one of the greatest women leaders the race has known, into an instrument for giving the Maoris renewed pride in their race and traditions. Herself a descendant of the royal line, she has bought back part of the land confiscated from her people after the Maoris wars and created royal headquarters—a splendidly carved meeting house, a house for the king, a model village and thriving farms where she is teaching the people the virtues of thrift and hard work.

King Korokl is a quiet, retiring man who bears his office with dignity. He leaves the active leadership to his reliable relative, Princess Te Puea. Even during the Maori wars only a portion of Maori king and the same applies today. However, the government realizes that the movement is now a vigorous force in the renaissance of the Maori race and it gives active support.

Far from showing any hostility to the British crown, the Maori king and his people are today among its most loyal supporters. They had prepared a great welcome for the British Royal Family and still hope the King will soon be able to make a tour of New Zealand.

Japanese Prosperous In Northern Ontario

Crow Creek, Ont. (CP)—Winter has come to this small lumbering community between Hearst and Kapuskasing in northern Ontario, but there is peace and contentment inside the homes of 16 families for the first time in years. Their wandering is over.

Crow Creek is probably the only exclusively Japanese settlement in Eastern Canada. Its residents were once prosperous citizens on the Pacific coast. During the Second World War they were uprooted and sent to camps in the Rocky Mountains by the government.

With most of their savings eaten up during their enforced stay in the camps and on their trek eastward, many landed here almost penniless. Some of the men had their families in Japan, trapped there while on visits when the war started.

Late in the war they came east when the Spruce Falls Power and paper company hired a number of B.C. Japanese and found them excellent lumberjacks When the men wanted to bring their families from the west, the company built the village.

Thrifty and Hard-Working

Traditionally thrifty, the Japanese-Canadians, by dint of hard work and saving, are just as prosperous as the settlers in the surrounding district. Their houses are well furnished. Two families are joint owners of an automobile. Their children are clean and healthy.

There are 38 pupils in the little red schoolhouse. Ten children go to Kapuskasing high school and two older boys are at McMaster University, Hamilton.

The village men who work in the bush are scattered among pulpwood camps over a wide area. During the winter they don't see their families, saving the cost of travel. They are tough-sinewed, tireless bushmen. Short and thick-set, they work shoulder to shoulder with their bigger fellow-bushmen.

Using a monthly installment plan they are buying their homes and garden lots for summer use.

Classed as loyal to Canada by the R.C.M.P., they are building a village for their future, their wartime hardships behind them.

WALLBRIDGE

The regular meeting of Wallbridge I. O. B. A. No. 1169, was held on the evening of Monday last at the Orange Hall, Wallbridge. Sister Margaret Hinchliffe, W. M., took the chair, with Sister Freda Fair presiding at the piano.

The visitors, R. W. Sir Knight Farmer, Grand Master of the Black Perceptory of Ontario East; Sister Farmer, W. M. of Frankford L. O. B. A. and Sister Holly of Holloway, were presented and welcomed.

Mrs. Georgena Evans and Mrs. Ethel Nicolson, were initiated as members of the Association. They brought the year's total to 18 new members since the Lodge was instituted about a year ago, and a total of 45 members altogether.

The officers were congratulated upon their exemplification of the Scarlet degree at a special meeting held the evening of November 5th.

R. W. Sir Knight Farmer, with Sister Farmer assisting him, presided while the officers were being elected for the coming year.

The officers for the ensuing year are as follows: W. M., Sister Margaret Hinchliffe.; D. M., Sister Gretta Kingston; J. D. M., Sister Pearl Holmes; Chap., Sister Muriel Yorke; R. S., Sister Evelyn Fox; F. S., Sister Marjorie Phillips; Treas., Sister Marjorie Woods; Guardian, Brother Will Woods; D. of C., Sister Marie Kingston; S. L., Sister May Fisher; D. L., Sister Gwen Ketcheson; Pianist, Sister Freda Fair; 1st Com., Sister Olive Woods; G. L., Sister Nellie Ketcheson; 2nd Com., Sister Bernice Moore; 3rd Com., Sister June Hinchliffe; 4th Com., Sister Mae Hollingor; 5th Com., Sister Helen Fisher; Auditors, Sisters Louise Sine, Margaret Wilson, and Iva Rikley; Sick and Visiting Com., Sisters Mabel Harris and Anna Wickson; P. M., Sister Nela Ketcheson.

The draw for the meeting was won by Sister Mae Fisher.

The Treasurer, Sister Marjorie Woods, reported the receipts of the month to be $26.14.

The meeting was then closed after which the lunch committee served delicious refreshments.

BELL TELEPHONE WILL ASK 10 P.C. BOOST AT ONCE

Temporary Action Sought Pending Hearing of Rate Application

Ottawa, Nov. 18—(CP) — The Bell Telephone Company of Canada today moved for a temporary 10-per-cent rate increase on most Ontario and Quebec phone services, pending disposition of an application for a general boost averaging 20.6 per cent.

The company notified the rate-regulation board of transport commissioners that it will apply Dec. 19 for the temporary "surcharge," which would be placed on most local and long distance services within the two provinces.

Major exceptions would include:

1. Local calls from pay telephones and hotels.

2. Charges on which the surcharge would be greater than the increase proposed in October and on which the board has deferred action until spring.

On long distance calls, the surcharge would apply only to calls between Ontario and Quebec points. Calls between Ontario-Quebec entres and points outside the two provinces would be exempted.

Another exception in long-distance service would be calls payable at pay phones for which the charge is 25 cents or less. On coin-box calls, the surcharge would be payable in multiples of five cents.

Would Mean Under $ Per Cent

The company estimated the over-all result of the temporary boost would be an increase in total revenue of just under eight per cent. It would produce a gross $9,222,000 in 1850, leaving the company $5,618,000 after taxes.

Purpose of the original application in October was to raise a net $14,202,000, described as necessary to maintain the company's credit position to enable it to attract capital to finance a current huge construction program.

While the company sought to have the original increases in effect by Dec. 1, the Board of Transport Commissioners decided the case could be heard until some time in the new year. Meanwhile, a number of cities and organizations have served notice that they intend to fight the proposed increase.

THOS. COLE, CAMPBELLFORD, DIES AT AGE 87

Campbellford, Nov. 18 — (CP) —Thomas Cole, Campbellford's oldest resident, died Thursday at the age of 87 years and 11 months. For many years Mr. Cole was engaged in the monument business being an expert engraver on marble.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Nov. 18 (CP)—Synopsis—Northerly winds will continue to bring polar air over the province today but the approach of a new storm centre will swing the winds south on Saturday. No sunshine is in prospect for either day and the centre will pass close to the Windsor area Saturday.

Temperatures will be little changed today and Saturday despite the southerly wind on Saturday. Wet snow will fall in southwestern Ontario Saturday and will be heavier than the snowfl[urries] which we have been experiencing.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 18. (AP)—A B-29 starting out to hunt for the B-29 missing near Bermuda, crashed today bare seconds after the take-off from here.

Five of the nine known crew members aboard were killed. The other four were thrown clear of the plane and were only slightly hurt.

The plane was from Macdill air base and was one of nearly 100 air force, navy and coast guard planes which had been searching for the Bomber which ran out of fuel and crash-landed in the sea Wednesday.

Seconds after it took off from the field which borders Tampa Bay, its No. 4 engine began smoking. As it turned back landing, the engine broke into flame and the big plane crashed.

The tide was out at the time and the ship plunged into mud and slime.

Rumor Unfounded Princess to Visit Canada and U.S.

Ottawa, Nov 18—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today in the commons that there is no foundation for rumors of a pending visit to Canada and the United States by Princess Margaret.

He said the government has not yet considered the question of inviting the Princess to visit Canada.

He made the statement in replying to Gordon Graydon (P.C.-Peel) who asked if an invitation now would be extended to the Princess and other members of the royal family.

Mr. Graydon said he read press reports saying that Buckingham Palace sources were interested in his suggestion that the Princess visit Canada.

Mr. St. Laurent said he would be surprised if the press reports were exact. There was no foundation for rumors that the Princess would visit Canada and the United States.

The Canadian government was told Nov. 14 that the rumors were unfounded, communicated to the royal family, the government was asked if it could take steps to deny them.

Mr. Graydon pressed the Prime Minister for an answer to his question as to whether the government would consider sending an invitation to the Princess.

"The matter has not yet been considered by the government," replied Mr. St. Laurent.

66-YEAR-OLD MAN ADMITS SEX SLAYING OF CHILD

Strangled, Bludgeoned Little Girl to Death

Los Angeles, Nov. 18. (AP)—Muttering "I don't deserve to live", Fred Stroble, 66-year-old baker, braced himself in a jail cell today for swift grand jury action in the sex slaying of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucott.

Stroble, the grandfather of one of Linda's favorite playmates, poured out his sordid story to District Attorney William Simpson as a school-wide search got underway throughout the west and into Mexico wound up Thursday on a stool in a downtown Los Angeles bar—about five blocks from Central police station.

Simpson said Stroble, formally charged with the murder, admitted that he strangled and bludgeoned the pudgy little girl to death when she resisted his improper advances.

He had been drinking all day —wine. I wouldn't have done it if I hadn't been drunk," Stroble was quoted as saying. Simpson said the ashen, grey-haired defendant lured the boy into his ice cream and candy—then told police he took the child downstairs to the home where he lived with his daughter, her husband and his two children. The story:

"I was playing with her . . . then I remember I was involved in an act of molestation, but not rape) . . . when she started to scream. She was resisting me.

Wasn't First Time

"I strangled her with my hands, then with a tie. She was quiet. I wrapped her up in the blanket and carried her out to the incinerator. . . . I stabbed her with the ice pick, and then I slammed her with the flat side of the ax six times on the head.

"I went back into the kitchen and got a (butcher) knife and commenced to trim (I learned while watching the bull fights in Mexico. I cut her in the back of the head below the skull, between the shoulder blades. That makes death come easily and fast.

"The little girl did not suffer much. She was dead within eight or 10 minutes."

Thought About Suicide

He said he had thought about suicide, by jumping off a pier, but decided "I deserve nothing to return to Los Angeles from nearby Ocean Park and "give myself up."

He had just returned on a bus and streetcar ride for a glass of beer when a laundryman, Bill Hilber, spotted him and called policeman Arnold W. Carlson. Stroble submitted without protest.

Simpson said Stroble, a bond jumper on a forgery charge and molesting a 10-year-old girl last April, admitted the first time he molested a child was 40 years ago. Since then he has molested four or five other children in the Los Angeles area, he told Simpson.

Murder Trial May Reach Jury Stage Today

Napanee, Ont., Nov. 18 — (CP) —The murder trial, of Alfred Childs, 18, may reach the jury stage late today.

Childs, accused of shooting district farmer Elijah McQuaig last June, entered the witness box late Thursday to answer questions concerning a statement which police said he gave them following his arrest.

Mr. Justice John L. Wilson, presiding in Ontario Supreme Court, said he will rule on admissibility of the statement at the start of today's hearing.

Childs, his counsel and the jury Thursday visited the Selby district farm on which McQuaig was cut down by a hail of bullets while driving a hayrake.

Ronnie Ross, 19-year-old farm laborer, testified Wednesday that he saw Childs standing in the doorway of a barn after the shooting. Childs, using a .22 rifle, Ross was wounded in the groin, ran after him as he ran to assist McQuaig. (In a story Thursday, The Canadian Press erroneously reported Ross had testified that Childs was the rifleman who shot McQuaig.)

Student Wounded, Attacker Dies After Shooting

Morrisburg, Nov. 18 (CP) — Arthur Flynn Jr., 18, was seriously wounded today and Charles Cramer, 55, shot and killed himself immediately after in what police said was an attempted murder and suicide.

An eye-witness, taxi-driver Bruce Casselman, said that the collegiate student and his father, Arthur Flynn Sr., and Cramer were in his cab when the shooting started.

Son Warns Father

The boy warned his father "He has a gun," according to Casselman. When the first shot was fired Casselman ran for police. The taxi-driver said he thought three shots were fired altogether.

Casselman told police that Cramer's housekeeper, Mrs. Morrisburg Industries Ltd. and partime insurance salesman, asked him to drive the Morrisburg Collegiate to pick up young Flynn, one of the school's leading students.

At the school Cramer asked the driver to get Flynn and he returned. Flynn getting into the back seat. Then Cramer asked him to pick up the boy's father at his home and Casselman said the taxi-driver did this. The elder Flynn sat in the front seat with Cramer and the driver.

Casselman said that Cramer then drew a revolver and said to Senior Flynn, saying "sign these". Flynn refused to do so. He threw the papers in the back seat.

"He Has a Gun"

Casselman said the boy picked up the papers and gave them again to his father, saying "Dad—sign those papers. He has a gun."

The elder Flynn again read the papers and again refused to sign. They boy repeated his request.

Then the shooting started, Casselman told police. At the first shot he jumped from the cab and raised the alarm.

Will Not Recommend Increased Fees For Radio Licences

Ottawa, Nov. 18 — (CP) —The Transport Department does not intend to recommend an increase in radio licence fees from $2.50 to $5 a year, a departmental spokesman said Thursday. The CBC, in a brief presented earlier this year to the royal commission on Arts and Science, asked that the licence fee for receiving sets be increased to $4.

Streptomycin Used To Cure Child Of Tuberculosis

Kitchener, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Eldon, aged 3 — his last name isn't revealed — will leave the children's sanitarium today cured of "tuberculosis away ahead of schedule.

Dr. J. S. Hawkins, medical superintendent, told how the streptomycin drug streptomycin made the difference between the child getting well in a hurry — or requiring a longer time for recovery.

Eldon was admitted June 20, 1948. The usual treatment of bed rest and good food, under which most patients thrive, failed to help during the first four or five months. Then streptomycin injections were given.

"The change in the boy's progress . . . was amazing," the doctor said. "He picked up immediately . . . Today he is well again and can live a normal life."

Comma May Be Worth $99,000 To Beneficiary

Vancouver, Nov. 18—(CP)—Alfred Seigerstrom has his fingers crossed, a comma may be worth $100,000 to him.

Mr. Seigerstrom, manager of Thomson's beer parlor was interested in the will which left the hotel owner, in the will it was written $1,000,00 third interpretation tag-end the second comma as being meant to end a period.

But Fireman Gilbert Campbell-chief heir and due for about $1,000,000, can remembered that an unsigned copy of the will showed Seigerstrom's name was down for $100,000.

Because no other amounts given in the will include a "cents" column, legal opinion it is not likely the $100,000 would be Seigerstrom's claim.

Thomson, an 88-year-old bachelor, who lived in a cluttered downtown hotel room, died last December. His will was found Wednesday after an 11-month search by the aunty illiteracy of a real estate office.

Child Attacked Before Her Body Thrown Into Canal

Burley, Idaho, Nov. 18 — (AP) —Blinde Glenda Joyce Brisbois, 11-year-old farm girl, was criminally attacked before her body was thrown into a canal Wednesday night, officers here said Thursday night.

An autopsy revealed the attack on the youngster, who had gone to rods to her death in a dark blue sedan. The victim that a coroner's jury was found Thursday by a friend of the family, 18 hours after the body of the youngster from near her home.

Coroner Ivan McCulloch reported the autopsy revealed the girl had 'definitely" been criminally attacked.

Hope for a quick capture of the girl's kidnaper-slayer increased after two men, one in Idaho and another in Utah, were picked up for questioning. Both were released after questioning.

Funeral services Wednesday afternoon stepped into the car, which police said, was driven by a round-faced man with a dark mustache. Glenda was found Thursday in the canal, by a man southeast of Burley around and angry Idaho farming community of 5,500 persons.

Nearly a foot of water partly covered the small body which was fully clothed. Glenda had been gashed deeply by three blows from a sharp instrument — police said — probably was a hatchet or an ax.

While the desperate parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brisbois, were questioned by police, police officers continued to trace out a pair of meagre clews. The father is a truck-driver. Glenda has an older sister, Sandra Lee, 8.

A playmate said the first-grader talked briefly with the smooth-shaven, ruddy-complexioned man before she stepped into the sedan — a 1939 to 1942 model, green and well kept and bearing Idaho license plates.

CANADA WILL BE REPRESENTED AT CEYLON PARLEY

Cabinet Minister Will Make Journey

Ottawa, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Canada will participate in an important Commonwealth policy-making conference in Ceylon next January.

External Affairs Minister Pearson announced in the Commons Thursday night that a Cabinet minister will represent Canada at the foreign policy discussions on Pacific and Far Eastern matters as well as "external affairs of general interest."

Two big matters which will come up for discussion are peace-pile recognition of the Communist Chinese government and the Korean war stalling a peace treaty for Japan.

Timing of the conference suggested that recognition of the new government in China would not occur before then.

"It may be," said Mr. Pearson in completing a two-day debate on Canadian foreign policy, "that we shall be in a slightly better position to know what (Chinese) picture after the conversations that we shall have in Colombo, Ceylon."

Mr. Pearson said he could not name the Canadian delegate to the Ceylon conference.

Social Credit Leader (Vancouver-Quadra) had suggested that Mr. Pearson should use that delegate. Mr. Pearson said Mr. Pearson, he had been away a lot in the last two or three months "and although there is nothing I would like better than to spend the month of January amidst the balmy breezes of Colombo, I am not quite certain at this time who will be the representative of the government."

Mr. Pearson's 45-minute address — sequel to a 90-minute opening speech in the debate Wednesday — wound up discussion by more than a score of members on foreign-policy.

Three Bystanders Wounded in Melee On Main Street

Claim Men Beat Up Owners Of Resort Near Lakefield

Lindsay, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Four men are held on a charge of murder in the mysterious knife-slaying of Jack Loucks, 37-year-old father of three children, on Lindsay's main street early today.

Loucks received a fatal wound in the throat in a scuffle with four men in front of a restaurant. Three bystanders were wounded in the melee — at about 12.20 a.m. EST.

Police Chief Arnold Webster said that four men arrested early in the morning at a police road block on the outskirts of Peterborough are held in jail here on the murder charge.

So far there has been no explanation of the attack on Loucks.

However, police said they believe the four men who fought with him were the same ones who entered the Melody Inn, near Lakefield some 10 miles north of Peterborough, Thursday night and beat up the owners after acting in an 'arrogant, demanding' manner.

The four men under arrest are: Ralph Zahdonik, 26, his brothers, James, 33, and John, 30; and William Yurwa, 23. Police said John Zahdonik came from Toronto, and the others from Hamilton.

Pick Up Trail

The arrests came about after Provincial Police picked up the trail of a truck some miles out of Peterborough. They followed it, knowing that city police at Peterborough had thrown up a road block in the direction to the city where they were stopping all traffic and checking the cars.

Warning shots were fired at the truck as it came to the road block and apparently was going through. One truck the tire of the truck which stopped. The four men got out, their hands raised. They said they found the loose rifles and one revolver in the truck.

There were reports here in Lindsay that the men were on a hunting trip.

Police here said that a knife had been found but it had not yet been identified as the weapon which killed Loucks.

Score Witches Fight

The fight with Loucks took place on Kent Street, a short way from the scene of the 9,000 residents of this town some 23 miles east of Peterborough watched as the scuffle swung up and down the street in front of the restaurant.

Some of the eye-witnesses told police that Loucks suddenly ran out of a restaurant, others that they jumped from a truck. A further element of mystery

Sicily's Bandit King, Giuliano, Just Another Hard-to-Catch Gangster

By C. R. BRUSINI

Palermo, Sicily, Nov. 18 (AP)

Salvatore Giuliano, Sicily's bandit king, may be a romantic Robin Hood to thousands of peasants but he's just another hard-to-catch monster to Italy's vexed police.

Giuliano has defied the law for more than six years — since Sept. 3, 1943, when he shot over a policeman trying to arrest him for "black-marketing wheat."

A picked police force of 1,500 men set siege to the 22-year-old mountain-dwelling kingdom in September after Giuliano's ambush murder of seven policemen raised public opinion to a fever pitch. But with guerrilla tactics, five and army tactics, the police captured 21 of Giuliano's lieutenants, but they haven't had even a glimpse of the outlaw leader himself.

Colonel Ugo Luca, much decorated Commander-in-Chief of the Special Carabinieri force of National Police, has even offered himself as a target to lure Giuliano into the open. The bushy six-foot officer tours the bandit hide-out in an open jeep without escort.

Giuliano, no slouch as his own press agent, several times has challenged the government to "stop fighting and negotiate." Once he defied government leaders to fight him in a duel to a personal combat.

"If I lose, I will be my life. If I win I will take over the government," he wrote in a letter to the editor of the Palermo newspaper.

To the Colonel Giuliano is no more than a common gangster who prospers on the ancient Sicilian tradition of omertaa (silence) by the prohibition-era American mobsters.

Colonel Luca' says the gangsters have "endless supplies of money. It comes from kidnapping ransoms and from regular payments made by people forcing to be kidnapped."

Giuliano thinks nothing of passing out 100,000 lire to an aged or needy friend. Likewise he lets it be known it is not healthy to

Cupid Comes to Add Finishing Touch To Mix-up Two Brothers and Girl

Chicago, Nov. 18—(AP)— Dan ment.

The court Thursday Joan told Judge Rudolph Desort that Thomas was his first husband, that they lovingly and she had no quarrel with him except for one thing.

Neil quoted his brother as saying he was "ready to live with Joan and could find no other way to marry her.

Thomas's counsel asked for leniency for the youth and Judge Desort agreed, in annulling the marriage, he said: "This punishes the boy far beyond the power of the court. By his act of deception he lost the thing he wanted and cherished most-his wife."

A few hours later, Joan's lawyer returned to court and asked Judge Desort to marry Joan and Neil. The wedding was tentatively set for Nov. 25.

BELLEVILLE PARTY SECURE THEIR DEER NEAR LANSDOWNE

With reports that the woods are full of them down around Lansdowne in Leeds County, a deer hunting party including Elmer Urch of Belleville returned to their homes late night with two deer, a buck and a doe.

The hunters ranged around Sandy Bay and told of sighting numerous four-legged beauties in four days in the woods. They claim that their bag would have been larger had they had dogs to put the quarry into the open on the runways.

Mr. Urch accompanied Fred Aldrich, Edwin Warren and Gordon Grey, all of Lansdowne on the trip.

DEER TOO HEAVY FOR BOYS TO CARRY

There was a story reaching here today that a deer almost got two hunters down in the woods back of Marmora. According to the report the animals bagged by the animal three miles from camp and by the time they reached it back were all in but their shoe laces. They stopped along the trail at one spot and removed the animal's innards to make the load lighter.

The first ten-point buck reported shot down in Leeds county was credited to Rose Burns of Lansdowne. The prize weighed 250 pounds.

Wintertime Calls For Change of Driving Habits

Colder weather should be a warning to Belleville motorists that wintertime calls for a change in driving habits as well as a change in their car's oil and water, says Police Chief Walter Probert.

Snow and ice bring poor traction and poor visibility into Belleville as major adversaries in the battle against traffic accidents, the police chief said. To keep Belleville traffic safe for the next few months, every driver needs to make a point of constantly asking himself the question, "Can I stop in time?"

"Poor traction and poor visibility are the two major threats faced by winter drivers, he points out. "To get safe performance on slippery pavements, brakes must be equalized for simultaneous gripping and tires must have good treads. Tire chains should be carried in every car, ready for use when severe snow or ice conditions develop. They will provide the extra stop-and-go traction and help reduce traffic tie-ups and skid wrecks."

For good visibility, Chief Probert emphasized that "windshield wipers should function smoothly and be able to carry added loads of sleet and snow; defrosters and front shields should be properly placed, headlamps should be properly focused, and taillights should be in good condition and kept clean to warn night-time drivers who may be approaching from behind."

With equipment in good shape, the winter motorist is admonished to adjust speed to highway, road and weather conditions, reduce speed after dark, avoid sudden, starts and stops, slow down for intersections and railroad grade crossings, lengthen distance between vehicles, be on the alert for pedestrians and never take unnecessary risks in traffic.

Four Hunters Get Ducking As Craft Upsets

On their way home to camp with their bag of ducks with two deer, four Belleville hunters late Thursday afternoon received a ducking in Little Marsh Lake by the Haliburton district when their craft is reported to have swamped and upset.

The hunters were Jack Chamberlain, Percy Bolton, and Lyle Jones, all of Trent Road, and Wesley Gray, Jr., of Bayside Estates.

Details of the mishap were unavailable but it was reported the men were stranded for some minutes before their plight was noticed by other hunters who effected the rescue. None of the men was any worse for their unexpected ducking in the lake, it was reported.

The hunters were expected to return home some time last night, but a telephone call by one of the men allayed any uneasiness which may have arisen. Nothing was said, however, of the unexpected ducking in the lake.

Dog Population Definitely On Increase Says Inspector

It shouldn't happen to a dog owner, but it may happen to you if you don't get a tag for that dog of yours.

In effect those were the words that Thomas Thurber (S.P.C.A.) county constable and local pound keeper used to warn residents who are harboring canines without a license.

Mr. Thurn has been doing the same job in this city for 21 years and started when only from 350 to 400 taxpayers registered their dogs in one season. The total number of female and male canines wearing tags nowadays stands at 1051 and more are expected to be listed before the old year runs out. Belleville's dog population is definitely on the increase according to Mr. Thorn.

Most of the trouble is blamed on persons living out in the district, who, to Mr. Thorn's thinking, are in the habit of dropping their pets right inside the city, when they no longer have any use for them. One desperate dog owner drove nearly 25 miles with mother and family of six baby puppies, literally, right on the pound keeper's door step. The heartless offender was never found but protested vehemently that he was not the father of the mother and her offsprings.

You Cannot Win

It'll set you back $4 to register a female, $2 to have it spayed if you have an extra one of each the tariff jumps to $6 for the second female and $4 for the additional male. And failing to pay the $2 fine you may go to jail for a $4.50 fine and the regular cost of a dog licence. If you have a watch dog to guard your property, a farming collie or shepherd, a Dalmatian to keep your horses from stepping on the toes of the milkman, or a fashionable poodle to keep your wife company, you'll have to register it, or else.

The pound keeper finds that most Belleville people are very fond of dogs, but, he says, there is the odd miserable crank who seems to delight in reporting mischievous pets at the slightest prompting. There is, however, the odd miserable dog owner eager to knock over some neighbor's garbage can or paw up prize petunias without hesitation. "On the whole a dog lives a very good life in Belleville," a dog keeper said.

Many Statistics Accumulated

Mr. Thorn has accumulated many valuable statistics pertaining to city dogs and admits he hated to destroy a first class airedale who older heeders will recall sat daily at the corner of McAnnany and Front Streets emitting low guttural howls as regular as the clock on the top of the city hall tolled out the hour. Then there was the dog that saved his master's baby from drowning in the river. And the master who succeeded in his first law suit involving case and wouldn't have his pet destroyed when both of his legs were broken in a car accident. Belleville's only seeing-eye dog on the air-line, whose owner resides on north James Street, and the unusual case of a Friday morning by the proud owner on Bridge Street.

Wide Range of Breeds

Mr. Thorn says that there are many blue-blooded canines in the city besides a wide range of different breeds. For instance there's Chows, a strictly Asian claim fame to Oriental ancestry, all find Belleville very comfortable with the Evans, while the prized Dachshund the property of Mr. Pfefer the dog catcher has little fear about as far as personal attention is concerned. Of course, there are many mongrels and cur abouts and although they are not raised with their pedigreed friends it can be assumed that everybody cares for them just as much.

Give man's best friend a break and see that he gets the proper credentials necessary in keeping him out of trouble. In doing this you will save yourself embarrassment and money.

C. of C. Members Asked to Meet With Directors

The Chamber of Commerce initiated a new policy at their weekly directors' meeting held yesterday. They are to be held guests a group of 20 members from the general membership. It has been felt for some time that the members would be interested in attending one of the weekly meetings in order to have an opportunity of presenting their views and also to familiarize themselves more fully with the work which is currently being undertaken by the Chamber.

The President, Mr. C. A. Bateman, welcomed the guests and gave a resume of the year's accomplishments. He described the importance of members not only taking an active interest in the Chamber of Commerce themselves but also encouraging others to support its worthwhile aims.

Mr. Bone drew attention to the benefits which could be derived from town planning and recommended that the Chamber of Commerce endeavor to gain more support, financially and morally, for the work which is being undertaken by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

Answers Question

In reply to a question from Mr. Douglas Burr regarding the hospital position, Mr. Bateman stated that to create a better understanding of the problems involved and with the hope of hastening a more satisfactory arrangement to meet the hospital deficit, the Chamber has held meetings with both the hospital authorities and the County of Hastings officials. It is the hope of the directors that in the near future a satisfactory basis will be which will result in fostering better relations between the county and city dwellers.

The opportunity of attending the meeting was appreciated by the members present. The Directors plan to hold similar meetings in the future and will invite as many guests as can be accommodated.

Organ and Vocal Recital Enjoyed By Men's Club

Members of St. Thomas' Church Men's club enjoyed a delightful departure from the usual meeting procedure of dinner and speakers last night, when they heard the organ and vocal recital in the church offered by Professor W. Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O. assisted by Mrs. A. B. Hunt and Miss Barbara Joan Houston.

The artistry of Professor Wheatley was brought out in its rich fullness in both numbers, opening with the inspiring "The King Shall Rejoice" by Handel.

The resonance and melodic majesty of the organ was heard in its background to the splendid voice of Mrs. Hunt in her solo "The Holy City" by Nevin. In soft somewhat haunting contrast followed the organ offering of Nevin's "The Rosary".

Professor Wheatley then offered Massenet's "The Angelus" which was followed by the solo "On My Shepherd I Rely" by Bach and sung by Miss Houston.

"Angels Guard Thee" played by Prof. Wheatley concluded the first half of the recital.

"Toccata" an organ offering opened the second phase. Mrs. Hunt was then heard in the selection "Still As The Night" and she followed the organist's conception of the tuneful and popular "Londonderry Air" in a modern orchestral arrangement.

Miss Houston's lovely voice was heard in "Prayer Eternal" and the musically descriptive "Passing Of The Hand" a number specially requested was offered by Prof. Wheatley in conclusion. The hymn "Praise My Soul. The King Of Heaven" sung by the audience concluded the recital.

The proceeds of the recital will be used to help the Church Boys' Scout and Cub Troop.

Obituary

MRS. ROSELLA BENN
(Belleville Teacher)

Mrs. Rosella Benn, wife of Mr Jack Benn, and a former resident of this city, recently residing at 207 Wellesley Street, Toronto, died in the Toronto General Hospital on Friday morning. Born in Belleville she was in her 70th year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bolyea. She lived here until 1940 when she left Belleville for home in Toronto. She was a member of the Anglican Church.

Mrs. Benn was twice married. Her first husband was Frederick Rushlow, who died in March, 1934. Later she married Mr. Jack Benn, who survives her, together with four daughters, Miss Margaret Rushlow, Toronto; Mrs. Claude Quinn, Crow Lake; Mrs. Jack Gerrard and Mrs. Arthur LaFevre, both of Toronto, seven sons, Louis Rushlow, Stanley Rushlow, Milton Rushlow, all of Belleville; Edward Rushlow, Ralph Rushlow, Ormonde Rushlow, all of Toronto and James Rushlow of Hamilton, all by the first marriage. She survives also three sisters, Mrs. George Seams, Mrs. William Kaa, and Mrs. Edward Richards, all of Belleville; two brothers, Louis Bolyea of Lindsay, and Peter Bolyea of Detroit, Mich.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street early Saturday evening; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

LATE MISS ELIZABETH CORBETT

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Corbett was held Thursday afternoon from the late residence, 33 Queen Street. The service there and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church.

The bearers were William Green, Edward Green, Harry Mills, Fred Symons, Vernon Weir and Carl D. Crosby.

Optimists Go North Pessimists Return

Belleville hunters already out in the bush or contemplating a trip in search of their favorite venison include, Jail governor Robert Scott, Fred Garapay, Ed Jarrell, Harry Leitch, Floyd Urch, Ali McCarthy, Wm Smith and Herb Carter. One of the disappointed hunters returning this week reported that the large party he was with failed to bag one single deer.

MARMORA

H. & S. Association Holds Open Meeting

Marmora — The monthly open meeting of Marmora Home and School Association was held in the Public School on Wednesday evening with the president, Mrs. W. G. Chrysler, in the chair and a good attendance of parents and children and other interested persons.

The meeting opened with "O Canada," followed by the Scouts and 1949 Entrance Class graduates were welcomed by the president. The treasurer's report having been given, the names of the new executive were given by the president as follows: President, Mrs. W. G. Chrysler; Vice President, Mrs. B. Mackenzie; Treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Neal; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. P. Webster and Recording Secretary, Mrs. G. H. Rennie. Conveners: Program, Rev. G. D. Young; Publicity, W. J. Coltrell and Refreshments, Mrs. L. Wil

Two new teach- Mr. Phillip Webster and Mrs. Frank Blanchard were also introduced. The president also spoke to the members about the improvement of the boys' playground and the need for a shelter.

Jerald Gerrard, 12, having given a pianoforte solo, D. P. Harris, chairman of the Public School Board, spoke on the forthcoming briefly, describing recent improvements to the school, such as the new lighting installation and sanitary system. He touched upon the Provincial grants and mentioned that according to the grading of the departments, the school was in Grade A.

Diplomas Presented

He then presented diplomas to the attendant graduation class, whose members were: Glenice Wannamaker, Howard Sabine, Margaret Price, Alfred Bonter, Donald Leonard, Leila Wright, Marion Kouri, Claude Trumble, Jennie Reynolds, Marjorie Price, Calvin Baker, Roberta McGarvey, Noreen Keating, Robert Armour and Elaine Darnell.

DEATHS

BENN — In the Toronto General Hospital early Friday morning, Nov. 18th, Mrs. Rosella (Bolyea) Benn, wife of Mr. Jack Benn, 207 Wellesley Street, Toronto, and formerly of Belleville, in her 70th year.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, early Saturday evening, for service in the chapel on Monday afternoon, Nov. 21st, at one o'clock. Interment Belleville Cemetery. N18-2

CARD OF THANKS

Mavis and Donald Vance and family would like to thank their friends and relatives for the kind donations of money, food and gifts received since the loss by fire on Nov. 8. They also wish to thank the Canadians and Neighborhood for welcoming them into their homes. N18

The family of the late Mr. Stillman Cawdron wish to acknowledge the thoughtful expressions of sympathy in floral tributes and telephone calls and the bereavement of the loss of their loved one. Also for the many beautiful flowers and the use of cars. N18

IN MEMORIAM

ANDREWS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away on November 18, 1946.
Time speeds on, three years have flown
Since death its gloom and shadows cast,
Within our home when all seemed bright
And left us with a shining light.
He was that light, he filled with will,
His vacant place, there's none to fill
Down life we mourn, but not in vain
For up in heaven, we will meet again.
Sadly missed by his wife and daughters, Erma, Elva and Faye. N18

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 18. (CP)—Western Oils held against an otherwise easier trend on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A wide list of Western oil stocks showed gains ranging up to 20 cents.

Industrials moved sluggishly under pressure of profit-taking on recent gains. Base Metals were ahead in early dealings but slipped into the minus column at the half-way mark. Golds also moved against mild pressure.

Volume for the first four hours was 622,000 shares.

International Paper, selling ex-dividend, sagged in papers while Abitibi climbed to a new high at 22⅜. Utilities, steels, foods and textiles were down.

Base metals showed moderate gains early in the day but sagged in mid-session. Consolida'ed Smelters, International Nickel and Quemont were in the minus column. News of reductions in the price of lead and zinc depressed the list.

Activity was brisk in Western Oils with Federated Petroleum and United Oil advancing to new highs. Junior gold producers sagged on losses ranging up to 10 cents.

Cheese Boards

Campbellford, Nov. 18 (CP)—Boarded, 833 boxes. All sold, 378 boxes colored at 30½ cents, 353 boxes white at 30 cents, all F.O.B. factory.

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (CP)—Boarded: 575 boxes of white, sold at 30 cents.

King and Queen With Princesses Attend Feature

London, Nov. 18 —(AP)— London movie-goers saw a double feature Thursday night — the Royal Family and eight of Hollywood's brightest stars.

The occasion, which drew huge crowds to J. Arthur Rank's Marble Arch Odeon Theatre, was the fourth annual performance for the benefit of needy movie actors.

Upwards of 5,000 persons stood outside the theatre to watch the King, Queen and two Princesses arrive in two long black limousines.

As an added attraction, they also saw Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon, Errol Flynn, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., George Murphy, Gregory Peck, Rosalind Russell, Ann Sothern and 21 British screen players.

Inside the theatre 2,200 spectators paid up to 25 guineas (about $80) to watch a showing of the "Forsyte Saga," a banal across the sea affair, takes from the novel by the late John Galsworthy.

After the movie the stars appeared on the stage. Later they were presented to the Royal Family.

Backers of the Cinemutograph Benevolent Fund said the show brought in some £30,000.

Theft of Cars Charged to Boys

Toronto, Nov. 18—(CP)—Two 15-year-old boys today faced 10 charges of automobile and truck theft and a 14-year-old boy four charges after their capture Thursday night following a chase in which four warning shots were fired.

Police said the two older lads admitted stealing 10 cars and trucks within the last two months, driving them until the vehicles ran out of gas and then abandoned them.

The trio was captured by provincial police after a chase on Kingston Road. The boys are said to have abandoned the automobile they were driving and cut across a field in an escape effort. A provincial police constable fired four warning shots. They surrendered.

They admitted stealing 10 vehicles and said the younger boy was in on four of the thefts.

They told police they disconnected ignition wires on cars they wanted, drove around until they ran out of gas, then hitchhiked, or took a street car home.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 18 — (CP) — Hog prices at Stratford today were unchanged. Grade A were $29 from truckers.

Other markets were unreported.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

RESEARCH HELPS LENGTHEN LIFE!

Almost every day we hear about products that last longer because of research. An interesting example is a Johns-Manville Packing called Navalon.

Used for sealing oil, water and many other liquids, packing comes into direct rubbing contact with moving machine parts. Most packings wear out quickly under this constant rubbing. In developing Navalon, J-M research engineers used "Flamia," nature's strongest and toughest fibre — so that it would far outlast other packings of similar type.

Navalon is only one of many Packings and Gaskets in hundreds of styles and sizes that J-M supplies to meet industry's varied needs. If you have a packing problem, contact Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto—or see your nearest J-M distributor.

Obituary

EDGAR F. RUTHERFORD

Edgar F. Rutherford, 33 Alexander Street, well-known contractor, died in the Kingston General Hospital early this Friday afternoon. Obituary will appear in this paper on Saturday.

Hopes Revived 20-Man Crew Of Bomber Safe

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 18—(CP)—The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent today sped toward a lonely patch of ocean 400 miles northeast of Bermuda from where flares and faint distress signals spurred hopes that the 20-man crew of a missing United States B-29 may be found alive.

The 10,000-ton flat-top, accompanied by the destroyer Haida and frigate Swansea, was en route to Charleston, S.C., on the first leg of a West Indies cruise when she was ordered to join in the search.

The discovery by red beacons—were spotted early Thursday night. Capt. K. T. McFarlane, piloting a B-29, flashed the word to nearby Lindley Field at 2:45 P.M. EST. Two planes hurried to the spot, equipped with parachute flares, emergency supplies and dinghies. They continued the search throughout the night.

Record Signals

Then another B-29 landed at Kindley and her crew said they had recorded faint distress signals. A bearing taken on these signals coincided with the location of the flares.

It was not known whether the Haida or the Swansea was with the Magnificent.

Throughout the night, three aircraft swung slowly over the area where the missing plane went down. Many others—nearly 100—stood by at Kindley Field.

Child Having Good Sleep, Was Not Lost

Point Traverse—A search carried out by residents of Point Traverse and provincial police of Picton ended Thursday afternoon with the finding of four-year-old Eric Ypma, whose disappearance for several hours caused a widespread alarm until being found asleep between several bags of potatoes in his parents' home.

The little boy had been left in the care of his father, while the mother and two sons went shopping. During the noon hour, when the father went to the barn to hitch the work horse the boy made his disappearance.

It was not until five o'clock that one of the searchers found him after several miles of the Point Traverse district had been combed.

Reformatory Terms Given Two Accused

Appearing for sentence on a charge of breaking and entering with intent, John Broadbent, 20, of Gravenhurst, was today sentenced by Magistrate T. Y. Wills to one year definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario reformatory.

Donald Stickles, 20, of Vancouver, was given six months definite and six months indeterminate in the reformatory on the same charge. The two men pleaded guilty to the charge on Tuesday and were remanded for sentence.

Broadbent and Stickles were arrested by city police while they were in the act of ransacking the grocery store of Lionel "Gunner" Arnott, corner of Chatham and Pine Streets. The alarm had been turned in by children who had seen the men enter the store.

In passing sentence Magistrate Wills stated that through reason of the disparity in the men's ages and also to the difference in their criminal record there should be different terms given, Broadbent's criminal record indicated he had spent several terms in penitentiary for offences ranging from breaking and entering, to wounding and rape.

AGE OF OIL

Oil is one of the most talked of materials in the world. Without it so much progress would have been unachieved. There have been many discoveries in the history of man's pilgrimage upward through the ages. There was the discovery of fire, the means of marking progress and civilization. Today it is one of the factors behind modern civilization. Coal still plays no small part. Oil is beginning to come into its own.

Yet the story of oil in Canada goes back for 91 years in Ontario when the first producing well on the American continent was opened in Lambton County in 1858. A year later the first well was drilled in the United States.

The civilization in which we live, says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada for November, is predominantly industrial. Canada has wonderful water resources which have brought in the electrical industrial era. Now Canada is thinking and doing much about her oil resources.

The era is young. Only a hundred years ago man came to a knowledge of oil when James Oakes in Derbyshire, England, discovered a deposit of petroleum of the consistency of treacle. He mentioned it to his brother-in-law who became the founder of the oil industry. At the same time a Scot distilled oil from coal to get "coal oil." Even in the early eighteen hundreds in the United States oil was looked upon as a nuisance. Then in 1859 a well was drilled for oil in Pennsylvania. And oil was found in quantity.

The outlook for oil in the U.S. is not clear. Reserves are variously estimated. Two years ago an audience was told that domestic production would fail to meet needs within five or ten years. Now the geological survey says the rich oil and gas lands have never been adequately explored. Within two years we it was stated the United States would have to depend upon imports. Yet others say there are fifty billion barrels in undiscovered reservoirs.

The first Alberta oil boom began half a century ago when Calgary became an oil capital. It was over two years before Gulf Oil was successful in the same district after 12,000 feet of drilling. In 1914 the first oil came in at Turner Valley. Up to this spring the valley had yielded nearly 100 million barrels of oil and about 1,500 billion cubic feet of natural gas. Other fields have grown in importance in 1947 Leduc was acclaimed as an oil field. Within eighteen months Canada became the largest producer of oil in the British Empire. This is the beginning of the expansion of intensive search.

Estimate of the wealth contained in the oil deposits is not possible at present. But that they are of great value is accepted and vast developments are expected to follow. At present it is said the Alberta discoveries may save Canada $50,000,000 a year of U.S. money hitherto spent on oil. Saving of exchange is of national benefit, if Canada could become independent of U.S. oil, by increasing the oil output. An increasing demand for oil is felt and will be felt.

COUNTRYMAN RECOMMENDS WHITTLING

The more or less progressive debilitation of our society in the last half century can be attributed to a number of factors. People do not have time to enjoy either themselves or life these tense days. It may be because folks have given up eating hulled corn for supper; possibly the decline in popularity of long ones in winter has deleteriously affected digestion; maybe we have lost something in accepting so much ready-made entertainment via radios and moving pictures.

We think male citizens would regain control of nervous systems and recapture perspectives if whittling came back in favor. Give a man a clear piece of pine, cedar or ash, a sharp knife and a comfortable chair in the old farm shop, and he can put in a pleasant session getting caught up with himself. There are two kinds of whittling and each serves a needed purpose. There are times when a man just wants to whittle; he likes to see the curliness of wood curl back from the stick; he likes to feel the sharp blade cut through the clean grain. Doing this, a man can sit and whittle and think, or he can just sit and whittle.—Ottawa Journal.

CAUSE FOR JEALOUSY

What would you do if you had planned
To hold a maiden's lovely hand
And walk and linger at the shops
Displaying tempting lollipops,
Only to learn her other beau
Had asked her to the zoo to go?

Suppose you'd never had a spat
Yet found yourself brushed off like that;
Told calmly, as a mother can:
"Sorry, dear, I must
"Gone somewhere with another man.
Call later. I am sure that
Will be at home in time for tea."

How would you like it?
Would you rage?
Turn jealous at so late an age?
Vow vengeance on the man who dared
To think her favors should be shared?
Or try again, as I must do . . .
Her other grandpa loved her, too!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO
Nov. 18th, 1929

The meeting of Quinte Street Church choir, under the direction of Mr. Leo B. Riggs, gave a delightful program in the community hall at Melrose last evening. The choir numbered twenty-six.

Mr. J. Edwin Elliott, Toronto, has joined the staff of Angus Reid Limited, as manager of the jewellery department. Mr. Logan has had a wide experience in the jewellery business and for the past ten years he has been connected with the well known jewellery firm of Kents Limited, Toronto. Mr. Logan is genial and courteous and will make a good citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, Ont. Mrs. C. Jose of Kirwton, Ont. are spending a few days with friends in the city and at Foxboro.

30 YEARS AGO

The spacious mantle room in the Ritchie Store was the scene of an interesting visit last Saturday evening when the members of the staff of the big store were the guests of the management. The early part of the evening was devoted to a concert when Mr. John Elliott, manager of the Standard Bank, which we much enjoyed. A vote of thanks to Mr. Elliott was moved by Mr. Frank Thompson and seconded by Mr. Harry Bryant, after which a presentation of Messrs. Bryant, Foote, Hickey and Buchanan sang several enjoyable selections.

Dr. I. E. Mott of Cincinnati, an old Belleville boy, is home on a short visit.

40 YEARS AGO
Nov. 18th, 1909

The Rev. George M. Meacham of Toronto, eldest son of the late James H. Meacham, formerly of Belleville for forty years, spent some time in the city yesterday.

A well attended meeting of hockey enthusiasts was held at Hotel Quinte and the prospects are bright for a good intermediate team here this season. The following officers were elected: Hon. President, H. Corby; Hon. Vice President, Sir Mackenzie Bowell; President, E. Guss Porter, M.P.; First Vice President, Mavor Lorne Marsh; Second Vice President, J. W. Jenkins; Third Vice Pres. S. H. Metcham; Secretary, T. Morgan; Treasurer, Karl Soangerbertr; Manager, A. E. Labbett. Patrons, Dr. Trevanus, Charles N. Sulman, Dr. Gilbert Ellis, W. Sinclair, C. Gibson, T. S. Carman and Charles J. Bowell.

At this time of the year nearly every young man wants to be an alderman or two among his friends.

The Belleville people who desire to send Christmas parcels to their boys in South Africa must mail them not later than Tuesday next. The Bellevile boys will have reached South Africa sometime before Christmas.

Mr. S. W. Vermilyea has returned home from the old country.

Mr. R. A. McGuinness left today on a business trip to the Old Country.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Finkle have returned home from Western Canada.

Mr. N. D McArthur of Montreal, Prosecutor of Bellevile, was in town today.

Mrs. Joseph Ashley of Grove Ravine, Sidney, attended her father, Mr. T. Wickett, Foxboro.

THE PACKSACK
OF GREGORY CLARK

The cocktail party used to be and they were always ready for confined to a social level that could afford to keep several servants and a well stocked bar in the sideboard. But so strong is the instinct to climb in our social life that the cocktail party has burst its bounds and now has penetrated into the apartment, even, financially, to great numbers of young people all over the country.

The afternoon tea custom never got really rooted in the average Canadian home. In Britain, everybody broke off work around four p.m. for tea. In the homes, tea was served with toast buns, crumpets and jam around four every day; and on Sunday you into high tea a regular spread.

In Canada today, you never know whether to drop in on your friends and neighbors during the afternoon or not. "Oh maybe they're busy . . ." Or maybe they are out. In Britain, this was never a question. You called on anybody around four-thirty p.m.

you. Because they were having tea, anyway, and there was always an extra bun. If they were out, that did not matter! Because tile maid would be there, of course, and be scandalized if you went off without tea.

What a nice thing it would be if the social level that made fashionable the cocktail party were to wake up to the injury it does to the health of young people who can't afford to follow them in fashion, and were to revive, and make popular again the afternoon tea.

A cocktail party costs anywhere from $12 to $25 for drinks, canapes and other refreshments. An afternoon tea might be got by with for 79 cents. It would satisfy the basic need, which is the getting together. All it needs now is fashion's nod.

And if any of the high-complected characters in the Decadence of snorts, let them get busy and marry up into the social level to which they aspire, and which is far soberer than they suppose.

MAKING THE BEST OF THE WORST

On the shores of the Red Sea are the ruins of an ancient city, Etzion-gaber. The town was swept and the site of it still is today—with furious regularity—10 miles from the north. Scholars for generations have wondered why such a place should ever have been chosen for a city.

But excavations have revealed that the ancients built there an elaborate system of furnaces equipped with flues which took advantage of this terrific wind current, thus practically turning these crude furnaces into the equivalent of modern blast furnaces.

Imagish having to live in Etzion-gaber. But what the people of that town did was to take advantage of a furious north wind which must have kept them miserable most of the time and use this for the building up of one of the most important industries in ancient times. They turned a liability into an asset. They converted their personal discomfort into the equivalent of modern dividends.

Does one need to moralize on a situation of this sort? There are millions of people today who have turned the unpleasant, and rowsful dissappointing, and painful experiences of life into treasurious values which - made their lives richer for having passed through such experiences.

THE WACKS WORKS

There's been a lot of talk on Broadway in recent weeks about the incident in the El Rancho club where Humphrey Bogart was caught with his pandas down and he beat the jittery beef rap. If it, unless Bogey stops acting up he's a cinch to finish behind the well-known eight-ball.

Well, mebbe so, but I personally not bet on it. It's my belief that if anything, his daffy didos will help his pulling-power at the box office, very much as they helped John Barrymore, W. C. Fields, and other talented screwballs who had the nerve to do what the rest of us only day dream about.

And don't let any old-timer with braid on his vest tell you that the entertainment business wouldn't have tolerated a Humphrey Bogart in the dear, dead days. According to the record, the antics of yesterday's stars make our present crop of performers look as pale as a ghost who has just seen a man.

Junius Brutus was born in England a few years before the 19th Century made its bow, and by the time he was 18 a well-developed lad accused him of being the father of her out-of-bounds baby. During the course of his life, among other things, he took a crack at killing a man in a duel, and for the husband of two ladies, without the customary divorces in between.

None of this stunted his growth, however, and by the time he was 20 he had become one of the greatest names on the London stage. He appeared at Covent Garden as Richard III, and he followed that with Hamlet, Lord Lane as Jago in Keane's Othello. And, strange to say, playing his success was so great that he caused a near riot in the theatre and tried to burn it down.

Offstage, Junius Brutus was even more spectacular than on, and it looked as though he would had been sampling the flesh and wineputs of Piccadilly at the time, chances are he wouldn't have rated a monolog-ue. Unfortunately, he was not content with a campaign against himself, but was forever bringing some and, while on tour one autumn, enraged at the wanton killing of birds by the gallery, wrote a very plot and held a funeral for some pigeons a gentleman had shot.

Despite all this hi-jinks and Booth was a name to conjure with and make faces at.

Canadians First Had Acth Secret, Dr. J. B. Collip First to Hold Drug As Proven Material in Hands

For years one of the great figures in Canadian medical discovery and the advance of medical science has been known not only to Canadians but to the entire medical world of all countries. He is Dr. J. B. Collip, a native of Belleville and a graduate of local schools. Again Dr. Collip is to the fore in the news surrounding the drug Acth of which so much has been heard of late.

Dr. Collip, who is dean of medicine at the University of Western Ontario, first made Acth in 1933. The difficulty is that it can be obtained only in infinitesimal quantities. One packing firm estimates that it takes 25,000,000 dead hogs to produce 60 pounds of Acth and another has said that he could produce only about 40 pounds of pituitary glands per week. That would amount to only a few ounces of Acth. Doctors say its discovery may be the greatest since Pasteur discovered germs.

Canada has First Had Secret

An article, written by Ron Kenyon, Toronto Telegram staff reporter, appeared recently in the Toronto Telegram and tells the story of how Canadians first had the secret of Acth. The article is herewith reproduced:

By RON KENYON
Telegram Staff Reporter

London. (Special)—But for a frown from Lady Luck, Canadians might have discovered the amazing properties of medicine's new miracle drug, Acth, 15 years ago.

As it is, they played a major role in early research, a fact that practically nobody outside top brass medical researchers knows about.

"Miracle" drug isn't a loose term when you talk about Acth It has been proved to have benefited rheumatoid arthritis sufferers, and is being tested for rome 20 other diseases, including cancer.

There is reason to believe it will help such widely diversified conditions as hay fever, nephritis (kidney disease), asthma and psoriasis.

It can also reduce any fever. no matter what originally caused the fever. It will help in treating everything from polio to diphtheria, insamuch as it will control the fever such ailments produce.

Dr. Canadian, Dr. J. B. Collip, 57-year-old Dean of Medicine at the University of Western Ontario and a native of Belleville, was the first man in the world to hold Acth, as a separated, proven material, in his hands.

"We had gallons of pituitary gland materials on our shelves back in 1933. We made some Acth out of it, and we turned over the various fractions to clinicians to try out. But nothing was made of it." Dr. Collip told The Telegram frankly today.

One of the important questions about Acth is: How can a greater supply be produced? Armour and Company, the only important manufacturers of Acth in the world, can't get enough hog pituitaries to manufacture more than a fraction—perhaps an mlligreee decimal point—of the amount of Acth the world needs. Hopeful on Supply

Dr. Collip is not unhopeful that the supply may be greatly increased.

Acth is a natural hormone. That is to say, it is present in everybody. It is manufactured by the pituitary gland, a tiny organ imbedded in the brain. Acth is a protein molecule and so far has defied the efforts of researchers to find out what it is composed of, let alone to manufacture it out of chemicals.

Dr. Collip said that in early work he had found it possible to develop a much simpler molecule of Acth which probably occurs naturally in the human body. It might be possible to manufacture these simpler molecules synthetically, he said.

At the time he started working on Acth he was at McGill University.

Researchers up to that time believed that the pituitary gland secreted one hormone that controlled the thyroid gland which affects growth, the adrenal glands and the sex glands.

Dr. Collip's group of researchers proved that actually, different hormones, all produced by the pituitary, do the three jobs separately.

He went further than that. By complex procedures, worked out at McGill, he separated Acth (the hormone that controls the adrenals) from other pituitary hormones. He extracted Acth from cattle, hog and other pituitaries.

Thus, Canadians were the first researchers ever to have the secret of Acth within grasp.

But the Collip researchers were interested, primarily, in fundamental research. They wanted to learn how the pituitary gland works. Their research involved some of the most mysterious of body processes. For instance, they found that by removing the pituitary gland and giving the hormones separately by injection, adrenals, sex glands, mammary glands and growth could be affected. They didn't carry out extensive research to find out what the new hormone, Acth, would do against other diseases.

As a matter of fact, a similar story has been told of almost every new drug ever to burst in lights . . the medical horizon. Penicillin, to name just one, stood on a shelf 25 years before anyone found what it could do.

After separating Acth from the other hormones, Dr. Collip was instrumental in one other important thing: his work, and research site where, persuaded Armour and Company, of Chicago to start producing Acth.

This was the chain of events that led directly to this year's amazing Acth revelations. For Armour and Company zoned Acth around a number of clinics, including the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota. And it was Dr. Philip S. Hench, of the Mayo clinic, who announced last April to the world the tremendous significance of Acth.

Since then, the Acth story has grown in proportions, and seems destined to keep growing.

It's interesting in the light of Acth's meteor-like glory, to talk to the man who participated so largely in early work.

Regrets? Sure, lots of regrets. It's a natural reaction to wish you had tried something the other tried with marked success, particularly when you had the chance within your grasp.

Tut in Dr. Collip there isn't the slightest desire to grasp any of the glory of the United States researchers. It's difficult to make him talk about Acth for that very reason.

"Whatever we did must not be allowed to diminish in the slightest degree the admiration we have for the work of Hench and the other researchers who participated in this discovery," said Dr. Collip.

One of the first scientific papers published by the Collip group in which he referred to "cortical extract" of Acth was published in the Lancet, as far back as August, 1933.

Sharing the research work which led to the discovery were Dr. Evelyn M. Anderson, to whom Collip assigns high credit, and with whom he had collaborated on earlier, important work, and Dr. L. Thomson, fourth researcher, Dr. Hans Selye, developed a delicate operation for removing the pituitary gland of rats which made the work of the other members of the team possible.

To the Collip group, Acth was just one factor in an intensely absorbing study involving growth, sex and body function Collip has been carrying on research since 1912, has published more than 40 scientific papers, and is perhaps the most important figure in Canadian medicine today.

Two M.P.'s Urge Recognition Of Red China

Ottawa, Nov. 17—(CP)— Two members—one a Liberal and the other a C.C.F.—today urged the government in the Commons to give recognition to the Communist government in China.

H. A. MacKenzie (Lambton-Kent), who served two years in China with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said that if the western democracies want to maintain some remnant of stability in China they should recognize the new government as soon as possible. If this was not done it would drive the Chinese "right into the arms of Russia."

Allister Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) said China had a Communist government but the country was not yet under full Russian domination and might never be. Recognition of the new government should not be hurried but should take place before it is too late to capitalize on the strategic effect of such recognition.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) also spoke in resumed debate on external affairs. In supporting the Speech from the Throne Wednesday External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated that Canada may recognize the new Chinese government after consultation with other countries.

Mr. Stewart said Communism will never be destroyed by war. Bullets could never destroy ideas. All democracies shared the fear of Communism, but the answer was not going to be found in tearing out our hair" and offering no alternative.

MUSICALE PRESENTED

Thursday evening in St. Thomas' Church a most enjoyable program of organ and vocal music was presented by Mr. Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., A.R.C.O. Mrs. A. Bonnell Hunt and Miss Barbara Joan Houston. The musicale was arranged by Mr. Wheatley for the Parish Men's Club which is fathering the parochial choir, the Scouts and Cubs. The offering received was for the Scout and Cub requirements.

There was a fairly large attendance and many expressions of appreciation were voiced by those fortunate to be present.

WEDDINGS

WRIGHT—RUNDLE

Mixed chrysanthemums and ferns formed the setting for a pretty wedding in Christ Church, Belleville, on Wednesday, November 16, at 2:30 p.m., when Gwendolyn Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rundle, of Mormora, became the bride of James John Walter Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wright, of Belleville. The Rev. J. Grant Sparling officiated.

Mr. Kaye Martin, guest organist, provided the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown of sheer white crepe, featuring bishop sleeves, and full, floor length skirt. Her fingertip veil of net was caught by a white satin headdress, and she carried a white prayer book with corsage of red roses and white 'mums.

Miss Jean Lambe, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, wearing a yellow net floor length gown, over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves. She wore a fingertip veil, and carried a nosegay of white chrysanthemums, centred with a pink rose and tied with white satin streamers.

Mr. Douglas Tufford, of Belleville, was groomsman; Mr. Stanley Bundle, of Burlington, and Mr. Goldie Livingston, of Belleville, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at the home of the bride's groom's parents, the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of wine-coloured velvet, with beige and black accessories, and corsage of cream roses. She was assisted in receiving the guests by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of black crepe, with grey accessories, and corsage of red roses.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for Toronto, and points west, the bride travelling in a navy suit with navy accessories, and wine-colored topcoat. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Wright will reside at 62 West Moira Street, Belleville.

Women's Activities

LADIES' AUX. CAN. LEGION

The Ladies' Auxiliary, Canadian Legion, Branch 99, had an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening last, when the Zone representative, Mrs. Colborn, made her usual visit accompanied by three members of her branch in Brockville. An interesting initiation for new members took place put on by the Brockville ladies.

The president, Mrs. Jeffs, thanked all who helped with tagging poppies, also those who worked so well at the banquets, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Colborn spoke a few encouraging words about Legion work.

Mrs. Jeffs made a presentation to the Zone representative, which had been donated by Mrs. Gullivet.

Mrs. Colborn extended thanks to all for the wonderful reception given them by the Belleville ladies.

After the closing of the meeting, everyone sat down to a wellladen table filled with everything one could wish for.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The November meeting of the Quinte W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. M. Greatrix, opened the meeting. In honor of Remembrance Day, all joined in singing "O God, Our Help in Ages Past", followed with a poem.

Minutes, were read and some letters. It was decided, if possible to place and light a Christmas tree in front of the Old Folks Home. A committee was chosen to look after the buying of the decorations and other business.

Mrs. Bert Docter then introduced Major Graham, who gave a splendid address on "Canada and Her Citizens, "Success Family". Community singing followed.

In the absence of Mrs. Jeffrey, the president, a vote of the motto Roll call was well answered. Mrs. Tuft gave a short talk on Trip to Norway Mrs. Clifford Reid, as her part in the program conducted a sing-song. The district president, Mrs. T. Leslie, was present and gave an interesting account of her motor trip down through the Eastern States as far as Florida.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Weesley Hall, with Mrs. Lloyd Hall as assistant.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by the hostess and her conveners and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

WOMEN TEACHERS' FEDERATION

On Wednesday evening in the lower auditorium of Latimer's "Town Room", the regular monthly meeting of the "Belleville Women Teachers' Federation" was held.

After a tasty dinner the meeting was conducted as follows:

Lilian Hart played the piano for the opening exercise—the singing of "O Canada". Alice Heaman, president, welcomed the guests and asked that the minutes of the last meeting be read. This was moved by Jean Price. Mary Rutherford read the financial report.

The highlight of the evening came when Alice Heaman, Phyllis Jeffs, Jean Price and Olive Elson, four delegates who attended a recent "Regional Conference" at Bancroft, delivered brief interesting talks. The meeting was then moved to be adjourned.

The newly-appointed officers for 1949-50 are: President, Alice Heaman; Vice President, Hazel Thompson; Secretary, Jean Price and Treasurer, Mary Rutherford.

Ladies Auxiliary of Athletic Association of C.N.R. Holds Delightful Tea And Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon the assembly rooms of the I.O.O.F. Front Street, were transformed into an Oriental emporium with the dazzling array of palanquins set down roundabout the spacious enclosure, each with its own individual colorings, merging from pastel shades of pink and blue to vivid Chinese pink, through gorgeous orange to golden yellow. Above, shone down the muted lights, deep-draped with fringes of orange and yellow. Amid this magnificence, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian National Railway Athletic Association held their Autumn tea and tea. Had it not been for the tiny Canadian National passenger train with its diesel engine wending its winding course across the pine-clad country side, one would have expected to see the sleeping 'ship of the desert' or feel the scent of shifting sands.

The first of the eight booths to be visited was a symphony in yellow and gold. Across its upright front ran a dual scalloped curtain of yellow and gold, which was followed out in the valloping posts, and in the deeply fringed valances across the lower portion. Here, grouped with myrid of aprons of every hue and color, and nearly as many materials, were Mrs. A. Wardhaugh and Mrs. B. Shaddock. Some lovely organdy aprons in white with appliqued roses on pocket and deep hem were contrasting with yellow and some in white crosshar muslin, edged with embroidery and ruff of pink lace. There was yellow sateen apron edged with half pink-lace frill, a dream of a tea apron, and many every day ones, all of fine sewing and excellent material.

Towel Booth

Next to the apron booth, was the towel booth, under the supervision of Mrs. H. Hall and Mrs. W. Waite. This was festooned with curtains of yellow and green while lattice work of narrow, twisted ropes of green and yellow enclosed the ends, and across the bottom ran a deep valance of green and yellow fringe. Lovely towels, both guest and ordinary wear were for sale. Some were in soft green shades, with embroidered motifs on the ends, others were reversed in cross stitch, while the dish towels vied with the rainbow colors. An extra table groaned with orange and gold, made a soft carpet for a host dressed doll who would go to the owner of the lucky ticket. At her feet were soft wash cloths, and a clothespin bag in mauve print edged with cotton blading, and a deep full pocket to aid in the ease of wash days and to save the lovely curve of Cupid's bow.

Grocery Booth

A rainbow of brown and gold outlined the grocery basket booth, which also had its drapery valence fringed in brown and gold. The well filled baskets were done in the same colors, but all designed differently. There baskets were to go to those having the lucky tickets, and contained all manner of groceries, rice krispies, jello powders, ice cream freeze ray, cabbages, parsely, mint for roast lamb, and canned goods of several varieties. Mrs. H. Drury was chief custodian here.

Across the west end of the room was the vivid glow of Chinese pink, enhanced by soft green. A deep curtain of scalloped Chinese pink ran the entire length of the top, covered the upright posts, and ended in a deep, wide fringe across the bottom, while over this was a narrow valance of scalloped green. This was the Home Cooking booth, convened by Mrs. E. Jerome, Mrs. L. Smith, and Mrs. B. Andrews, who were never idle, but were kept continually wrapping up the luscious lemon pies, some, inches deep with golden tinted meringue, coconut cakes, honey-coated Chelsea buns; little brown bernice fruits in cartons; de'icious shortbread cookies topped with halves of maschino cherries; date and nut bread, and cherry tarts. Here too, were potato salads; macaroni salad; and oldfashioned baked beans, looking so appetizing, and so good the thing to offset the snowlike atmosphere outside, with some corn relish to add the zest.

Novelty Booth

The Plaid and Novelty booth was lovely to behold with its dual arch in green and white, whose ends were covered by small Christmas trees, snow-dipped. Within this booth were numerous tiny pots of many kinds of plants. Some held little Santas; others a green and white foliages; baby's tears; the pink Sultanna; wee African violets; red and gold anlums; sweet scented geraniums; silver edged geraniums; little tea pot stands depicting Donald Duck; and a memo pad, and many other items, and a lovely pink Gloxina. Mrs. C. Coleman, and Mrs. L. Ellis in the White Elephant booth were the presiding ladies Mrs. C. Young, and Mrs. J. White, who supervised a variety of odds and ends, amid a background of cerise and white. Like the other palequins, this was vivid in its cross curtain of cerise over which ting little garlands of white wound up and down, with a deep white fringe. The valance topped with a narrow scalloped over-drape of cerise. A cheese dish in china; odd sugar bowls, silver salts and peppers; can openers; trays; china teapot and matching water pot; glass candle holders; individual sandwich trays; aluminum sauce pot; face powder; corner bracket; jackknife; glass bread cutting boards; children; costume jewellery, lockets, brooches, earrings and bracelets; jig saw puzzles; men's garters, a golf ball that had seen some hard knocks; and framed pictures.

Work of Art

The large bassinette depicting the Baby booth was a work of art, done in soft pastel pink and blue. The blue hood was outlined with full-blown pink roses, centred by a huge big bow, while the inside of the hood was formed by fetited ropes of pink and blue respectively. A blue fringed valance over an underskirt of white enclosed the bottom of the bassinette. Inside was all of pink, and on a pink chair sat "topsy" dressed in a white crocheted set of soft wooly garments edged with pink and like her namesake, no doubt wondering which of the alluring articles to hide up her sleeve, for there were many here to choose from, tiny pink bonnets; little white mitts; white booties, blue edged; snow-white pillow slips edged with crocheted lace; pretty doilies, and a little warm sacquet. The conveners of this were Mrs. F. Benson; Mrs. R. Clarke and Mrs. K. Sager.

Under the huge palaquin with its deep fringe of white hanging from the top; outlined in red; its high four posts looking for all the world like long barley sticks, and the deep white valance, topped with a narrow band of red, and in the centre of which a red square with the magnetic letters: C. N. R. A. A. L. A. There were aprons and cushions, handkerchiefs, creams, fudge, tatty, coconaut creams, and sea foam, white and tempting, and the waistcoties too were full of mixed kinds, and colors, and every kind. A delightful booth of tempting confections, daintily prepared. Mrs. Ralph Hall, and Mrs. P. Richards were in charge of this.

Upstairs in an equally lovely tea room met the gaze, still following out the Autumn motif of yellow, bronze and gold. Receiving at the tearoom's golden lattice gateway were the hostess, Mrs. W. Rupert, and near at hand, the high four posts treasury, Mrs. H. Vandervoort; while inside the gate were the little tables, all centered with the railway coaches of red, blue, yellow and green, the fitting emblem of the railway. In the midst of the tables, the long table, covered with the beautiful linen and centered with twin vases of golden and bronze baby 'mums, flanked by yellow tapers and silver service. Presiding at the long table were Mrs. W. Spring, and Mrs. C. Henry; from 3.30 to 4.30, Mrs. A. Taylor, and Mrs. R. Brennan, and from 4.30 to 5.30 Mrs. T. Yarrow and Mrs. H. Vandervoort. Many Servers

Those who served: Mrs. J. Ethier, Mrs. C. Rodgers, Mrs. H. Clarke, Mrs. G. Diment, Mrs. L. Daugherty, Mrs. A. Dickens, Mrs. M. Vandervoort, Mrs. J. Hardy, Mrs. N. Gerow, Mrs. H. Boyle, Mrs. B. McQuaide, Mrs. J. Townsend, Mrs. C. Lloyd, and Mrs. E. Short.

The treasurer in chief was Mrs. E. Kilpatrick; the convener to the tea room was Mrs. E. Windover, and the President of the Auxiliary, Mrs. R. L. Johnston.

The winner of the $5.00 voucher was Mrs. A. Wardhaugh, 83 Pinnacle Street, and the winners of the grocery baskets were Mrs. C. Coleman, 47 Geddes, Mrs. K. Cornish, 296 Bleecker Ave., Mrs. K. Sager, 25 Lime, Mrs. E. Pigden, 330 Charles, Mrs. Black, 32 Howard St., Mrs. F. Short, Donald Street, Mrs. D. Benson, 15 Earl, Mrs. A. Hammell, 17 Bridge St. E., Mrs. H. Waite, 51 Strachan Avenue.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"
Eating duels should be revived. This ancient custom is needed in a world that obviously cannot settle its arguments in a peaceful manner.
I worked like this. If your honor had been insulted in Scythia, 300 B.C., or if you were involved in a dispute, argument or debate that couldn't be resolved, you challenged your opponent to sit down at the table with you. The man who ate the most meal won.
One can easily imagine the second-sighing their favorite entrant with more mutton, bigger chunks of venison, heavier slabs of beef. One can see the final victor, arm upraised, groggy and belching with victory.
The big argument against the revival of the custom now is the price of meat. Since meat is ordinarily the biggest single item in your food budget you have to constantly devise methods that will cater to your family's appetite without breaking the bank.
There will be no hungry faces at your table after presenting a big platter of spaghetti with a thick meat sauce. To get the most appetizing meat flavor, use 1-2 beef, 1-4 veal and 1-4 pork instead of all beef. Grated parmesan cheese should go into the sauce after it has been removed from the fire and should also be served separately at the table. For flavor as well as economy add chopped fresh mushrooms to the meat.—
Spaghetti with Meat and Mushroom Sauce. Serves 6
Chop fine 1 cup onion, 1-2 cup green pepper and 1 teaspoon garlic. Place in a saucepan with 2 tablespoons olive or salad oil. Simmer slowly until onions and green peppers are tender but not charred. Add 1-2 pound chopped fresh mushrooms. Continue to simmer for 5 minutes or the juice of the mushrooms will prevent scorching.
Add 1 No. 2-1-2 can of Italian plum tomatoes chopped, 4 tablespoons tomato paste, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon sugar and 1-4 teaspoon black pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce flame and simmer until sauce is very thick, about 1 hour. Add 1-4 cup grated parmesan cheese.
Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply.—Ed.

St. Michael's Parents, Teachers Hold Meeting

The first Fall meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of St. Michael's Academy, was held in the school auditorium on Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. with the President, Mrs. Frank Cushing in the chair.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Father Buckley.

After adoption of the minutes of previous meeting, which meeting incidentally was the first of the newly formed association, the treasurer, Mrs. W. Grant, gave a favorable report.

There was much discussion on the new constitution and after amendments, was adopted as read.

Sister Mary Hilda addressed the members on the program to be given at the Commencement Exercises in December, at which time Prof. W. Jury of Western University, will give a talk on his excavations at Fort St. Marie, Midland, Ont.

A committee headed by Mrs. E. Logan was formed to meet Monsignor Nicholson to discuss holding social events for the young people of the parish.

The next monthly meeting was announced for Dec. 16.

The meeting was adjourned after an address by Father Buckley and the members then enjoyed a social hour arranged by Mrs. E. Lally and her committee.

Women's Activities

CATHOLIC W.L.

Excellent reports were read by members of the executive, after which a discussion period followed. Mrs. Logan in reporting for hospitality, gave the financial report of the teas, held at the homes of Mrs. McAuley and Mrs. Boyle. The proceeds were most gratifying and the president thanked all who co-operated in making these events such a success. Mrs. Flurey read a concise and satisfactory statements of the proceeds from the graduation dances. This event is sponsored each year by the Catholic Women's League.

A letter from Miss McAvoy, the diocesan publicity and magazine convener was read by Mrs. Donoghue, the recording secretary. Miss McAvoy urged for more workers and more publicity for the magazine and gave an outline of many points of interest.

A new scrap book was shown, which will be in charge of Mrs. Upper, the sub-division publicity convener.

Mrs. Hudon and Mrs. Donoghue were named hospital visitors for the month of December.

All members of the bridge and euchre tournaments were asked to have all games played before the holiday, so that the tournaments could be renewed the first of the New Year.

Opportunity Shop Success Pleasing To Hospital Aux.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary was held on Tuesday last, with Miss Ivy Dickens, president, presiding. A financial report of the Opportunity Shop was read by Mrs. Gilbert Scott. It was gratifying to learn that the shop is continuing to be successful, and that it is exceedingly well stocked, especially with women's suits and winter coats.

Acknowledgment of a donation to the dance and a loan to the Nurses' Alumnae Association were read. Miss Dickens stated that the Director of Nursing, Miss Potts, suggested the members discuss the possibility of providing for occupational therapy for ward patients, and giving their services for such a project.

It was voted to purchase twelve up-patient gowns for the hospital. These gowns are being used by many of the hospitals throughout Ontario. It was voted to have the annual Christmas dance, as usual. Mrs. W. D. Wilson and Mrs. E. S. Fairman were appointed to take charge of arranging for Christmas gifts for indigent patients.

The Junior Group, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, announced a telephone bridge they are sponsoring next week and hoped the Auxiliary would participate. The monthly reports of the recording secretary, Mrs. P. T. Seibert, and the treasurer, Mrs. Malcolm Robb, were read. Reports of the delegates to the Ontario Hospital Association's convention were given.

After the meeting, a delightful tea was served by Miss Potts, assisted by Miss Jane Thompson, Miss Alice Kerr, Miss Patricia Mann, Miss Doreen Fox, and Miss Helen Anderson. The members' attention is called to the suggestion made at the last meeting that each donate a gift to the Opportunity Shop to be sold for Christmas.

Fashion Flashes

NOVELTIES abound in the latest showings. Gray pearl silk slipper satin is used for a handsome evening dress with strapless top and intricate, winging, jutting skirt drapery. Side pouf ends in a floor-sweeping panel that may be buttoned up to shorter length, a good idea when the weather isn't too kind.

JUST THE ticket to dress up an afternoon suit is a blouse of pale pearl-pink satin, with long sleeves, high neckline and a closing of cut crystal drop buttons.

A GOOD PAL at home, en route or in the country is a full-length coat of almond brown suede. It has a long roll shawl collar, shoulder flange, and there is a tapered line to the full skirt, which is held by a self belt that ties with long ends. Turn-back cuffs on easy sleeves.

Because people once believed that if the bride stumbled in the doorway her marriage would be unlucky, the groom carries her over.

Situation Clearer

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said that the world situation was clearer now and becoming clearer all the time. It involved the fundamental differences between Russia and its Communist-dominated satellites and the western democracies.

Mr. Drew intimated that sanctions should be applied against Russia until she agreed to give the people under her domination the opportunity of choosing their own form of government.

Russia and all other nations that signed the San Francisco charter establishing the United Nations had pledged themselves to maintaining free choice of government.

It was the duty of the west to press ceaselessly for the restoration of this right among Communist-dominated countries.

"If the free nations of the west establish a position of such strength and certainty of purpose that Russia is in no doubt whatever about their determination to stand together to preserve their freedom, then we will have gone a long way towards the fulfillment of that ideal of the United Nations charter."

Mr. Drew emphasized the need for reaching the Russian people as a step toward restoring understanding between the east and west.

Mr. Pearson agreed that great strides in maintaining peace would be made if the west could transmit to the people of the Communist countries the earnest hope for understanding and agreement.

Chief purpose of Mr. Pearson's concluding address was to answer the host of questions asked by members during the debate.

He announced that Canada shortly will establish a diplomatic mission in western Germany. The mission to the new state would be headed by Lt.-Gen. Maurice Pope, currently chief Canadian diplomatic representative in Berlin.

Recognizes State

Mr. Pearson told the Canadian Press that the move couldn't be properly described as meaning official recognition of that west-German state because it might leave the inference that Canada had not previously recognized the recently-federated state. Canada had recognized the state, in fact, welcomed its establishment.

Summing up the situation in Germany, Mr. Pearson said the possibility of holding a peace conference for the whole country had become more remote in the last year as a result of the continuing "split" between east and west in Germany itself.

Mr. Pearson said he wanted to clear up what appeared to be a contradiction on Canada's commitments under the North Atlantic Security Pact.

When he referred to definite commitments, he meant the political undertaking that Canada would come to the defence of any member of the alliance which might be attacked.

No Commitments

When Defence Minister Claxton had said some time ago that there were no commitments, he was referring to military undertakings.

Work had just begun on a military plan under which each country would be assigned a contribution in event of aggression. It would take some time to draft this plan and Canada's military commitments would not be known until then.

Canadian industries can obtain the same information about atomic energy as is available to industries in the United Kingdom and the United States. The government was offering free to industries a one-year supply of radioactive isotopes.

He "agreed entirely" that in a democracy the foreign policy should be based on public opinion, informed and intelligent through information being made on developments. However, he did not believe in premature release of information on ticklish negotiations still in progress.

Expansion Emphasized

Need for expanded interest in the Pacific was emphasized by Mr. Green, a Vancouver lawyer, in his speech.

He said there had been a tendency on the part of both Canada and the U.S. to direct more interest to European events. The Pacific situation warranted more attention.

Mr. Green also suggested that Canada refrain being a "camp-follower" of the U.S. when attending the forthcoming Ceylon conference.

He didn't want to see Canada doing the same as in the Commonwealth conference at Canberra two years ago when she first gave the U.S. assurance that she would not be party to a common Commonwealth front.

Discussing China, Mr. Green said the matter of re-opening trade with that country is of vital importance to Canada.

Mr. Pearson replied later that the problems of trade and recognition could not be separated. They would be dealt with together.

Mr. Drew had stressed the difficulties of deciding on whether to recognize the Chinese regime.

"We have no way of testing the acceptance of a Communist government in any land because once a Communist government is set up, acceptance of it is not a matter of free choice but is enforced upon the people by rifles and machine guns, and every device of suppression known to man.

"Therefore, if that is to be the test, I submit there can be no recognition of the Communist government in China."

LINDSAY MAN

Samis said the four men were suspects in attack on Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan, who run a lunch stand some two miles from Lakefield. The attack occurred shortly after he followed the truck. Four men entered the stand, dragged Mrs. Hogan outside where they beat her up, knocking her head on the ground and tearing her clothes. Hogan also was beaten. Two men found the Hogans later and reported to police.

Officials said they believed the truck left the Hogans and went to Buckhorn, then to Bobcaygeon and then down to Lindsay.

Police said the fight started about 12:20 a.m. E.S.T., outside a restaurant on Kent Street, main thoroughfare of this Victoria County town, 69 miles northeast of Toronto. Some witnesses told police that Loucks' assailants came out of the restaurant, others said they jumped from a truck.

Believed Stabbed

Loucks, a married Lindsay, laborer, is believed to have been stabbed while the fracas moved to and fro opposite the restaurant, with a score or more of Lindsay's 9,000 citizens gathering to watch. Three men described by police as bystanders were wounded, none severely.

A zig-zag trail of blood extending 70 feet westward from the restaurant marked the direction the fight carried up the street as Loucks, staggering from the effects of the wound, strove to break away from his attackers. Loucks finally collapsed on the sidewalk and died in a pool of blood.

Police said the four assailants then dashed to a truck and drove off towards Peterborough, about 23 miles east of here.

Bystanders Wounded

The bystanders wounded were Sid Risley, 51, Lindsay, slashed elbow, Floyd Smith, 27, truck driver from Hagerville, Ont., scalp wounds, and Thornton Oliver, 34, Lindsay, face and scalp wounds. They were released from hospital after treatment.

Smith told police, seeking an explanation for the violence, that the four men who attacked Loucks "looked mad".

Co-operating in the investigation are Police Chief Arthur Webster, formerly of the Forest Hill police force, and Cpl. William Milton, in charge of the Lindsay detachment of the Provincial Police.

Townspeople said Loucks was the father of three young children.

Controller Denies Using Word "Ruffians"

Toronto, Nov. 18—(CP)—Controller John Innes Thursday night denied that he had said the Toronto police force should "weed out the ruffians in its ranks." He said he never used the word "ruffian".

The member of the four-man city board of control had been quoted thusly in an interview Thursday by a reporter who asked his opinion on the warning issued Wednesday night by Mr. Justice J. K. Mackay, who said that some police officers have a tendency to abuse their authority.

Mr. Innes said that the interview he gave a Toronto evening newspaper reporter was a general one. "I know nothing about the police; that is the job of the police commissioners," he told the Canadian Press. "I think we have as fine a police force as there is anywhere."

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

God Is Impartial

By ROY L. SMITH

In the state of Mississippi there is an extremely interesting custom that has come to have all the authority of law. Each new governor of the state, upon being inducted into office, is allowed to go to the state prison farm and choose any number of servants he may think he needs to maintain the governor's household in the executive mansion, which is one of the most historic buildings in all the southland.

When the late Governor Tom Bailey came into office, he delegated the responsibility for choosing the house servants to Mrs. Bailey, a woman of rare grace and charm, and one eminently fitted to preside over the social functions for which a governor of a state is responsible.

It was a further condition of this custom that if the servants gave satisfactory service during the time they served in the governor's mansion, they were to be given a full and complete pardon when he went out of office at the end of four years, that being the full length of time any governor is allowed to serve in the state of Mississippi.

When Mrs. Bailey went out at the appointed time to the state farm to choose her servants, the warden and the guards brought before her nearly two hundred men and women, every one of whom was serving a life sentence for cold blood murder. It became then her responsibility to pick the nine she needed from this great company.

In telling the story later to some friends, she said, "I have never gone through so heart-breaking an experience in my life. In my hands and choice there rested the chance to give freedom and liberty back to nine people. Each one who appeared before me recognized the issues with a terrific clarity. And in their desperate desire for a pardon they begged and pled with me that I should choose them. They made the most sweeping promises. They told me of families and loved ones outside whom they could see once again if I gave them the chance. They implored me with all the desperation of doomed souls. For months afterward I would be awakened sometimes in the night by visions of some of those poor wretches beseeching me to choose them and thus give them another chance at life."

The Free Grace of God

This week's Sunday school lesson tells the story of the free grace of God which is available to every man and woman on the face of the earth. "Ho, everyone . . ." the scripture says. There is no limit, no favoritism, no chance, no restriction.

Mrs. Bailey was limited in her choice to nine persons out of nearly two hundred. The full grace of God, according to this lesson, is offered in abundance to all men.

We Are All Lifers

All men are lifers. We are all subject to the same psychological laws, spiritual principles, and moral authority. Evil always has the same effects upon all of us. Habits become our chains, complexes our masters, and attitudes become our overlords.

In the New Testament there is a statement to the effect that "to whomsoever you give yourselves as servants to obey, his servants are ye". This is not a result of any vengeful spirit on the part of God, nor is it the fruit of caprice. It is an inevitable result of the working of one of the laws of life. Originally it was fixed as a means though which one might come into possession of divine blessings; but when it has been defiled it turns into a scorpion of revenge.

Mercy Is Also Available

But just as the law is impartial and the effects of sin are always inevitable, so the mercy of God is bestowed without discrimination. Every man who is in need, regardless of his deserts, may always be assured of the good will of God. This is the guarantee that good religion offers to every sinful soul who is truly penitent and is determined to live an upright life.

Speaker Stresses Need of Band Shell for City

Speaking at a meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Club on Monday night Mr. E. B. Hinchey, former master of the Belleville municipal band, asked the school organization to back a movement to erect a first class band shell and outdoor auditorium in Belleville.

In stressing the need for a band shell in the city Mr. Hinchey pointed out that authorities, in other Ontario communities, have found that the development of Junior bands was one way to combat juvenile delinquency. "Police association sponsored boys' bands are doing much to solve the country's problem child situation," he said.

Mr. Hinchey went on to tell his listeners that children living in Western Ontario centres were offered more music opportunities than the youth in these parts and described parts of the recent Waterloo Festival when 67 bands participated. "The solution to our problem here, he added, lies in the establishment of a first-class senior band organization utilizing all the talent available in our Kinsmen and R.C.I. junior bands.

The meeting was told that the response to the band shell movement has been very encouraging to date and some supporters suggest that a civic park and outdoor music auditorium be combined.

Mr. Harry Mourman, manager of the municipal band, supported Mr. Hinchey's proposal in an address following the main speaker who was introduced by Mr. Jack Deacon. Mrs. E. Buchanan tendered a vote o thanks to both Mr. Hinchey and Mr. Mourman.

Following the meeting those in attendance were entertained by musical selections from the clarinet duo of Peter Buchanan and Albert Farrar who rendered Brahm's, "Lullaby" and "All Through the Night" with the accompaniment of Mrs. E. Buchanan at the piano.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Five hockey teams, ancient ice-lane feudists of the district will comprise the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "B" grouping here this winter. They are Kingston Nylons, Belleville Diesel Electrics, Peterborough Hockey Club, Peterborough Legion and Gananoque. The group set-up was decided at a special meeting of representatives of the teams held in Memorial Arena last night.

* * *

The meeting was called by Lorne Cook, Kingston, member of the OHA executive who was assisted by district convener Frank Buckland of Peterborough. Team representatives present were: Kingston, D. L. McKnight, Tommy Lollar, Mr. Cook; Belleville, Frank Grandison, Harbor McIlrath, "Red" Carson, and J. Dall; Peterborough Hockey Club, Ed. Riley, president, Ed. Foley and "Red" Creighton; Peterborough Legion, Cyril Withers, president, Jim Ellis, coach, Glen Carson and Don Graham. Gananoque was not actually represented but its interests are being looked after by Dr. Miller of that town.

* * *

The group will play a triple schedule with play starting on Monday, November 28th. The schedule comprises some 60 games and will take the squads through to Feb. 8th. As a group winner, according to O. H. A. regulations must be declared by March 4, the meeting agreed upon semi-finals series of two-of-three and finals series three-of-five. The first and third teams and second and fourth teams will engage in the semi-finals.

* * *

There was considerable discussion on the question of schedule. With the group getting under way on November 28th, a double schedule would see the teams ready for playoffs by Jan. 15th or six weeks in which to get in the semi-station and finals series. Under these circumstances, it was suggested that the schedule be changed to make the finals four-of-seven. Belleville representatives held out for a later group start due to the fact that the Diesels-Electrics were engaged in a city league and represented two teams in the organization. Later, however, they agreed to the November 28th tee-off and the triple schedule.

* * *

A skeleton schedule was drawn up, but due to the complications caused by certain playing nights requested by the various teams, it was left to Convener Buckland to complete. It will be ready for publication tomorrow morning.

* * *

Referring back to the playoffs, it was decided that the team finishing with the most points will get the choice of dates. Third game call for a split of the gate but no mileage. If, in the finals, a team wins the group title in three straight games, the third game will be regarded as a "split sale".

* * *

Lengthy discussion ensued following the opening of the conclave over the question of grouping. It was pointed out to the meeting by Convener Buckland that the O. H. A. desired the teams to play in natural groups, which they want themselves rather than have the association place them where it saw fit. The question of having an overall group composed of the five teams mentioned and Markham, Stouffville and Toronto Meteors came under rather heavy argumentative fire.

* * *

The Peterborough Hockey Club refused to enter any group in which their inter-city rivals, the Legion was not admitted. Legion on the other hand was willing to "split" and play in a grouping down this way. There were several suggestions, one of two sections with an interlocking schedule, and others, but the bugbear of "long hauls" and cost of transportation entered the picture and the above grouping was finally agreed upon.

* * *

The referee question also came under discussion. Belleville held out for two referees while the remainder of the representatives were satisfied with last year's arrangement of referee and linesman. It was pointed out that the cost of two referees would be in the vicinity of $60. However the referee-linesman policy was adopted, with the O. H. A. appointing the referee, who in no case will be a local official, and the home team supplying the linesman.

* * *

So, as one representative remarked, we are in for a hard hockey winter. The triple schedule calls for seventy - four games for each team, twelve home and twelve away. The starting date, November 28th is the earliest in O. H. A. history in this part of Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Buckland, commenting on the early launching, told the meeting that Senior "B" teams in Western Ontario and along the border are already in group action, and the Association felt it was only fair that Eastern Ontario should get started at the same time.

* * *

It should be an outstanding season of senior hockey in the district. Gananoque, at first considered an Intermediate "A" grouping but later changed its mind and decided to go Senior "B" and take its chances with the rest of the teams. It is by far a better set-up than that of a year ago when three Kingston teams and Belleville battled in the same group. There will be a welcome change of faces and teams, and all-in-all we are of the opinion the senior "B" situation as now is, could not be bettered.

* * *

And while on this Senior "B" subject, there's a lot of local interest stirred up over the forthcoming visit of the Toronto Meteors here next Monday night when they will be playing guests of the Diesel Electrics in an exhibition tilt. While in Peterborough with the D-E's Wednesday night, we learned that the Meteors are a rugged, heavy checking squad that like the style when it is tough. They are fast and tricky, and brother, do they love to score goals. They are seasoned veterans of the ice-lanes with a more than average sprinkling of talented youth thrown in for good measure.

* * *

Be that as it may. Reputations never won hockey games. And they never scared anybody to death. So, it should be quite a battling brawl come Monday evening. The Diesel Electrics will be at full strength with all defensive power and front lines ready and rarin' to go.

* * *

A last period rally on the part of the CNR Diesels arrived just in time to thrust off the determined RCAF Flyers' bid for victory in the District Hockey League. The air laddies set the big boys back on their haunches in the first period and led at the gong by a single goal. The Trainmen clung by the reverse look over in the second and rammed home three. But Flyers roared right back in the third to even the count, then faded under the strain and Diesels battled home a pair to grab the verdict. Good game, with Flyers showing more strength each time out.

* * *

Belleville Rockets got away to a nice start against the fast ~~skating~~ R A F Flyers in the second game. They fired home three quickies to lead by that margin going into the second. Then, paced by the uncanny shooting of "Hat-trick" Mac Watson, who got his third, Tigers took over and hit the jackpot for four. Rockets fought hard in the third and slammed home two for a single return to earn a 5-all tie.

Frankie Brimsek Showing Flashes That Earned Him Nickname of Mr. Zero in NHL

By JIM BASTABLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Frankie Brimsek, who landed Boston's invigorating salty air for Chicago's blustery, cold winds this year, still is showing more than flashes of the old hockey style that earned him the Moniker of "Mr. Zero".

The 35-year-old goaltender from Eveleth, Minn., didn't come up with one of those famed shutouts Thursday night, but he did come out on top as his Black Hawks blasted Boston's last-place Bruins 8-3 at Chicago.

The victory moved the Black Hawks into fourth place in the National Hockey League with 13 points—three behind the third-place Montreal Canadiens and seven behind the leading Detroit Red Wings, idle Thursday night.

Brimsek, who came by his nickname back in the 1938-39 season when he racked up six shutouts in seven games in a 16-day period, toiled steadily but turned aside 20 hard shots by the goal-hungry Bruins.

The win left Brimsek, who asked for a transfer last September so he could be closer to his home in fourth place in the goaltender's standing. He has allowed 61 goals to get past him in 15 games for an average of 2.73 a game.

On the receiving end of that deluge of pucks was Jackie Gelineau in the Boston nets. In their previous meeting at Chicago the Black Hawks blasted 10 pucks past Gelineau while Brimsek allowed three goals. Gelineau has seen 62 pucks go past him in 15 games.

A crowd of 5,000 fans saw Clye Stewart and Billy Mosienko pace the Black Hawk attack with two goals each. Singles were tallied by Doug Bentley, Roy Conacher, Ralph Buchanan and Jim Conacher. Paul Ronty, Phil Maloney and Johnny Peirson scored for the Bruins.

All is quiet on the N.H.L. front tonight. Tomorrow only one game is scheduled—the Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs. Sunday all six-teams move into action. It's Canadiens at Boston, Toronto at Detroit and New York at Chicago.

Western Mustangs Not in Good Shape For Game

London, Ont., Nov. 18—(CP)—The spirit was willing but the flesh was a little weak today as the University of Western Ontario Mustangs prepared to meet McGill Redmen in the sudden-death intercollegiate football playoff in Toronto's Varsity Stadium on Saturday.

Coach Johnny Metras, who had been showing some enthusiasm lately, wasn't talking so hopefully as he viewed a few of the injuries among his first-string players.

Practices still were being held behind guarded gates at the local oval, and very little news about the shape of the team was reaching the public. The student body was full of gossip, however, and much of it wasn't in favor of Western, being as good as even money against the Montrealers.

Even the district supporters are expected to trek to Toronto by special train, plane, bus and private auto for the collegiate clash.

There were reports that Captain Jack Parry, whose bulls-eye passing did a lot to put Western in the playoff, may see even less than "limited action." His leg-muscle injury is said no better.

Doug Gray, who stood in very well as a stand-in passer and kicker for Parry, is another question mark. He still has a shoulder injury.

Other doubtfuls are end Bill Ford and inside Doug MacKinley who have been a bulwark of the first-strikers.

There is one bright spot and that is regular middle Reg Orth. The lad knee he got in the last Toronto game has responded well, and he is expected to play centre, with the late-shining Sid Tatham filling at middle.

Doug Bentley, fleet left wing of Chicago Black Hawks, has moved into a tie with Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings at the top of the National Hockey League's individual scoring race. Each has 17 points. Bentley picked up a goal and three assists Thursday night against Boston in the only N.H.L. game scheduled to vault from a third place tie to the leadership.

Detroit's Gordie Howe still holds second place with 16 points but Chicago's Roy Conacher moved into third slot when he picked up three points to bring his total to 15.

Bill Mosienko, also of Chicago, moved up into the next position when he bagged two goals and two assists. Mosienko, Sid Abel of Detroit and Paul Ronty of Boston have 14 points each.

Diesels Defeat RCAF Flyers 5-3, Rockets And 6 R.D. Tigers Battle To 5-All Tie in District Games

C.N.R. Diesels chalked up their second consecutive victory in the District Hockey League last night defeating the battling Trenton Flyers in a close hard-fought game while the Belleville Rockets after blowing a first period 5-1 lead were behind and rallied in the third period to tie the 6 R. D. Tigers at 5-all.

Rockets 5, 6 R.D. Tigers 5

Rockets started off with a rush to open the game and swung into action in a style of play that was much different to that of their last appearance. Play was fairly even for the first seven minutes of the game then Rockets crashed through for the first goal when Mulholland scored from Semark's pass.

A minute later Don Hogan who played an outstanding game—all night raced through to score a solo goal and Bill Turland repeated some six minutes later.

It was a different story however in the second period. The Tigers went on a scoring rampage and when the whistle blew they had racked up four goals to take the lead. Mac Watson started the scoring parade after five minutes of play. Three minutes later he picked up a loose puck in front of the net to sink it home. Twigg got the third Tiger goal a minute later as the Rocket defence seemed to falter. With seconds remaining Watson got the first hat-trick of the season, when he punched the rubber behind Schreider to round out the quartet of markers.

Session by Goalie

Play speeded up in the third period with both teams staging rink end rushes and both defence holding up well. Hogan raced in alone on McKenna but the hulky goalie turned his shot aside. Then Murphy tore in on a concerted rush and tied the score. Just past the midway mark the Tigers again went into the lead when Fillon rushed down centre ice, flipped the puck to Christie who raced along the right boards and in turn passed it to Johnson at the goal-mouth where he made no mistake.

Rockets, one goal down and nine minutes to go put on the pressure and sent ganging attack after ganging attack on the Tiger goal. McKenna stopped plenty of rubber and was crashed to the ice with the goal posts when Semark collided with him. Tripp at the other end also had some close shaves as Tigers retaliated.

With five minutes to go, Art Wright raced down the left boards rounded the Tiger defencemen and fired a long shot that eluded McKenna, to again tie up the pastime. Both teams battled hard for the remaining minutes but no damage was done and the game ended in a stalemate.

Mac Watson got three of Tigers goals with Twigg and Johnson getting the other pair. Mulholland, Hogan, Turland, Wright and Murphy counted for the Rockets.

The Teams:

Summary

1st Period

1. Rockets, Mulholland (Semark) 8.40
2. Rockets, Hogan 9.10
3. Rockets Turland 13.00

Penalties — none.

2nd Period

Diesels 5, Flyers 3

In spite of an early game injury to first line goalie LaForte who may be out of play for the next two weeks, Belleville Diesels rolled up another win by defeating Trenton Flyers 5 to 3.

Routhier replaced the injured LaForte between the pipes and the Airmen were quick to take advantage of the change, scoring at the 14 minute mark of the first period when Ault went in alone to sink the initial tally. The Diesels's rejoinder, however, repulsed numerous Trenton attempts and his outstanding performance surprised the supporters on both sides while the play ranged up and down the ice. The Trainmen were ganging the Flyers' end as the period closed and Williams of Belleville was sent to the penalty box for elbowing Cunningham.

The Diesels seemed to find their strength in the second period and in rapid succession ran in three goals on goalie Keyes of the Flyers. Vern Goyer and Schreider combined to even the count a little after six minutes of play in this stanza, and only another three minutes had elapsed before Day and Bastedo put the Deisels in the lead with a smart passing effort in front of the opposers' goal. Vern Goyer marked his second goal of the game on a Williams to Goyer to Goyer play putting the Deisels two up and seemingly in complete command of the situation. Gagnon, undoubtedly the best man iced by the Flyers, threatened Routhier time after time, but the Belleville relief goalie always seemed to be at the right place at the right time to thwart the tricky freeman.

The Flyers came back in the final stanza and turned the tables on the Diesels. By 7.12 the score was tied, Zilesky fooled Routhier at 1.42 and Ault soloed with the evener.

But the airmen wearied at half time while the Diesels applied the pressure and L. Goyer fired the goal that put Belleville in front for the second time. Schreider's long shot, from the Trenton blueline whipped past Keyes to give Diesels an undisputed win.

Summary

ONE SHOT—TWO DEER

Juniper, N.B., Nov. 18. (CP) —Killing two birds with one stone should be comparatively easy for James Davis, of Florenceville, who bagged two deer with one shot. The bullet passed through the neck of one deer and also killed a second, standing close to the first animal.

Montreal Teams Being Readied For Big Tests

Montreal, Nov. 18 — (CP) Montreal Alouette's chances of defeating Hamilton Tigers and going on to capture the Grey Cup appear to be good, but to Coach Lew Hayman "there's always a possibility of an upset."

Coach Vic Obeck of McGill Redmen is also feeling the pangs of uncertainty. As he rounded up his Redmen Thursday night and boarded the train for Toronto where he will try to bring Montreal its first intercollegiate football title in 11 years, Obeck parrotted Hayman's words with:

"We can win the title or we can lose by an upset."

But one thing is certain, and that is that both coaches agree that only an upset can take victory away from them. They are confident enough of victory to call anything short of a win an upset.

The Alouettes, according to the Montreal gambling fraternity, are 19-5 favorites over the Tigers for Sunday's Eastern Canada football final.

All indications point to a record of more than 21,000 at Delorimier Stadium.

Obeck said there was a possibility that Jim Mitchener, star outside, would be able to get into the game. The Vancouver boy who played with Calgary Stampeders suffered an ankle injury in last Saturday's game against Western. The Redmen won that and finished on top of the league for the first time since 1938.

Buffalo Bisons Shade Luckless Mohawks By 1-0

(By The Canadian Press)

George Pargeter, Connie Dion, Jean Paul Lamirande and Jack Gordon stole the spotlight in the only two American Hockey League games played Thursday night.

It was Pargeter's third period goal that enabled Buffalo Bisons to shade the luckless Cincinnati Mohawks 1-0.

As the result of these victories, the Bisons and Ramblers are still deadlocked for second place in the league's eastern division. Both trail Providence Reds by only a single point.

Pargeter's lone counter came at 8:39 of the final period as the Bison left winger slipped Lloyd Finkbeiner's long pass by Gerry McNeil in the Mohawk nets from five feet out.

It marked Cincinnati's sixth straight loss.

At New Haven, the Ramblers spoiled Springfield an early first period goal by Billy Gooden and then rammed home four straight counters before the Indians scored again, this time by Kelly Burnett.

Greene Top Man In Boxing World

Havana, Nov. 18 — (AP) —Abe J. Greene of Paterson, N.J., a top figure in organized boxing for years, is still top man in the National Boxing Association today.

The N.B.A. gave him a thunderous vote of praise Thursday and re-elected him its commissioner. Greene had asked that he not be re-elected, but was shouted down.

At the same time, the N.B.A. formally denied there is any rebellion among its members against Greene. One member gave newspaper men a statement to that effect in Miami Beach, where opening sessions of the N.B.A. convention were held.

C.R.U. Will Name Officials If Teams Disagree

(By the Canadian Press)

Eastern Canada officials for the Canadian football final and Grey Cup, in Toronto, Nov. 26 will be cominated by the east's championship team, Dr. W. A. Campbell, president of the C.R.U., said at Kingston Thursday.

He said if the winning club—either Montreal Alouettes or Hamilton Tigers—fails to agree on officials after Sunday's sudden-death game in Montreal, the C.R.U. will name them. The winners will meet the defending champion Calgary Stampeders.

In Calgary, Tom Brook, president of the Stampeders, said the two officials from the west will be Les Ferguson of Calgary and Andy Bieler of Winnipeg. Ferguson was judge-of-play in the 1948 Grey Cup game at Toronto —when the Stampeders won 12-7 over Ottawa Rough Riders.

A big entry was assured Thursday night in the Canadian Junior cross-country championships to be held at Leaside High School in suburban Toronto Saturday.

The Montreal Track and Field Club, whose juniors won the Quebec senior cross country championships, is sending a team under Glenn Cowan, great distance runner of former years.

Other runners are entered from Ottawa, Hamilton, Hamilton and St. Catharines, while a large contingent will compete from the University of Toronto.

The championships are in three divisions, midget for those under 16 years of age, juvenile under 18 and junior under 20.

Favorite for the individual Junior championship is Richard Ferguson of Leaside, who has been named on Canada's team for the British Empire Games.

Connie Smythe, managing director of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, announced Thursday at Toronto that William "Bill" Johnson of the Amateur Toronto Marlboros Seniors will get a three-game trial with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

"Johnson has earned a trial with the Hornets on his fine showing for Marlboros this season," Smythe said. "He leaves to join Pittsburgh immediately after Friday night's game with Hamilton Tigers at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

The trial is made possible through the player agreement that exists between the N.H.L. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, whereby an amateur player may go to a professional team for three games without impairing his amateur standing.

You will hear some partners warn: "Never jump your immediate takeout response of my one bid without a fit in my suit." Why? He uses one bid that is not always strong enough in high cards.

A Horse Sense opening bid of one promises five tricks. Among them are four high cards with two sure tricks. The immediate jump response thereto does not need a fit in the suit partner has bid.

Such a jump shows tricks enough to help make a game of some kind, inclusive of two sure tricks. Fit or no fit in partner's suit, such a pair will have enough for game. Their tricks take care of that.

The two sure tricks in responder are not essential to assure game. Then they require them! The opener may have a sixth trick. If so, there is a slam and partner's two sure tricks fortify it.

♠ A K Q 6 4 3
♥ 9
♦ 7 2

The immediate response by north is a jump takeout to two spades. Not because he has a fit in clubs. Because he has at least six tricks among which are at least two aures.

If the north clubs were diamonds he would still jump takeout to two spades. They will have enough for a game in something. Their combined holdings assure enough tricks for game of some kind.

You can jolly well guess why some players ask partner to have a fit in their suit when making an immediate jump response. It is because their opening bid is not sufficiently sound.

What do I mean by not sufficiently sound? They may follow a system that does not require five tricks to open. Or that does not require four high cards or two sure tricks among their cards.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 18 — (AP)— Movie companies have been searching for ways to use up their money frozen in foreign lands. Robert Young has his own idea: He'll take his family on a "round-the-world cruise.

Young's production company has racked up small chunks of money in countries which won't let loose of it. Since the firm has no immediate filming plans, he'll use up the coin with a junket for his wife and four daughters.

"I plan to go to each country and stay there until we use up the money," he said on the "Here Lies Love" set. "I don't think the countries will object, because we will be spending the money in the country.

Young said he plans the trip for next summer, when his daughters are out of school. "I won't have a chance to change my mind when I've read this," he sighed.

Movie Talk

Mona Freeman returns to Paramount to play a bobbysocker after being a kleptomaniac in "Shoplifter". She is due to continue her role in the "Dear Ruth" series, and she isn't too happy about it. "I've got to grow up sometime, she says.

Opening scenes of "Sunset Blvd." are being shot now. The original had Bill Holden narrating the film from a morgue and conversing with other corpses. Preview audiences turned thumbs down.

Vic Damone, who has taken Hollywood by storm, will have Jane Powell as his first co-star. They'll co-star in "Nancy Goes to Ranch," a sequel to be unreleased "N. Goes to Rio."

A Bit Personal

Walter Huston, at Tucson, Ariz., with "The Furies," has finished the first draft of his tome, "Ranch Style Cook Book"... How a dramatic actress does it: Margaret Sullivan worked up to a two-line scene of "No Sad Songs" by pacing the stage alone for 20 minutes.

Sport Shorts from Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP) — Shades of Lionel (Big Train) Conacher, that genius of great all-round athletes.

Britain has an up-and-coming young feller down in Coker, Somersetshire, who may one day emulate that sports hero. He's 18-year-old Colin Hannam, and here's what he's accomplished so far:

Rugger—Won his school colors as a centre three-quarter.

Soccer—In his first season after switching from rugger, he won his county badge.

Field Hockey—Came within an inch of winning the county cup as a goalkeeper.

Swimming — Won his school 50-yard free style championship.

Cricket—Last season in one match took seven wickets for 10 runs, using medium-pace spinners.

Lawn Tennis — Won senior county championship.

Squash—He's one of the best players around Yeovil.

Colin doesn't play snooker—but the brothers Davis do. They are probably the two finest pot-smiths in the world.

They're so expert that the cloth of the table on which they play strikes a big difference to their game. A player in that bracket is affected by the "feel" of a bit of baize after he's played on it for a time.

Brother Fred and brother Joe meet to decide world championship in Leicester Square Hall. Each has won 30 and world champion Fred has asked that the hall managers don't let Joe, former world champion, play on the table for a fortnight before the match.

The managers will do even better than that. They will buy a brand-new cloth on the famous table just before the match, so that the playing-area will be altogether "neutral".

Selling insurance is good business around Derby. Derby County Football Club has just taken out insurance totalling £188,650 (£754,815) to guard against damage to its players.

In 1946 the team was insured for a measly £100,000 but since then Johnny Morris and Bill Steel have been signed at high prices and the value of youngsters like Leon Leuty, Tym Ward, Bert Mosley and Reg Harrison has rocketed.

Bill Arnold Says:
Our new trombone player, TED ROBBINS, is very versatile. Sweet or hot. You will hear him at Tobe's County Gardens Saturday night.

PROBE UNDER WAY

Washington, Nov. 17— (AP)— Investigations are under way to determine whether birds might constitute a source of infantile paralysis virus, a Los Angeles doctor said today. Dr. R. deHoban Barondes declared without amplification in "The Military Surgeon" journal that such studies are in progress and will be reported at a later date.

EXPENSES GOING DOWN

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 17 — (CP) — Secretary General Trygve Lie said Wednesday the United Nations will ask members for some $4,000,000 less in 1950 than it did in 1949. The original 1950 budget estimate was for approximately $44,000,000. The new budget is for $34,803,388. The 1949 budget was $41,617,000.

Govt. to Delay Nationalization Until Vote Taken

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

There's more than appears on the surface in the British Labor Government's compromise with the Conservatives whereby nationalization of the great Steel industry will be delayed until after the next general election.

This steel project was top item in the nationalization program and the government had been anxious to achieve it before facing the voters again. The government's sudden backflop means as Conservative leader Winston Churchill points out, that the election will be "almost a referendum" on the proposition of nationalizing steel.

I believe Prime Minister Attlee has made this gesture mainly because he no longer is sure that his party can control a majority of the voters.

He apparently was confident a few months ago that he could win. But the economic crisis has become so complicated and uncertain that public sentiment today can't be accurately gauged. And the Conservative prospects are no more sure. So we find the government making the sweeping gesture of saying to the voters in effect:

Will Submit Matter

"We had intended to take over the steel industry before entering another general election. However, since this is the most important item in our program and it is a controversial one, we have decided to submit the matter to your judgment. You shall decide whether you want to proceed with the program. Meantime parliament will have approved the measure authorizing nationalization if you want it."

Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, probably inspired this move. He is a powerful figure among the Labor leaders and is credited with being a shrewd politician. What he is angling for appears to be the big middle-class vote of the country, and so are the Conservatives, for this is the now unpredictable element in the forthcoming election.

The nationalization issue means that Socialism will be on trial for its life in Britain.

Probably that's as should be. After almost five years of experiment with a new ideology the country is entitled to express an official opinion before nationalization has gone so far as to have utterly disrupted the old system of private initiative.

War Will Never Destroy Redism Says Member

Ottawa, Nov. 17 — (CP)—Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North) said today in the Commons that war will never destroy communism.

Resuming a debate on external affairs, Mr. Stewart told members could never destroy ideas. All Democrats shared the fear of communism, but the answer was not going to be found in "tearing out our hair" and offering no alternative.

Communism is bred in want and discord. He said that in South Africa, for instance, the government was opening the way for communism through its treatment of the nationalists in that country.

Mr. Stewart said that what has been spent on the Marshall Plan "will be just a drop in the bucket to what we will have to spend from now on" to alleviate the suffering of underprivileged

Newspapers Submit Brief On Facsimile Broadcasting

Toronto, Nov. 17—(CP)—Development of facsimile broadcasting under the independent board-operated system to parliament was recommended today by Canada's daily newspaper publishers in a brief to the Royal Commission on national development in the arts, letters and sciences.

The brief, submitted by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association, described facsimile as a medium which might revolutionize present newspaper publishing. It is a process by which a "printed" newspaper may be delivered into the home without the use of printing machinery and carrier-boy service.

Its use might well be vital to the continued success of daily newspapers, perhaps even to their continued existence, the publishers said. A large group of C.D.N.A. members from all sections of Canada presented the submission.

The publishers held that if present radio broadcasting laws and regulations were applied to facsimile "they will destroy the independence of the press and will strike at the very basis of freedom of speech and of the press."

They urged that the following procedures be followed in the development of this medium in Canada:

That facsimile production be made fully available to newspapers.

Since facsimile is a development of newspaper publication, there should be no separate licence for the operation of a facsimile receiver.

It should not be subject to any more censorship or control than now is exercised over any present-style newspaper. Regulation should be kept to the absolute minimum required for satisfactory mechanical operation.

Licensing and regulation of facsimile should be placed under an independent board responsible directly to parliament and not itself carrying on broadcasting operations.

The brief noted that under regulations it would appear that facsimile, as in the case of radio broadcasting, would come under direct and absolute control of the CBC.

Workers to Meet To Hear Proposal For Settlement

Oshawa, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP)—A proposal for settlement of the strike at the General Motors plant here is to be presented to a mass meeting of workers.

A joint statement by the company and the striking United Automobile Workers (CIO) issued early today, said the date of the meeting will be announced later today.

Negotiations between company and union have been carried on for the last two days.

The strike, affecting 5,500 production workers, was called by the union Oct. 26 after four workers were dismissed in a dispute following an alleged speed-up of an assembly line.

Since then, the company has taken the stand that the dismissal of the men was justified and that they should remain off work pending submission of the case to arbitration. The union, on the other hand, has insisted on reinstatement of the men as a preliminary of a resumption of work at the big automotive plant.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

There they stood in the dark, and above the drumming of the rain on the roof Martin could hear the loud panting of her breath close beside him. It made him feel very ill at ease. "It's too dark to see a thing. Open the door at least," he said abruptly. In reply a cold wet, scented hand was pressed to his mouth.

"Be quiet. Don't speak," Anika whispered.

"Are you drunk, or what " Martin answered with severity. The next instant she lay in his arms with all her familiar sweetness, trembling and sobbing, trying to control her sobs, and then sobbing again more wildly than before while she crept closer and tried to hide herself against him. Martin murmured tender and consoling words.

"Has something happened? Has somebody done something to you" he asked as he stroked Anika's cap of hair, which he had come upon in the darkness.

Anika continued to sob and pant in uncontrollable spasms, but soon she grew calmer. Martin opened a crack of the little shutter. Anika was alarmed at this.

"Don't—you simply mustn't," she whispered, "or they'll fine me"

Martin took her to the edge of his bed as there was nowhere else to sit. He was utterly taken back at having the stretched Anika in his little cabin, and standing in the spider's corner at a distance from her he put his hands on his hips.

"Well, Anikuschka. what's up" he asked cheerfully.

Anika gave another sob and then said "They've arrested him. And if they find me they'll arrest me too."

"Arrested him? But whom—in Heaven's name? What on earth has happened?"

"What Ferdinand?" asked Martin, who was none the wiser.

THREE

came from a report by the Loucks children, Mrs. Loucks said she had been at a meeting. When she got home the children told her that their father had gone away with four men in a truck.

The men arrested at Peterborough were brought to jail here this morning.

The link with the attack on the operators of the Melody Inn was provided by Police Chief Samuel Samis of Lakefield. He was on the scene at the time of the arrests and said the truck was one he had followed through Lakefield late Thursday night because he became suspicious of the occupants.

Owners Attacked

Samis said he suspected the truck went from Lakefield to the inn where the operators, Mr. and Mrs. James Hogan, were attacked when they did not respond quickly to demands for food. Mrs. Hogan was dragged outside, her head knocked on the ground and her clothes torn. Hogan was beaten. Later two couple and reported to police.

[illegible] went from the Melody Inn Buckhorn, then to Bobcaygeon and on to Lindsay.

A zig-zag trail of blood, extending 70 feet west of the restaurant, marked the scene of the fight here in Lindsay. Loucks, striving to break away from his attackers, had carried the scuffle along the street. He collapsed on the sidewalk and died, lying in a pool of blood from a wound in the throat.

Police said the four assailants dashed to a truck and drove in the direction of Peterborough. Their report led to the road block where the arrests were made.

Not Seriously Injured

The wounded bystanders did not receive serious injury and were released from hospital after treatment.

One of them, 51-year-old Sid Risley of Lindsay, said he came out of the restaurant and one of the men who had been scuffling with Loucks said: "Where the hell are you going" Then, said Risley, the man struck him on the arm. It was some minutes later before he discovered that his arm was slashed, apparently with a knife.

Floyd Smith, 27-year-old truck driver from Hagersville, Ont., said that he was attacked while he talked to Thornton Oliver, 34, of Lindsay in front of the restaurant. Smith had just come out of the restaurant where he had bought a package of cigarets. Smith received scalp wounds and Thornton face and scalp wounds.

Smith told police, seeking an explanation of the attack, that the four men "looked mad."

Police said that in addition to the guns and a blood-stained knife, they found quantities of sewing needles, ladies' clothes, boys' trousers and children's shoes in the truck. Two of the rifles bore price tags.

Checking Goods

Inspector C. W. Farrell, head of the Peterborough detachment of the provincial police, said he was checking on whether the goods had been stolen from country stores in the Peterborough and Lindsay districts. He said, however, that none of it had been reported as stolen.

Lionel Tracey, Lindsay contractor, and Robert Williams, works board superintendent, said they parked their car in front of the restaurant just before the fatal fight began.

Tracey said Loucks walked to a pane[illegible] to speak to a man in the truck. A man wearing a green windbreaker took a swing at Loucks who turned and walked away. The four men in the truck went after Loucks and argued with him.

Neither he nor Williams saw any knife, said Tracey. They saw Loucks "get a knee" and go down.

"Then one of the four came over and asked what we were doing here,"—said Tracey. "He slapped me in the mouth and left. As we backed out another man came over and asked us what our names were. Then the four got in the truck and cut us off as they headed for the Peterborough highway. I got the license number and followed them to a provincial police car."

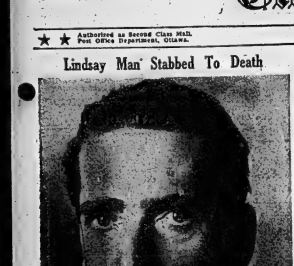
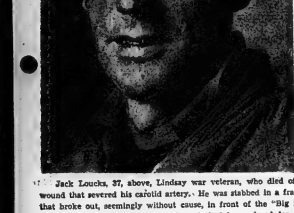
Lindsay Man Stabbed To Death



Jack Loucks, 37, above, Lindsay war veteran, who died of a wound that severed his carotid artery.. He was stabbed in a fracas that broke out, seemingly without cause, in front of the "Big 30" cafe on Kent St., Lindsay, after the cafe had been closed for the night. Four men are charged with Louck's murder and with other assaults.



Paul, James and John Zahodnik face charges of murder in the death of Jack Loucks. With William Yuzma of Hamilton, they were remanded until next Monday.

MEMBERS CLASH ON DIVISION OF EXPENDITURES

PC Says Air Force Should Get Most

Ottawa, Nov. 19 — (CP)—A retired Major-General and former artillery Sergeant-Major disagreed in the Commons today on how defence expenditures should be divided among the three armed forces. The sergeant-major had the third word.

The Major-General was G. R. Pearkes, Victoria Cross winner in the First World War and Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the British Columbia constituency of Nanaimo. The Sergeant-major was Defence Minister Claxton, a veteran of the First World War.

Gen. Pearkes, who ended his service in the Second World War as head of the Pacific Coast Command, said the government should spend $3 on the air force for every $1 spent on the army.

Mr. Claxton said that could only be accomplished by "almost wiping out" either the army or navy or at the least, "cutting them right to the bone."

The defence debate touched on many topics and at one point Mr. Claxton confirmed reports that the government-owned National Film Board is not being allowed to handle highly - secret defence department work until its employees are screened by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Similar screenings are or were conducted in other branches of government before they filed or secret work is handled.

Under questioning from Gordon Mr. Claxton said that the secret films required for this comparment are made by private companies such as Crawley Films of Ottawa and Associated Screen News of Montreal. He said he believes the employees of those companies are also screened.

Club to Request Harbor Dredging

Members of the local C.C.F. club at a recent meeting passed a resolution to prevail upon Frank S. Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South, to ask Federal aid to clear out the Belleville harbor with dredge and add another dredge. Also to dredge the mouth of the Moira River to alleviate flood conditions.

National leader of the C.C.F. party Mr. A. W. Noteworthy was urged to press for increased income tax exemptions to balance the recent ten per cent reduction in actual pay being taken effect.

Mr. Trenholm was introduced as a former member of the C.C.F. party but now a Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for the British Columbia constituency of Nanaimo. The Sergeant-major was Defence Minister Claxton, a veteran of the First World War.

Gen. Pearkes, who ended his service in the Second World War as head of the Pacific Coast Command, said the government should spend $3 on the air force for every $1 spent on the army.

Mr. Claxton said that could only be accomplished by "almost wiping out" either the army or navy or at the least, "cutting them right to the bone."

The defence debate touched on many topics and at one point Mr. Claxton confirmed reports that the government-owned National Film Board is not being allowed to handle highly - secret defence department work until its employees are screened by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Similar screenings are or were conducted in other branches of government before they filed or secret work is handled.

Under questioning from Gordon Mr. Claxton said that the secret films required for this compartment are made by private companies such as Crawley Films of Ottawa and Associated Screen News of Montreal. He said he believes the employees of those companies are also screened.

Every Business Needs Good Public Relations

Mr. Lee Trenholm, Public Relations Manager of Provincial Paper Limited of Toronto addressed fifty members of the Kiwanis Ad Club at a meeting at the Quinte Hotel last night, telling the listeners that there was no such a thing as too much good will between industry and labor and vice versa. "Every business needs good public relations" he said adding that it is necessary for management and labor to be linked closer together if the profit and loss system of private enterprise is to succeed in the future."

Mr. Trenholm tested the Sales and Ad members of Public Relation I.Q. with a game he named "Twenty Questions", and although it was not a serious examination not one contestant showed a perfect score.

Mr. Trenholm was introduced by retiring vice-president Frank Murray of C.J.B.Q. and the vote of thanks was tendered by the new director Brian Humphries.

12 Applications

Committee chairman Ben Vanover reported that he had 13 applicants for the "Effective Speaking Course" to be conducted by Mr. Bill Wright of Toronto. Mr. Vanover pointed out, however, that he needed 12 more applications in a class of 25 was required to defer the cost of the instructor and organization work.

John Thornberry announced that the club's next guest speaker would be J. Stewart Richardson of the Northern Electric Company of Montreal.

The club's new vice-president Bill Slevin of C.J.B.Q. is replacing Mr. Murray who is leaving for Toronto this coming week.

Bill Griffith presided as chairman of the meeting.

Thirty Homeless After $100,000 Brantford Fire

Brantford, Nov. 19. (AP)—Fire swept the upper floors of a three-storey downtown building early today, sending 30 or more apartment dwellers into the street. Two aged persons received shock and were taken to hospital for treatment.

At the adjacent Kerby Hotel some 60 guests were aroused from sleep as flames and smoke from the building as a safety measure. However, the only damage to the hotel was from smoke which seeped through the fire wall.

All members of the 50-man fire department and all available equipment were called out to fight the blaze. The blaze started about 3:30 a.m. E.S.T., and was under control two hours later. Most damage was confined to the two upper floors.

Occupied by Stores

First floor of the building, on George Street, is occupied by furniture dealers and closed doors contained offices and apartments. Nineteen persons occupied quarters on the second floor and another 11 or more lived on the third.

Serkis (Mike) Hagopian, 58, was taken to hospital with burns on his back, suffered as he waited at a third-storey window to be rescued by firemen. He had been seen out on the street and apparently returned to get his money. He was brought down a ladder. Fred Fuller, 70, also taken to hospital suffered burns hands and face when the fire started.

Board Grants Salary Hike To All Teachers of $200 But Discontinues $100 Living Bonus

Salary schedules for 1950 for teachers employed by the Belleville Board of Education came up for consideration by members of the board at their regular meeting Friday evening when all teachers were granted increases of $200 per year.

At the same time, however, members of the board voted to discontinue the present cost of living bonus of $100 per year, effective December 31st of this year. Thus, in effect teachers will receive annual increases of $100 over their present salaries. Increases for permanent employees will be effective January 1st, 1950.

Daily rates for supply teachers were raised to eight dollars for public schools and to $10 for the secondary school, retroactive to September, 1949. The salary of Mr. A. Cooper as a supply instructor was raised to $1,500. The correlating staff were granted monthly salary increases of $20. Incorporating the present $25 per month cost of living bonus.

Under the revised salary schedule the maximum salary which can be paid to the public school inspector and to the principal of the Collegiate is $5,200.

Minimum Salaries Set

The minimum salary for elementary school principals and elementary school department heads holding secondary school specialist certificates in Science, in Arts and Pedagogy is now $2,700 for men and $2,500 for women, with a maximum of $4,200 for men and $4,000 for women.

Salary schedule for secondary school assistants will range from $2,300 for men to $2,300 for women to a maximum of $4,000 for men and $3,800 for women. Elementary school assistants will start at $2,100 for men and $1,900 for women, and range up to $3,200 for men and $2,900 for women.

The elementary school public school and music supervisor will receive $3000 annually.

Salaries Revised

The salary schedule for stenographic help was revised with three grades being established for clerical assistance. It was felt that the job should be classified rather than the employee but employees are to receive annual increases of $10 per month until the maximum for their respective grade is reached.

Grade one stenographers or clerical help should receive and range from $100 to $140 monthly; grade two from $125 to $165 and grade three from $150 to $170. It was considered that the head stenographer in the collegiate principal's office should be grade three and the assistant grade one. The position of the office of the school administrator was raised as a beginning grade two stenographer. In each case a new employee would be expected to commence work for a trial period in the grade lower than which the position called for.

Describes Plan

Board member Harold Seldon, as chairman of the Sites and Accommodation committee, described sketch plans for the new proposed school in the east end of the City. These plans were approved by the board and will be forwarded by the public school inspector to the Department of Education for approval. Following approval by this department, Architect W. A. Watson will proceed to draw blue prints.

Mr. Seldon stated that present plans call for the construction of a one-storey school containing 12 classrooms and playroom. Estimated cost figures have not yet been worked out but it was expected the school would cost in the neighborhood of $200,000. It was doubted if the school could be completed in time for the school opening next September.

Still in Design Stage

Mr. Seldon pointed out that plans for the school were still in the design stage only and minor changes may possibly be made before plans were finalized.

School Administrator L. A. Kells was authorized to purchase an acre lot for Queen Alexandra and Queen Victoria public schools. Twelve drawing tables were ordered for the collegiate from an out of town firm at a cost of $46.00 each. Erection of a new fence at Queen Mary School was authorized at a completed cost of $395.

Collegiate Principal G. E. Currie told the board that the new plan of loading school buses in the west side of the building adjacent to the school was working out very well. Parking cars on the west side of the street next to the collegiate had been prohibited during school hours.

Motion too Drastic

The school nurses' report which recommended that a doctor's certificate be asked from each pupil who had been 'away from school for three consecutive days saw a bit of discussion with several board members considering the recommendation to be too drastic.

Public principals present at the meeting asked for a board ruling on the matter however, it was pointed out that where there was suspicion of communicable disease a certificate was always demanded for the protection of other pupils. The matter was left to the discretion of the school principals.

Public school enrolment was now up to 2,624 in the four public schools, it was reported by Inspector - Administrator Kells. Classrooms at Queen Victoria school were more than generously filled and if the trend of enrolment continued it was suggested that staggered hours be necessary in this school by the first of the year. Charles Wood in West Belleville could do little to assist Queen Victoria School.

Enrolment at the Collegiate for the month of October was up to 570 students, made up of 292 boys and 278 girls. Attendance for the school had been excellent with 96.6 per cent. Enrolment in the vocational school was 434, made up of 213 boys and 221 girls.

Night school registration totalled 218 students, it was stated.

Attending the meeting were Chairman Miss Josephine Tickell and members Enos Davis, Gordon Ketcheson, Harold Seldon, George Wishart, Frank Conlin, Col. E. A. Geen and Stuart Robb.

Hydro Progress Outlined By Region Manager

The remarkable growth of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission since its inception back in 1922 and the tremendous power developments which are underway at the present time were outlined to members of the Belleville Lecture and Study Club at a meeting held in Sidney Anderson's Presbyterian Sunday School room Friday evening.

Guest speaker for the evening was E. G. Gurnett, regional manager of the Hydro, and in his initial hydro, who gave an illustrated address on the progress of the H.E.P.C. back to 1922, Mr. Gurnett stated the Ontario hydro had doubled its power output each decade since that time. Development had been so rapid in post war years that the output of the H.E.P.C. would be doubled in a five-year period instead of ten.

Proposal Outlined

The proposal of the Ontario Hydro to increase the power development on Niagara by turning water through turbines at Queenston instead of at the Chippawa-Queenston plant taking advantage of a greater head, was outlined by the speaker with the accompanying pictures.

He said there was a standing invitation for the general public to visit the Queenston plant at any time.

Turning in the DesJoachim development on the Ottawa River Mr. Gurnett said there were at present payroll of approximately 2,400 persons, many of them disabled veterans employed by the contractors.

Power developments in Northern Ontario now underway by the H.E.P.C. were also outlined by the speaker.

YOUTH CONFESSES THRILL SLAYING OF YOUNG GIRL

Killed Child 'Just To See Someone Die'

Twin Falls, Idaho, Nov. 19 — (AP) — Neil Butterfield, a 16-year-old high school athlete, confessed Friday night to the thrill slaying of seven-year-old Glenda Joyce Bristola.

The youth, who was arrested as he lied in a stripped down "hot rod," told officers he killed the child "just to see someone die."

Sheriff Saul Clarke said the youth admitted that he dragged the little blonde first-grader from Burley, Idaho, with a tigs jack before throwing her body into a canal.

But the sheriff said he denied that he raped the girl.

Glenda, fully clothed, was found in the canal Thursday. She had three wounds on her head. She was last seen Wednesday evening when she entered a automobile driven by a man. Officers announced following an autopsy Friday night that the girl had been sexually assaulted.

Taken Under Guard

Shortly after Butterfield made his confession he was taken under heavy guard 27 miles east of Twin Falls, where, in a field of sagebrush beside the highway he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ed Slacker on a first-degree murder charge.

He was given a preliminary hearing and was remanded to custody of the Twin Falls county sheriff.

The open air courtroom was within the legal limits of Cassia county where the crime was committed. Officers feared to take him into Burley because of high feeling among citizens of the town of 2,500.

Butterfield, a handsome, six-foot, 175-pound youth, was recently released from the Idaho State Industrial School at St. Anthony, where he was sent as a delinquent after a case involving forgery.

Stopped in Car

The first up which pointed definitely to Butterfield was given officers by 13-year-old Esther Mullaway. She told them that she and by knew as "Butterfingers" stopped in a car Wednesday before the girl disappeared. She said "Butterfingers" asked who parents were and where she lived, but did not molest her.

At Heyburn High School, where Butterfield made his letter playing end on the football team this fall, Butterfield was known as "Butterfingers," Sheriff Clark said.

Butterfield was questioned Saturday night and later that night packed his clothes and fled in the family car.

Glenda was slain but a few days after the country was alarmed by the murder of six-year-old Linda Gilcoutt in a sex crime in Los Angeles.

Howard Winkler (Lib.—Lisgar), one of the 14 members of a Commons committee which visited the Chalk River atomic project this week, found it a place of teamwork covering nearly every field of science.

He told a reporter:

"The scientists and engineers who planned it have already received rewards which are far beyond their expectations. The physicists, in the fields of chemistry—the molecular table —have been filled in by atomic energy. Elements not found in nature have been made synthetically. Radio-active isotopes and radio-active lends belief but not yet proof, to the theory that the atom exists in nature, but disappeared from the earth with the release of its vast hidden energy.

"New products are appearing in the various fields, with new radiations. The substances themselves must be analyzed and measured down to their atoms, and the rays emitted must be measured. There calls for new scales and instruments of measure which must be made on the spot.

The delicacy of some of the instruments can be shown before us finer than a spider's web is such that the difference in weight of the graphite on a piece of confetti made by a scratch of a lead pencil would be weighed to the second decimal weight of a millionth of a gram.

"The nature of rays emitted from radiant matter is deduced, by the speed of the rays calculated, and a machine counts the particles. So as far as the radiant substances are discovered, all their properties have to be learned, and everything that can be found out about their characteristics, and whether they are required."

As for the discovery involved it was not that the plant "will blow" up like a gigantic atom bomb, or from radiations from the materials used or made there. Until new substances with unknown rays are thoroughly checked, to know how dangerous these rays actually are, they are handled by controls so remote that one does not even see them directly, touch them or breathe the air through which the radiations have passed."

National Film Board Employees Being 'Screened'

Films Now Being Handled By Two Private Companies

Ottawa, Nov. 19 (CP)—Newspaper publication of a government secret and a persistent stream of questions by opposition members combined in the Commons Friday night to draw confirmation from a reluctant government that employees of the National Film Board are being investigated by the R. C. M. P.

In an intense, often confused, discussion arising during consideration of defence estimates, it was brought out that R. C. M. P. investigation of government agencies is being expanded to clear the government-owned Film Board for handling secret defence work.

It is understood the screening is not yet completed and the government is assured that Film Board employees can be entrusted with the secret work, it will continue to be handled by private companies.

In the hectic cross-fire initiated by Hazen Argue (CCF-Calgary East), Defence Minister Claxton confirmed a report in the Financial Post that the Film Board employees were being screened before being permitted to make pictures of secret documents and objects.

Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed regret that the Report had ever been published and declared that the board was not under suspicion and should not be put "under a cloud."

But he held up the newspaper revelation of this incident as an example of what he called "leakage" of secret government information and said these leakages sometimes involved proceedings at cabinet meetings.

Made by Companies

Pictures too secret to be entrusted to the Film Board until that body has been "screened" are made by long-established commercial companies, Mr Claxton said.

The defence minister said the private companies had been given assurance that the 'prime minister later said he did not know if they had been or not.

Referring to the story in the Financial Post, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"It was not intended to publish this, and I do not think it is in the public interest that it should be published and discussed here.

"It is something that we would have preferred not to see published, but which leaked out. We do not know. We are inclined to believe the paper did get it from the officials of the R.C.M.P."

PART OF BOMBER FLEET GROUNDED. PROBE OPENED

Series of Crashes Kill at Least 120 Men in Last 12 Weeks

Washington Nov. 19 (AP)—A part of the United States B-29 bomber fleet was grounded today while the U.S. air force launched an investigation into a series of crashes which have killed at least 120 men in the last 12 weeks.

A few hours before, the latest B-29 had killed five of a nine-man crew aboard a superfortress which was taking off on a help search for the 20 men aboard another B-29 missing off Bermuda since mid-week.

Six accidents have occurred in the last 18 days, with a known death toll of 35 and with the 20 men aboard the lost B-29 still missing.

Available unofficial records show that since Aug. 26, when 16 crew members died after an engine caught fire in a take-off from Richmon Field, Hawaii, 27 superfortresses have gone down with a death toll of 120.

Effect of Order

Vandenberg's order will have this affect:

Any Superfortress used by the strategic air command or the 19th bomb group in the far east —unless all of its four engines have been "modernized" — is grounded until a detailed modification can be made by technical experts.

About B-29s are used by either the strategic air command or the 19th group.

A second part of the order grounds all B-29s which have been subjected to "maximum operating stresses." But this part of the directive is not applied to planes of the strategic air command as the 19th group.

That is because any B-29 used by those operating forces customarily flies at nearly fuel-load, flies at high altitudes and high speed and otherwise undergoes "maximum operating stresses." Strict application of the order would put a standard the whole combat fleet of B-29s.

NEW MANAGER OF STORE ANNOUNCED

Mr. Percy Gitelman of Trenton has replaced Mr. William Wise of Belleville as manager of the latter's ladies' wear business at 245 Front Street. The business recently changed hands when Mr. I. "Juiman of Trenton became the new owner.

Mr. Gitelman who has been on the job two weeks already is a recent graduate of Queen's University at Kingston and the University of British Columbia in Vancouver. The younger people in Trenton and Belleville communities know Mr. Gitelman better as a student, who excelled at football and hockey while attending Trenton High School.

WREATHS REMOVED FROM CENOTAPH

The wreaths deposited at the foot of the Stirling Street Cenotaph by city organizations and individuals on Remembrance Day have been removed temporarily to protect them from winter weather. Canadian Legion officials announced today.

The wreaths cost $50 all told were taken to the Horticultural Building at the Exhibition Park, where they were carefully laid out and covered.

They will be returned to the foot of the Cenotaph in the Spring.

MEMBERS OF UNIT ATTEND REUNION

A number of members of the 34th Battery RCA left for Montreal today, where they will attend the reunion of the 68/81 Battery RCA being held in the Craig Street drill hall. Included were Jimmy Shipp, Matthews, Don Hurst, Vic Halsey and others. Gananoque members of the battery also made the trip.

The 34th Battery with the 68th and 81st Batteries comprised the 14th Field Regiment RCA during the last war.

CHILDREN TO VIEW SANTA CLAUS PARADE

About the luckiest Belleville children today were Jack and Ronald Houston sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. Houston of 43 Charlotte Street and Linda and Barbara MacDonald daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jim MacDonald of 39 Geddes Street who were taken to Toronto early this morning to see Eaton's annual Santa Claus parade. The happy children were accompanied by their mothers and Mr. Joe Rayeroft the driver of the car.

TRENTON MAN SUFFERS HEAD INJURIES IN FALL

Trenton, Nov. 19. (Special)—George MacGregor, 63, of 56 Louis Street, suffered unknown head injuries late yesterday when he fell from a ladder while working on the extension of the Courier Advertising Building on Front Street. Apparently Mr. MacGregor was descending the ladder with his box of tools on his shoulder, when he fell since the tools were found strewn around him on the ground.

The fall was only a matter of a few feet and it is believed that Mr. MacGregor may have suffered a slight heart attack as he neared the bottom of the ladder. Dr. Duncan Campbell attended the injured man at the scene and later he was admitted to Belleville General Hospital.

Community Welcomes New Dutch Family

On Tuesday evening about fifty neighbors and Institute members met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert VanBoon (Dutch) family on George Palmer's farm), to welcome them to community and spend a social evening with them. Each family brought a gift.

An address of welcome read by Mrs. Charles Carman, pres. of W.I. and later read by Mrs. Decrocker in Dutch.

The address was signed on behalf of the W.I. members and neighborhood by Mrs. Charles Carman (pres W.I.) and Mrs. George Palmer.

Mrs. VanBoon very suitably thanked all on behalf of herself husband and family.

YOU BUY A GIFT OF SCIENCE

With the dollar or so you spend to have this prescription filled, you buy millions of dollars worth of research and the time and work of many men.

One of the ingredients of your prescription is a new drug that is particularly effective in overcoming skin infections. Its development a year or two ago was the crowning achievement of a decade of study by a group of research chemists in a midwestern laboratory.

Another ingredient, which likewise hinders germ growth, is a drug developed out of research that originated abroad. It, too, made headlines when its discovery was announced a few years ago.

The third ingredient is a new water-soluble ointment base that has the ability to penetrate tiny cracks and crevices of the skin.

Your pharmacist skillfully combines these ingredients — it's the new germicide, the drug from across the sea, and the water-soluble base. With the art that is his, he prepares a smooth, greaseless ointment, following the prescription written by your physician.

In the finished prescription you purchase is truly priceless gift of science: it's the science of pharmacy, chemistry, and medicine that went into the research, development, and production of its ingredients.

Edgar Rutherford, Well-Known Contractor, Dies

Edgar Francis Rutherford, 52 Alexander Street, building contractor, died in the Kingston General Hospital Friday afternoon after an illness of three months' duration.

Born in this city the late Mr. Rutherford was in his 60th year and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rutherford. All his life was passed here and he was widely known and highly esteemed by many friends and acquaintances. To them his death has brought sincere feelings of regret.

Edgar F. Rutherford held a prominent place in the building trade for many years, and was the contractor in the erection of many homes and public buildings and in adjacent places. He was a man of integrity and held the confidence of those with whom he had dealings. He took an active part in the institutions connected with the building trade and was a director of the Ontario General Contractors Association and for a time he served in an efficient manner as President of the District Builders' Exchange.

Active in Church

In religion Mr. Rutherford was a lifelong and faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and for a time he filled the office of Chairman of the Board of Managers. Fraternally he was a member The Belleville Lodge No. 123 R. A. M.; King Baldwin Preceptory No. Rama Shrine, Toronto; charter member of the Belleville Shrine Club; Belleville Lodge I.O.O.F., and of the Rebekah Lodge. He was also a popular member of the Kiwanis Club and served for a time as Chairman of the Membership Committee. He was a good citizen and will be missed by many friends.

Mr. Rutherford was twice married, his first wife, Marjory McCabe, died in 1937. Later he married Miss Bella Paterson, who survives him, together with one brother, Roy Rutherford, Kingston.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Cavan Township Girl is Winner Speaking Contest

Betty Stevens of S.S. No. 9 Cavan township in Durham county was the winner of the Belleville district public school speaking contest finals held at Brighton on Friday evening.

Miss Stevens took first prize in a field of ten contestants from five different counties in the Belleville district. She will represent the Belleville district in the provincial finals which will be held at Convocation Hall in Toronto next Easter.

Second place winner at the Brighton contest was Patricia Smith of Port Hope public school, also of Durham county, while third prize winner was Tommy Wey, S.S. 8 Brighton in Northumberland county.

Other contestants were Norah Argue, Sydenham and Loyalist Lower of Collins Bay, both of Frontenac county; Shiela Currie S.S. 4, Tyendinaga township, and John Shannon S.S. 22 Tyendinaga both of Hastings county; Lois Hicks, S.S. 13 Percy, Northumberland; Jean Crowley, S.S. 3 Ops nobee, and Noreen Corkey of Lakefield, both of Peterborough county.

There was a good attendance to hear the various contestants and Mr. R. J. Ross Brighton acting as chairman. Speeches were judged by 15 judges, three from each county, who judged independently on delivery, content and style. Evening included a duet by Louise Martin and Lenore Jacklin of Brighton, while a quartet from Brighton high school gave a vocal selection. Miss Ross is also the choruses by Brighton public school pupils.

RECEIVING ATTENTION

Kingston, Nov. 19—(CP)—The smoke nuisance is receiving attention at this afternoon at Queen's University here. Graduate engineering students, co-operating with the National Research Council, are carrying on experiments on heating problems and reasons for excessive fly ash when less-expensive Canadian and soft coal are burned.

IN MEMORIAM

BERG — In loving memory of a dear mother, Margaret Ellen Berg, who passed away November 20, 1948.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Dear trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other delight.
Dear Lord, we miss her more than words,
Some gentle act of love and deed,
No thought of self, but of "the other"
Know He said "Well done, dear mother."
Ever remembered by her daughter Kay and son-in-law Gordon.

BERG:
When days are dark and friends are few,
Dear grandfolk, how we think of you;
We feel your love, we feel your care,
We feel the best friend when we lose you.

United Church Notes

Toronto—Fifty thousand Christian workers of The United Church of Canada are this month calling on fault a million United Church homes to enrol 100,000 new contributors to aid the churches work in Canada and overseas. This year's objective of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund is $2,750,000. Next year, to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Church of Canada, the goal will be $3,000,000.

In the United Church of Canada approximately 1,700 out of 3,215 ministers serve in rural areas. These ministers have an average of at least four churches to serve. The church serves more than one-half of all Protestant rural people. At least 70 per cent of all United Churches are in rural areas. The church has 380,000 rural members as compared with 160,000 in all other Protestant communions.

The Canadian Church Relief Abroad, Joint relief enterprises of Canada and Britain, has to date shipped 700,000 pounds of used clothing abroad. It has cost $65,000 for shipping costs alone, and of this over $25,000 has been contributed by the United Church. Word has just come from Britain that no more shipments of used clothing should be sent to them. It is not that there is no need there, but the British people believe that there is greater need in Europe. This winter the Canadian Church Relief Abroad will ship equally between countries in continental Europe and those in Asia.

The Board of Christian Education has announced the appointment of Rev. Lloyd Shorten as director of Young People's work. He has been engaged in rural pastorate work at Pinkerton, Ont. He is a graduate of Queen's University and Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Word has been received by the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of successful meetings in Western Canada by Rev. Donald Soper of West London Mission, Kingsway Hall, London who was brought to Canada by the United Church for a preaching mission. Edmonton, Saskatoon, Hamilton, Toronto, Oshawa, Moncton, Sydney and St. John's, Newfoundland, are some of the places to be visited by Dr. Soper, famous Hyde Park preacher.

Among the missionaries serving overseas under the auspices of the United Church are: evangelists, pastors, teachers, writers, editors, printers, publishers, surgeons, physicians, public health specialists, dentists, pharmacists, biochemists, laboratory technicians, nurses, household science specialists, economist, rural planning leaders, relief and social service workers, accountants, engineers and trade school leaders.

Former Moderator of the United Church of Canada, the Very Rev. Dr. John W. Woodside, retired this month as minister of Chalmers United Church, Ottawa he has retired from the active ministry of the church.

Ministers of the United Church have been urged by the Board of Evangelism and Social Service to hold watch night service on Saturday evening, December 31. The last day this year will be the end of the first half of the present century.

Opening of a new home for elderly women in Saskatoon and of two hostels in the first year of the establishment of a similar home in Fort Saskatchewan, near Edmonton, was noted by the Executive of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of The United Church of Canada.

Weight of the United Church is being placed in opposition to a movement in Toronto toward a wide-open Sunday. The United Church organ, The Observer, has called attention to the fact that the three Toronto daily newspapers are opposed to a wide open Sunday, and the introduction of paid Sunday sport and entertainment.

Elaborate plans are being made to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of The United Church of Canada. While observance services will be held in every church, special mass gatherings will be held in many provinces, and a great rally is scheduled in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on June 11th. Books, slide films, radio and the press are all being used by the church to inform United Church members of the purpose of the anniversary celebration.

H. L. Harris Will Attend Conference

Herbert L. Harris, O.B.E., formerly city manager of Kingston, Jamaica, will be in the city this weekend. The occasion is the annual Eastern Ontario conference of the Teachers' Christian Fellowship. Sessions will be held in Paul's Motel, where the conference opens this evening, with sessions continuing throughout the day, Saturday, and concluding Sunday afternoon.

Other leaders for the weekend include, Dr. Robert Fraser, who will be leaving shortly for Rhodesia; Mr. Neal Leigh of Mimico, president for Ontario of the Teachers' Christian Fellowship, and Miss Kathrine Hockey, of Victoria, B.C., Canadian secretary.

Teachers' Christian Fellowship, affiliated with the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship of Canada, is an interdenominational organization, functioning among teachers and Normal School students throughout the Dominion, and in the United States, Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand.

DR. K. J. BEATON

Special anniversary speaker at the 134th anniversary of Bridge Street United Church on Sunday, Nov. 20th will be Dr. Kenneth J. Beaton, secretary of the committee on missionary education of the United Church.

Dr. Beaton will be the guest minister for both morning and evening services, the evening service congregation to be joined by members and friends of Tabernacle and Holloway Street churches.

Dr. Beaton has given a wide range of leadership in the United Church and is of a pioneering spirit in matters that concern the work of the church in the 20th century. Among the many concerns to which he is giving extra time is the use of the radio He was assistant secretary of the Board of Home Mission for some time and was missionary in West China earlier in his ministry.

Outstanding among articles written by Dr. Beaton is a thrilling and bracing little book "Growing With the Years" especially prepared for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the United Church in 1950.

Sees Future For Dionne Quints On Concert Stage

Callander, Ont., Nov. 18—(CP)—Leonard Wookey, reeve of Callander and former concert singer, Thursday offered to give the Dionne quintuplets singing lessons. He said the Callander girls, 15 last May, are naturally endowed with fine voices and he believes that, with training, they would be prepared for the concert stage.

ALIVE AND FLAPPING

Bergen, Norway—(CP) — In Norway, where housewives prefer to buy their fish alive, a new live-fish transport ship was recently launched. The largest of its kind, the new ship can transport 45,000 pounds of live fish in its tank.

AUTOPSY ORDERED

London, Ont., Nov. 18. (CP)—Five-month-old Wayne Mc-Artney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McArtney of (28 Sydenham Street), Woodstock, died within an hour and 20 minutes of admittance to Victoria Memorial Children's hospital today.

Dr. A. R. Routledge, coroner, said the baby had been ill for some time. Because he died within 24 hours of admittance to hospital, an autopsy has been ordered.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

GREAT BLACK-BACKED GULL

Although according to the Migratory Bird Act it is illegal to kill a Great Black-backed Gull, the Canadian Government has, for a good reason, made an exception. These large gulls devour both young and eggs of smaller birds, and have proved themselves a menace in the Elder Duck territory, particularly in former Canadian Labrador. Consequently inhabitants near certain sanctuaries have permission to shoot these powerful 30 inch Gulls, and destroy their eggs whenever possible. The Elder ducks Jer eggs are now either taken for food or sprayed with varnish to prevent them from hatching. Nevertheless, reports state that Great Black-backs are increasing on the Atlantic coast, where they nest on islands mostly occupied by Herring Gulls.

The huge bulk on the ground is a bulky affair of dry grass, seaweed, or other vegetable fragments, usually well cupped to receive three pale olive grey eggs blotched with dark brown or black. The young ones look much like young Herring Gulls, but are noticeably larger when seen together, and show a greater contrast in colour between their dark backs and their light heads and underparts. Most authorities agree that it takes four years to attain full adult plumage: white, with a grey mantel which varies from delicate pearl-grey to nearly black. If a slate view is possible we see that eyes and bill are yellow, there is a larger spot of bright red near the tip of the lower section of the bill, and the eyelids also are scarlet.

Another distinction between these two species is the manner of flight. Herring Gulls appear to progress with a minimum of exertion. In a mixed flock when they are all gliding we see that the Great Black-backs are obliged to flap now again. The voices too, though similar, can be distinguished. Those of the Great Black-backs may not be louder, but the sound harsher when they scream "kyow" and laugh "ha-ha". They are perhaps most easily frightened than other kinds of Gulls.

When the season for finding and feeding on eggs and little birds is over, these powerful and dignified-looking Gulls eat fish, shell-fish, and refuse. Although their breeding ground lies along the Atlantic coast from Long Island to the Arctic, some may always be found up the St.Lawrence and on the Great Lakes, especially Lake Ontario, from September to March. They are said to be very tame.

THE PISTORAL TOUCH

Sydney, Australia (CP) — A young man, recently arrived from Scotland to work on an Australian sheep ranch, evidently had not grasped the difference between Scottish and Australian ranching methods. To save buying a new one, he brought along his old shepherd's crook.

THUGS BEAT UP TAXI-DRIVER

Hamilton, Nov. 18 (CP)—Two thugs beat up taxi-driver James Greenwood, 23, here Thursday night, bundled him into the rear of his cab, robbed him of $25, drove to Toronto and abandoned the car. He managed to get back to Hamilton where he was treated for head injuries and a possible broken jaw, caused by a hit over the head with a gun.

- THE ENGLISH IRIS -

- Interesting, Lovely and easy to grow -

--TENNYSON

• IRIS TINGITANA WEDGEWOOD •

The English Iris were grown in England before 1600. These gems of delicate colors are best planted in groups and should be massed separately. Predominating colors are yellow, white and blue.
Plant during October four to five inches deep, and give them a sunny location in well drained soil. They should be given a light mulch after the ground freezes. The bulbs may be left in the ground, although it is best to dig and store them over summer after the foliage has thoroughly ripened.
These bulbs are most satisfactory for forcing in the garden, and the Iris season may be extended well into the Summer months.

BONNIE PRINCE'S HAPPY WORLD

It is a happy world when it can turn aside from many disconcerting affairs in the news to spend a few minutes reading and thinking of Bonnie Prince Charlie who has just celebrated his first birthday. While naturally he did not know the significance of what was going on and perhaps what the presents meant, yet his interest and delight in them were clear enough and that is the purpose of gifts and of entertainment.

It is well that the world can turn aside from the haste and bustle, the stories of tragedy and disaster and all sorts of good and ill news from every part of the globe to give a little thought to that peaceful fireside in the British Royal Family.

Such interest is a symbol of the sanity of people everywhere. Their balance is set on the great realities of living, the family life and so many little acts of kindness and of love done for others as the countless deeds done by parents for their families in the home, or after they leave the shelter of the fireside.

The little Prince is in that happy world and age of childhood. But his age makes those who are older happier than they would be were there no time of life such as that through which Prince Charlie himself is passing.

PROBS HINT AT SNOW

November though not really the winter month really does look like cold autumn in its hands. Wednesday gave a sign that this month can behave like winter while other days have borne a very mild aspect with no sign of elemental disturbance.

This month to many citizens has in the past years meant the study and reading of the modification of the climate in the north in recent years they are doubtless inclined to believe there may be something in it after all for the Novembers have not been so severe as they sometimes used to be in other days.

But probabilities have a way of averaging or catching up if the weather seems to be unduly warm or unduly cold at one time or other. So the Weatherman has come along with word that really winter is near at hand and that snow will come, bringing with it cooler weather. These parts are so far as lack of snow goes have been fortunate. Last year the absence of snow was good fortune. But other parts, more northerly, have snow of more than ample depth. The other day this part of the country just missed a snowstorm which went along the south side of Lake Ontario.

COLOR TELEVISION SHOWN

Color television was publicly shown for the first time in Britain recently at London's Radiolympia. The new device, made by the Pye organization in Cambridge, England, depends on three-color mechanical scanning. It was developed after years of experiments and employs, both in the camera and the receiver, rapidly rotating colored discs. These superimpose the colors which blend in the viewer's eye into a full variegated picture. Colors of dress and fabrics, texture of skin, the various facets of the human body could be seen in full color. The system works at present on a closed-circuit principle — that is, color vision is transmitted from a special camera by wires to receiving sets.

GLAMOR

Many newspapers, The Journal included, tell their readers how to make themselves more beautiful, but they do not undertake to apply the treatment. The Daily News goes all the way. It puts its theories into practice before the six hundred transformation, photographs it. We, more modestly, or perhaps less adventurous, are content to offer advice and to assume, we trust on good grounds, that our feminine readers by following it become even more glamorous and fascinating.

Interest is also taken in sport for all sorts of services. We are supposed to know who was heavyweight champion in 1892, on what day of the week July 19 fell in 1904, how to kill poison ivy, what sort of a bird is it with a short tail and a long beak, and the boundaries of Afghanistan. We are supposed to be the value of old coins and stamps, how to identify a 'genuine" Stradivarius, if we remember a poem printed on the editorial page about June, 1912, or perhaps 1911 or 1913; asked how to make a rum swizzle and how best to keep rats out of the basement.

All this we do in our columns, and much more. But we should view with some alarm any proposal that we get into the glamor business. We cannot deny that Ottawa has a few young women who might be improved by the Daily News' six-hour course, but we have no thought of copying our contemporary. Life has enough complications as things are. — Ottawa Journal.

THE FLIGHT OF THE UNFORGIVING

Everybody believes in forgiveness until he has to forgive someone a great wrong. Then it appears that here is one place where forgiveness would be compromise. Under such circumstances forgiveness is ascribed to as an academic matter but rejected as practical procedure.

The teachings of Jesus seem to admit no exception to forgiveness. He seems to forgive those who despitefully use us. Through all forgive our enemies. We are to forgive the devil. Forgive against us. Through all the centuries men have been unable to make the teachings of Jesus accord with the kind of life they wanted to live. And they have succeeded in doing this to a horrifying degree. There are many people who believe they are Christians while all the time they hate their enemy, carry grudges, and are living in heart and mind, and speak in vengeance and are unforgiving in their associates.

Even a superficial reading of the New Testament reveals that Jesus considered as unwillingness to forgive the worst of sins. No circumstances in the whole realm of evil, and all these were under anything in people except an unwillingness to forgive. The person who is unwilling to forgive is unable it impossible for God to forgive him because He can not bestow which God cannot confer his most precious favor.

flower garden and areas for various sports, construct various safety devices for the entertainment of children, establish safety bathing area with proper boom for children, construct a pavilion for serving lunches and soft drinks, with no over-night cabins or other building or games that might not be suitable to the nature of a well conducted park where all decent citizens would be proud to go or pleased to allow their wives and daughters to attend.

I have further submitted that for the financial returns from my investments I would have to look forward to the sale of beer and drinks and would be compelled to charge a small admission fee for children of school age and up but this could be arranged suitably with the board of trade. The people shall have in-return for a small fee the protection of a life guard, watchman over the island. Mechanical Cow Does Everything But Moo

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 19 (CP) — Now they've invented a mechanical cow.

It apparently does everything but moo. Instead, it clanks. But, aside from that defect, the mechanical cow does produce pasteurized, homogenized, grade-A milk which, the manufacturer says, tastes just like the stuff you buy from the corner grocery.

The facts of this 20th-Century creation were placed on the record of the recent Congressional session by Representative Reid F. Murray, Republican from the dairyland state of Wisconsin, with a plea that the true flesh-and-blood cow not be forgotten.

Milk for the Troops

The mechanical cow, he reported, was constructed by Dr. Charles E. North of New Paltz, N. Y., and now is in use for United States troops in the Far East. There, it slakes their thirst via reverse osmosis, and 2,000 bottles of milk daily, the equivalent of a herd of 1,500 head of live cows.

Other such "cows," he added, soon will be producing milk in the Philippines, Venezuela, Trinidad, Curacao and Aruba.

The secret of the mechanical cow apparently is in the method by which it takes the salt out of milk before shipment and putting it back in again in the distributing plant. Unlike powdered milk, the new product so resembles untampered milk that even the cow can't tell the difference.

Operation of Device

The new procedure is to separate ufe skim milk and the butterfat from the latter, using ultra-violet rufages, pack them under intricate processes which preserve their flavor and original composition and ship them to any place where milk is needed.

There, the two are put back together again with distilled water in a recombining machine — the mechanical cow — and the result is milk fully as tasty almost as fresh as from the cow.

The pasteurized milk first is being introduced in places where milk supplies are poor — Arctic regions in which dairy cattle do not thrive. It may eventually be sold on this continent. The manufacturer says the mechanical milk could be sold in New York for as little as 13 cents a quart, considerably below prevailing prices for the fresh product.

PART OF BOMBER

Therefore, the second part of the order will be partially applied only to a relatively few B-29s used in rescue searches and similar reconnaissance missions. And Vandenberg specifically exempted from both orders the jets currently engaged in the search for the original bomber.

Although the air force order indicated that engine or plane failures are the chief reason for the grounding, not all of the crashes have been for that reason.

Of the six B-29s wrecked during the past 30 days, four were involved in a mid-air collision with Fighters and the plane missing off Bermuda reported, before she went down, that she didn't know her position and was lost.

Airmen point out that one reason for the high number of superfortress losses is that there are more B-29s than any other type of bomber operating in the combat fleet.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALWAYS GO ON

In a football game I saw a runner stumble—but he kept going on, gaining valuable yardage. I couldn't help but think of those in everyday affairs who also stumble, but who refuse to move, thinking that someone will take notice and help them up, rather than getting up themselves.

I have been reading about this Mr. Zwick who has developed a fine but owning string of small hotels in Texas, and how he worked out. But he didn't quit. He went right on. He attempted bigger things. Now he is the owner of more great hotels than any other man in America. His latest venture is being the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

Misfortune adversity and sorrow, come to us all in time. Our one thing is not to quit and bemoan our misfortune, but to take heart—and always go on. Experience has so often taught us that better and happier days are ahead for us if we will but take setbacks and discouragements, our blood wouldn't be stirred and we'd get stiffened to go forward.

Always go on, no matter what the emergency. End news today is that Ike has been voted out of news on the morrow. There are always new beginnings in the o ld world. Pioneers keep going on and into new fields that had never been discovered. In fact Peary some thirty years, with repeated tries, before he finally accomplished the discovery of the North Pole.

There are few in business who have not arrived at times when everything looked very discouraging. It seemed easier to quit than to go on, but had not these determined souls so, we would not have their inspiring examples of how to go on and on and on with the same spirit.

From Hartford youth Robert Frost wanted to be a poet. He never let this ambition die. But it was twenty years before last recognition came. His first book, "A Boy's Will," was publisher, in England. Few were sold but he received favorable reviews from both England and America; and because he kept right on he is today America's outstanding poet in America, honored as few poets have ever been.

Edna Genecki Now A Man Says Physician

New Brunswick, N.J., Nov. 19 (AP)—A physician told Friday how a former woman patient of his now changed into a man.

Dr. Charles F. Church said the former Edna Genecki of nearby South River now is Edward as the result of a recent operation.

Genecki will spend the rest of his life as a man, after living "her first 33 years as a girl and woman."

Dr. Church said there was some doubt as to Genecki's sex at birth, but that it was finally decided that the child was a girl.

"Edna" went through Rutgers University as a woman, and later, still as a woman, became a junior executive of a large dairy here.

Although considered a good-looking co-ed by Rutgers classmates, Edna nevertheless found she had to shave every day, Dr. Church reported. Medical authorities agreed Edna was "physically male."

The recent operation completed the process.

Dr. Church, unlike similar cases in the past, will continue to live among his former acquaintances and resume his old job.

Scientists explain that every individual has both male and female tendencies, but that ordinarily one or the other becomes dominant before birth.

In exceptional cases, however, both tendencies may continue a struggle for domination of the body into later life.

MEMBERS CLASH

Wants Standing Committees

In the general discussion on defence, Hazen Argue, CCF, Progressive Conservative leader again urged establishment of a standing committee on defence. The request was again rejected by Mr. Claxton, on the grounds that the government must take responsibility for decisions on defence matters and could not have a committee dictating defence policy.

Mr. Drew said there should be a committee on defence so that members could obtain detailed information on Canada's defence policies and on how governments planned to spend money in the event of mounting for defence purposes.

Gen. Pearkes did not touch on the committee question, but stressed the need for a force that was capable of repelling diversionary raids on Canada.

He recommended a five-point program:

1. A fully-manned and equipped fighter-interceptor network be made available.

2. The government should undertake to see that the air force would have ample facilities provided to protect the now-vulnerable Pacific coast.

3. Reserve army units should be built up to provide a force for protecting the great industrial centres of Canada in which they were located.

Termed Unrealistic

Mr. Claxton termed the program unrealistic. It would cost about $600,000,000 a year for five years. He was fully in agreement that the defence of the role to be played by the air force. But there was only a certain amount of money that could be spent on defence.

At present more than 38 per cent of every dollar was spent on the air force. This year total defence expenditures for the army would be $14,183,972 compared with $142,836,985 last year. He felt the army should have a larger ratio of last year and said it reflected government recognition of the importance of air power.

He stressed that his department could not meet all Canada's defence needs. No country of 13,000,000 people in the world is in that position. He pictured the possibilities of a defence pact with Canada through Greenland and Alaska. To meet such attacks, he said, Canada should have an air force that could repel attacks until aid came from other countries.

RICKETS, HEREDITY AND CROOKED LEGS

Rickets is a disease of childhood due to a deficiency of lime and vitamin D. Disease of the parathyroid glands is a factor in some cases but let's not get too technical here. In rickets, various bones become bowed, or otherwise, deformed. Bowlegs is a common variety of this deformity. When lime and vitamin D are added in sufficient amount, to the daily diet the bowing can be corrected to a great extent, providing the change in diet is started early enough. As to many other conditions, a point if irreversibility is involved, beyond which little improvement can be expected.

Bowlegs are not always due to rickets. They may be hereditary. Knock-knees may result from rickets, but an hereditary factor is suspected in many instances. In such cases. Knobby-knees may be purely hereditary. This is a large bone. Once maturity is reached, little or nothing can be derived from exercises designed to change the contour of the bones. Bones are living tissue and the degree of muscular development which in turn may serve to mask the underlying deformity, but that's about all. Surgical operation is of value in a few instances where the deformity is troublesome. Most crooked-legged people seem quite proud of their deformity without too much difficulty. However, in a few cases, surgical correction are somewhat rare.

Deformity due to rickets usually responds so well to dietetic management, that bowlegs and the like become superfluous, although in the past they were used as a mark of distinction.

The Japanese used to deform the feet of some of their women by constant binding, starting in infancy. Other people have resorted to binding the chest and/or them straight. Whereas the Japanese achieved their purpose, other people failed. The Japanese found that binding would not keep the legs straight.

Most persons have been promoted the notion that overexercise often produces bowing of the legs. I never heard of anyone questioning the concept that cowboys were bowlegged because they rode horses all the time. As a matter of fact, very few cowboys are bowlegged. Also, that's not the reason either born that way or had rickets in their childhood. Riding a horse won't produce bowlegs, at any age. With a saddle or without. If such things happened, a wood-chopper might be expected to have arms like a boomerang. Confusion, rough use, prolonged sitting and standing of bones serves to straighten and strengthen them. Barring disease, bones grow in a manner and to a degree planned for them by heredity.

The crooked-legged person is wasting his time by trying to exercise his legs into the normal pattern. This applies to knock-knees, and knobby-knees as well as bowlegs.

Speaking of exercise reminds me of flat feet. Exercise is often prescribed, and used for this condition. I have never observed any definite value from it. I think that most everybody who has flat feet usually walks in with flat feet. Flat feet are normal to many persons. The "breaking down" in arch of the foot usually involves more than a mere lack of muscle tone. However, I would be glad to hear from anyone who has some real scientific proof, along this line. Scientific proof may I remind you, is not opinion, nor hearsay and an isolated case is of very little value.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

As far as nature is concerned now is the beginning of the season of high visibility. In spring and summer there is certainly more to be seen. But it is then that we are busy in the country, even a mile or two from the city's edge is a pleasure in early winter that spring can hardly exceed.

With foliage gone, birds and animals are more visible and the leafless trees have a special fascination. Even the most ordinary lot of evergreen and hardwood has a sort of motionless beauty that creeps into the eye and into the spirit of the beholder. A deep purple sky, the silence of the tireless respicator of Nature has a special power to soothe the nerves who suffer from nerves, hypertension and other symptoms of civilization that are so harmful of city life. He sends them for a Sunday drive in the country and usually giving them detailed direction as to where to go. Then he asks them to call back to him, the next night during office hours, a list of ten surprising things they saw in the country on their own country roads as they walked. He calls it the Treasure Hunt therapy.

Some of the things are not enough sense of humor left to fall for it. So he has given them vitamin pills. But those who try the Treasure Hunt come back with astonishing discoveries. One lady saw a bird as big as a hen. Another saw the tail of a small cedar tree she approached, and which vanished a horned owl. A good many especially those who are complaining all sorts of things they did not know about farms, cows that creep around behind barn springs, hydro power transmission lines, friend of mice, fences windmills, ice, root cellars, though never seeing a bird or animal dogs, grand pavements, barns other than domestic.

The point is really, on to the fact that the world is alive with people other than ourselves, each of whose lives is intensely important—to it. Once that point of view is canured, a man or a woman can't sulk any more. Life becomes too amusing.

Nine Youths Found Guilty

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 18—(AP) —Nine youths were convicted Thursday of raping a mentally unsound young mother and beating her husband in the first gang rape case of the an all-night-sex orgy. A 10th youth was found guilty of attempted rape.

The defendants ranged in age from 19 to 25 years.

Mrs. Marie Charlton, 21, died in August at Western State Hospital, where she had been committed because of her mental condition.

Court officials said the jury's verdict could bring terms up to 30 years or to life.

The City of Washington

Editor's note: The following is a pen-picture travelogue of the City of Washington and its environs, and a continuation of "New Orleans" which appeared some time ago in these columns, by the artist, and operator of "The Little Gallery," Charles R. Bone.

By CHARLES R. BONE

It was with reluctance that New Orleans and environs were left behind; the exotic flowers and birds, the muddy streams and hanging moss and palmetos; the share-croppers and fishermen's homes on stilts; the bayous and the bridges over Lake Pontchartrain and the public buildings marked, "Colored", and "White", so foreign to anything we see in Canada.

While the grade from Chicago to New Orleans slopes gradually down, the Gulf of Mexico through flat fields of corn and cotton, so the grade is uphill from New Orleans to Washington; passing along the Gulf of Mexico, and then on up through the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, till finally in the distance, appears the dome of the Capitol, silhouetted in floodlights against the early morning sky, and reflected with myriad other lights in the waters of the Potomac which flows through Washington, the Capital of the United States.

The Union Station contains the largest room in the world, capable of accommodating a standing army of 50,000 men, and a daily flow of 500 trains on the upper and lower levels. This first glimpse of spaciousness is a prelude to the generous layout of Washington with its large, well-kept parks, statues and public buildings; all of which must be a source of great pride to the citizens of the United States.

* * *

The Capitol building is the centre of Washington and is flanked by the Senate office building, Supreme Court, Library of Congress, and the House office building set in a wooded park. The avenues, which merge at the Capitol are named after the States of the Union; while the streets, running east and west, are lettered, and those running north and south, are numbered.

The doors leading to the Capitol lobby represent the landing of Columbus, while in the lobby are many statues of men famous in history and otherwise. The life-like statue of Will Rogers made one feel at home, though sad for his untimely death. The statues and portraits of George Washington, the father of his country, have an aloofness and austereness reminiscent of the British decent, and of most fathers of that day, which makes the story of the cherry tree seem realistic.

The statues were of standing figures, imposing and dashing, with the exception of one, that of the inventor of the steamboat, Robert Fulton which was seated, deep in thought, with papers strewn around, which, though the least obtrusive, was the most interesting.

The Mall, which extends from the Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial is an emerald green stretch of park, dotted with statues and lined with imposing buildings, notably that of the National Gallery of Art, which houses the priceless collection of art, given by the late Andrew Mellon; the National Museum; Smithsonian Institute, containing the "Spirit of St. Louis" in which Lindbergh flew the Atlantic; the Grant and Art Gallery, and the War and Navy Department buildings. Along one side runs Constitutional Avenue, and in the central foreground is the Washington Monument, a shaft measuring nearly six hundred feet high, enclosing an elevator by which one may reach the aluminum tip, which is mirrored in the water of the long pool. At the end of this pool, is the Lincoln Memorial, a gracious shrine of white marble with 36 fluted columns representing the States of Union at the time, above which are inscribed the names of the 48 states of today.

Upon mounting the steps and entering this incomparable memorial is seen the seated figure of Abraham Lincoln with these engraved words: "In this temple as in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union, the memory of Abraham Lincoln is enshrined forever." One wonders what his thoughts would be today of men who are voluntarily and involuntarily reverting to a form of slavery and loss of liberty?

* * *

Beside the tidal basin, and where the cherry blossoms bloom, is the Jefferson Memorial: Thomas Jefferson, who drafted the Declaration of Independence, and who said, "I have sworn on the altar of God eternal hostility to every form of tyranny over the mind of man."

Continuing on and up to the top of the hill overlooking Washington is Arlington National cemetery, a military cemetery where today's heroes, though less well known, as yet are brought home from foreign lands to rest below the terraces that stretch far into the distance. The grave of Admiral Peary is marked by a granite sphere with a star representing the North pole; a mast from a ship is a fitting memorial for sailors lost on board, while a large stone cross is Canada's memorial to United States citizens who lost their lives while fighting with the Canadian forces.

The memorial service held in an amphitheatre of white marble, over the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, brought from France by General Pershing, the inscription on which reads in honorable glory an American soldier known but to God." Three sentry guards the tomb, day and night.

The cemetery is part of the Robert E. Lee estate, whose home, furnished in the style of that period, is situated on the highest point of land overlooking Washington, on the grounds facing the building, is the tomb of L'Enfant, who designed the City of Washington.

Fifteen miles away in Mount Vernon, and the home of George Washington, situated among stately trees, on the heights of the Potomac River. This building was restored, and is now maintained by the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, thus keeping alive the interest of Americans in their history resulting in them unstintingly in the original plantations, and ways of life at that time.

The Cathedral of Saint Peter and Saint Paul fulfills George Washington's dream of "a church for national purposes". The area and elevation on the Cathedral Close are the same as Solomon's Temple plateau above Jerusalem, and is the last resting place of the late Woodrow Wilson.

On the outskirts of the Capital, crowning the summit of Mount Saint Sepulchre, is the memorial Church of the Holy Land, the Franciscan Monastery within whose hallowed surroundings are faithful reproductions of sacred places, paintings and frescoes.

There are in all over 500 statues, monuments and memorials, exclusive of private collections in the city of Washington, and a great many important buildings, the most modern being the Pentagon Building whose five floors of different colors are connected by ramps, over which messengers travel the latest and one-half miles of corridors on roller skates and tricycles.

The White House is about one and one-half miles from the capital, and is set in beautifully-landscaped grounds with a variety of 80 different species of trees. The East lawn is used for the egg-rolling contest at Easter time in which the President and family take part. At present, the White House is under repair, and therefore not open to the public.

The tempo of Washington is in keeping with its stately buildings and parks, and reflects the attitude of careful consideration that the representatives of that country, in this day, must give to all matters. The diner cars are of the latest design, and combine speed with comfort, and provide passengers with the latest news, music, and weather reports. The Washington Mills and Airport, is within ten minutes of the business section, from which flights may be taken over the city. On the Potomac are fast launches and other vessels.

There is no distinction here between white and colored. One shoe shine boy bet he could tell how many children my father had. The catch being that any fodder done nebber had any children, my father would den all!

WALLBRIDGE

Wallbridge — On Friday evening the W.I. held a social evening and a shower was held the same evening in the Town Hall. A large crowd gathered for both occasions, and Mrs. Lavender Latta, the bride and groom, were presented with a beautiful coffee table. After the social hour, dancing and card playing was well enjoyed with refreshments being served by the ladies.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. C. Smith entertained the ladies and 70 ladies at the home of her father, Mr. Chester Keighley, in honor of the bride, Mrs. Bob Latta, (nee Iris Fisher.) The guests were met with a delightful array of wedding presents, after which many delightful refreshments of sandwiches, olives, cookies and tea were served by the hostess and a very enjoyable afternoon spent by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson accompanied by Mrs. Cecil Sine spent a couple of days last week in Toronto, Miss Jane Ketcheson returning home with her parents for a couple of weeks.

Beer bunting is the order of the day and a number from this vicinity have gone to do their part in the hunt.

Mr. Jack Hendrick, fire inspector for the Ontario Fire Insurance Co., has made several calls in this neighborhood. His many friends wish him good luck in his new duties.

Backs Car To Garage Door, Smothers Skunk

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—(AP)—The tables were turned Wednesday night on a skunk—he was gassed to death.

Joe Tait bought a new car, but couldn't get it into his garage because two weeks ago a skunk had built a home in the drain pit.

So Tait backed the car to the garage door, ran a pipe from the car exhaust into the garage and closed the door.

A half hour later Tait peeked, saw the skunk was groggy, extended the pipe and covered the pit. carefully examined the pit and found his troubles were over, for the skunk had been gassed.

NEW GUNPOWDER PLOT

Salisbury, England — (CP) — Children spent days collecting material for two 20-foot bonfires for Guy Fawkes night. But some unknown person set them alight too soon. They burned so well that firemen were unable to save any of the material and the children now spend their time looking for the culprit.

FRANKFORD

Sidney Rose Addresses Lions Club On "Optometry"

Frankford — Frankford Lions Club held their bi-monthly meeting in the Community-Memorial Hall Wednesday night, with a good attendance, in spite of the number of Lions away deer hunting. A fine repast was enjoyed by all, during which time the Trail Twister made his rounds, levying fines on Lions who committed infractions of club rules 'n' regulations.

During the business discussion, plans were outlined for the club's big first anniversary night coming up in December at which time the club will have had its charter for one year. Other items of business discussed and Lion Sidney Martin was called upon to introduce the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Sidney Rose, B.O.C. of Belleville, who brought to the fore one of the most interesting educational talks that has been heard in the village for years.

Progress in Optometry

Mr. Rose spoke on the progress which has been made in the field of optometry, and the various branches of the field on which science is now working. By the use of colored lenses and a prism lenser, Mr. Rose had members of the club "chasing rabbits through red and green rings." Mr. Rose outlined the varied stages of development through which a person's eyes pass, from infancy up, including the effects of various ailments such as near sightedness, have upon the eyes. Some startling facts were revealed to the members concerning modern day methods of education.

Tears of research have revealed that the present-day system of education is very harmful to the eyes, and will undoubtedly be replaced by entirely different methods in time. Mr. Rose also pointed out no form of eye training or eye exercises, as advertised in magazines, etc., could correct an ailment with which a person has been born, such as far sightedness or color blindness. Other ailments, such as a person being cross-eyed, can in certain cases be corrected by proper eye training. A different interval was in his talk Mr. Rose paused to answer questions put forth by members of the club. Between answering ustions and delivering his talk, Mr. Rose was on the floor for almost two hours.

In spite of the fact, that several members had previous engagements at eight o'clock, not a single member of the club left until Mr. Rose had finished his talk, well after nine. The tumultuous applause at the end of the talk showed the appreciation of the club for a most enjoyable talk. Lion Albert Warren thanked Mr. Rose on behalf of the club. The meeting was formally adjourned by the president.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Marmora — The November meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held at the Manse on Tuesday afternoon last, with a good attendance, and presided over by Mrs. H. C. Barlow, Mrs. G. D. Young had charge of the worship service, following the order of service outlined in the October Missionary Monthly. Mrs. E. C. Prentice took the solo part in the second hymn.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. W. Pack, Mrs. H. W. Sabine filled the office. Following the roll call, Mrs. G. Jarvis gave the treasurer's report. A letter of thanks from Miss Gladys Petitsgill for a donation of $5.00 received from the C.G.I.T., was read. It was decided to order 50 church calendars. The members sell the same as a means of helping to raise the allocation. Considerable discussion took place regarding the holding of a Mission Band early in the new year. Mrs. T. J. Bateman and Mrs. E. C. Prentice consented to be leaders. Mrs. G. D. Young felt that she needed assistance with the Girl Explorers' Group, as there were 23 girls enrolled.

Plans were outlined for next Sunday night's service. November 20th, Mrs. Hasack is a gifted speaker and has been heard on several occasions in St. Andrew's. Members of the W.M.S. will conduct the evening service and it is hoped there will be a large congregation. The following Tuesday evening will be the 10th anniversary of the W.M.S. and a social event will be held in the church hall to which the public is invited. There will be a short program, picture slides, and refreshments. A silver collection will be taken. The program will commence at 7.30 p.m.

A nominating committee, composed of Mesdames Young, Sabine, and Sweet, will prepare a slate of officers for 1950 and Mesdames Prentice, Sproul, and Jarvis, were appointed a committee for the December candle-lighting service.

FATALLY INJURED

St. Thomas' Guild Bazaar, Tea Officially Opened By The Archbishop of Ontario

St. Thomas' Guild bazaar and tea was officially opened by His Grace, the Most Reverend Derwyn Lyons, Archbishop of Ontario, in the parish house on Friday afternoon and, though skies were broodning, and scattered snowflakes fell, they were no deterrent to the hundreds who were the answer to the conveners' dreams.

On entering the outer hall, again as of last year, the flickering flames from stately tapers in ornate candle holders upon a little table, welcomed the many guests who paid their tribute of money to the taker of customs, Mrs. J. Watson and just inside, the president of St. Thomas' Guild, Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, and the secretary, Mrs. A. Lewis received them into an atmosphere, fragrant with the scent of evergreens, and the spicy aroma of home cooking.

Round about the room were the several tables, each displaying its own particular decorative effects; while directly in front of the alcove, was a vista of scenic loveliness; evergreen trees and bushes, intertwined, a rose-covered arbor, and a great expanse of green lawn, with white lawn seats and chairs. Apparently, a pretty wedding had just been solemnized somewhere in the church behind the evergreen grove, for the bride and groom and her two attendants were there conversing with friends. Bride in her charming white satin gown, and bridal veil, and the attendants, one with a pink, the other in blue. Here and there about the lawn were other guests, vesting in white, though some were in blue, reclining in chairs and chatting, or sitting on a Scotch lassie in highland skirt with brown cloak and tam o'shanter, was briskly walking across the lawn.

Hidden from View

Hidden almost from the view of the lawn and her company, were two, who, throughout time, will still be friends, black Topsy, and fair Eva. These were sitting down, side by side, Topsy with a questioning expression on her countenance as Eva questioned her on the Shorter Catechism.

Other doll guests were noticed, one especially for her pretty face, and lovely attire. Her hair was like spun gold, and she wore a sweet little dress of white with beautiful smocking, a blue velvet cloak with pink bonnet, and on her tiny feet were white kid slippers. She was the beauty of St. Thomas' bazaar. At either side of the lawn, were two little booths, each one displaying dolls' wearing apparel, and each booth having colored lights of red and green running across the top. Two little boys in blue were keeping guard over the last lines the cloths for dolls' tables. Some cloths were in red with fringed ends, others in yellow, and some in blue. There were also white sheets bound with pink satin, and others bound with blue satin, and many, many dolls' articles of dainty lingerie. Those who supervised this scene of loveliness were: Mrs. J. Cassidy, Mrs. J. Howard, Mrs. P. Siebert, Mrs. H. Code, Mrs. S. Connolly, and Mrs. N. Edwards, while Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Baldwin were in charge of the decorations.

Costume Jewellery on View

At the left of the woodland lawn was a table devoted to costume jewellery. This was decorated in Christmas colors, and centred with a miniature Chinese vase which shortly disappeared to an eager purchaser. Many pieces of costume jewellery were on view; pearl hearts in shades of pale blue predominated, tied knots with topaz jewels; gold clips; a pair of silver pheasants set with rhinestone feathers; silver brooches with moonstone centres; crochet necklaces, some scaling with many topics, from amateur gardening to the life of Queen Victoria; coral flowers and amethyst necklaces, Chinese necklaces, and earrings of every shape, size and color, not to mention the various bead necklaces of wood, glass and plastic. The conveners of this booth were, Mrs. Austin Carman, Mrs. N. Nicolson, and Mrs. F. Leech.

On the "knit wear and fancy work table", a bright green Christmas tree was ablaze with Christmas lights, and round about it were beautifully crocheted lace doilies of many designs, all hand done. Some were in ecru, others in blue, and some in white, fine as cobwebs; there were pieces of shell jewellery, one set of a water lily in pink matching earrings; large red cardigans; lovely pink knit cardigans; woolly dust mitts too pretty to use that way; knitting bags; string holders made from oilcloth with pretty oilcloth flowers appliqued on the side; pot holders depicting red apples and apple-green pears; fine knit scarfs; mitts, in white, grey and red; a host of bonnets; and a complete baby layette, handknit in soft white wool. The convener of this booth was Mrs. N. Fisher with her assistants, Mrs. N. McNish, Mrs. A. Shelcher and Mrs. J. Fee.

Plant Booth

At the "plant booth" one could get almost any kind of house plant from the stately Sansavari; the feathery asparagus fern; Chinese rubber plant; the modest African violet, variegated foliages; silver edged Sultanas; the pink leaved Elephant plant; to the old time favorite, the sweet scented geranium. This was conveyed by Mrs. J. Tilley and Mrs. R. Booth.

The "home cooking table" was loaded down with every sort of delicacy, and was prettily decorated with a centrepiece pictorial a woodland nook with pines, snow covered under which three or four white reindeer were searching for lichens or moss. Here were baskets of blood-red delicious apples; red jelly in jars; yellow iced dream cakes; tiny, one-bite-tarts; white cake topped with whole walnut meats; chocolate angel cake; a white-iced, pink-ornamented St. Thomas Church with nut meat steeple and spire; cup cakes that looked like a garden of hepatices with the pink, white, and green frostings; little nutty hermits, and a lovely cherry fruit cake. The ladies in charge here were, Mrs. R. Tanner, Mrs. A. J. K. Griffiths, Mrs. J. Nastin, Mrs. Henn and Mrs. A. Denyer.

The "candy table" was alluring with its silver Christmas tree, its little Christmas baskets filled to the brim, its dainty creams, marshmallows, fudge, and date creams, while little boxes, and large boxes all held their quota and were well looked after by Mrs. D. Saunders, Mrs. E. Martin and Mrs. L. White.

Apron Table

On the "Apron Table" again were found all designs and kinds of aprons, and all differing from most of these seen in other bazaars, showing the originality of the designers. Some were done in panels of green and mauve with blending floral side panels, the whole bound with mauve binding; others were of blue dotted muslin; there were mother and daughter aprons, made exactly alike of grey print with a yellow rose background, and bound with yellow bias binding; pretty and dainty, and a whole host of others, some on the order behind, and some in the windows. Mrs. L. Fozard, Mrs. G. Miller, Mrs. M. Davidson and Mrs. J. Clarke were busy buy making change, and tieing up parcels.

In the basement was the tea room, filled to the brim with a throng of guests. Little round tables, little tables seating four, and the large round tea table with its lace cloth centered with a beautiful rose-pink azalea and silver services filled the main room, while the adjoining rooms were also filled, with a waiting line of guests at the door.

Those who poured from 2.30 to 4.30 were, A. McColl and Mrs. M. Clarke; while Mrs. G. Gorman and Mrs. S. Morton poured from 4.30 till 8.30. Those who served, both in the dining room, and in the kitchen, were: Mrs. G. Little, Mrs. E. Rosebush, Mrs. R. Abrams, Mrs. G. Westlake, Mrs. R. Gibson, Mrs. R. Keel, Mrs. R. Pringle, Mrs. W. Clarke, Mrs. Arnott, Mrs. L. W. Walker, Mrs. J. McKenna, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. F. Keegan, Mrs. G. Johnson and Mrs. W. Martin. The treasurer of the tea room was Miss Amy Wallbridge, and the convener was Mrs. J. Forrester. Mrs. H. Alfred, Mrs. J. E. Bateman and Mrs. A. B. Hunt.

An outstanding success and tea, beautifully designed, and gratifyingly successful.

Mr. J. I. Celbaum, newly-elected president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, Central Region (Ontario). Celbaum has recently announced a conference on Jewish education to take place on Sunday, November 20th at St. Catharines, Ontario.

The conference will consider the problems of Jewish education as they are confronted in those communities in Ontario outside of Toronto. It is expected that educators, teachers, rabbis, youth leaders and laymen from various points in the province will attend.

Mr., Mrs. W. Crowe, Peterborough, Guests Of Endeavors Class

West Huntingdon — The Endeavor's class sponsored a most inspiring program on Tuesday evening when they had as their guests, The Crowes of Peterborough, members of the Victory class of Moira and a large number of the St. Andrew's people.

The vice president of the class, Mr. Philip Carr, was chairman for the program which was held in the United Church.

Fine Program

Mr. H. R. Burke led in a lively sing-song of a number of old-fashioned hymns with Mrs. W. J. Fitchett at the piano. Mr. Burke offered prayer and also introduced the honored guests of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crowe of Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowe are the sponsors of the radio program "Songs at Sunrise" and many people have been regular listeners of their broadcast each morning. So it was a great treat to see Dorothy and Walter in person and to enjoy the fine program given by them. They continued several duets, all by request and Mr. Crowe delivered a fine address on the subject "Selfishness."

Mrs. Gardiner Emerson and daughter of Moira gave two fine instrumental selections. The Rev. Morley Clarke spoke briefly and Mrs. John Wallace, representing East St. Andrew's Church, voiced her appreciation of the gathering to the Crowes for their inspiring program.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Portsmouth penitentiary has "the most advanced method of treating drug addicts on the Continent," according to a court statement in Windsor, Ontario, recently by Magistrate Henrahan. (That's not a drug, that's the man's name.) The magistrate was sentencing an addict from Detroit to two years in Portsmouth "to take the cure."

While it's nice to know a penitentiary has excellent treatment methods, seems a pity if Canadian hospitals can't approach this efficiency of treatment before a person commits a crime.

Wherever young mothers gather there's talk of babies and wee tots. At this week's tea party, one mother told about the time a crust of bread soaked in milk wrapped it in sterile cotton gauze and gave it to her baby to chew at instead of his thumb.

Speaking of keeping kiddies occupied, another mother told of putting some molasses on each of the baby's thumbs. Then, she sticks a small feather on one thumb. The baby keeps pulling the feather back and forth from the thumb to the other for hours on end — absolutely fascinated with the whole thing..... Appears somewhat frustrating. But maybe if more people would toss feathers between thumbs in their childhood, they'd get over their frustration earlier in life.

On the subject of babies, another mother put in her two cents worth by expounding on the theory that if a baby from seven months of age is punished constantly for fiddling with knick-knacks on tables, it isn't long before the wee one will never touch tables or table.....His parents will be much better off removing the knick-knacks away because of the youngsters's venturesome little paws...Sounds practical, if it works.

First definite indication that prices are on the downward trend is the announcement of a reduction in the purchase of a dog's rubber bone. This luxury item has been selling at 29 cents one month and the next month it's up to 39 cents. Now "red brand" bones are appearing on the store counters for 25 cents . . . . Just as long as the government of dogdom doesn't come along and clamp a floor price on these canine toys everything will be just dandy.

Speaking extemporaneously to his audience after a presentation of the play "Harvey", Joe E. Brown tells of his early days in the silent films. He recalls his role in one film, in which he found difficulty in drinking coffee from a cup because the spoon would keep slipping around and banging him in the mouth.....

Joe says he suddenly took hold of that spoon and bent it to prevent it from sliding. In the days that followed, Joe E. Brown was deluged with letters from irate parents who claimed in no uncertain terms that every spoon in the house was now bent, due to his influence on their children.

Uncle Frontenac says that members of service clubs are showing their Christian spirit by helping to raise money for the Canadian Cancer Fund...After all, it was the Master who went about healing the sick in body, as well as the sick in spirit.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

The two great indigenous American dishes, roast chicken with chestnut stuffing, and roast turkey with chestnut stuffing, aren't American after all. In recent years almost all of our chestnuts have been imported from Italy. We've been buying Italian chestnuts because a blight destroyed American chestnut trees in 1910. Such chestnut trees as have flourished here have been wood nut nut, prodcdoved Ed.

Now three new varieties of chestnut trees developed at the Beltsville, Maryland, research centre, promise to supply larger, sweeter and smoother chestnuts.

The mealy subtle flavor of chestnuts is easily lost if not handled properly. Overcooking or overseasoning will ruin them. The lush French dessert, Marrons Glace, is ice cream with chestnuts in a simple vanilla syrup.

In estimating the amount required, a half pound of chestnuts in the shell will yield 1 cup of chestnut meat—enough to provide stuffing for a roasting chicken or duck. To cook your stuffing only until it is slightly browned, make your roast in one pan and your stuffing in another.

Chestnut Stuffing

Place 1-2 pound of chestnuts slashed on one side in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, for 20 minutes. Remove. Cool slightly. Remove shells. Simmer in boiling water to which 1-2 teaspoon salt has been added for 30 minutes. Drain chestnuts and cut or break into small pieces; do not crumble fine.

Put enough stale dry white bread through a food chopper to make 3 cups crumbs. Do not use toasted crumbs.

Chop very fine 1-2 cup onion, 1-4 cup celery and 1-4 cup green pepper. Add vegetables in a pan with 1-4 cup melted fat—chicken or vegetable shortening. Cook until onions are tender.

Add bread crumbs. Add 1-2 cup stock or consomme, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Add chestnuts and mix lightly.

Place stuffing in a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees for 1-2 hour or until lightly browned on bottom.

Serve stuffing with roast chicken, duck or goose. In place of chestnuts, oysters, or apples may be added.

Do you want a particular recipe or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, for his reply. —Ed.

A New Travel Ration Period

Began

NOVEMBER 16th

AS ANNOUNCED BY THE MINISTER OF FINANCE, THE REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE USE OF U.S. DOLLARS FOR TRAVEL CONTINUE IN FORCE. As in the past, it will be necessary for Canadians to obtain a permit from their bank if they wish to take out of Canada more than $10 U.S., or more than $25 in U.S. and Canadian currency combined.

Pleasure Travel

The maximum amount of U.S. dollars which any Canadian resident may obtain for pleasure travel purposes during the twelve months beginning November, 16th, 1949, is $150. In the case of children of eleven years and under, the amount is $100. There is no restriction in the number of trips as long as the annual allotment is not exceeded.

Travel for Business, Health or Education

Reasonable amounts of U.S. dollars may be obtained for these purposes by making application through any of the chartered banks.

Travel to Europe

Special arrangements exist whereby Canadian dollars can be used to buy the appropriate currencies for travel in the United Kingdom and other sterling area countries, as well as in most countries of Western Europe. Travel expenditure in these countries does not come out of the $150 U.S. currency ration.

November Birthstone — Topaz. Emblem of Friends and Lovers

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Several times in your column I have read answers to readers as to what their birthstone is and what it stands for, and I believe I remember that sometimes you suggested the use of the birthstone in the engagement ring if the engaged girl couldn't have, or didn't want to have, a diamond. Now will you please advise me . . . , a girl, what engagement ring don't particularly 'crave' a diamond engagement ring, of most girls do, could my birthstone possibly be used as my engagement ring?

Editha M.

Your November birthstone is the Topaz. . . golden Topaz is the best known, a deep velvety saffron, Scotch, which is of similar color, is topaz quartz.) True Topaz is a precious stone of great hardness, and because of its hardness it is possible to produce a brilliant polish, and therefore it is particularly adaptable for rings, pins, necklaces, bracelets.

You are fortunate in having Topaz for your birthstone, if you are considering using your birthstone in your engagement ring. . . because Topaz is the emblem of friendship and LOVE, and for this reason it is frequently chosen as an engagement-ring stone.

"Who first comes to this world below
With dreary November's fog and snow
Should prize the Topaz's amber hues —
Emblem of friends and lovers true."

Father and Daughter Signature To Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How often an adult, unmarried daughter, living with her father, sign Christmas cards when both names are to be included in the signature?

C. D.

In all the signatures the father's name should be written first. The cards to be sent to the general list may properly be signed: Arthur Davis and Catherine Davis. Those to relatives, for example, Uncle Arthur and Catherine. And the cards to those who call the daughter Catherine, may list their first names, Arthur and Catherine. Sometimes it might be interesting and effective to write the names on separate lines. . .

Can't Afford to Renew Christmas Subscriptions — Needn't Explain

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am making my Christmas list, and because of my very limited budget this year, due to illness expenses, I must be definitely curtail my present budget. For quite a few years I have given a magazine subscription as a Christmas present to some of my friends. This year I can't afford to renew these subscriptions. Do you think that I should explain to these friends that I am not continuing the subscriptions? If you should think I do explain, must I also give the reason?

Frances B.

No, I don't think you should, or need to, explain to your friends that you are discontinuing the subscriptions for either one year or several years. It must be considered by your friends as establishing a precedent. . . any more than your giving a purse one year would mean that you should give, or would be expected to give, a purse to each for each succeeding year. Also, the friends to whom you have given such an important present would undoubtedly know about the illness circumstances and would not expect you to give them a present this year. So my suggestion is that you don't renew the subscriptions. . . and say nothing about it, no explaining.

Fashion Flashes

DREAMY wraps and evening jackets of white mink drew sighs and applause at a recent showing. One beauty, especially, won plaudits. White mink was used in an easy-fitting style with easy cape fullness in back and a jacket effect in front. Cape back extends into wide sleeves with narrow turn-back cuffs, and shawl collar continues in tapering tuxedo line.

NEVER better than this season's offerings is the handling of that old theme, dual white. A magnificent late afternoon and theatre costume is made up of a black velvet skirt topped by a jacket top of white satin lavishly embroidered with stalks of wheat in jet beads. Over this a black velvet bianaise wraps from throat to waist.

THERE'S VARIETY and to spare in skirts. Very new, and nice for the young crowd, is a skirt of aqua woollen, the curvy-midriff belt outlined in violet rick-rack braid, and trimmed with a big heart-shaped pocket of millinery flowers put on with buckram so that it is removable.

Booklet Gives Useful Hints On Nervous Child

BY KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Teachers with training to recognize symptoms of emotional disturbance in children are needed in Canada's schools.

In fact the Canadian Welfare Council has placed this need at the top of the list of services necessary in the normal emotional development of children.

"First of all, a happy home is he "best possible" guarantee for healthy growth. The report of a council committee studying the organization of child welfare services in Canada also says programs to ensure financial security and health are important. Parental education and marriage counselling are necessary.

Child guidance, prevention facilities; remedial treatments centres for the physically handicapped child; training programs for the child who is markedly superior in intelligence and care for the handicapped child; child guidance clinics for the emotionally disturbed child; segregation of young offenders in correctional institutions; homes for unmarried mothers and girls whose own homes are unable to meet their needs; foster home facilities for children requiring placement out of their own homes.

The thin, whining youngster who tires easily the nail biter or the child with twitching habits — these are the Health and Welfare department's pupils in its latest child-training pamphlet.

The booklet published by the department is entitled "Nervous Habits," and is designed to help the child who is easily excited, or who tires quickly, does so unruly for some reason or other, has the ease or defect in his nervous system.

Sometimes a physical condition, such as malnutrition, is responsible. "Fatigue is to blame. Frequently he trouble lies in the child's mind or in his failure building up a tension within him—the fear of being laughed at by others is probably the most common one.

"If you expect him to behave with grown-up manners, or you are bringing him up under too strict a discipline he will feel insecure in your love."

Then again a child bites to get relief from some pressure or anxiety too strong for him. The booklet says that tying his hands or putting bad-tasting stuff on his fingers, won't stop the habit.

To help the nail biter, make his nails smooth and lessen the irritation by soaking them in olive oil. Next look for the possible cause in his physical emotional health.

The booklet says the real trouble probably lies in the youngster's emotional set-up. A building up of his self-confidence is important.

"Show him you're proud of the things he is learning to do for himself."

Avoid too much playing and competition with older children, too much noise and rushing about, too many movies and radio programs.

Finally, if the child persists in nail-biting the mother is urged to gain his co-operation by developing his pride in manicured and well-kept nails.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Couldn't Wait for Love— Now Wishes She Had

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18, and have been married for six months. I have a four month-old little girl. If it were not for her, I think I would have left my husband long ago. My husband and brother, who is also married and has a little girl of his own, run around with other women when they are together. I really don't know what to do, because I care a lot about my husband, I try to talk to him, but he won't pay any attention to me. He just gets mad, and sometimes even beats me, and tells me to pack my clothes and get out and never come back.

Do you know any job a girl at my age can get, and any place where a four-months-old baby could be kept? What would you advise me to do?

W.

Dear W:

Did any welfare agency help you when you had the little baby, since you obviously were not married at the time you became pregnant? If so, I think you should go to whoever aided you then and talk your present problem over.

If no welfare agency was involved in the situation, however, then I think you should go to one now and tell your husband abuses you, something should be done about it. No matter what the circumstances under which a girl is forced to get married, as you evidently did, it does not mean that she has to accept physical mistreatment thereafter. If it were up to me, your baby will be placed in a boarding home for a while, a welfare agency then will know what to do about that. If you do not know where to find an organization of this kind yourself, send me a stamped, addressed envelope and I will be glad to tell you.

Doesn't Like the Way Fellows Act Today

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 15, and used to get a kick out of life, but things have changed so much that I can't understand myself. It isn't that I don't go out, but the way fellows act today gets me disgusted you hale everybody, including myself. The girls now behave as the fellow want them to, seem to have all the luck, while the girls who want to get the most out of life and have clean fun don't seem to be recognized. I used to enjoy people, and loved mixing with them, but now I have such an inferiority complex that I never had before and I think everything I do is wrong.

D.

Dear D.:

I wonder what particular thing happened to upset you so much that you feel everything seems to have changed? I think you must have had some experience that made you so unhappy it destroyed all the enthusiasm and joy once had.

It is perfectly true that there are many boys and young men who do not behave as they should toward the girls they go with, but there are just as many of the other kind who are willing to be good friends and enjoy a girl's company.

The best thing for you to do right now is to stop thinking so much about the boys and get busy with a lot of other interests. I suspect you are doing too much moping at home. If you will join a club or two, preferably a hobby club of some kind, or something else in which you can take a real interest, you will be surprised to find how much more self-confident it makes you feel. A hobby club is particularly good, because you are associated with people who like to do the same things, and that gives you something in common to talk about.

Try this and see if it doesn't help you and open the way to new social contacts.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Be Catty and Stretch

Every girl would out a good figure. Some are too thin, others too plump. The lucky one, whose proportions are the result of perfect poise, is likely to take her good fortune for granted, make no effort to retain that state of perfection. Some fine day—or should we say sad one?—she notices that the zipper won't zip. Frock too small. Is it possible that she is on the way to taking on the middle-age spread? Possibly. Overweight sneaks up on one, especially as one meanders along toward the thirtieth birthday.

A healthy, highly energized young woman should enjoy exercise of all kinds, especially outdoor sports. The lazy girl can scarcely bear to lift an eyebrow, everything in the way of any muscular exertion appearing to be a bore and a bother. For this type we offer some easy exercises. Goodness knows they will not exhaust the girl who is bent on forward more strenuous efforts.

They are necessary, not only for the figure, but for the complexion, the hair, the fingernails. Every cell of the body lives on the blood streams, and exercise speeds up their work of delivering food and drink.

Activity is a law of life; the healthy body-mind-spirit should realize that fact. Unless her muscles are used, they lose elasticity, become soft and flabby, form perfect tenements for fat cells. Once adipose tissue starts to form it is not easy to send it into a state of dissolution.

Note the noble house dog and the tabby cat, how they stretch. They'll stop to stretch even when, aroused from a nap, they are called to the kitchen for food. Stretching is a must with them, and so it should be for human folk.

The baby awakens, yawns, throws rosebud arms above his head, curls his legs, then sends them out full length. He arches his back. It is his manner of helps fibres to grow and be strong.

When you awaken in the morning, throw off the bed covers. Lie on your back. Stretch your arms by lifting and lowering the chin; that will keep the flesh smooth. Stretch your fingers, extend your arms full length, raise them above your head. At the same time sending your toes downward as they touch the footboard of the bed. Try to pull yourself apart at the waistline.

Stretch before retiring to sleep; this practice will bring relaxation and a sense of tranquility.

She notices that the zipper won't zip.

Everybody Talks About Equal Pay For Women But Nobody Does Anything About It

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 19—(CP)—Equal pay for women is like the weather —everybody talks about it, but nobody ever does anything.

That's what makes it so difficult. All political parties give lip service to the idea, but it's still not being applied.

Thirty years ago, a war cabinet committee decided in favor of one pound for the man. It urged the government of the day to enforce it "with the least possible delay." Today women are still waiting.

"No wonder we're angry—it's like advertising over feather beds," says sprightly, chestnut-haired Mrs. Thelma Cazalet Keir, chairman of a committee campaign for equal pay.

To demonstrate the gap between words and deeds, the committee has published a pamphlet called "A Black Record". This is a summary of 30 separate, high-level statements, all favoring equal pay.

Twice the House of Commons has agreed that men and women should get the same rate. The ruling Labor Party has pledged to the principle. But successive Socialist finance ministers opposed its introduction—too costly, they say.

Manifesto Issued

What would the Conservatives do? In a manifesto for the next general election, it advocates the one-rate principle, "provided that the services rendered and the results achieved by men and women are the same."

W. J. Brown, Independent member of parliament, wrote that women wouldn't be satisfied, on matter, what happened.

"For it is in the nature of women to demand all the benefits of equality and all the advantages of chivalry," he said. "Bless them."

Mrs. Cazalet Keir just snorts at statements like that, and goes on with her campaign. Her most notable success was in 1944, when she engineered the government's defeat by one vote on the equal-pay issue.

Newspapers called her "as quiet as a mouse as ever terrified" the Commons. It was the first defeat suffered by the Churchill wartime coalition government since its formation in May, 1940.

Mrs. Keir is waiting to Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone; 69-year-old Mr. Cazalet Keir, formerly was Conservative M.P. for the seaside resort of Hastings, of East Islington, London. Next to Viscountess Astor, she was reputed to be the most influential member of parliament, but one of the most progressive.

Beans Mean Real Economy

Do you know beans? The home economists of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are not trying to be facetious when they ask the housewife to realize that very few homemakers are using beans to their meals as often as they might.

Beans are an inexpensive food that are rich in mineral, calories and nourishing main course dishes. Being bland, they require the addition of some more flavorful food or special seasoning, to give appetizing appeal.

Almost everyone likes baked beans and they do require a long time in preparation. Sometimes it is an advantage to buy ready-baked, canned beans, but no one's own special extra ingredients can be missed.

Here are several recipes featuring beans which may be prepared more quickly than the home-baked beans.

Cream of Bean Soup

1 cup dried white (navy) beans
6 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon fat
1-2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon flour
1 quart (4 cups) hot milk
2 teaspoons salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Soak beans, in water to cover, overnight . Drain, add the boiling water, cannot and cook until tender, about two hours. If a pressure cooker is used, cook the soaked beans in water to barely cover for 30 minutes at 15 lb. pressure. Fry onion in fat until clear, add flour and blend well. Add hot milk, cooking and stirring until slightly thickened. Add drained, cooked beans and season with salt and pepper. Reheat and serve hot. Yields six cups.

Super Beans

2 cups dread white (navy) beans
6 cups water
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup chopped onion
4 or more strips bacon or salt pork (cut in pieces)
2 tablespoons molasses
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup tomato soup

Soak beans in water to cover, overnight. In the morning, drain. Add 6 cups boiling water and beans and simmer until tender, about 1-3 hour. If canned, do not drain. Mix chopped onion, bacon, molasses, brown sugar and the other ingredients and add to beans. Place in a covered bean pot or baking dish and bake in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., for 1 hour, then add tomato soup and continue baking, uncovered, until brown, about 1-2 hour. If canned beans are used any vegetable water to beans during baking to prevent scorching. Yield: six to eight servings.

Bean and Cheese Roast

2 cups cooked (white navy) beans
1-2 cups grated "medium" Cheddar cheese
1 small onion, finely chopped
1-4 cup finely chopped celery or apple
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 egg
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups soft, stale bread crumbs

Drain beans and mash. Add cheese, onion, celery or apple, parsley, salt and pepper. Add slightly beaten egg and mix thoroughly. Melt fat in a saucepan, add crumbs, mixing well and cook until slightly browned. Add sufficient crumbs to cheese mixture until thick enough to shape into a loaf. Roll the loaf in the remaining crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until heated through and nicely browned, about 20 minutes. Serve hot with tomato sauce. Yield: six servings.

NATIONAL FILM

In the long, tortuous debate involving three cabinet ministers and a host of opposition members, these facts were brought to light:

1. Investigation of Film-Board employees is proceeding quickly so that Mr. Ilsley will be in position as soon as possible to take over the secret work from the private companies.

2. The current investigations are part of a general program of screening in government departments, purpose of which is to ensure against leaks of secret matters and information.

3. Establishment of the security-program had been prompted by apparent leakages of information from secret cabinet meetings and, among other things, premature newspaper publication of official matters and decisions.

4. Real secret service or international exchanges of secret documents which often pass through the hands of employees in certain government departments was also a considerable factor.

Reads Paper Article

The debate was touched off when Mr. Harkness read an article in Peter Heeney's dispatch which said the Defence Department does not allow the Film Board to do work on secret films because screening of the board employees is not finished.

Ensuing discussion revealed that two companies — Crawley Films of Ottawa and Associated Screen News of Montreal — had been handling their work during and since the war.

Earlier this year the government had decided to turn the work over to the Film Board. This could not be done, however, until Film-Board employees were screened.

There was some confusion as to what reason the government had for trusting the private companies.

Mr. Claxton said at one point that they had been screened. Percy Wright (CCF-Melfort) asked how this had been done.

Later, in reply to further questioning, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"I cannot say that every individual employed by those firms has been screened. As far as I know we are relying on the firm and not upon a decision of our own."

Want Screening Quickly

Reconstruction Minister Winters, whose department includes the Film Board, said "We have urged the authorities to press forward as quickly as possible with the screening." Mr. Winters emphasized the need for screening in no way suggests any suspicion regarding trustworthiness of Film Board employees.

Later Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) asked if there was evidence of any untoward incident on the part of Film Board employees or employees of the private film companies. Mr. St. Laurent said there wasn't.

The prime minister said he regretted that the whole matter had become public, "not because it is embarrassing to the government but because I think it is unfortunate that there should be any impression — and there will be such an impression — that those who are in the board are under a cloud . . .

"We were endeavoring to proceed in such a manner as to obtain certification without anyone going under a cloud."

Vouch for Each One

"This premature publicity before we are in a position to make a positive statement that each one has been examined and that we are prepared to vouch for each one, is unfortunate."

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) said it was not long ago that "Freda Linton, a notorious Communist, was a member of the National Film Board."

"We had hoped that the government would see to it that that type of employee was eliminated."

(Miss Linton was among those mentioned in a royal commission report on being suspected of espionage activities on behalf of the Russians. After being missing from 1942, she gave herself up to police some months ago and the government subsequently withdrew the espionage charges against her.)

Mr. St. Laurent emphasized that the whole program of investigation "isn't a snooping progress to undermine the character of anyone." It was to be by confining to the heads of various government departments that they could be sure their employees could be entrusted with secret matters.

NORTHPORT

Northport — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rabbis visited their nephew the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Rabbis, Napanee, on Monday of last week. On their return they met the sad hour with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crothers, Deseronto.

Mrs. Martha Reid was pleasantly surprised on Sunday evening when several friends gathered after church. It was her natal day and her daughter Shirley had planned the get-together as a complete surprise. Mrs. M. Foster assisted and had made a beautiful cake for the occasion.

The Northport W.A. sponsored a successful supper in the W. A. Hall on Thursday evening. A good program was given and $55 realized.

Mrs. W. Ruggles left on Sunday for her new home in Montreal where Mr. Ruggles is stationed. All are sorry to see Betty leave the community where she has spent all her days. She will be missed in church, choir, Sunday School and all other activities.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Denyer and Joan, Belleville, spent the weekend with Mrs. Denyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Baldwin.

Capt. and Mrs. George Baldwin and Ronnie of Cobourg were weekend guests of their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Demille of Bethesda were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry of Glenora spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. G. Hough.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kotchepaw and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Berker attended the funeral of Dr. Boyd's mother in Kingston on Wednesday.

The many friends of Mr. Thos. Potter were glad to welcome him home for the weekend but he returned on Sunday evening for further treatment. He has been transferred from Toronto General Hospital to the convalescent hospital at Malton. Mrs. Potter, who has been his constant attendant since the accident, has returned home.

Bishop Manning, Foe of Easy Divorce, Dies

New York, Nov. 19. (CP)—Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, 83, former Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York and a long time foe of easy divorce, died Friday in St. Luke's hospital.

He entered the hospital Nov. 4 after returning from a vacation in Maine. The cause of death was announced as "a bladder and kidney involvement."

The British-born Bishop Manning played a major role in the building of the huge cathedral of St. John the Divine here. He preached his farewell sermon there three years ago upon his retirement after 25 years as Bishop of New York. The sermon was a defence of "the sacramental religion of the Scriptures and the Holy Catholic Church."

He was a firm upholder of marriage as a sacrament. He also expressed belief repeatedly in the eventual unification of all Christian churches, and denounced lotteries, paganism and the joint income tax for married couples.

In a 1947 statement sent to two church publications, he censured two bishops of his church—Rt. Rev. William P. Moody, of Lexington, Ky., and Rt. Rev. Frank Whittington Creighton, of Michigan—for sanctioning the marriage of two ministers to divorcees.

He said the Bishops' interpretations of a new, liberalized marriage canon in the church would make a "ghastly mockery" of the marriage service.

Stopped Roosevelt's Son

In 1945 Bishop Manning stopped Elliott Roosevelt, then twice-divorced, from serving as a vestryman at the St. James Church at Hyde Park, N.Y.

He said the son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was not in "good standing" in the church.

A church publication sharply criticized the bishop's action. The magazine said oosevelt was a member in regular attendance. The magazine said Roosevelt was father had been a senior warden.

However, the church's vestry board voted to "sustain the wisdom" of the Bishop.

"Has any man, king or commoner, the right to abandon his ness by running around with another man's wife?"

He answered his own question by saying that "such defiance of God's law" could not lead to happiness.

A native of Northampton, England, Bishop Manning came to this country with his parents when he was 14 years old.

He is survived by two daughters.

1st Belleville Brownies

Consternation appeared on the faces of Brown Owl and Tawny Owl on arrival at the Kiwanis Centre last Tuesday afternoon, for a most important Brownie meeting, an enrolment, and Commissioner was coming—for there in the centre of the hall was a large container of rather murky water which had collected there by slow drippings from a rupturious patch in the ceiling above. Mops, brooms, tins and other paraphernalia complete the picture and a somewhat despondent caretaker informed us that he had been dealing as efficiently as possible with a leaky pipe from the floor above.

Now Brownies are fairy people and so of course they are right at hand, we changed the murky drippings into our "Magic Pool" and with real Autumn leaves and a mirror, what a pretty pool we had. Even the Brownies were convinced that we had specially arranged that leak just for enrolment. In the Brownies happy bright little Tweenies, who were led in turn to the "Magic Pool", to see reflected back at them, first of all their own little selfs, but then after Commissioner with her quiet welcoming smile had waved them back to the pool, in turn they went, where

"Twist me, and turn me, and show me the Elf,

I looked into the water, and

Lo and behold! . . . a Brownie."

The ten new Brownies are: Ann Smith, Peggy Campbell, Sheila Green, Donna Blue, Gwethelyn Cathers, Judy Rose, Yvette Colleen, Ellen Hamilton, Donna Johnson, Janet Giffin.

The Flying Up ceremony for the Brownie who are being enrolled in Company 1, will take place next Tuesday at St. Thomas' Parish House, Bridge Street, at 4:30 p.m. The 1st Belleville Brownies will meet as usual at the Kiwanis Centre after school and Brown Owl will take them down to St. Thomas for the ceremony. The Brownies from the Pine Street School will wait at the school until Tawny Owl and parents with cars meet them.

Transfer

As from the following week, that is Nov. 29th the 1st Belleville Brownies will meet at Queen Victoria School, Pine Street, after school on Tuesdays at 4 p.m., and all Brownies from the 3rd Belleville Pack attending Pine Street School will join the 1st Belleville. The Brownies of the 1st Belleville who attend Queen Alexandra School will transfer to the 3rd Belleville, meeting on Mondays, at the Kiwanis Centre.

2nd Belleville Guides

Company 2 Girl Guides held their meeting in the form of a hike to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thad's as their guests the Boy Scouts of Troop 1. The Guides and Scouts left from the Guide meeting rooms at 6:45 and proceeded to the Doctor's farm on the 2nd Concession of Thurlow. Upon arrival the Guides and Scouts set to work and soon had a blazing campfire around which they gathered for the feast of wieners, buns and drinks, following this the group went inside for games a party of games, dancing and a sing-song. Three of the Guides, after an evening, Hilda Morris and Barbara McLuskie were presented with a birthday cake. The Company then presented Carolyn Brown, who is leaving for Ottawa, with a Girl Guide Hymnary. Company 2 Guides would like to thank Mrs. Ann Morris and Mr. Jordan for taking the Guides and Scouts home in their cars after an evening of fun, also Mr. and Mrs. Doctor for allowing them to hold the wiener roast on their farm. Any Guides who missed the party lost out on a very enjoyable evening. On Saturday, November 5, Company 2 held a very successful sale and homecooking in the market building. The Company wish to thank all those who gave donations to this sale.

7th Belleville Guides

Company 7 has nothing extra to report this week. The Guides are working hard on all their tests, and it is expected that the enrollment ceremony will take place early in December. We are looking forward to having a record attendance of parents and friends at this important meeting.

Cigarette Price War Waged in Utica

Utica, N.Y.—(AP)—A price war that has driven the price of cigarets down to 10 cents a pack attracted long lines of smokers to two Utica drug stores recently.

The two stores occupy opposite corners in Utica's business section. They started their battle Saturday by dropping prices to 13 cents a pack. They closed only other three cents Wednesday.

Smokers queued up at both stores, but were permitted to buy only a single pack.

BONARLAW

Mr.; Mrs. L. Mumby Honored by Gifts And Dinner Party

Bonarlaw — On Friday of last week Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Mumby of Bonarlaw were the guests of honor at a dinner party at the home of their son, Hiram, Springbrook. The occasion was the 45th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. Lindsay Mumby and his wife, the former Miss Jessie Johnston of Healey Falls.

Those present were the immediate family, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mumby, Lynn and Heather of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Mumby and Marial of Springbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffery, Ross and Mary of Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. Reg. McKeown and Billie of Springbrook; Mr. Murray's sister, Miss Hilda Mumby of Toronto and Mrs. Delilah Barrens of Cordova Mines and his brothers, with their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Mumby of Harold; Mr. and Mrs. James Mumby of Springbrook; also Mrs. Murray's sister, Mrs. Marvin McComb and her daughter, Miss Sarah McComb and son Lorne, and his wife, all of Colborne.

The table was decorated with a bouquet of bronze mums and lighted candles of matching color and the anniversary cake, decorated correspondingly and with 45 lighted candles combined to make a very pretty scene.

After dinner speeches were made by a number of those present with Ralph Mumby acting as Master of Ceremonies.

During the evening a mock wedding was staged by the grandchildren, Lynn and Heather Mumby acting the part of the bride and groom, Marial Mumby as bridesmaid and Ross Jeffrey as groomsman. Billie McKeown capably acted the part of the clergyman. Mrs. Ralph Mumby presided at the piano during the evening. Photographs were taken during the proceedings.

Mrs. Mumby's gift from the family was a gold chain and pendant with turquoise setting and Mr. Mumby received a gold pen knife and chain. They were also the recipients of several other gifts from friends and relatives.

A piece of the anniversary cake is being sent to Mr. Mumby's sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Linnen of Moosomin, Sask, and Mrs. Martha McInroy of Port Colborne, Ont., who were unable to be present.

TODAY IT'S THE "PIONEER"

The PIONEER is the answer to the great demand for a one-man power saw which will give continuous reliable service under all working conditions, efficiently handle up to 30" cutting capacities. The blade and chain for the PIONEER is the result of a vast amount of research, producing a cutting unit which will cut fast and clean in any type or condition of wood.

A Deluxe Model at No Extra Cost

LEADING THE FIELD WITH . . .

(1) THE NEW "MULTIPORT" ENGINE—
I.E.L. engineers have developed this revolutionary new engine which is rated at 4.1 h.p.

(2) TRIGGER SWIVEL —
Eight position swivelling of blade with finger tip control.

(3) FINGERLIGHT CLUTCH —
Heavy duty automotive type cork insert clutch, and can be operated in either the falling or bucking position by the touch of the finger.

SUPPLIED WITH BAR AND CHAIN, 14", 18", 24", 30"

WEIGHS ONLY 28 POUNDS — Less Cutting Attachment.

There is no excess weight on the PIONEER. It goes into action trimmed to bare cutting essentials, handles easily and carries through the woods with remarkable ease.

THE LATEST DEVELOPMENT IN ONE-MAN POWER SAWS!

THE PIONEER TWIN

ONE AND TWO-MAN POWER CHAIN SAW
TWIN CYLINDER MULTI-PORT ENGINE
DUAL CONTROLS AND GRIPS

Made with the same precision as the famous One Man Pioneer Power Saw, the Pioneer Twin Cylinder Power Saw is the result of 10 years of experimenting and testing in co-operation with the man in the woods.

The I.E.L. Twin answers the need for a light weight, efficient power saw that is readily convertible from one man to two man operation with ample power for both.

The lightest twin cylinder power chain saw on the market. Weighs less than 45 lbs. (excluding cutting attachments.)

Dual finger tip engine controls and hand grips conveniently located for efficient one or two man operation.

Twin Cylinder Multi-Port Engine — Perfect Balance — No Vibration.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Much favorable comment has been heard up and down the sports rialto since yesterday's announcement that Senior "B" hockey will get under way in the immediate future. And yet more favorable are voiced opinions of fandom here regarding the set-up of the five teams, Belleville Diesels-Electrics; Peterborough Hockey Club; Peterborough Legion; Kingston Nylons, and Gananoque.

* * *

It should make for a fine season of senior hockey. The teams will play twelve games away and twelve at home with each other over the scheduled time all which actually means that over the twenty-four games of squads will play two games a week. Twenty-four games of hard-fought hockey, and that is what it will be, should put the respective puckists in shape by the time the playoffs roll around.

* * *

Strength of the teams in the group is as yet an unknown quantity. Peterborough Hockey Club has practically the same team as last year, while Peterborough Legion, which won the Senior "B" title has the same beef and brawn with perhaps some additions. Kingston Nylons who went into Diesels to the wailing wall last year after an unbeaten season are reported to be as strong as last year, defeated schedule are reported to be as strong as last year, while Gananoque which went to the Intermediate "A" finals in 1948 went to any pushovers.

* * *

The Diesel-Electrics should ice a powerful crew. The merged strength of Northern Electric and Canadian National Railway, whence cometh the monikers, should be a potent ice aggregation, one that should make the rest of the group litter sit up and take notice. It has a strong defence, in fact, the strongest in years in the Intermediate ranks. Maurice Lefort, netminders and Clare Williamson, who to date has been playing the best hockey in senior time, Joe Nolan who is improving with every appearance, Tommy Schreider who also seems to be headed for a banner season, Bill Burns, Hank Reeves and others. The stock creeps up front beast some speedy tricky snipers. There's Don Barrett, Keith MacDonald and Johnny Remark on the "Punch" line. Mainthill, Doug Free, Leo and Vern Gorye, Timmy Williams, Jackie Wardbaugh, Art Cousins, Gerry Mohrs, Doug Bastedo, Peter Jones, Whitman, Dougie Day et al. Quite a pert aggregation of speed and ability. And we add modestly, in our opinion the most powerful squad of puckchasers in movement this village in many a moon.

* * *

As far as the Diesel Electrics are concerned, the suddenborn OHA group and especially the schedule will work some sort of difficulty with them as regards the District Hockey League. The schedule of that august body ends on December 8th — but then, there are playoffs to consider. Thus far no dates have been set for these games. It is quite likely that a meeting of the full executive of the league will be called at the first of the week to discuss the playoffs, and their relation to the Senior "B" Group schedule, and other important matters.

THIS QUEER WORLD OF SPORT

The Canadian Minor Hockey Association has informed its clubs, leagues and associations that it will not tolerate rough play . . . That it is firmly intent to abolish it . . . Dawn H. Montreal burly Ken Reardon, Canadiens' defenceman who smashed Toronto's Cal Gardner with a check three years ago when he was with Boston, smirking "Did I break his jaw? Well, well, it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy" . . . And Maurice Hablant in the weirdly quipping: "I hope it is nothing trivial" . . . Just where between the "C" form and the eight grand a year, do these puckchasers get their pustilistic feelings? . . .

* * *

One team manager thinks Joe Whosit is a good referee . . . Another thinks he couldn't officiate at a cockroach race . . . Of course a lot of that differences of opinion decree . . . Of course a lot of that differences of opinion depends on how team wins . . . Not so long ago an NHL manager sent two of his players across the river early in the season, because they couldn't make the grade . . . One of them led the league in scoring points that season . . . A Detroit firm made one of its employees quit hockey because it was afraid he would be injured . . . The next day he came in was afraid he would be injured . . . The next day he slipped on the pavement and broke a leg . . . A spectator can take a pass at a hockey player while the latter is on the ice . . . Maybe he (the spectator) gets ejected from the rink, and maybe he doesn't . . . But let a player comb the noggin of a filthy-tongued rinkside referee, and he goes to court . . . Let a hockey scorer omit the name of a player who was the last to look at the puck before it entered the net from the assist column, and he's a barrel-headed, pot-bellied form of a ripe tomato, whose parents were long tails gotten sun of a ripe tomato, whose parents were long tails gotten sun of a ripe tomato, whose parents were long tails In tail trees . . . But let the scorer omit his name from the penalty list after he has been awarded a misconduct or penalty list after he has been awarded a misconduct or penalty list after he has been awarded a misconduct or match penalty and he's the golden-haired glamor kid who is wasting his time scoring in a bush league Utah . . . Let a baseball umpire call a third strike on the batting pride of Succotash Corners, or any other place for that matter, and he's so low he would need a periscope to see over a mole hill . . . But let him call it on the weak hitter snake's back . . . But let him call it on the weak hitter snake's back . . . But let him call it on the weak hitter from the other side of the pasture field, and he's Beaten Reardon, Mazerkarth, and Bill Evans all rolled into one . . . 'Tis a strange realm, this world of sport.

* * *

Well, let's see what "Miracle Coach" Vic Obeck can pull out of the hat for his McGill Redmen this afternoon in Tawrasia where they meet the University of Western Ontario Mustangs for the intercollegiate title . . . The Redmen are riding high on the crest of the victory wave while the Mustangs, born of desperation are by no means pessimistic regarding the outcome . . . Maybe we're being just a bit human and pulling along with the underdog, but while our heart's with Western, the two bits is on McGill.

* * *

Down Montreal way the Hamilton Tigers join battle with the high-flying Alouettes for the right to meet the Calgary Stampeders next Saturday for the Grey Cup . . . Lou Lary Hayman (good ole Montreal publicity) is dolling it. He says something about an upset. And that lump in his cheek was not tobacco. As a matter of fact, this "upset" business reached the stage of a singing commercial, for no sooner had Hayman tenored it to the scribes than McGill's Obeck sang the same dirge in a basso profundo.

Now wouldn't it be funny if such a thing did happen? No, no, chum, I'm reaching for the handkerchief, not the wallet.

* * *

With the opening of the Senior "B" Group due a week Monday, the exhibition game here on Monday night between Toronto Meicars and our Diesel Electrics takes on added interest. It should be a full dress rehearsal for the Men o' Carson and that sorrel-topped gent intends it to be just that. The-Doc-Eve's will be on hand with and will be going at full speed all night against the high-flying gents from Toronto via Lindsay with the same name. They won't be fooling either, for their official debut into Senior "B" starts too, in the near future. "It's the fewst time, laders and gentelmen, that these perfawmers will be on display. Fulecee walk up and get your tickets."

Ten Imports On Big Four All-Star Team Emphasizes Domination Of U.S. Players

By JACK MITCHELL

Toronto, Nov. 19 (CP)—To keep pace with the changing times, the Canadian Rugby Union should consider a motion at its next annual meeting to change the game's name to American football played the Canadian way.

The Big Four all-star team, announced Friday night, looks more like another all-American dream team. There are ten United States imports on the 1949 lineup, emphasizing that the Americans are dominating Canada's gridiron scene as never before—in quality as well as quantity.

Football writers and coaches in the league's five cities, who selected the mythical team for The Canadian Press, also elected to choose only three Canadians — Royal Copeland of Toronto Argonauts, Ralph Tooby of Montreal Alouettes and Don Loney of Ottawa Rough Riders.

A total of 13 came about through a tie. The voting is weighted to provide each of the league's four cities equal voting strength in the 48-man selection. Frank Filchock of Alouettes and Andy Gordon of Riders. Each polled exactly the same total of points and share the quarterback position.

Ottawa, which led the league in the regular schedule, placed most players on the team. Alouettes who upset them in the playoffs, took four berths. Hamilton Wildcats, winless throughout, caught two places and Copeland was the only Argo choice.

On the 1948 team, there were seven imports and five Canadians. That season, 20 players from the U.S. took part in the league because Argos were still following their all-Canadian policy. This season the teams used the full 28 under the league's quota of seven a squad. Only Argos cut some of their imports during the schedule.

Wide Asset Blocker

With the two losing clubs avowedly determined to purchase better imports for next season, it seems logical the 1950 all-star could be loaded with Americans. Besides that, a few of the long-term Americans will start loafing, their import stigma soon unless the C.R.U. changes its rule that makes them Canadians after they've established four years continual residence here.

Copeland, who played one of his greatest seasons in a losing cause, is the only Canadian on the all-American backfield. Running mates of the 23-year-old blonde native of North Bay, are: Flying wing Bob Paffrath, the 170-pound great from Redwood Falls, Minn., and halves Howie Youngblood, Turner, Ottawa's all-around threat from Rocky Mount, N.C., and Virgil Wagner, Alouettes great, plunger from Belleville, Ill., who has made the team every one of his four seasons.

Loney, raised among Canada's all-time great centers, was selected for the fourth successive season. Tooby, his Canadian linemate chosen for the same spot in a row, is one of the scrappiest and hardest-hitting players in the game.

Other Linesmen

Besides Trawick, the other American linesmen are: Middle Eddie Michaels, Ottawa, who comes from Wilmington, Del.; Inside Guards John Wagoner of Gibsonville, N.C., at inside; inside Vince Scott of Wildcats, a favorite Dave Mann of Ottawa, who played his first Canadian season, and another Hamilton newcomer, Bob (Robin) Hood, the big end from Glenden, Ala., who has played in both the Rose and Sugar bowls for University of Alabama.

Elbowed off the 1949 team for the first time in years were Argo Jim Krol and Ottawa's Tony Golab and Bert Haigh.

The All-Stars:

Flying wing: Bob Paffrath, Ottawa.

Half: Howie Turner, Ottawa.

Half: Royal Copeland, Toronto.

Half (secondary defence): Virgil Wagner, Montreal.

Quarter: Frank Filchock, Montreal, and Andy Gordon, Ottawa (tied).

Snap: Don Loney, Ottawa.

Inside: Vince Scott, Hamilton.

Inside: Dave Mann, Ottawa.

Middle: Herb Trawick, Montreal.

Middle: John Wagoner, Ottawa.

Outside: Ralph Tooby, Montreal.

Outside: Bob Bood, Hamilton.

Alouettes Ready For Big Test With Hamilton

Montreal, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Forecast: light snow; odds 18 to 5 for Montreal; estimated crowd: 20,000.

That's the picture today as Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Alouettes square away for tomorrow's Eastern Canada football championship final. The winner will meet the Western champion Calgary Stampeders for the Dominion Crown in Toronto's Varsity Stadium next Saturday.

Coach Lew Hayman of the Als still was afraid of an upset Friday night but the gambling fraternity had established the powerful local team as a heavy favorite.

"This is the kind of game I've always hated," Hayman told the press after the Als' workout. Friday. "Too many things can happen to our pressing-type football to regard Hamilton's challenge lightly."

But Vern DeGeer, Montreal Gazette sports writer and a veteran football observer both here and in Ontario, commented:

"Actually, it is like sending a boy on a man's errand, for the O.R.F.U., physically and financially, for several seasons now has been strictly minor leagueish. Nevertheless, an estimated crowd of 20,000 will be out watching the Hamilton Davids meet Goliaths with their sling shots."

Hayman reported Friday that all members of the Alouette were in good shape but playing coach Merle Hapes of the Tigers had some player troubles.

Hopes himself is out of Sunday's game with a shoulder injury, reported that lineman Mel Ault was in bed with influenza and that Joe Caprioli, leading scorer of the O.R.F.U., was a doubtful starter. Caprioli had to quit a practice Friday with a severe stomach cramp.

Boris Tipoff, speedy former Toronto high school player, also may be out with a recurring leg injury.

Officials for tomorrow's game were announced Friday as Bob Leith of St. Thomas, Ont., Seymour Wilson of Hamilton; Johnny Munro, Toronto; and Alex Hayes, Sarnia, Ont.

Marlie Juniors Continue Winning Pace in League

(By The Canadian Press)

Two former stars of the Toronto Maple Leafs seem to have power of importing to their Ontario Hockey Association circuit the know-how that made them famous in their playing days. Toronto Marlboro Juniors, pupils of former starry centres Syl Apps, seemed to plough through the opposition in Jun "A" ranks last night by han a 4-2 defeat on the sixth pa Guelph Biltmores. The sen Marlies, with Joe Primeau but ing from the sidelines, coasted a 7-0 shutout over the tail-the Hamilton Tigers. Both senior and junior Marlboros have played 14 games, the younger set winning 11 and the seniors 10.

In other games last night Toronto St. Michael's College Majors vaulted into third place in the senior rating via a 4-2 overtime win over the Barrie Flyers. Stanford Krechlers, doormats of league, found their scoring punch and slammed Windsor Spitfires down 6-5.

At Guelph, Marlboros lived up to their press notices and punched in four goals in the first period without a reply from the Guelph Jack McKendry, Murray Grenke, Tommy Fyles and George Armstrong doing the honors. Biltmores rought back and finally clicked after nine minutes of the middle frame. Frank Baltgaste took Eddie Kulik's pass and banged it past Terry Lockhart in Marlie's net. It took seven minutes for another Guelph score, Ches Konecony doing the trick, helped by Don Plumb.

Fails to Help

Hamilton's revamped lineup failed to help them in their game with the senior Dukes. Bruce Dale did a creditable job in holding Marlies off the score sheet in the first period but the second saw two Hamilton counters.

Alfie Childs took things into his own hands in the third period, netted the winning marker and insurance tally but one minute and 20 seconds apart at the 18 and 19:20 minutes marks. Red Johnson, who leaves for service with the Pittsburgh Pirates of the American League tonight, assisted on Childs's first goal. Frank Sullivan and Al Buchanan helped on Alfie's second.

Up in Barrie, St. Michael's College literally climbed up on the Flyer's backs and pushed them down into fourth place. Before last night's encounter, Barrie led the collegians by one point. The victory pushed St. Michael's ahead by the same margin. Windsor was the hero of the overtime affair, bagging the winning marker after seven minutes and 15 seconds had elapsed in the extra 10 minute frame. Hap Emms pulled Jim Barclay from the Flyer cage and Leo Labine plunked in an insurance tally to pull the game on ice. Labine had scored earlier, opening the scoring in the initial period. It give him a two-goal performance. Willy Marshall, classy centre star of the Irish, got credit for the other St. Michael's goal. Stan Lord was the only Flyer to fool Howes in the Toronto net, getting both Barrie counters.

Come Up With Punch

Stratford reached away down in its bag of tricks and came up with some fancy scoring punch nobody knew they had and proceeded to thump Windsor Spitfires 6-3. Both teams had one period to themselves. Stratford sandwiched four goals in the middle frame with one each in the first and final while Spitfires tallied three times in the third. Bibber O'Hearn put the Stratford kids on top with his first of two goals at the tail end of the first period.

Krechlers went wild in the middle frame, counting four times without a Windsor reply. Jim Pernfuss, Don Heinbuch, Dinny Flanagan and Doug Williams were the marksmen. Not to be outdone, Spits came back in the third on goals by Jack Bailey, Erwin Grosse and Eddie Sankiewicz. The only two goal man of the game, Bibber O'Hearn clinched the verdict at the halfway mark.

Five games are on tap tonight. In the senior series, Kitchener-Waterloo travel to Owen Sound for the only game in that loop. Barrie meets St. Michael's in a return contest to the first game of a junior doubleheader at Toronto, and in the second game Guelph meet Marlboros in a return engagement. Galt is slated for a crack at Oshawa and Stratford travels to Windsor in the other games.

By JIM RASTABLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The top Detroit threesome ,Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Gordie Howe are living up to their power line tag.

The Red Wings are leaping the National Hockey League pack and the terrific trio is similarly out front of all other scoring units. They've racked up a collective total of 47 scoring points and scored 20 of the Wings 45 goals.

The point-total is one ahead of the 46 compiled by Chicago's high-scoring trio of Doug Bentley, Bill Mosienko and Roy Conacher, whose efforts are nullified somewhat by the lax state of the Black Hawks defence. The Wings have had only 28 goals scored against them, the fourth-place Hawks 44.

Tonight the Detroit power line bets a big test at Toronto against the Toronto Maple Leafs and goalie Walter (Turk) Broda. Leafs are three points off the pace in second place. But they play host at Detroit Sunday night and a double-victory could put Toronto out front.

There's only one game tonight. Sunday the Leafs have teams of the six-team loop also move into action. The third-place Montreal Canadiens clash with the tail-end Boston Bruins in Boston and the fifth-place New York Rangers meet the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks in Chicago.

Impressive Showing

Coach Tommy Ivan's Detroit charges have talked up an impressive showing so far this month. They haven't lost any of their six starts, finishing five victories and battling to one tie.

On the record, it won't be a pushover for Leaf Wings this weekend, in their only previous meeting with the Leafs they gained a 4-3 decision—that was Nov 5.

But the Leafs have been improving with every outing since then. In their last game the Leafs gave netminder Turk Broda his third shutout of the season when they blanked coach Dick Irvin's Canadiens 1-0 at Toronto.

Western, McGill Ready to Battle For Yates Trophy

Toronto, Nov. 19—(CP)—The 1949 Intercollegiate gridiron title and the Yates trophy—is at stake today.

It'll be put on the line when a giant squad of Redmen from Montreal's McGill University tangle with injured gut determined Universities of Western Ontario Mustangs, in their sudden death tilt at Varsity Stadium.

The Redmen were ushered into Toronto Friday night by coach Vic Obeck to rest up for the game while the Mustangs, holding rugged practice sessions behind closed doors all week, were scheduled to arrive here early today.

It's a big game for both clubs. The Redmen last won the title when they beat Western 9-0 in a playoff in 1938. They lost it to the Mustangs in 1939 who then started a great record. Western tore through the 1939-48 seasons interrupted by the war—undefeated and tied only once in 27 games before Varsity defeated them in the title-game last season.

The hustling Redmen, who finished the regular six-game schedule on top will go into the game with a virtually injury-free lineup. The only doubtful starter was 200-year-old outside Jim Mitchener.

Mitchener, who helped Calgary's Stampeders win the Grey Cup in 1948 and who later transferred to McGill suffered a sprained ankle in last week's game against the Mustangs in Montreal.

Meanwhile, from the Western camp came rumors that the Mustangs may be without their ace Jack Parry. Parry a 27-year-old Windsor boy who has been chosen for the Mythical all-star team for last two seasons aggravated a knee injury. But there were also indications that he will be used in crucial moments to try some of his bullet-like passes if the Mustangs are desperate for a score.

Fergie says the Gavilan camp still is taking the contest bout seriously and that Gavilan lost in Detroit to a fighter named Lester Felton.

"That was a betting coup, engineered in Detroit," Fergie he lifting his team for this one quotes Gavilan's trainer, Mun-than Vic Obeck dismiss Gavilan as saying. "I'm will have."

May Announce Sale of Indians Next Monday

(By The Canadian Press)

The long-awaited sale of the Cleveland Indians was reported Friday to be ready for announcement on Monday.

The Cleveland News said Tribe President Bill Veeck will complete the sale Monday morning to a group headed by Ellis W. Ryan, Cleveland insurance executive.

In Chicago, when told of the story, Veeck declared:

"The deal is not definitely established and there isn't much I can say. In other words, I'm being very evasive."

Ryan was not available for comment.

The Ryan group has been dickering with Veeck for several weeks. The sale price reported to have been agreed upon is $2,-200,000.

In addition to Ryan and Hornbeck the new group is believed to include County Democratic Chairman Ray T. Miller; Guy Walter, sport shop owner; Jack Kahn, an associate of Ryan in his insurance business; George Medinger, director of the Fostoria Pressed Steel Company; Nate Dolin, box office treasurer of the Cleveland arena, and Harry Small, vice-president of the Bank of Ohio.

Heavyweight East Walls of Toronto Friday night knocked out Albert Coulbaly, Senegalese boxer, in the first round of their scheduled 10-rounder at Manchester, England. The Canadian weighed in at 175. Coulbaly 188 1-4.

Coulbaly took a terrific pounding during the two minutes the fight lasted. He was down for almost the full count four times before a vicious right upper-cut brought him down for good. Walls was in fine form and his performance was consistent with that which he showed in Toronto in a firm favorite with British ring fans.

At New York, Jack Kramer, professional tennis champion, defeated Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, 9-11, 6-3, 7-5, at Forest Hills Jamaica arena Friday night to take a 14-3 lead in their cross-country tour. The victory was Kramer's 10th straight and it was the longest number of games played in any match since the tour started. There were 22 service aces during the match that was witnessed by 3,200 fans.

Pancho Segura defeated Frank Paker, 6-1, 6-3, in a preliminary. Segura now has won 13 out of 17 matches played.

Johnny Bratton, shifty, Chicago youngster blossoming into a full fledged welterweight, Friday night scored a technical knockout over Gaby Ferland of Montreal in the Chicago Stadium.

The bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, ended at 2:04 of the second with Ferland wobbly and staggered after two quick knockdowns.

At Blackpool, England, Willie Whyte, Scottish welterweight champion, Friday night knocked out Frank Cortese of Toronto in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

It was announced that Cortese was taken to hospital with a serious jaw injury.

Deer And The Solunar Periods

By John Alden Knight
Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables)

For some reason, a great many people are under the impression that the Solunar Tables apply only to fish. We take pains to tell our readers that the Solunar Periods mark the daily times of feeding and activity of both fish and game.

Hunters can—and many of them do—make profitable use of the Solunar Tables in planning their shooting trips. Obviously the time to hunt is when game birds and animals are feeding and moving about.

Regardless of all this, our correspondence indicates that today's hunt is still thinkt of the Solunar Tables in terms of fish and fish only.

Last month we wrote a news letter about birds and animals that are killed on the highways by automobiles. The annual total is very great, running into many hundreds of thousands.

In this news story I urged drivers to consult their Solunar Tables and to drive more carefully during Solunar Periods. Birds and animals are more active at these times than most of them are struck by cars and killed during the Solunar Periods.

Recalls Incident

Last September two friends of mine set out in their car to do some bass fishing. The river is sixty-five miles away, so they started early.

In these parts early mornings are apt to be foggy in September. Regardless of this and of the fact that they were in Solunar Major Periods and their effects on animals, they were bowling along at a right good clip.

Suddenly a good-sized buck jumped from the brush into the road before them. Their fender struck the deer full-on, knocking it into the ditch. Little damage was done to the car but the buck was killed instantly.

They proceeded on their way and had not gone many miles before a doe jumped in front of their car. This time they were not so lucky.

Instead of bouncing off the fender, the doe fell through the wheels. This threw the car into the ditch.

Results—one dead doe, two cuts, bruised and badly shaken-up anglers, and a wrecked automobile.

This accident occurred at about 8:00 a.m. The major Solunar Period that morning was scheduled for 5:45 a.m.

While it is not uncommon for a deer to be struck by automobiles in Pennsylvania, it certainly is something that usually can be avoided. We drive these same roads every day during the fish ing and shooting season.

The deer crossings are plainly marked and in many country we drive with care. So far (and I have my fingers crossed) we have not hit any deer.

Like most Pennsylvania drivers we have had literally hundreds of narrow escapes, but moderate speeds and watchful eyes have saved us so far.

Know About Periods

In addition, we know when Solunar Periods are in progress and that is the warning to be extra careful. A little more of this same caution would have spared my two friends the trouble, expense and discomfort of a bad automobile accident.

As I say, the Solunar Periods mark the times of activity among animals and birds as well as fish. We find it a good idea to have the Solunar Tables handy. Then we know—well ahead of time—what to expect.

Get the habit of clipping the weekly schedules of Solunar Periods from your sporting paper. Then keep the clipping where it is handy—in your fishing or shooting kit or the glove pocket of your car.

HIT WITH HATCHET

Toronto, Nov. 19. (CP)—Percy Fuley, 37-year-old clerk in the Public Trustees office here, was taken to the hospital, Friday night with head injuries received when a man walked into the office and hit him with a hatchet.

Police arrested a man they identified as Vincent McMullen, 54, of Toronto. He was charged with wounding.

Fuley was working with two other clerks when the intruder entered and hit him with the hatchet, wrapped in paper. Other clerks held the man until the arrival of police.

No reason for the attack was given. Fuley's condition is given as serious.

Schmidt Returns To Forward Line

Boston, Nov. 19—(AP)—Boston Bruins Friday night announced that regulars Milt Schmidt, former National Hockey League all-star centre, will go back to his old job as a forward and that slumping Bruins meet Montreal Canadiens here Sunday night. Schmidt has been playing defence while the Bruins have won only three of their 15 games.

Club spokesman said Schmidt would pivot for the 19-year-old rookie winger, Zelle Toppazzini and Dave Creighton, against the Habitants, now that defenceman Murray Henderson again is in playing condition after missing five games. .

The Bruins also announced the recall of defenceman Ed Kryzanowski from Hershey Bears of the American League, to which Boston has sent two young forwards, Sylvio Bettio and Georgi (Joe) Sullivan.

Sullivan turned professional for the Bruins this week after starring for the St. Catharines club in the Ontario Senior League.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 19—(AP)—The filmtown's top restaurants are waging a peculiar "Battle of the Beefsteak."

The war has placed the high-brow eateries in the strange position of advising their well-heeled and mink-draped patrons on matters of economy and nutrition.

The first salvo was fired when this message was placed on tables at the sunset strip spot, Lanue's:

"In order just to swap dollars in the buying, cooking and serving of steaks, we are forced to charge $3.50 (a la Carter) for such services. It's entirely too much for this food and we earnestly request that you scan your menu for many other excellent dishes more reasonable in cost and in many instances superior in food values. . .

Stop Eating Steaks

The message spread.

Mike Romanoff heard of it and ordered the same cards for his Beverly Hills restaurant. And similar announcement sprouted on the tables at the Brown Derby.

Meanwhile, another experiment in the restaurant business was being tried by movie maker Preston Sturges. His fashionable Players Cafe was offering meals "Hollywood party style".

"I recalled that the best parties I remembered were those with buffets," he said.

Buffet-Style

"So I changed dinner at the Players to buffet-style, all you can eat for $2.25. It's like a continuous party. Before, I charged $12 for a dinner and lost money; now it's $2.25 and I'm making money. The reason is that I don't have high-priced help sitting around doing nothing."

Sturges cited benefits of the new system: the menu is no longer in French; the buyer sees the food before ordering it; the walk to the buffet aids digestion; diners eat less because they knew they can go back for more.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

To rush headlong into a slam is bad bridge, ll may land you in the wrong denomination. You may reach too high a contract and thus lose a cinch game. You may miss reaching a makeable grand slam.

Take a look at this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH

♠ None
♥ A K 4
♦ A K 5
♣ K J 107542

NORTH

♠ A K Q 643
♦ 7 2
♣ A 8 63

South opens with a bid of one club. North makes an immediate one-jump takeout response of two spades. The jump is a forcing game signal. This will keep the bidding alive.

With what his own hand holds, south now knows they have a slam of some kind. He is in no hurry, however. He bids three clubs to show his suit is rebiddable. He knows the bidding will not stop there.

His opening bid promised five tricks. His raise in number now shows a sixth trick. North now knows they have a slam. But he is in no hurry, either. Here he bids three spades to show them rebiddable.

Unable to support spades, south here bids four clubs. He does not yet know best combined denomination. He must await more information from his north partner.

North already knew that clubs could be trumps. Its re-rebid by south now tells him of its unusual length. Especially since it was no bid without knowing if north had support.

This advises north that there should be no losers in clubs. So, his main concern now is whether they have a small or a grand slam. This he will determine when he learns about aces and kings.

So, he bids four no-trump, the ace and king asking convention. Not only does this ask partner how many aces and kings he has. It also admits decision as what will be trumps, if any.

See how intelligently a pair like this can reveal to each other the information needed to make their best decision. It can be done in a complex manner. But easy does it betgr.

Presto Music Club

The church school hall of St. Andrew's Church was the setting for the November meeting of the Presto Music Club on Monday, the 14th. Hostesses for the evening were Mesdames R. H. Aspinall, K. M. Bird, M. Davidson and Miss Norma Arkles.

An interesting and unusual feature of the program was the showing of two short films of decided interest to music lovers —"It's Fun to Sing", featuring the Leslie Bell Singers and "The Story of the Violin".

Piano—A transcription of Schubert's song "The Trout", by Heltzer —Elizabeth Hubbs.

Vocal—"My Message" (Guy D'Hardelot); "Down in the Forest" (Ronald)—Irene Brown.

Piano Duet—The March from "Capriccio Brillante" (Mendelssohn)—Bessie Handley, Myrtle Houston.

Vocal—"Let All My Life Be Music" (Sprosse); "Depuis le jour", from the French Opera "Louise"—Gladys Templeman.

Vocal—"My Heart Ever Faithful" (Bach); "I Will Give Thanks Unto the Lord", (Campbell-Tipton)—Evelyn Bird.

Violin—"Polish Dance" (Scuran); "Fiddle Faddle", (Roy Anderson)—Donald LaFrance.

Vocal—"Still as the Night" (Bohn); "O Rest in The Lord", from the "Elijah" (Mendelssohn) —Loretta McDougall.

Vocal—"Serenade" (Gounod)—Myrtle Houston.

MARMORA

RSM Angus Duffy Gives Talk On "Preparedness"

Marmora—A challenging address to Canadian citizens to cooperate for preparedness for any possible future war was given to approximately 80 persons who participated in the annual Remembrance Day dinner held in the Royal Hotel, on Wednesday evening by R.S.M. Angus Duffy, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who is also an Alderman of the city of Belleville.

Preparedness Advocated

The speaker declared that in Canada we should be in a position to defend ourselves. Just as we pay taxes and hire policemen to protect us, so do we as a country need defence against aggressive nations." Alderman Duffy scored those who try to bring about peace by dishonorable compromise and appeasement that is not honorable.

"Before the last war there were parents who wouldn't let their sons become Boy Scouts because they thought they might be militarized. The unprepareness that su'h an attitude helped to bring about was paid for in Dunkirk and other places. After 1918 there were those who knew if army should not be set aside and some continuation of training went on. But there were those of the general public who sneered and said "Saturday night soldiers." We owe a terrific debt though to the non permanent army of the years 1919-1939. It seems as though the people of Canada are missing the boat again. Here in Canada we practically have no army for we are not enlisting men. "The army" continued the speaker, does not belong to your M.P. but to you. The first signs of decay appeared in the armies of Greece and Rome and other fallen empires when they hired other nations to fight for them. The onus now is fairly on us. Practically every fight have been in' won by the privates. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment couldn't produce a fighting platoon now. It is time we took an intelligent, interest in our army. Let us be prepared as a country to do our very choicest."

Legion Dinner

The dinner was sponsored by Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion, whose president, W. M. Regan, acted as toastmaster, who, in introductory remarks, mentioned that the occasion was one of special tribute to fallen comrades. The Legion, he said, stands for justice, equality, and liberty, and is opposed to any inroads that might come to offset that for which the sacrifices were made."

Toasts Given

The toast to Canadian Legion was proposed by Comrade P. J. O'Neill who in part said that previous to World War I no soldiers organization had existed and later organizations came into being. Earl Haig of the British Legion, however, was the father of British Empire Service League, on which the sun never sets, so that throughout the world, ex-service men are banded together for the purpose of the principles of comradeship, charity and service to which the Canadian Legion subscribes.

Lieut Percy Gray responded to the toast in appropriate speech. Major Percy Gray then introduced the guest speaker, who received much applause at the conclusion of his talk.

The toast "Public Comerdes" was submitted by District Commander Wilfred Morley. Lieut Percy Gray recited "In Flanders Fields." the two minutes silence was observed and Last Post and Reveille sounded by bugler Robert Sanderson.

The final toast "The Ladies" was handled by the padre of the branch, Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie.

STRATHCONA

Robt. A. Norman Celebrates 93rd Birthday

Picton — Prominent in many spheres of public service most of his life, Robert Addison Norman celebrates his 93rd birthday today. Though he lives quietly at his Main Street apartment, Mr. Norman is outdoors almost daily and continues his keen interest in world, political, municipal and local affairs which have played so great a part in his eventful 93 years.

Born in Picton

Mr. Norman was born in Picton and has always resided in the apartments on Main Street in the Norman Block. His father was Robert Addison Norman, son of William E. Norman who came as a boy from England. His mother was Phoebe Hill of Irish descent and she was a pioneer in this district in having a military and fancy goods store which grew to large proportions. Mr. Norman's grandfather was noted as an eloquent preacher, and his gift of oratory is inherited by his grandson, who, until recent years, was in great demand as a speaker.

Readman With Survey

After receiving his education at Picton Grammar School and High School, Mr. Norman was readyman with the survey party which routed the original Prince Edward Railway, almost the same route as used by the C.N.R. from Trenton to Picton today. Then for three years he was attached to the old established firm of dry goods merchants, Carey and Reynolds, and three years becoming head salesman. He launched into the dry goods business for himself, retiring in 1923, ending the premises to Martin and Bogart, hardware, who were succeeded by the present Carter Bros. store.

In 1893 he was appointed town clerk after serving on town council and serving as mayor in 1890-1891. During his incumbency of the mayor's chair, and as electric lights and water works commissioner, a system of electric lights, street, commercial and domestic lighting, was first installed in Picton. The water works was also installed.

It was some 46 years later, that Mr. Norman, setting a precedent, returned to the mayor's chair giving vigorous leadership. His interest in municipal affairs has never waned and until the last few years he made nomination meetings lively affairs. He appeared a week ago at the local Court of Revision to have a charge made.

Served as Auditor

Mr. Norman served as county and town auditor for many years. His father was the first police magistrate here and R. A. as he is familiarly known to hundreds of friends, was elected to that office on June 28, 1928, filling the position with dignity and efficiency for some years.

In early life a Liberal, Mr. Norman became a convert to the principles and policies of the Conservative party, then led by Sir John A. Macdonald, whom he recalls often hearing, especially on the occasion of a visit to Picton. Mr. Norman became a candidate in 1908 but was defeated. Three years later, he was elected to the Ontario Legislature where he gained even greater fame as an orator. He resigned as town clerk to contest the election. Mr. Norman treasures a letter he received from John A.

Wife Is Dead

Mr. Norman married Margaret M. Giverin, who died some years ago. He has one son, Gerald R. Norman, for many years prominent in banking circles, who resides at The Outlook.

Mr. Norma.. can look back on Picton as a pioneer town, of times and events that have been woven into the pattern of the town's history.

BOSLIN

The Women's Association of the United Church held a very successful bazaar and supper in the Anglican Church Hall on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. McKee arrived last week from Calgary and will spend some time at the home of her brother Mr. W. Gillespie and Mrs. Gillespie.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields of Belleville were weekend guests at the home of the Rev. C.W. Wright and Mrs. Wright and family.

The Rev. Duncan and Mrs. Duncan of Kingston were recent weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Wm White and Mr. Duncan took the services at Norwest, Fuller and Roslin Presbyterian churches.

Vice-President Of United States Weds Mrs. Hadley

St. Louis, Nov. 18 — (AP) — A romance which budded during a cruise down the Potomac River last summer will culminate in this city by the Mississippi today when a pretty middle-aged widow becomes the bride of the vice-president of the United States.

The ceremony uniting 71-year-old Alben W. Barkley and petite, brunette Jane Rucker Hadley, 33 years his junior, was set for 1 P. M. EDT in the Chapel of St. John's Methodist Church.

Although the wedding has been one of the most widely publicized of any in the U. S. in recent years, only members of the immediate families of the bridal pair were invited. They numbered 14. About twice as many press and radio representatives were on hand.

The simple ceremony called for the single-ring service with the word "obey" omitted from the bride's vow. Both bride and bridegroom are Methodists.

David M. Barkley of Paducah, Ky., Barkley's son by a previous marriage, was best man. Mrs. Hadley chose her brother, William W. Rucker of West Palm Beach, Fla., to give her away.

After arriving here Thursday by plane from Washington Barkley and his bride-to-be drove away in a new $3,000 convertible he recently gave her as a wedding gift.

Among other presents received by Mrs. Hadley was a $10,000 diamond brooch from a friend of the vice-president." It has 136 round-cut 36 rectangular stones.

Barkley's first wife died in 1947 after 44 years of married life.

Mrs. Hadley is the widow of Carleton S. Hadley, Wabash railroad general counsel, who died in 1945.

Potato Crown Brings Tears Of Happiness

Sudbury, Nov. 18. (CP)—With tears of happiness filling his eyes the newly-crowned world's potato king Wednesday night solemnly declared: "The Sudbury potato, she's the bestdarn potato there is."

Theodore Depaola, who won the title on his 32th—and last attempt, was in Hospital here when a telegram reached him telling him his entry had won him the title Wednesday at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

The 41-year-old French-Canadian, who farms 100 acres at Hanmer, 14 miles north of here, can't go to Toronto tomorrow to receive the gold watch and cash prize that accompany the title.

He is in hospital for treatment of a chronic ailment said to have been aggravated by his effort in the title to Northern Ontario. He felt he had to win this year. He is retiring from farming and turning his land over to his six sons.

"I have had entries for many years now," he said. "This year was going to be my last. I am too sick now to keep trying. I have raised my boys to grow potatoes too."

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"Well—the count, My count."

"Oh—your count. Arrested him? And what for?"

"Because he's had bad luck," said Anika with an obstinate look she still sobbed now and then like a child after it has been crying.

"What d'you mean by bad luck? What's he been up to? People aren't arrested for nothing at all."

"He hasn't been up to anything. He simply couldn't pay. Is it a crime to have no money? Then they ought to arrest him merely because he has no money.

Martin gave a sigh. "I don't follow, Aikuschka," he said "Now tell me from the beginning what it's all about."

"Yes—well, it was like this," Anika began obediently while she dripped water at all points—hair clothes, and eyes as well. "It was like this; I got to know him when I was dancing in the revue. And I was attracted by him straight off. After all he's very smart. There's an air about him—Besides he had plenty of money in those days and he fell madly in love with me, and so we had a jolly time together.

"We went to Semmering and we had a car, on the instalment system. But he had to give it up and there was something not quite in order even then, for when you're paying for a car by instalments you can't really sell it again can you? But his friend, Toni, persuaded him to , so that was the end of the motorcar. And just about the same time I happened to want a wrist watch, a sweet little thing in platinum with a few little stones. And I was annoyed when he wouldn't give it to me an so we had a quarrel And he said one he wasn't so rich as all that. In fact he had no money and if I didn't want any more to do with a fellow because he was poor I could leave him.

"But I was madly in love with him, you see, and besides, it wouldn't have been very nice if I had gone and left him just for the sake of the wrist watch. So then Toni sent him to a man he knew—Sobel he was called—and he lent him money. Toni and another man in his club gave security and it cost an awful lot in interest. Well, I don't care much about all that, but every time he ought to have paid it back and had to put it off, it cost him more and more interest. Sometimes he made money again for he's lucky at cards, and then he was always generous to me, and, at any rate I got the wrist watch.

"Well, then, one day he came to me and said: 'Anjus, we've got to pack up and go somewhere without a moment's delay. Sobel's getting wild, the blood-sucker. Well, I wasn't any longer so gone on him, but what could I do? There weren't many summer engagements to be got, and it's lovely to travel. So off we went—with lots of pretty clothes and all regardless. Only looks after the light hearted Ferdinand always says. So we traveled from place to place always in the best hotels and doing ourselves very well and Ferdinand wrote off to Vienna and Budapest for money, but it didn't come. So he said: 'Be a lit nice to people, and play the countess and they'll think it a privilege to help to get out of our difficulties.'

"I thought that a good lark and so I put on an aristocratic air and flirted a bit with the men and made a bit of a song about money troubles and about our estates in Hungary being confiscated. And the men pulled out their pocketbooks and after that they usually became just a bit pressing in their attention; then he could come along and give them looks fierce and talk of duels. So they would get into a fright and say not a word more of the money they had lent me or else we cleared out before the week was up, leaving the bill unpaid. 'I'll pay it one of these days,' Ferdinand would say.

"At first I thought it great fun. It was as good as a play to see people bowing before count and countess and forking out money because the countess was temporarily embarrassed. Worried poor little Annie Poxwaurck would have had to tear out her hair by the roots, before anyone gave her a penny. But sometimes I was uneasy and thought to myself: This can't go on forever. And when I came on you here I was terrified that the game was up. And I couldn't stand Ferdinand any longer, We had quarrels and often I'd have been glad to clear out.

"But he had put me on old Lyssenhop, and I certainly turned his head. And Ferdinand said: 'Well stay here. We've found a guy who'll pay the hotel bill for us.' For lately we had never stayed anywhere longer than three nights with me. Nice situation for me, I must say." Martin took out his pocket knife and began to hack at his table like a schoolboy angrily turning his back on Anikas.

She waited a little. Then she began to laugh all over her tearstained made-up face.

"You aren't angry Stulli. You're only afraid of me," she said beaming. Martin turned quickly.

"I'm not afraid. Not in the least," he told her hotly, in order to convince himself. Only the whole affairs enough to sicken one. The whole count travels all over the place and does himself well and orders fellows about. And then in the end it's I who have to come to the rescue, and clear up the mess for him."

Anika sat demure and alert on the edge of the bed, and after all she faced her disaster with courage and honesty. She was wet through and miserable, but she did not complain. Though she could not control the shudders that shook her, and though her lips and her chin and her little wet hands with their rosy fingernails trembled all the time, she would not give way. She made the best of it and laughed at Martin with all five dimples at once. A strange sensation of pity tingled in Martin's hands. He laid one of them on her tousled mane and one under her chin. "Anikuschka," he said, "what a light-hearted beggar you are." He clasped her affectionately on the back. "Buck up, Anika. Don't cry. We'll fix it up. I'll see you through."

Anika jumped up and threw her arms round his neck, and dobbed a few quick kisses all over his face. He squeezed past her and opened the round shutter .wide. "A bit stuffy in here," he said with embarrassment, as he exhaled a deep breath. Anika pried about round the small apartment and shivered more than ever. "I'm cold. Everything's dripping wet, and I'm horribly hungry," she said, and looked expectantly at Martin.

NORONIC CAPTAIN'S LICENCE SUSPENDED A YEAR

Canadian Sailors Describe Dramatic Rescue at Sea

18 Members Ditched Bomber Spent 79 Hours on Rafts

35 INCLUDING 28 CHILDREN BELIEVED DEAD

Jewish Refugee Children Being Taken From North Africa

Oslo, Nov. 21 (AP)—A plane carrying 35 unidentified Jewish refugee children from North Africa was missing today, believed crashed somewhere in tangled forest country near Oslo.

The plane with 35 aboard—28 children, three nurses and four crew members—sent its last radio message about 6 p.m. Sunday night as it neared Oslo's Bornebu Airport. Soon afterwards a sharp flash of light followed by an explosion was seen near Gjersjoen Lake a mile southeast of Oslo.

Hundreds of searchers struggled through the trees and swamps in the lake region during the night and this morning searching for a trace of the missing craft.

Taken For Rest

The 36 children were in a group of 55 North African Jews from Tunis being flown to Norway for six months of rest and rehabilitation before travelling on to Israel. Most were between 6 and 12 years of age.

Another plane with 27 children arrived safely earlier in the afternoon from Tunis. The missing plane, a twin-engined DC-3 transport, was operated by Netherlands Company, Aero Holland.

Visibility was obscured by clouds as the incoming plane reported it was over Oslo Fjord only a mile or two from the capital.

Aero Holland, owners of the plane, announced at the Hague, Netherlands, that the plane was considered lost.

The rehabilitation program is financed by the American Joint Distribution Committee. A spokesman said the children, from Tunisian Jewish families, were undernourished and threatened by tuberculosis.

Justice Didn't Tackle Question Of Liability

Ottawa, Nov. 21. (CP)—Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock didn't tackle the questions of civil liability or criminal responsibility in his report on the Noronic disaster, tabled today in the Commons.

But informed sources said his 99-page report might be used as the basis for legal action in two ways:

1. By the Ontario Attorney-General in placing criminal charges.

2. In civil actions by survivors of the Sept. 17 disaster or by next-of-kin of persons who perished when the ship burned.

A number of civil suits against the ship's owners, Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., already have been launched in the U.S. All but 15 of the dead and missing were Americans and their relatives also could take legal action in Canadian courts. Identified dead total 111 and seven persons are known to be missing.

The Canada Shipping Act under which Mr. Justice Kellock made his probe does not mention any limit on the owners' liability if fault by them is provable.

ALFRED CHILDS, 16, IS SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Sentence of Death to be Appealed Says Father

Napanee, Nov. 21. (CP)— An avid western story fan who killed a man he did not know, 16-year-old Alfred Dale Childs is under sentence to be hanged Feb. 10.

The boy was sentenced by Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson Saturday night after a jury found him guilty of murder in the hayfield slaying of Elijah Hall, 69. The boy's father said the sentence will be appealed.

Should the sentence be carried out, it is believed Childs would be the youngest murderer to be hanged. However, authorities may commute his sentence. It is recalled that 16-year-old Alan Newton of Rumsey, Alta., sentenced to be hanged last Spring for the murder of Mrs. Grace Millard, wife of his employer, had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment by Justice Minister Garson.

Slaying in Hayfield

McQuaig, Ontario provincial police detective sergeant here said Selby, Ont., 30 miles west of Kingston, had June 29 while being questioned by police. He said evidence was given that McQuaig was hit by four bullets and that a farm hockey, Ronald Ross, was wounded twice by bullets fired from a .32 rifle.

Fire Totally Destroys Barn Near Ivanhoe

Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed the barn on the farm of Charles Martin residing near Ivanhoe between six and seven o'clock Sunday night.

No livestock was destroyed but the season's crop of hay and grain with the barn is a total loss.

The Martins had finished the evening chores and returned to the house, when someone noticed smoke and flames pouring out of the barn near the roof.

The alarm was given at the fire spread rapidly through the building completely demolishing it despite firefighting efforts.

A light coating of snow on the roofs of the barns and other farm buildings prevented flying sparks and embers from igniting them.

17 SHEEP KILLED AT NIGHT

Stratford, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Seventeen sheep were killed by dogs during the night on the farm of George Irving, west of nearby Shakespeare. Ten other sheep were so badly mauled that they may have to be destroyed.

New Contracts Reported Signed

Toronto, Nov. 21. (CP)—Silby Barrett, Canadian director of the United Mine Workers of America (CCL) said today that new contracts have been signed with two Toronto plants and various plants of Canadian Industries Limited.

Major point of the contract affecting 140 employees at the Toronto plant of the C.I.L. and 2,000 employees at the Lawton Avenue plant of the ace-cord bourg across-the-board pay increase, bringing the basic wage to $1.01 an hour. The contracts also include two additional statutory holidays, making a total of eight a year, and the irrevocable checkoff system.

Average income of the 526,000 families and single persons in Montreal during the period under review was $2,926, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Sunday. Average expenditure was $3,064.

The report gave no indication of how the additional eight dollars was obtained. It presumably was borrowed or saved.

The report on Montreal was the first of a series of reports planned by the Bureau of Information gathered in the fall of 1948. Results of the survey still are being compiled.

The Bureau said reports will be issued later "for other large cities, and for provinces" and for Canada as a whole.

To compile the statistics the Bureau took economic families—groups of persons who pooled their income and met their living expenses from this common fund—and single persons interviewed.

Thus grown sons and daughters working and living at home were included in the same economic family since their expenses, regardless of their contributions, were almost always mingled with those of their parents, either formally or informally.

Since the survey was done in 1948, Newfoundland is not included.

Food eaten at home accounted for the largest slice of the total expenditures—$1,057 per capita or $756.37. In addition the average economic family spent another $200.02, or 6.5 per cent of total expenditures, or restaurant meals, board, wine and alcoholic drinks.

Next highest expenditure was the $390.46—13.2 per cent—spent on clothing and clothing services such as cleaning.

Drift 24 Hours On Lake St. Clair As Motor Fails

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21 — (CP) —William Martindale and his 23-year-old son, Henry, both of nearby Puce, reported the boat down lake night after spending an uncomfortable 24 hours adrift in a small boat on Lake St. Clair.

Martindale said the 16-foot boat started to drift soon after its motor failed Saturday afternoon. The pair improvised a sail from a canvas weather sheet and managed to direct the boat down lake some 25 miles to Walpole Island. They made their way home today by automobile.

CLEVELAND GROUP PURCHASES TRIBE FROM WM. VEECK

Cleveland, Nov. 21 — (AP) — Dynamic Bill Veeck sold Cleveland Indians to a group of local business men today for a reported $2,200,000.

Ellis Ryan, insurance executive, is head of the new group that has been dickering with Veeck for weeks in an effort to keep major League baseball club and its holdings.

The reported purchase price contrasted with the estimated figure of $1,200,000 which Veeck paid for the Tribe, it 13 farm clubs and old league park on June 22, 1946.

Ryan said the figure of $2,200,000 was approximately correct.

Asked whether Hank Greenberg, Tribe farm head been vice-president of the baseball organization in the Veeck regime, would become general manager, Ryan replied "we haven't talked to anyone yet."

Fire Destroys Orange Hall At Point Anne

One of the oldest landmarks in the village of Point Anne, the former Unified Church, of recent years used as the Orange Hall, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon as flames razed the building in the absence almost to the ground.

The Canada Cement Company fire engine and members of the Belleville Fire Department were powerless to save the building as the flames had gained too great a start before they were discovered. Loss was estimated at approximately $5,000 and included organ, equipment, piano and chairs.

The fire was discovered shortly before three o'clock but the interior of the building was already a mass of flames and although the cement company fire engine was quickly on the job nothing could be done to save the building.

A nearby house, occupied by Nelson Burshaw, was saved, although only by a width of a driveway separated the two buildings. Oldest in village

Point Anne residents stated the Orange Hall was one of the oldest structures in the village having for many years been used as a church. In 1925 a new church was built and the Orange Lodge purchased the former Methodist building for their hall. The building had been renovated and enlarged only about 20 by 20 feet.

Orange Lodge officials were unable to state what may have been the origin of the fire. It was stated it had been a dance in the hall on Friday evening but it was not believed any persons had been in the building since the dance broke up, shortly after midnight. The fire had not start until the following afternoon.

CPR PLACES ORDER FOR 58 DIESELS FOR FREIGHT USE

Engines to be Placed on Rugged 517-Mile Line

Sudbury, Nov. 21. (CP) —The Canadian Pacific Railway has placed a $12,000,000-order for 58 Diesel locomotives to be used in freight service on the rugged 517-mile Schreiber division between Fort William and Cartier, Ont., N. R. Crump, vice president of the company, announced today.

Fulfilling the largest order for this type of equipment ever placed by a Canadian railway, Montreal Locomotive Works will build 44 of the units, while the remainder will be built by Motors Diesel, Ltd., at London, Ont., with manufacture the other 14.

The 58 Diesel units will replace 88 steam locomotives, destined for service elsewhere on the 17,031-mile C.P.R. system.

The units being acquired, Mr. Crump said, will be among the first of their type manufactured in Canada. They are being built by the Montreal Locomotive Works under the model of Diesel Locomotives produced by the American Locomotive Company, at Schenectady, N.Y., and the General Motors Locomotives will be counterparts of those built by General Motors at Lagrange, Ill.,

Economies Expected

Mr. Crump said substantial economies are expected from the dieselization of this division of the Montreal Locomotive Works contract calls for 20 1,500-horsepower road freight "A" units, 30 streamlined 1500-horsepower road freight "A" units and four 1,000-horsepower road switching locomotives. Delivery will start early in the new year.

General Motors' new London plant will turn out 10 streamlined 1500-horsepower freight-passenger "A" units and four 800-horsepower yard switching locomotives between July and September, 1950. Although the locomotives are geared to handle speeds of 100 miles an hour, trains Mr. Crump said the plans at present are to use them for freight trains. Passenger trains will continue to use steam power.

Four Arrested, Three Policemen Hurt in Melee

Sarnia, Nov. 21 — (CP) — More than 250 persons were reported to have joined in a free-for-all melee here Sunday in which three policemen were injured.

It took two squads of city police and a squad of Ontario Provincial police to stop the battle which followed a fight on a downtown street. Four men were arrested.

City Police Inspector S. C. Pratt suffered a broken bone in the leg in the small-scale riot as well as severe head and leg bruises. Constable Ernest Duffield received a cut lip and Constable James a bite on the arm which required hospital treatment.

Held are: Robert Smithers, 21, charged with assault on a policeman; Archie MacDonald, 24, participating in an affray; his brother, Ross, 22, assaulting police, and Robert Nelson, 19, obstructing police. All are Sarnia men.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—Synopsis: The northerly flow of polar air which dominates the weather in Ontario and Quebec today has its origin in the northwest territories. As these chill northerly winds come over warmer lake water and move inland snow will fall in the counties along the south shore of the lakes.

Decreasing cloudiness with light winds is anticipated in most localities on Tuesday but the weather will continue cold today and Tuesday.

Owners, Master of Cruise Ship Blamed for Flash Fire That Took 118 Lives

Justice Recommends Series Of Tighter Safety Measures

Ottawa, Nov. 21 — (CP) — The owners and master of the cruise ship Noronic were blamed by a Supreme Court of Canada judge today for the Sept. 17 flash fire that took 118 lives as the luxury vessel lay at a Toronto dock.

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, reporting as commissioner in a Transport Department inquiry, ordered the master's certificate of Capt. William Taylor of Sarnia, Ont., suspended for a year and recommended a series of tightened safety regulations for such vessels as the Noronic.

In a 30,000-word report tabled in the Commons shortly after he had delivered a brief court judgment suspending the captain, Mr. Justice Kellock found the loss of the ship and the loss of life had resulted from "failure" of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., and Capt. Taylor to take adequate precautions against fire.

In particular, the judge censured owners and master for failure to provide proper means of detecting and fighting fires while in dock and for getting passengers off the ship should it take fire in port.

Will Consider Safety

Acting Transport Minister Nelson, tabling the report, told parliament the government would "carefully consider" the judge's recommendations and he expressed hope the investigation would be the means of preventing disasters of this kind in the future.

Besides suspending the captain's certificate, Mr. Justice Kellock also censured Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., owner-company the expenses incurred by the Transport Department in the 17-day investigation held at Toronto.

He had been appointed a commissioner by the Department to answer 20 specific questions dealing with the fire, which began in the early morning hours as the 36-year-old ship lay at a pier during a Great Lakes cruise that had started at Detroit.

All but one of the dead aboard the veteran $5,000,000 craft were United States residents enjoying a late-season cruise. Most of them having been trapped in their cabins. Identified dead total 111 and seven persons are missing. Unidentified unclaimed remains assumed to comprise 8 bodies now are believed to be seven.

Many Escape Blaze

The remainder of the 527 passengers and the 18 crew members on duty aboard the ship at the time of the outbreak—including the captain—escaped.

While critical of the actions of the master and crew, the judge pointed out, Mr. Justice Kellock said the actions of the ordinary crew members "were, no doubt, what they would be expected to do in such circumstances."

This was in the light of the fact that the fire had taken charge of the situation and had attempted to give any general directions, "if such attempt was made" at the advanced stage which the fire had reached when the alarm was first given."

After the alarm was given, the judge said, "the only thing it might have been possible to do, which was not done, was for the master to have taken general charge of the situation and directed in an organized way the arousing of passengers, instead of scattering them as an ordinary seaman in such parts of the ship as he could reach."

Did Not Rule on Drinking

The commissioner did not rule on the question of whether drinking contributed to the loss of life, though he noted that some passengers had been questioned on this point during the inquiry.

He noted that Capt. Taylor had testified to having had only one drink the night of the fire, that a woman passenger and the taximan who took the captain to the ship shortly before the fire had not "observed any indication of intoxication" on his part.

The judge said "complete complacency had descended" on both the ships' officers and management.

"In my opinion," he declared, "no one in a responsible position in connection with the ship, either on the ship or ashore, had applied his mind in any serious way to the handling of the ship's company in case of fire, . . although such an eventuality cannot be considered otherwise than one which might occur at any time."

Breaks Out in Closet

The investigator found that the fire broke out in a small linen closet just forward of a stairway descending onto the port corridor on "C" deck, third deck down from the top of the vessel.

While Mr. Justice Kellock gave no finding as to the actual cause of the fire, he declared there was no evidence of incendiarism.

He did suggest the responsibility for loss of the ship and the lives were fallen upon the company and captain in:

1. Failing to have a continuous patrol of the ship to detect fire. He added "such patrols do not, in existence" about 15 minutes out of each hour.

2. Failing to have an organization in operation, while the ship was still in dock, whereby alarms transmit word of a fire outbreak to some point where trained firefighting could be dispatched immediately.

3. Failing to "contemplate in any real sense" the possibility of a fire at a deck maintaining only 15 men on duty out of a crew complement of 171.

4. Failing to have any plan for arousing and getting the passengers off the ship in the event of fire while the ship was at dock.

Pesky Little Virus MR-1 Disappears, Setback To Study of Common Cold

Washington Nov. 21.—(AP) — The United States scientific world suffered a setback in their study of the common cold.

Dr. Leon J. Atlas, United States public health service scientist, disclosed Friday that a pesky little virus called MR-1 has disappeared at the National Institutes of Health.

MR-1, isolated for the first time in 1947, was being cultivated in a batch of fertile hen's eggs, Dr. Atlas explained, and now it can't be found.

Dr. Atlas helped isolate the virus from the nasal discharge of a fellow scientist who came down with a cold. That quest, begun within 24 hours after the scientist gave his first sneeze, led to the discovery of MR-1 just 11 months later.

Since then, the Institute has worked for almost three years building up data which perhaps eventually might wipe out the cold.

But with MR-1 lost, Dr. Atlas said all this data is useless except as a procedural guide.

Highlights Of Report on Noronic Fire

Destruction of the Noronic and the high loss of life are blamed on failure of the owners and captain to assure proper firefighting precautions aboard the ship.

The captain—William Taylor, 56, of Sarnia, Ont., was also at fault for failing to take general charge of the situation after fire broke out.

The captain should have directed in an organized way the arousing of passengers instead of acting himself as "an ordinary sailor in such parts of the ship as he could reach."

Costs of the investigation are to be charged against the owners —Canada Steamship Lines Limited—on the Exchequer Court scale of costs.

No ruling on the extent to which drinking may have contributed to loss of life.

The fire found officers and crew without any organization designed to deal with the situation.

High loss of life was the result of lack of fight fighting organization and absence of a proper alarm system.

Complete complacency is regard to the possible outbreak of fire had descended on both the ship officers and the management.

The Noronic had no pre-arranged plan for rousing and getting passengers off the ship in event of fire.

There was no evidence of the fire having been deliberately set.

The fire cause was not established although it is known to have started in a small linen closet just forward of the women's washroom opening onto the port corridor on "C" deck.

Such efforts as were made to fight the fire were scattered and ineffective.

Ordinary members of the crew took such action when fire was discovered as they would be expected to take in view of the lack of general direction and faulties from failure of any officer to take charge of the situation.

The fire fighting appliances on board appear to have been satisfactory and in good working order.

Experience of the fire indicates need for making the existing bulkheads a requirement aboard all passenger carrying lake ships.

MAP-READING, DRIVING SCHEME CARRIED OUT

Upwards of forty members all ranks of the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment, RCA took part in a map-reading and driving scheme over the weekend.

The party left early Sunday and covered the country between Read to Tweed via Fuller and Crookston. It swung over to Marlloc for lunch and worked its way back to the city by a different route.

First Inspection Fire Department Made by Mayor

The first annual inspection of the Belleville Fire Department and its equipment by the chief magistrate of the city was conducted Saturday afternoon by Mayor D. L. Storey.

Mayor Storey made a detailed inspection of both fire stations and the equipment of the department.

It had been planned by department officials to give the mayor a demonstration of the various pieces of equipment owned by the department but owing to the rain falling during the course of the afternoon the outdoor demonstration was attempted. The inspection of the fire department building and equipment, will be conducted annually by the mayor, as result of a recommendation passed in council some weeks ago.

Milk Bottle Money Reported Stolen

Thefts of milk bottle money continue to be reported in various sections of the city with the latest reported from the East Hill district indicating money left for the purchase of extra milk tickets had disappeared.

An out-of-town motorist who had parked his auto on Holloway Street Saturday night reported that his car had been stolen. Police investigated and recovered the auto at the foot of Holloway Street hill. It was believed that children had seen the car parked on the hill and releasing the brake had started it to the foot of the incline.

Theft of a canvas tarpaulin measuring 17 by 28 feet was reported to police by Mrs. R. M. Barefoot, MacDonald Avenue. The tarpaulin had been borrowed by Mrs. Barefoot to cover furniture in preparation for an auction sale.

Provincial Police at Picton early this morning reported the theft of a car from a Carleton resident with result that a road block was set up at exits to the county. The truck was recovered by members of provincial police at Belleville. Overload charges were being stopped at the entrance to the Bay Bridge south of Belleville.

New Sports Shop Opened in City By J. McNab

If you peeked around the 3-sided display cases of fishing rods and other well-wishing gifts in the former Symons Men's Furnishing Store on Front Street this morning, you might have glimpsed the smiling countenance of Jack McNab proprietor of Belleville's newest sports and luggage shop.

For this was a big day in the life of "Genial Jawn" for today he opened his new sports shop which in itself is another fine asset to business circles of the city.

Bouquets and baskets of flowers, telegrams and other forms of congratulation arrived at the bright, attractively decorated shop all morning. One floral gift came from Hal Walker of the Globe and Mail sports staff.

While McNab carries an extensive line of up-to-date luggage, the emphasis of his new shop is definitely on sport. Practically everything from a golf tee to full equipment for hockey and football players is available. Golf, tennis rackets, softball, baseball paraphernalia is situated right at the entrance and sports clothing necessities are cleverly arranged to catch the eye of the customer.

Luggage is tastefully arranged on shelves with top-to-bottom close-up view of patrons. This includes everything from an overnight case to the largest steamer trunk.

There is nothing in the sports world that McNab cannot supply and his venture into Belleville business is one that received congratulatory messages and floral gifts from fellow businessmen along Front Street can be judged a criterion.

Jack's entry into the sports world of business should be well received by sports fans and sports organizations of the city. He has long been associated with the world of sports in Belleville and is well known in all phases of it. He is a Belleville native son and spent all of his life here with the exception of a few years when he resided in Oshawa.

And by way of conclusion, Jack is not only interested in the sports life of the city but in municipal affairs as well. He has announced his intention of offering himself as a candidate for alternate honors in the forthcoming civic elections.

Two Motorists Suffer Injury Near Trenton

Brighton, Nov. 21— (Sixty-Two) Trenton residents were treated for face injuries at the Belleville General Hospital last night as the result of a car accident two miles west of Trenton on highway No. 2 earlier. The injured were; William DeMille and Sheila Denton both of Trenton.

According to Provincial Constable Cook of Brighton who investigated, the Demille vehicle left the road and crashed a hydro pole and a tree when the driver was blinded by the oncoming lights of a car travelling west. Wheel marks on the shoulder of the road showed that the car went out of control when it was caught in the soft ground in this particular spot along the side of the highway.

DeMille and Miss Denton both suffered from gashes across the nose.

Stores to Remain Open 3 Evenings Before Christmas

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants Executive Committee of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce held this morning at the City Hall special consideration was given to the hours stores would remain open during the holiday season.

It has been suggested that the following apply and merchants are urged to co-operate.

Stores will remain open three evenings before Christmas, Wednesday, December 21; Thursday, December 22; Friday, December 23 and will close 6 p.m. Saturday, Christmas Eve, December 24th and December 26th, Boxing Day will be observed as a store holiday.

For New Years stores will close 6 p.m. Saturday December 31 in order to give the employees an opportunity to participate in the holiday celebration. And stores will be closed Monday, January 2nd opening for business again on Tuesday morning. It is hoped that all store owners will co-operate in making the schedule city-wide.

SHIP LOSES ANCHOR

Liverpool, England, Nov. 21— (Reuters)—The Cunard liner Britannic outward bound from Liverpool to New York with 600 passengers, lost her starboard anchor when she tried to leave Sunday night after being fogbound since Saturday. Repair workers went aboard and she is expected to leave sometime today.

POLICEMAN KILLED

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 21. (AP) —About 35 men, described by authorities as Communists, opened fire on two mounted policemen Sunday, killing one. More than 30 persons were arrested in the subsequent police round-up. Police said the shooting occurred in front of the home where a dance apparently was used as a blind for a Communist meeting.

J. J. Trudeau To be Candidate For Mayor's Chair

Assurance that the mayoralty would be contested in the forthcoming municipal elections was given today with the announcement that Ex-Alderman J. J. Trudeau would offer himself as candidate for the position of chief magistrate of the city.

Previously Alderman Jack Allin had announced his intention of offering himself as mayor. Mayor D. L. Storey has stated he will not offer himself for re-election.

One of the best known business men in the city, Mr. Trudeau is president of Trudeau Motors Ltd., having come to the city in 1932. Since that time he has taken an active part in municipal affairs and other matters.

For three years, from 1944 to 1946 inclusive he served as member of city council and acted as chairman of public works for one year. He is the current chairman of the Belleville district planning board.

Mr. Trudeau is past president of the local Kiwanis club, having served on all club committees and is district Kiwanis chairman on the agricultural committee for Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

Active in Motor Field

He has also taken a very active interest in organizations relating to the automotive field. He is past president of the Hastings-Prince Edward Garage Operators for Ontario and was provincial president of the organization for two years. Last year he was district vice-representing Ontario for the Federation of Auto Dealers for Canada and is chairman of the Belleville Auto Dealers' Association.

He is past president and past director of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and during the war took great interest in the several Victory Loan campaigns having served as chairman of four county campaigns and as general sales chairman for seven.

Car in Collision With Motorcycle

Seventeen-year-old Ralph Hall, Geddes Street, suffered a slightly injured knee in an auto-motorcycle mishap which occurred Saturday evening at the corner of Victoria and Gordon Streets.

Ed. Flindall, 132 Moira Street, West, was driving east on Moira Street when in making a left turn onto Gordon Street his vehicle collided with a westbound motorcycle ridden by Harry Raine, 238 Dundas St. Hall's mount, riding pillon with Raine, had his knee injured and trousers torn.

Assurance that the majority would be contested in the forthcoming municipal elections was given today with the announcement that Ex-Alderman J. J. Trudeau would offer himself as candidate for the position of chief magistrate of the city.

Previously Alderman Jack Allin had announced his intention of offering himself as mayor. Mayor D. L. Storey has stated he will not offer himself for re-election.

32 Battery LAA Plans Reunion In May 1950

The 32nd Battery L. A. A. will hold its first reunion in the Bridge Street Armories sometime in May, 1950. It was decided at a meeting of the unit executive held over the weekend.

The battery association formed a short while ago includes Max Smith, president, Major R. R. Prink, vice president, and M. J. Browning, secretary treasurer. Lt. Col. Jack Cousins, who formerly commanded the unit, is the honorary president.

Plans for the first unit get-together were discussed at the meeting. It was planned to hold registration on the Saturday morning of the reunion weekend. During the afternoon there will be a general get-together followed in the evening by a banquet, and entertainment.

On Sunday a memorial parade will be held to the Station Street see cee ee cee memorial cenotaph with the service scheduled for 10 o'clock. Following another get-together the 'troops' will be dismissed.

Extensive efforts will be made during the interim to contact members of the unit who live in all parts of Canada. Some 300 all ranks passed through the battery during its tenure of service. It is expected that upwards of 150 will be present at the reunion.

The meeting also discussed the possibilities of periodical social evenings. Further action will be taken on this matter. Complimentaries of the executive and battery members were set at the second Sunday in each month.

IN MEMORIAM

REEVES — In loving memory of my dear wife, Agnes Florence Reeves who passed away November 21st, 1946.

A thought of sweet remembrance
Just a memory sad and true,
Life has taught me many a lesson
Since my dear wife left you.
Those who knew your worth
Sadly missed and ever remembered by husband, Percy. M21

REEVES — In loving memory of my dear mother, Agnes Florence Reeves who passed away November 21st, 1946.

Not dead is mother, but sleeping
In her home above
Rewarded for her suffering,
Reunited for her love.
Ever remembered by her daughter
Orra. M21

REEVES — In loving memory of our dear mother, Agnes Florence Reeves who passed away November 21st, 1946.

Oft I think of you, dear mother,
And my heart is filled with pain,
Oh, this earth would be a heaven
Could I hear your voice again.
Three years have swiftly passed away
But still I don't forget
The day you left me, loved you best
You'll remember me yet.
Ever remembered by daughter
Orra. M21

REEVES — In loving memory of our dear mother, Agnes Florence Reeves who passed away November 21st, 1946.

In Belleville Cemetery softly sleeping
Where the flowers gently wave,
Resting 'neath the trees she loved,
Sweet and restful, peaceful grave.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture
That no one can steal away,
A picture that will never grow old;
It's lonesome for us without you, dear mother,
But we know you're at rest.
For life is but fading away to us
Since you were called away,
Gently missed and ever remembered
by Grace, Speedy, Gordon and Buddy. M21

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 21. (CP)— Industrials and base metal fractions from last week's advances in dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Golds and base metals held steady as the week's market resumed its narrow price movements. Western oils slipped under profit-taking pressure.

Volume for the first four hours was 580,000 shares.

Fractional declines appeared over a small list of market leaders on the industrial board. Papers were slightly higher while utilities, steels, refining oils, liquors and constructions sagged. Canada Steamship Lines was comparatively active following the findings of the inquiry into the Noronic fire. That stock slipped and then firmed while the preferred lost a fraction.

The name of this world-famous aperient, Mrs. Withers, is EUCHON. And the word aperient is a medical term for the mildly laxative action of Kruschen. In Kruschen you get a unique blend of saline minerals similar to those found in medicinal waters or springs. Kruschen offers these five advantages:

EASY TO TAKE—Dissolves quickly in water, or your morning coffee, tea or fruit juice. Most folks find the small morning dose is best.

MORE FAST—Usually within the hour. Does not spoil your day.

GENTLE ACTION—Its formula is balanced to aid gently, without discomfort.

ECONOMICAL—Over 500,000,000 packages sold throughout the world.

YOU TESTER—Over 500,000,000 packages sold throughout the world. Test time your system needs help. See for common constipation, sluggishness or the effects of over-indulgence—if Kruschen is your prescription relief. Take it regularly—get that grand "Kruschen feeling". 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

Strike at GM Oshawa Plant Ended Sunday

Oshawa, Nov. 21. (CP)— The General Motors strike that began October 24 ended Sunday night as the first shift entered the plant to prepare the way for a return to normal operations by Tuesday.

United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) members voted by an overwhelming majority to accept compromise settlement terms. The union announced 70 per cent of those voting had cast their ballot in favor of the proposal.

It was not disclosed how many of the 3,500 members involved in the strike voted. But a spokesman said it was the heaviest vote in the history of local 222, of the C.C.I.-affiliated union.

The strike, started when four employees were dismissed for alleged wildcat stoppages, ended when the company agreed to reduce the dismissal orders to suspensions ranging from one to six months.

In return the union conceded the right of the company to set assembly line speeds—an issue that led to the walk-out—and also repudiated wildcat stoppages.

B.C.I. Students Take All Three Carter Scholarships For First Time

For the first time in the history of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, students of the Collegiate have taken all three Carter scholarships awarded according to principal G. E. Currie quoting an announcement made public by the Department of Education Saturday. Last year the collegiate came the closest to winning all three honors taking first and second awards and two with Stirling High School for the third.

The Carter Scholarship is the endowment of the late J. I. Carter of Sarnia and is held in each of the 23 centres in the province of Ontario and awarded annually. It is based on the results of the annual departmental grade 13 examinations, and not more than 10 papers are considered in the candidates aggregate marks which include English composition, English literature and any of the two of the three mathematics, algebra, geometry and Trigonometry. Candidates must have written all the papers in the current year.

Bernard L. Shapiro son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shapiro, who recently moved to Montreal took the first award of $100 and is now attending Sir George Williams at Montreal, John E. Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Francis of 336 Bleecker Avenue captured the second award of $0, while Janette L. Ashbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Ashbury of 197 Catherine Street, was the third award winner with a $40 scholarship, Miss Ashbury had also taken the Women's University Club of Belleville award of $150 and $400 scholarship granted jointly by the Dominion and Provincial Boards of Education for academic standing and proven financial needs. Both of the latter scholarships were presented to Miss Ashbury at the B.C.I. annual commencement exercises recently.

The Carter Scholarships are straight cash awards and the winners are not compelled to utilize the money for college education.

OWNERS

5. Failing to train the crew in the proper steps on discovery of fire or in abandoning ship, beyond giving them a knowledge of how to operate fire extinguishers and hoses.

Due to Wrongful Default

The Commissioner said the loss was due to "wrongful default" of the owners and the 66-year-old master in these five particulars.

"While it is true that the owners knew and approved of the organization or lack of it described to deal with the outbreak of fire on the ship while it lay in dock with sleeping passengers on board, the master was not in any way precluded by any instructions from the owners from taking the steps he found necessary," Mr. Justice Kellock added.

The judge said he was not interfering with the conclusions of either First Officer F. Gerald Wood of St. Thomas, Ont., or Second Officer Wilbur J. Bowles of Dorchester, Ont.

He declared "they should have had a direction from higher up, which they did not receive, although the second officer, who was the officer of the watch, showed no more resource nor initiative than did the master."

Keelplowed Satisfactory

Mr. Justice Kellock found that the fire-fighting equipment on the vessel apparently was satisfactory and in good working order.

However, he recommended that provisions for fire-resistant bulkheads should be made applicable to such ships as Noronic is, as provided in the International Convention for the safety of life at sea.

The Noronic had been completed from 1939 regulations requiring new ships to have Rene-resisting bulkheads, since she was built before the regulations came into effect.

Other recommendations for ships carrying more than a minimum of passengers in ruse for inland waters:

1. That an efficient and continuous fire patrol be maintained, as well as an automatic fire alarm or fire detecting system. These systems should not be restricted to those parts of the ship not accessible to the patrols.

Urged Sprinkler System

2. That safety-convention provisions be complied with in connection with the mustering of passengers, extinguishing of fires, warning of passengers and controlling the movement of passengers in an outbreak. This would require training in fire-fighting and the maintenance of an effective organization for sending trained men to the spot of a fire.

3. That these vessels be fitted with a sprinkler system protecting all enclosed sections.

4. That muster charts which show stowage positions for passengers and crew — should be prominently displayed so crew members may become familiar with their duties.

5. That life ships be fitted with public address systems for directing passengers in emergency, and that officers be trained in their use.

6. That ships at dock should have "adequate" and more than one means of getting ashore.

7. That passenger ships remaining docked for any extended time be required to be connected to the local telephone system so that fire department call may be obtained without delay.

C.S.L. to Stand Behind Captain Says Manager

Montreal, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Capt. Norman J. Reoch, general manager of Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., said today that the company is standing by" Capt. William Taylor, master of the burned cruise ship Noronic.

The Noronic, Great Lakes cruise vessel, burned in a Toronto dock Sept. 17 with the loss of 119 lives.

Today, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, reporting as commissioner in a Transport Department inquiry, entered Capt. Taylor's certificate suspended for a year and found the loss of the ship and the loss of life had resulted from "failure" of the company and the master to take adequate precautions against fire.

"In so far as his position with the company is concerned, the status of Capt. Taylor remains unchanged," Captain Reoch said in a statement.

"We stand behind our officers and men and Capt. Taylor will have the full benefit of pension fund privileges."

(A company official said Capt. Taylor if due to retire on pension "in about two years." The C.S.L.'s pension retirement age for masters is 65.)

"If any general statement is issued by the company on Mr. Justice Kellock's report, it will come from Col. K. R. Marshall, the company's president, in Toronto," Capt. Reoch said.

Number of Deer Already Packed Away in Storage

Trenton—While many beautiful prizes were displayed on the fenders of the many that through town yesterday the Trenton Cold Storage reported a good number of deer already packed away in refrigeration lockers.

A good number of the hunters who went north from here opening day have returned and each party, has reported bringing home venison. Doug Kinney was one of the lucky hunters while Jim Barr returned with his quota.

Other hunters getting back with good news were, Walter and Howard Ketcheson, James Taite of the Telephone Road, Jiber Elvin and Allen.

Ralph and Joseph Bardwell left for Toronto today where the latter will act as pallbearer at the funeral of a cousin John Bardwell who died suddenly in his 30th year at St. Michael's Hospital, Saturday. The deceased is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bardwell, St. Clements Rd., Toronto, and will be buried in Mount Hope Cemetery Tuesday. A. S. Thatcher ships to Toronto.

Whitefish Run In Trent River Biggest in Years

Trenton — With the biggest whitefish run in years behind them, government game and fisheries authorities are holding a number of prosecutions against poachers who were caught illegally netting fish illegally from the banks of the Trent River this year.

The whitefish headed for their favorite spawning grounds below No. 1 dam on the Trent river about 15 days ago and at times reporters reported the waters below the dam were literally filled with fish gathering to deposit their roe. Investigators from the department report that the smaller whitefish from the St. Lawrence River used the Bay of Quinte route through Belleville while the larger bull backs came down through the Murray Canal from Lake Ontario.

Inspectors and temporary inspectors kept a 24-hour vigil along the river banks and few of the alleged illegal fishermen escaped with a catch. Several alleged poachers were caught with dip nets and bran sacks filled with fish, but none have been charged formally since the department has 12 months time to/see from the time of apprehension under this section of the Game and Fisheries Act. "We know, for the alleged offenders sweat it out" said an inspector.

Reg. McCullough of Campbellford, is the chief inspector for the Trenton district of his assistant is Fred MacDonald, game warden, Peter Anne. Temporary inspectors included: Earl Brintnell, Walter Ketcheson and Jim Nancarrow, all of Trenton.

Hunter Located At Home of Friend

Trenton—Object of an intensive police hunt here Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Preston was located Saturday night at Gregory LaFrance's home at No. 4 dam on the Trent canal.

Headed by Chief Constable Percy Taylor, two Trenton constables, two members of the Ontario Provincial Police and eight RCAF police searched the area around Evergreen cemetery west of the town. Squires who had not returned in the morning from rabbit hunting Friday. Squires' landlady became concerned when his hunting bound returned without his master and the search party was formed when it was learned that Squires failed to telephone the boarding house Saturday.

In a drenching rain the search-

Santa Claus Pays Brief Visit To Station CJBQ

Despite the fact that the local Santa Claus parade was cancelled for this year, children of the city were not to be denied of a visit from St. Nicholas, who on Saturday afternoon made a brief visit to the city and made a personal appearance at the local radio station.

Old Santa first appeared on the roof of the National Billiards at the corner of Front and Victoria Ave., and was taken down from his lofty stand by the aerial ladder owned by the local fire department.

Victoria Ave., was jammed packed with children and both young and old as Santa was swung down from the roof to the street, where he spoke briefly over the air from a special platform outside the radio station. Later Santa distributed gifts to the kiddies.

MANY ACTIVITIES IN QUINTE DISTRICT

The fire season is over for the protective staff of Quinte District under the authority of the Department of Lands and Forests. These men are now completing the inventory of equipment, that is, items that require repairs and stock that will have to be replenished in readiness for next spring.

According to the weekly progress information issued for the district, two new fire towers are being purchased for the district, one of which will be located on Mount Maria in Grimsthorpe township and the other, a hundred foot look-out, will be built in the north end of the district near the Opeongo road in Sebastopol. It is planned to build the foundations as early as possible in the spring and the erection of the tower will be completed probably some time in May. These two towers will fill in gaps in the detection system and speed reports on bush fires in their early stages.

Work permits have been already granted for a number of logging operations, from the District Forester's Office and Department scalers are busy measuring material cut to date. These men also make regular inspections of each operation, reporting on the observance of cutting regulations, any evidence of waste and the progress being made by the operator. Checks such as these prove of benefit to the licensees as well as to the Department and encourage good conservation practices.

A recent woodlot demonstration was held near Sydenham to show the teen-age boys who were present what trees should be cut and why and the probably marked values. The boys were then given a test plot to mark by themselves. Boys owning farms having woodlots were encouraged to put their knowledge to good use and assured of any further advice and assistance the zone forester could give.

There was a busy week on "pre-season" hunting activities in the north part of the district and investigations resulted in a number of seizures and proved expensive for the offenders.

Reports of the district are interesting to the public and keep the people in touch with the work of the department.

ACCIDENTS COSTLY

What a high price accidents cost in the United States is shown in "Accident Facts," statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council. This is $300,000,000 more than in the year before and one billion dollars more than in 1945.

Included in the 1948 losses by accident were wages of about $2,600,000,000, medical expenses of $450,000,000, overhead costs of insurance of $1,250,000,00, property damage in motor vehicles accidents amounting to $1,100,000,000, fire losses of $715,000,000 and a total of $1,300,000,000 in miscellaneous costs of occupational accidents.

The average cost per injury in the United States last year was $710, which is up $50 above the average cost the year before and $100 more than the figures for 1946.

SACRED MANUSCRIPT FOUND

Interest has been attracted to the Biblical treasure found in the Jericho grotto, one of the greatest finds in all history. To modern scholars and the millions of people who revere the Scriptures the discovery is of unlimited value. Recently Father de Vaux of the French Archeological School has announced confirmation of the discovery of the sacred Hebrew writings found in the rocky excavation seven miles from the city which is one of the most famous cities in the world.

It was originally a very rich collection, says Father de Vaux, for it included at least 150 manuscripts containing 60 jars. He expressed the opinion it was probably the religious library of an oppressed Jewish sect which had been exiled and which therefore hid its writings.

What has been brought to the world's attention, after centuries of pillage and destruction by rodents, consists of a dozen rolls in various states of preservation.

The director places the manuscripts in the second century B.C. Several fragments of Leviticus it is said would even date from the fourth century B.C. according to Edouard Tohorme, the manuscripts go back to an even earlier period.

A manuscript of the Book of the Prophet Isaiah is included in the collection and is of special appeal to the world of religion.

LAYMAN'S PRESCRIPTION

Tired of the dull, monotonous routine,
The best of tonics is change of scene.

Go somewhere else! If you're a doctor grieved,
Toiling for life of sufferers to save,
Hearing all day, the aches and pains they tell,
Spend a few days where those you'll meet are well.

If you're a lawyer, and have had enough
Of dirty wheezes and the store-bought stuff
Since where are human beings more than three Strife and contention certainly will be,

If you're a man of business bored to death
Fretted and worried as are one and all,
Troubled by problems many, gat away;
Search for a spot where children romp in play.
Forget the government, the unions, too,
And peace of mind may then come back to you.

* * *

A change of scene does everybody good.
I'd take my own prescription, if I could.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 21st, 1929.

Miss Helena Lynch is in Toronto to attend a meeting and conference of Social Service workers.

Mrs. Jordan of this city has been elected Worthy Grand of Quinte Rebekah Lodge No. 132.

A. W. Cooper, Beaupre, Quebec, is a guest at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. M. E. O'Leary, West Bridge Street.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 21st, 1919.

The following interesting facts were contained in a lecture given by Lieut.-Col. W. F. Ponton, K.C., in the assembly room of the Bridge Street Presbyterian Church. Among other old documents Col. Ponton showed was a Patent of a Sidney township farm with the Great Seal and signed by the then King's President, just a few weeks before he was killed at Queenston Heights. The first Patents in Sidney and Thurlow townships are dated 1797; the first Patents of town lots in Belleville are dated 1816; St. Thomas' Church, St. Andrew's Church and the Grammar School lands were granted about 100 years ago. Zwick's island, known to all locals as the Big Island, at the mouth of Saganaski River, was owned by the Morris family, the descendants of Capt. Morris, who with her husband and Beverley Robinson, and many others was condemned to death by the Americans as United Empire Loyalists, because they adhered to King George, his flag and cause. The two oldest stone houses in Belleville are, one on Dundas street, the residence of Mr. Alfred Gillen at the foot of William Street, and the other is on the bay shore near the School for the Deaf and is owned by Col. Ponton. The historic first brick house in Canada was on Meyers' Hill here; it disappeared some years ago. Trenton in the early days was called "the Trent." Letters from Scotland were often shown by Col. Ponton which were mailed before the use of envelopes in the year 1839. The postage "in New York was 2c. 9d."

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 21st, 1909.

It is a wonder that the ghosts of some of the noble red men buried on Zwick's Island do not rise up in protest against the use their last resting place is being put to in filling holes in the roadway on Front Street.

A few locks and dams on Front Street would make it a fine waterway.

Mr. W. J. Deacon went to Montreal today on business.

Mr. J. R. Gillen, San Diego, California, and Mrs. E. T. Mitchell, Los Angeles, California, are guests at the home of Mr. Alfred Gillen.

Mr. O. T. Hicks, Trenton, was in town today.

Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, Smithfield, Madoc, was in town today.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 21st, 1880.

Mr. W. J. Lawrence, mail clerk on the Midland Division of the G.T.R., has been transferred to Toronto.

Machinery is being put in place at the rolling mills. A large amount of new iron is already on hand with which to commence operations. The sum of $20,000.00 has been expended in the purchase of this material. A building 80 feet by 60 feet is also being erected. This was held last evening at the home of Mrs. W. J. Chown.

Ernest Lang of this city has received an offer to play hockey next season with the National Team at Guelph.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

STAND UP, YOU TWO!

The following story was passed on to me by one of the field men of the National Labor Relations Board. It's running it, not because I'm jumble-brained enough to think it proves anything, but because it's an interesting yarn. If you find any merit in it, though, it—well, somebody can write a brief on your own . . .

In the December of 1947, a strike was called in a textile plant in New England, and when the picket lines first appeared everybody thought they were only part of the usual bluff and bluster that went with contract-renewal time. But as the days added up to weeks and the weeks to months, the townspeople began to worry.

The strike, so far as anyone could make out, had nothing to do with wages, hours or working conditions, but seemed to be based on the inability of labor and management to sit at the same table without throwing four-letter words at each other. Albert Hanson, president of the textile company, had had a fist fight with Scott Murphy, recently elected head of the union, but after a few minutes of swinging and mutual thumping, both men had stomped out and refused to come back and talk to each other except through local headlines. And Albert Hanson's family relations had not offered his services as mediator, but had sent him packing to peddle hiraparers elsewhere.

To a few insiders, however, the situation was plain. Albert Hanson and Murphy was nothing new; in fact, had been, as children, the two worst kids in a village 50 miles north of the mill town. They had competed for the position of the school baseball team (Albert had gotten it) and had had pigtails of the same junior miss (Burt had married her). And they had continued to cat-and-dog it during the years when Hanson was climbing from $6 a week salesman to plant president and Murphy was organizing the workers.

One day, as the strike was going into its fourth month, Albert's right man got a note from his old schoolchum, Burt Murphy. It read, "I haven't seen you in almost 40 years, and I'd appreciate it if you would come to my house Saturday morning at 10. Sincerely, Burt Murphy."

Hanson chuckled at the precise, schoolmarmish handwriting, but his remembered the old lady kindly, and so on Saturday he got up early and drove the 50 miles to his home town.

The schoolhouse looked much as he remembered it, and so did the room inside with its neat rows of desks. But the old lady kind of hit him right in the nostalgia was the sight of little Scott Murphy, still sitting behind her desk on the raised platform in front of the blackboard.

Both had been a long time, Albert," she said.

"Not so long as I thought," said her old pupil. "Let's see. Seems I used to sit right over there."

He walked to a desk near the window and wedged his bulk into the seat.

"That's right," said Miss Peck. "Helen Brennan used to sit in front of you and Burt Murphy had the desk on your right. Now, just excuse me until I finish correcting this paper."

Five minutes later, Burt Murphy walked in. There was a grin on his face, but when he saw the textile man, he stopped smiling.

"I'm glad you got my note and could come," said Miss Peck. "Do you remember where you used to sit?"

"What's this all about?" asked the union boss.

The old lady looked at him over her glasses. "If you'll take your seat," she said, "the class will be in order."

Murphy, to humor her, sat down next to Hanson.

"Things haven't changed much, have they?" said Miss Peck pleasantly, "and kids will keep throwing spitballs at each other, only now they hurt a lot more than they used to. Do you remember how it was with you two in the old days? I'll never let the time you were pretty good friends, but every now and then you'd get into an argument and make so much noise that none of the other pupils could hear a word. And when you did, I'd just stop the class, make you stand up, and then ask to go outside and not come back until you had straightened out your differences. I'd stone-in the gall bladder, or urinary bladder, if you will, and then directly by physical examination of the abdomen. X-ray examination is necessary to rule out any of stone in the urinary bladder, a specialist examining with a lighted type is required, often. This laster examination requires the passing of a specially electrically lighted instrument into the bladder for the purpose of examining the bladder.

Diseases of the kidneys often call for a cystoscopic study, and cystoscopic (viewing of the interior of the urinary bladder with special instrument) examination. A doctor cannot diagnose a kidney stone by feeling a patient's back. Diseases of the lower bowel must often be investigated by the passage of an instrument called tube into the bowel, and often, it is necessary to supplement this with a special X-ray examination in which a contrasting substance is first put into the lower bowel.

Occasionally it is necessary to inject air into the open spaces in the brain to determine whether or not a tumor is present. Tumor of the brain can not be demonstrated by ordinary X-ray pictures of the head. Elaborate apparatus and special procedures are necessary to examine the interior of the eye, and to estimate the accuracy of hearing. Electrical apparatus may be used to diagnose certain disorders of the heart.

Special procedures are carried out only for definite reasons and are not ordinarily used as a routine. Laboratory investigation of the blood and other body fluids may involve a great deal of time and the employment of special apparatus. If a person decided he would have an examination which employed all these special procedures, he would be hospitalized for a long time and would run up an expense of many hundred dollars. And when all this had been accomplished, it would prove to be mostly futile. No person in his right mind would request any such thing and no doctor could be found who would countenance any such foolishness.

A general physical examination often points to the need of special examinations. These are followed up as needed and not carried out under the heading of general examination. Included in the general examination, is inspection of the ears, nose, throat, for instance, examination of chest (including heart and lungs), abdomen, rectum, genitalia, spine, muscles and extremities. On the basis of this consideration and the ability of the physician together with the ability of the patient to relax, the one may be readily fixed.

On the basis of findings in the general examination, or lack of findings, special diagnostic procedures are often called for. For instance, a doctor cannot feel or otherwise identify an ulcer of the stomach by physical examination of the abdomen. For this purpose a special X-ray examination must be made. When a patient wants to enter in advance upon "examination" is going to cost, how can the doctor forsee what special procedures might be necessary? A stone in the gall bladder, or urinary bladder cannot be identified directly by physical examination or the abdomen. THE "CHECK-UP"

The term "check-up" used by the person who is to undergo a physical examination should be forgotten. A physical examination is just that, certainly an expense of many hundred dollars. And when all this had been accomplished, it would prove to be mostly futile. No person in his right mind would request any such thing and no doctor could be found who would countenance any such foolishness.

A general physical examination often points to the need of special examinations. These are followed up as needed and not carried out under the heading of general examination. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NEGATIVE TALK

I am sometimes sorry for those who never realize how damaging their negative talk is. To illustrate: Have you familiar in such statement as this: "I would like to ask you to do something for me but I know you won't." Here is another. "I am going to ask you to help me, but I know you won't tell me the truth!"

Such negative talk creates antagonism at once, to say nothing about lowering the confidence people have for the one making such statements. Negative talk is the worst thinking habit and definite influence on health and character we know. Think positively and you will do positive things. You may recall that famous poem by Edna Guest about the job of the chap of whom they said: "He couldn't be done — but he did it!"

Creaic confidence in the mind of a person makes him walk right and climb high. He will do impossible things again and again. Negative talk actually shrinks the brain! On the other hand, positive talk enlarges and enriches the brain.

There can't be a good chance for a person in the world when everyone talks war. Constructive talk is always positive talk. The welcome sign is always out and forever doing the thing that he says he will be doing. Words that are mere gift could accomplish. Believe and you will receive.

Believe, and have confidence in your powers, and the will not fail of you. It always works that way. Talk positively, think positively, and you will be doing positively winning things. Doubting rings no bells!

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

An advertisement recently referred sentimentally to "pie like Grandma used to make."

This is one of those phrases that is slowly losing meaning. There are thousands of Grandmas today have lived their entire lives within the sure of the modern food industry, which includes commercial pies. They never had to learn to cook. All they learned to do was heat.

They bought their roast beef in cellophane and brought it home and put it in an electric stove with an oven indicator on it. If that is cooking, my Grandmother was a magician. They poured the peas out of the can into a saucepan and let them get hot. Potatoes? They scrubbed them under the tap and put them in to boil. They never had to bake. Pie? They bought it up the street. Now, if you said "pie like Great-Grandma used to make," you have got something. But none of the younger generation would know what you meant.

There is a widely-held theory that cooking is a lost art. Cooking is a trade; and you have to be apprenticed to it, serve your journeyman's time under your mother and your grandmother. And even when you become a master-or, I should say, a mistress of your trade, you are scared to death every time you serve a meal. There are mighty few girls left in the world who come into this category.

They go to school until they are eighteen; whereupon they either get job or become debutantes. Why should they learn to cook, when you can buy every meal from breakfast to dinner at the grocery store?

Of the great majority of the younger Grandmas of today, you can say honestly that she is a wonderful hostess.

But to call her a wonderful cook — well, let it pass missing.

Two Airfields Ban Fighter-Type Aircraft

New York, Nov. 19 — (AP) — A "keep off" sign to fighter-type aircraft has been posted by the Guards Field and the New York International Airport.

The ban, ordered yesterday by the Port of New York Authority, followed a series of air force plane accidents in the last two weeks that have claimed the lives of 10 persons and 30 others injured.

The Authority, which operates the two giant airfields, said the other closed the fields to all fighter planes "regardless of ownership and regardless of whether or not they are modified or converted."

HOW MUCH ARE YOU WORTH?

Albert Schweitzer, the great German doctor, theologian, and philosopher explains how thirty years ago buried himself in the jungles of Africa that he might help pay the debt which he believes the white race owes to the black. In one of the great figures both of this day and of all time.

Once evening a mood of weariness and despair Schweitzer threw himself upon his bed, a consulting room and cried out bitterly, "What a disappointment these people have been to me!" Then he heard a voice which he knew was not his own, but which came as a great shock—heard, but not in heaven."

Sissons Into Port

The Haida, possessor of a proud record in the Second World War, steamed into port after rescuing the U.S. steamer in the surging Atlantic northeast of this island.

A whaler from the Haida picked up the men from a rescue boat which was dropped earlier from a circling search plane. The 18 men had transferred to the rescue boat from two overcrowded life rafts on which they had huddled since the crash.

The aircraft carrier Magnificent launched Firefly fighter planes to search the seas, despite the fact that gales were breaking over the flight deck. As a result, many of the planes were damaged in landing.

Seen Carrier Planes

Because of the heavy swells, the fighters had not spotted the rescue boat, but the survivors later said they had seen the carrier planes.

The pilot and commander of the 39-39, Lt.-Col. John Grable of McGuire Air Base, Calif., said Church was to be a first stop ashore for most of the rescued airmen.

"Then maybe we will celebrate a bit," Grable said.

The pilot said after the plane's starboard ignition equipment failed Wednesday morning, "we hunted for the island (Bermuda) under, and cloud cover, but had no luck. It was pretty overcast."

With their fuel almost out, "we jettisoned everything we could and prepared for ditching."

Tail Broke Off

When the big bomber hit the water, the tail broke off, taking one of the three life rafts aboard down with it. The fuselage turned nose down in less than a minute.

The men on the rafts lived on emergency rations, mostly hard candy. When they were picked up they had one day's supply left. Thirst was no problem because they drank rain water from frequent showers. They also had equipment to purify the salty sea water.

On their arrival here, Sgt. Roy Coulter, 46, Beverly Hills, Calif., was ruled not in shape to talk to reporters. Lying quiet and unsmiling on his stretcher, he was reported suffering considerable shock.

The two men lost were Cpl. Raymond Snell, 32, Arlington, Calif. who received a severe head injury from the wrecked plane's girders, and Pte. Robert Dobson, 19, Decatur, Ill., who was unable to swim through the swells. Grable said the heavy seas prevented the other survivors from reaching them.

ALFRED CHILDS,

Jail officials said Childs, a thin, blond-haired youth who will be 17 on Dec. 18, was busy while awaiting trial writing a gun-filled short story called "Six-Gun Justice."

Crown evidence included two statements taken from Childs which were not admitted at the trial. But two sentences uttered by the youth on different occasions were ruled as voluntary statements and admitted as evidence.

In one Childs was quoted by Provincial Constable Jim Sherman as saying "I'm ready to confess. I shot those two fellows."

In the other, a fellow prisoner in Napanee County Jail, Robert Hodgson, testified he heard Childs say: "I shot McQuaig." This (crooking his index finger) is the finger that done all the dirty work."

May Commute Sentence

Ottawa, Nov. 21—(CP)—Alfred Childs, 16, may become the youngest Canadian to go over the gallows to be hanged for murder.

He was sentenced at Napanee, Saturday night, to be hanged Feb. 10 for the June 28 slaying of Elijah McQuaig, 57, of Napanee.

Should the sentence be carried out, it is believed Childs would be the youngest Canadian ever hanged.

It was recalled here that last spring Justice Department and legal officials said they could not remember of anyone 16 years of age or younger being sent to the gallows. At that time, they were commenting on the sentencing of Allan Newton of Rumsey, Alta., for the slaying of a Rumsey farmer's wife, Newton also was 16 at the time. No one of a comparable age has been sentenced to death in Canada since that time.

However, it is believed that the Justice Department may commute Childs's sentence because of his extreme youth as was done in the Newton case.

The Alberta youth, a farm laborer as is Childs, was sentenced to hang for the murder of Mrs. Grace Moore, the wife of his employer. Justice Minister Garson commuted the sentence from death to life imprisonment.

Clarke Griffith Celebrates 80th. Birthday

Washington, Nov. 21 — (AP) — Clark Griffith, a part of baseball for 61 years and still "rarin' to go," quietly celebrated his 80th birthday Sunday.

Griffith, president with controlling interest of the Washington Senators baseball team of the American League, broke into baseball as a pitcher in 1888. He was 17 years old.

He will never forget the day. He went to the mound for Bloomington of the Interstate League and pitched a five-hitter. But, the youngster made five errors, four wild pitches and his teammates made six more errors. The opposition won, 5-3.

Since that day the bush-browed stogie-smoking Griffith has been player-manager, bench manager and team owner.

Evergreener with Ban Johnson and Charles Comiskey of the American League, Griffith managed and pitched the Chicago White Sox to a pennant in 1901.

He came to Washington in 1912 as a manager.

His plans now?

"I want to put together a pennant winning club," he said, "And I'm rarin' to go. I've just started to work."

The best player he has ever watched?"

"Ty Cobb. He had everything, everything!" he said.

RAWDON Over 400 Enjoy Sumptuous Supper At Mt. Pleasant

Rawdon — The ladies of Mount Pleasant United Church, Rawdon, catered to more than 400 people at their supper in the church hall on Tuesday evening November 15th.

The tables were bountifully laden with various platters of meat, salads, jellies, vegetables, sweet apples, etc, for the first course with all the pie that everyone could eat to top off the supper. The ladies were praised by a large number of guests for their sumptuous meal.

An hour's program in the newly decorated church was presented by Major Everett and 13 members of the Peterborough Salvation Army who were heard in several musical and vocal numbers. The pastor, the Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, welcomed the guests and offered prayer.

Splendid Message

The highlight of the evening was a splendid message given by a former pastor, the Rev. F. G. Joblin of Port Perry, who with his wife, were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Joblin have given three sons to the ministry and they labored on the Rawdon circuit for 12 years and ministered to their people throughout the depression. When they left the circuit in 1934 many of the children had never known any other pastor. Several folks remarked "Just to see and hear Mr. Joblin was worth the price of admission."

In attendance at the supper were two staunch old men who were in attendance at the time the church was dedicated in June, 1871. They were Mr. John L. Bailey of Mount Pleasant and Mr. Robert Sharp of Snelgrove, Ontario.

On Wednesday evening a social was held at the church hall as there was an abundance of food left over.

Guests at the supper were present from Belleville, Trenton, Foxboro, Marmora, Frankford, Campbellford, Peterborough and all our nearby communities in the district.

WEDDINGS

MOHER—MEAGHER

Attractively decorated with pink and white flowers, the church of the Holy Name of Mary, Marysville, was the scene of a pretty Autumn wedding when Mary Margaret Meagher, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Meagher, became the bride of Patrick Joseph Moher, B.A., Kingston, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Moher of Lakefield, Ont.

The Rev. J. J. Macdonnell, P.P. officiated and the acolytes were Bernard and Joseph McCambridge.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. William Hanley, of Read, who was also the soloist and sang during the Nuptial Mass "O This Day", "Ave Maria", and Panis Angelicus".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of loveliness in a floor length gown of imported French lace over bridal satin, which was fashioned with high neckline, long sleeves, and qulaette, and outlined with scalloped detail; a Sabrina cap of lace buttoned down the back, bouffant skirt with bridal satin, joined by a scalloped lace band at the skirt front, and tapering to a wide border of lace. Her length fan-shaped train which was fashioned from the long waistline of lace and sleeves ended in lily points at the wrist. Her fingertip veil of imported French tulle illusion with scattered satin bow knots, fell from a halo headdress of pearl and lace with clusters of orange blossoms at either side. She carried a pearl rosary, the gift of the groom and her shower bouquet was of deep red Bellefontaine roses.

Miss Joan Lollar, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Theresa Moher, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, dressed in similar gowns of yellow and orchid faille taffeta, with matching bonnets. They carried messages of Sweetheart roses and mauve and yellow mums.

Mr. John Meagher, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and Mr. John Moher and Mr. Francis Fowler acted as ushers.

The wedding dinner for about fifty guests was held at the Hotel Quinte, Belleville. The bride's mother received in a two-piece street length dress of navy blue crepe with pink accessories, a navy accessories, and a corsage of Briarcliffe roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who also wore a two-piece gown of navy blue taffeta and corsage of Briarcliffe roses.

For a wedding trip to Ottawa, Quebec and the Laurentians, the bride chose as her travelling costume, a forest green English pinwardine dressmaker suit, muskrat coat with brown accessories and corsage of yellow mums.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Moher took up residence at Madoc, where the groom is a member of the High School teaching staff in Assumption College.

Guests were present from Toronto, Peterborough, Linwood, Belleville, Kingston and vicinity.

Former Resident Mrs. Jessie Hill, Revisits Old Home

Miss Jessie Hill formerly of Ann Street, Belleville, who has been spending the summer with her son, Tom Hill, in Montreal, left for Scotland on the 11th of this month, via Trans Canada Airways. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hill and son, Hanson. They expect to be gone three weeks and will visit Inglis and Ireland, Scotland. During the time Mrs. Hill's former home. This is the first visit back to the place of her birth since arriving in Canada nearly forty years ago.

Mrs. Hill has many relatives there including her late husband's brother, who is now the last one left. The reunion will no doubt be a joyous one and her many friends join in wishing her son Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hill, a most pleasant journey.

Mrs. Tom Hill is a daughter of Mrs. George Lamoureux, Dufferin Avenue, Belleville.

Prior to their departure the members of St. John's Anglican church, met at the rectory and spent a pleasant evening with them. At the close a presentation of a purse of money was made. Best wishes of the congregation of Madoc go with the rector and his family in their new field of labor.

Colorful Bazaar, And Tea Given By Holloway St. Church Ladies

In spite of inclement weather members and friends gathered in Holloway Street Church parlors to attend the annual church bazaar and tea. The first thing to catch the eye of the visitor was a large pine branch held in place with a red bow and on the front door.

Entering, visitors were graciously received by Mrs. C. Perkins, Mrs. A. Campbell, president of W. A.; Mrs. F. Wilson, president of W.M.S. and Mrs. G. Greatrix, president of Energetic Club, and Mrs. E. Ricketts, convener of the bazaar; close by were Mrs. G. T. Woodley and Mrs. C. McMillan, who accepted the entrance fee.

The booths were artistically decorated with streamers of two shades of green looped and tied with large bows, the first to draw one's attention was a booth containing fancy work, under the Energetic Club, namely: Mr. L. Buck, Mr. J. Bell, Mrs. Hindyks and Mr. G. Greatrix. This booth deserves special mention as the articles for sale were made by the convenors and were things that would delight the eye of a child. The dolls' beds and high chairs for the girls; blackboards on easels for boy or girl; kindergarten sets which any child would be delighted to have and which were soon picked up.

On the south side of the room was a long table divided into several booths.

Fancy Sewing

There was the fancy sewing and novelty booth convened by Mrs. J. Grills and Mrs. N. Holdrum, assisted by Mrs. A. Lennox, Mrs. W. Oliphant, Mrs. Clapp and Mrs. F. E. Simpson; here were proudly displaying pretty dolls all dressed up, smart little dresses for the wee girl and trousers and sweaters for the little boy, plus numerous other novelties suitable for gifts. Next came the plain sewing booth where one could choose a boys' plaid skirt, or a girls' pleated skirt or even a wincheater, clothes to keep the youngsters warm this winter. The convenors were Mrs. H. Regenaburg and Mrs. Denyes, assisted by Mrs. S. McMillan, Mrs. Wagg, Mrs. C. I. Frederick and Mrs. Glover. Then came the gift booth, where visitors could find a variety of towels, pillow slips and numerous other gift articles. This booth was convened by Mrs. Twiddy, Mrs. D. Ferguson and Mrs. F. Taylor.

At the end of the room there was a booth which all ladies are interested in, knitted and crochet articles, for babies, sweet little garments and bonnets, shoes, too; crochet pot holders and other articles too numerous to mention, but all useful. Those in charge were Mrs. T. Post, Mrs. J. J. Robertson, Mrs. J. Livesey, Mrs. L. Buck and Mrs. E. Seal.

Stepping to the platform there was a long table with all kinds of aprons, aprons for every day, which to serve tea, gay print aprons for mornings and over-alls to protect that good dress; aprons of all colors and sizes which were eagerly bought up by thrifty buyers. This booth was convened by Mrs. W. Ricketts, R. Anderdrews, Mrs. F. C. Harrison, Mrs. F. B. Morden, Mrs. G. B. Dunphy and Mrs. R. Adams.

Delicious Cakes and Pies

Before going to the tea room one must take a look at the home cooking booth at the other end of the room which is separated from the large room by red streamers and bows. A beautiful centre piece of red candles, white reindeer and sleigh adorns the table, and is surrounded by all kinds of good things to eat; delicious cakes, pies, tarts, and pies and appetizing home-made buns.

Convening this table were Mrs. D. Fraser and Mrs. Quinsey, assisted by Mrs. A. Hall, Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. K. Edgecombe, Mrs. D. Matthews, Mrs. R. Black and Mrs. A. Corder.

Across the room is a little booth, with a pretty inscription worked out in red and white, "Candy"; this booth was a special project of the T.O.G. Club, and was very interesting, filled with a sweet tooth made their purchases and went away happy. The convenors were Mrs. G. Oughtyke, Mrs. G. Sickels, Miss D. Craighead and Mrs. B. Muirhead.

The Country Store was next, where the daily necessities might be had with anything from nuts to soup, and was a special project of the Fellowship Group and W. P. Society. The convenors, who were busy all day, were: Mrs. E. Ferguson, Mrs. M. B. Wood, Mrs. C. O. Wager, Miss Rosaline Robertson, Mrs. C. Holmes, Mrs. F. Panter and Miss Betty Keeble.

Enticing Tea Room

The crowning point of a basket of fun was the enticing tea room and after being welcomed by the hostess, Mrs. R. Kilbank, and Mrs. Ed. Emerson, assisted by R. G. Coulter, Mrs. C. Walters and Mrs. A. Hall, the guests to the tea room. This was arranged along the south side of the room with a long table in the centre which was lovely with a lace cloth centred with a bowl of cherubs flanked by green holders and lighted candles, interspersed with pine branches and cones. Delicious sandwiches and pies were placed about the room and were lovely with white cloth and pine boughs, centred with red tapering candles.

Those assisting tea were Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. G. Greatrix, Miss Ruby Wilson, Mrs. Ed. Emerson, representing the W.M.S., Energetic Club, Mission Circle and Fellowship Club. Mrs. R. A. Wyatt and Mrs. F. Scott capably convened the tea room and were assisted by Mrs. C. Gibson, Mrs. H. Hughes, Mrs. W. Gander, Mrs. H. Richardson, Mrs. Harry Ferguson, Mrs. J. B. Ricketts, Mrs. H. Thurston, Mrs. R. McDonald, Mrs. C. Ketcheson, Miss Vivian Smith, Miss Ila Smith, Mrs. Bert Hall, Mrs. Hitchon, Mrs. A. C. Burrows, Mrs. J. Doig, Mrs. G. McFarlane, Mrs. A. Bartlett, Mrs. R. Bell, Mrs. A. Bartlett, Mrs. R. Bell, Mrs. Ed. Wright, Mrs. Ed. Ketcheson who replenished the fast emptied plates were Mrs. H. Hughes, Mrs. B. Moorman, Mrs. L. Van Osten, Mrs. W. Carter, Mrs. H. Thurston, Mrs. E. Fitzgibbon, Mrs. H. Bonter, Mrs. E. White, Mrs. C. Sinfield and Mrs. C. Green.

Behind the Scenes

If one peeped behind the scenes into the kitchen, you would find hard at work what was the nucleus which no tea could be a success. Mrs. M. Hicks was the convener, assisted by Mrs. T. Ketcheson, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. S. Lough, Mrs. G. Dobbs, Mrs. C. Lindsay, Mrs. T. C. Tucker, Mrs. I. Wall, Mrs. E. Bush, Mrs. F. Lafferty, Mrs. A. A. Austin, Mrs. C. H. Bowden and Mrs. P. Boulton. To these ladies goes the credit of a delicious tea and the daintily arranged sandwiches and fancy plates.

A very successful bazaar, artistically arranged and skilfully convened by Mrs. E. Ricketts, to whom much credit is due and to Mrs. Meldrum, who was responsible for much of the decoration.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Ivanhoe — The November W.M.S. meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, was held in the church parlors on Thursday evening last, and was well attended by the congregation. A delicious pot-luck supper was served by the ladies at 6.30.

The meeting opened with a song service conducted by Mrs Milton Shaw, The Rev. W. H. V Hughes read the scripture lesson for the program, read short poems on trust, God's care, the Good Shepherd, the power of prayer. After each poem was read one of the hymns from the hymns were sung: "Trusting Jesus," "God Will Take Care of You," "The Ninety and Nine," "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," "Take My Life and Let It Be."

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Harold Thompson: Luke 15.

Youth for Christ

Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, gave a fine address, taking for her subject, "Youth for Christ." Mrs. Walker pointed out that with much destructive criticism of youth and not enough constructive. The speaker urged the church should strive to give the young people work to do worthy of their strength and enthusiasm. That all young people should be made to feel the church needs them. This is a challenge the church should accept, as the youth are the hope of its future.

This interesting address was followed by a duet "We Will Not Forget," given by Mrs Margaret Haggerty and Harold Thompson. The chairman read the names on the honor roll of those who had paid the Supreme Sacrifice, which were: Fred Brown, Earl Wallace and Fleming Rollins.

The members of St. Andrew's were happy in having with them Mrs. Addie Wallace of Stirling, who was wearing the Mizpah Pin in memory of her son. Little Miss Beverly McInroy sang "We Are Little Christmas."

The Home

The guest speaker, Mrs. Chas. Fargey of Stirling, gave a splendid address on the theme "The Home." Mrs. Fargey outlined some of the duties and obligations of the parents, stressing that unhappy homes were not always the fault or the children. Parents were urged to be tolerant, understanding and patient, and children to honor, respect and be guided by their parents.

The speaker stated that the blessing of a happy home could only be achieved by loving cooperation on the part of each member of the home.

This address was well prepared, well given and thought-provoking. Mrs. Wilton Shaw gave a reading, "Even So Lord Jesus." Mrs. John Wallace conducted a short song service. The president, Mrs. John McInroy, spoke briefly expressing thanks to all who had taken part in the program.

The offering amounted to $23.50.

"Most tooth loss comes from gum troubles," say dentists.

FIGHT TOOTH DECAY AND GUM TROUBLES BOTH!

New dental research proves you can help prevent tooth decay as you guard your gums—this doubly-effective Ipana way!

In thousands of recent reports from all over the country, dentists say the Ipana way promotes healthier gums. That's due to ingredient #3 doing double duty, for dentists warn that you can't have healthy teeth without healthy gums! Try the dentist-approved Ipana way—for healthier teeth and healthier gums both.

Scientific research based on daily dental examinations now proves that every time you brush your teeth with Ipana, you help fight tooth decay by effectively reducing and keeping down the acid-forming bacteria in the mouth. No other paste or powder is more effective for this purpose. And Ipana helps remove bacteria-trapping deposits that invite decay.

The Ipana way is doubly-effective. 1. Between meals, brush your dentist, brush all tooth surfaces with Ipana after every meal. (Ipana's special cleansing formula helps prevent tooth decay—harms tooth enamel.) 2. Then massage gums the way your dentist advises. (Ipana's unique formula actually aids circulation—promotes healthier gums.)

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Bottled chickens are a bust.

You can fry or fricassee them, boil or braise them, but when you put a chicken in a bottle, no one can foretell the results, particularly when it's a live chicken.

This was the experience of the New Jersey poultry salesman who raised a chicken in a five gallon bottle in order to prove that the bird could exist on the concentrated salesman's feed and grow into a big hiddy. Unfortunately the salesman was sued by the S.P.C.A. haled into court and finally exonerated by the highest state tribunal when a poultry specialist found the bird healthy and unharmed. The specialist Dr. Willard C. Thompson of Rutgers University, didn't however, recommended a bottle as a permanent abode.

Cooks, too, sometimes go in for spectacular ways of serving chicken. High falutin' chicken in aspic chickens boned and stuffed with truffles and molded chicken mousse are all ways of showing off the cook's skill at the expense of the chicken's original fine flavor.

If you have leftover chicken and you want to use it in some novel but easy way, make light chicken fritters as a luncheon dish. No more than a cup and a half of chicken is needed for four portions, but it's enough to give substance and delicious flavor to a light meal.

Chicken Fritters—Serves 4

Sift together 2 cups previously sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper and 3 teaspoons double action baking powder.

Beat 2 egg yolks slightly. Combine with 1 cup milk, and 3 tablespoons melted butter or chicken fat.

Combine liquid and dry ingredients, beating until smooth. Add 1 cup finely ground cooked chicken.

Beat 2 egg whites until stiff and dry. Fold batter, then in the centre of bowl with mixing spoon, then over to the side of bowl and up. Repeat 3 motion turning bowl until whites are thoroughly folded in and batter is light.

Drop by spoonfuls into a hot heavy frying pan filled with melted fat or salad oil to a depth of 1-2 inch. Brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper.

Serve fritters hot with tartar sauce made by combining 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons chopped sour pickle and 2 teaspoons chopped parsley.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a recipe to contribute? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply.—Ed.

MADOC

Mrs. J. McCaffery Prepares Paper on Madoc's First Schools

Madoc—The first school opened in Madoc was a log school house out at "Hen's Nest" and was thought to be the beginning of the village. Squire O'Hara was the instigator of this school being started. In Madoc village the first schools were privately conducted, taught by a Miss Olmstead, an American and supported by public subscription.

In 1844 a school was built, but burned down and in 1853, a brick school was built on the site of the present school, with two rooms, one being taught by Miss Mowat, a relative of the late Sir Oliver Mowat. This school was pulled down and classes were taught in different parts of the village; one being taught in the police barracks near St. Peter's Church. The main police barracks being used for the Mounted Police during the gold excitement.

Standards Improved

In 1874 an inspector, Mr. William Mackintosh was appointed and the standard of the schools improved rapidly. The trustees at that time were Dr. Lomas, John Dale and E. D. O'Flynn. Archibald was made to build a new school, but it was not until 1876 that the model school was built, the first teacher being Mr. Smith. Curtis; Miss Cowle (later Mrs. W. Mackintosh) and Miss Riddell. The village was incorporated that same year and the school for training teachers was begun, they were called "Modelites."

Mr. Mackintosh taught school law, discipline, methods of teaching, while the principal taught some subjects, but the strain being too much, an assistant was appointed for the model term. There were nine students the first year. The trustees were E. D. O'Flynn; Warshaw Tuller; A. P. Wood, Anson Ross, F. K. Seymour and Joseph Caverly. Mr. Seymour was secretary-treasurer for a number of years.

The first legislative grant was received in 1879. These modelites, after receiving their 3rd class certificates, taught rural school for two years, and then went on normal exam for permanent certificates. There had been a by-law that no local girls were to be engaged as teachers in the village schools, but this was rescinded and in 1881, Jessie Rollins latterly Mrs. Muldrew) and Martha Whytock (latterly Mrs. J. Mackinley) were hired and taught a number of years. The high school was built in 1888 and the Modelite classes were discontinued.

Hart's School

The second school built in Madoc township was Hart's in 1843. This was a log building and was heated by a stove put in a pit in the centre of the room and benches were arranged along the sides with a shelf along the sides to hold the slates. Each family sending a child had to provide one half cord of wood or pay 50 cents. The teacher boarded around at the different homes. In 1858 the salary paid was $54.00 In 1867 Septem Hart advanced a new school, and a new frame one was built on the present site of an up to date brick one. Several modelites being teachers, Victoria Kincaid, Allen Sinclair, Annie Miller, Annie Caskey, Lily Morden, Andrew Harper, Bea Jopjan and Dora Thompson. The brick school being built in 1916. Trustees, Fred Hart, Robert Woods and John McCaffrey, whose father and grandfather had formerly been trustees.

Of the original settlers of Hart's only three families have children going to the school: Robert McCaffrey's daughter; Francis Penny's daughter, and Woodford Blakely's children.

SAVED LIFE OF MAN

Preston, Nov. 21. (CP)—An Albert Preston constable saved the life of a Puslinch man he had arrested during the weekend on suspicion of being drunk. When no smell of alcohol was found on the man's breath, the constable summoned a doctor. The man, a diabetic in semi-comatose condition, was taken to hospital for insulin treatment. The doctor told police the man would have died in a few hours had he been placed in cells.

MARMORA

Mrs. F. R. Harback Gives Challenging Message

Marmora—The appeal to all fellow Christians to adventure for Christ in prayer, love and witness, was forcibly made in St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday by Mrs. F. R. Harback, of Belleville, wife of the pastor of Tabernacle United Church of that city, as she addressed the congregation assembled for the Women's Missionary Society's annual service.

Her message was based on the words of Jesus spoken to His disciples after the Last Supper "Arise and Go". This was a command and challenge, not only for them but for all. The followers of Jesus have never been promised easy time by Him; He knows their weaknesses and their strength, and the adventure is enumerated by Him that they have to face, and their strength to carry on is revealed in His words "Abide in Me and I in You, for without Me you can do nothing." As Christians we are called on now as to whom we shall serve. There is no room for Communism reigning in Canada if the love of Christ and His power are here first. Haven't we got selling power in our Church? We must 'arise and go' not for ourselves, but for others. In our witnessing, we are to first know Him as He really is, and then give our full allegiance to Him. We will be great, only as we allow God to work through us."

The service was in charge of Mrs. H. C. Barlow president of St. Andrew's, W.M.S. who had the morning prayer, gave out notices and pronounced the Mizpah benediction at the close The scripture lesson; the last Judgment as given in Matthew 25, was read by Mrs. T. J. Bateman, Mrs. F. Lott was organist and the Junior choir occupied the choir stalls on the north with W.M.S. members occupying the south choir stalls. The Junior choir sang "He walks With Me" as the anthem and Mrs. F. R. Wells, and Mrs. E. C. Prentice rendered "Lead Kindly Light" as a duet.

The offertory was taken by Mrs. A. G. Jarvis and Mrs. J. Sproat, following prayer by Mrs. (Rev.) G. D. Yeoman. Yellow chrysanthemums, the gift of his family, adorned the communion table by loving memory of Robert Bonter, with additional chrysanthemums and snapdragons completing the church's decoration.

Dr. Milne Shows Interesting Films At University W. Club

The regular monthly meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and district, was held at the home of Mrs. K. W. Milne, Thursday evening last.

A short business meeting was held, with Mrs. A. C. Locke in the chair. Mrs. W. F. Baldwin was appointed treasurer in the place of Mrs. V. R Stammers, who is leaving Belleville soon. Mrs. L. R. Finlayson was appointed a member of the program committee in place of Mrs. W. L. Lemkola.

After discussion, it was decided to send parcels to Crosby Hall, England this Christmas, and also one parcel to the club's D.P. in Holland.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Locke on the 14th of the month instead of the 18th and will take the form of a Christmas party.

Dr. Milne showed a movie film taken by him in 1944, when he was in Europe with the troops shortly after D-Day. Of great interest were the films taken in Bruges showing the procession of the Sacred Blood, commemorating the time when the Flemish people threw off the foreign yoke in the 15th century. In conjunction with this is celebrated the Flanders' Day of Liberation.

Many beautiful cathedrals and buildings of Europe were shown; one of special interest was the St. Alban Cathedral, the oldest Roman "fortification in Europe.

Mrs. Stanmers thanked Dr. Milne for showing the club his remarkably fine films and his most interesting explanatory remarks on them.

Ten Toronto Girls Are Presented At Artillery Ball

Toronto, Nov. 19 (CP)—Ten Toronto girls were presented Friday night to Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross Tilson at the Royal Canadian artillery ball in a downtown hotel.

Against a colorful background of international flags, decorations and officers' uniforms, the debutants, all wearing white, walked to the ball room on the arms of their military escorts behind the artillery band. They were presented by Lt.-Col. Ware at the stage where the official party waited.

Elizabeth Arden To Buy Cattle At Winter Fair

Toronto, Nov. 21 (CP)—Elizabeth Arden, Canadian-born owner of a cosmetics concern, is here to visit the Royal Winter Fair and to buy 15 head of prize-winning cattle for her Connecticut States farm.

The New York business woman, born Florence Nightingale Graham at Woodbridge, Ont., arrived Saturday by plane. She told reporters she had not made up her mind whether to buy Holsteins or Guernseys.

Asked about her racing stables —in 1946 she was the top money-winning owner in the United States—she said she has formed a syndicate with a capital of $300,000 to participate in the stud fees of Ace Admiral, the horse which, before he suffered a leg injury, broke a record set by Man O' War.

MADOC

96th Anniversary Of Madoc Church Is Celebrated

Madoc—The 96th anniversary of the founding of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church was held on November the 13th. The Rev. A. Mills of Arnprior, former alleges padre, was the guest preacher.

In the morning he took his text "Praise Ye The Lord" and the special music by the choir followed the same thought "Lead Me Lord" and "O Lord, How Manefold Are Thy Works."

Miss Erma Burris Played "The Holy City" as a prelude to the evening service, and for the offertory the Welsh hymn "All through The Night," was played as a piano and organ duet by Miss Donna Devolin and Mr. S. Howthorn.

Many friends of St. Peter's were present for the Sunday services, and for the anniversary supper on Wednesday night.

Miss N. America Returns Home To Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP) — Miss Canada of 1949, Margaret Lynn Nunn of Toronto and Vancouver, is back from Peru, where she was crowned Miss North America in a contest with 21 other girls.

She returned Sunday from a three-weeks visit to Lima, where the contest was part of an international fair.

The auburn-haired stenographer and singer leaves today for Montreal and Ottawa to attend several receptions. She plans to resume her singing lessons following her return to Toronto from those cities next week.

Pittsburgh — If the eight attendants at Mrs. Catherine Gilcher's wedding today bear a family resemblance to the bride, that's all to the good. They're grandchildren.

Mrs. Gilcher volunteered after Mrs. Ginther, 57, announced she would wed Charles Wood, 62, in the climax of a romance that started on a California-bound train last September.

Ballston Spa, N. Y. — Dr. Harry E. Hansen, a veterinarian, got a call from a downtown drugstore. A farmer there wanted him to look at a sick cow.

Dr. Hansen picked up the farmer and drove him through winding country roads.

As the pair pulled up to the farmer's house, the farmer opened the car door and said:

"You can let me out here, doc. I haven't got a sick cow. You see, you charge only $3 for a visit while a taxi would have cost me $5.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The main topic among the hockey main stem today is the exhibition tilt tonight in Memorial Arena between our Diesel Electrics and the Toronto Meteors. According to the classical literature he is "shooting star; something that dazzles, tionary a meteor is "a shooting star; something that dazzles or startles with wonder". Whether the hockey Meteors come or startles with wonder". Whether the hockey Meteors come under this definition is something to be seen, but secondhand information is that the boys with the shooting star mentality are nobody's fools when it comes to razzle-dazzle or hockey. They can strike plenty and in the same place, behind the opposing goalie.

* * *

So all-in-all, when the Meteors meet Diesel Electrics, and should they live up to what their names represent, there should be a lot of hockey thunder echoing in Memorial Arena tonight. The Dee-Zee's, we understand will be at full strength with Art. Plumley in the nets. Martineau's forte's advanced that injury on his first play the other night and will be out of action for some time. However, the diminutive Art. who played a great game in Cobourg with the other night is quite capable of holding down the fort. It should be a close hard-fought tussle as we understand the Meteors believe in the rugged type of hockey.

* * *

Northern Electric and RCAF Flyers take over the spotlight in the District League get-together tomorrow night with the CNR Diesels and Rockets furnishing the entertainment in the nightcap. Northern Electric have yet to meet defeat but with these cocky Flyers playing their second at full speed the Electrics may find their hands full before the game is over. Northern are not selling the air insiders short and it should be a real tilt.

* * *

Rockets Juniors who tied the fast-stepping 6 R.D. Tigers last Tuesday night are set to make the win column and they will be out there in an effort to collect a victory at the expense of the Tigers. The Trainmen have not been setting the world on fire starts and have no intention of allowing any team to break the streak. So all-in-all it looks like a night of action for the fans.

* * *

Well, well, these railroaders, members of the Canadian National Railway Athletic Association, that is, are versatile to say the least. First, they form the organization and sponsor sports of every description; take unto themselves the task of getting into shape what will be one of the best recreational bowls in this part of Ontario, and now we'll be dogzoned if they haven't turned publishers.

* * *

Yup, just off the press is the first edition of "The Bulletin", a bright breezy four-page sheet that is full of stories of the activities of the association. In the first issue Williams Michaud and Editor Michaud has gathered about him a gathering of some co-editors especially "Pezzy" who pushes a potent pen dilled with pungent phrases. "The Bulletin" contains articles of sport, meetings, social functions and a corking good editorial. It embraced that quality mixed with the odd humorous poke at various members of the association. It is exceptionally well-laid out, cleverly edited and is a credit to its sponsors.

* * *

New we know for a fact that that lump in Lou Hayman's cheek was not tobacco when he murmured something about an "upset" prior to the meeting of his Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tigers for the Eastern Canada football championship down Montreal way Sunday afternoon. The Larks romped the Cats under a 46-6 deluge and from reports could have doubled the score. And the Larkes "weakened" by the loss of Sonny Dandurand were not the Calgary Stampeders for the Grey Cup and the Dominion football title next Saturday in Toronto.

* * *

So it's another rip-roaring round of rodeo yippees for Toronto next Saturday when some 2,000 Calgarians will invade the Queen City in all their colorful western paraphernalia in support of their favorite cowboy who will ride the sky scrapers Westerners to its heart last year when the Stamps defeated Ottawa Rough Riders for the title. We happened to be present and we can safely say that unless it was Armistice Day in London, 1918, we have never seen such an exhibition of color, celebration and general ballraising. It was good clean fun, however and there were no casualties.

* * *

We expect to take in the game, celebrations, again this year attending the Ontario Minor Hockey Association annual in the King Eddy on Saturday morning. Sam Curry, Tweed, is again offering himself as a member of the executive of that organization and we trust the delegates see fit to return Sam to office. He did an excellent job for Eastern Ontario last year in minor softball circles, and it is to be hoped that Sam will be able to carry on with the good work.

Detroit Red Wings Win NHL Double Bill as Trade Deal For Joe Carveth Pays Off

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit's rampaging Red Wings, hottest team in the National Hockey League race, walloped Toronto Maple Leafs twice during the weekend to run out their current winning streak to eight straight.

The victories, by identical scores of 5-3, consolidated the Red Wings' seven-point lead at the top of the loop. Montreal Canadiens missed a chance Sunday to overtake the second-place Leafs when they lost to the cellar-dwelling Boston Bruins 3-1. A victory would have put Montreal a point ahead of Toronto.

New York Rangers moved up to a fourth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks by defeating the Hawks 5-2 in Chicago Sunday night before 15,206 fans. Both teams now have 13 points.

Joe Carveth, latest Detroit acquisition, highlighted the Detroiters' assault on the world champion Leafs, scoring three goals and three assists in the two contests.

At Detroit Sunday night the action in the first period minutes was the fastest seen this season on Detroit ice. Carveth drew the ring first blood at the five-minute mark when Ray Timgren added a goal 40 seconds into the Detroit net.

Six minutes later Detroit struck back when Jimmy Thomson of Toronto was off for holding. Red Kelly drove the rubber home with Carveth assisting. Toronto was short-handed shortly afterward when the Red Wings forged ahead.

The goal, a close-range shot, was fired by Carveth. Carveth again took advantage of a Toronto penalty — an interference call against Vic Lynn — and ran up another counter at the 14:48 minute mark.

Sew it up in Second

In the second frame, Pete Babando and Ted Lindsay sewed it up for the Red Wings. Carveth, assisting on Lindsay's goal. Max Bentley's score for Toronto in the third frame, a 25-foot shot, came as an anti-climax.

Toronto was leading 2-1 early in the middle frame Saturday on goals by Harry Watson and Howie Meeker but suddenly blew up under Detroit pressure and the Wings netted three goals in 55 seconds.

Detroit's first goal was counted by Gerry Couture and after that it, was all Red Wings. Free-wheeling Good Howe popped for the first of his two goals. Marty Pavelich outfought two Leafs to set up Carveth and Babando was credited with the third quick one in the second frame.

Howe's second tally at 7:55 of the third happened after Turk Broda came out of the Toronto net to hook the puck off Ted Lindsay's stick on a breakaway.

A two-goal rally in the third period gave Boston Bruins their victory over Canadiens at Boston Sunday. Canadiens' first tally ended 107 minutes and nine seconds of scoreless play in Boston between the two teams. They played a scoreless tie recently.

The Habitants owed their only goal to a pretty passing play by Leo Gravelle who whizzed down the left lane, rounded the net and passed to Billy Reay, who slipped the disc to Norm Dussault, who blasted it in.

Angie Shot Beats Durnan

Three minutes and eight seconds later a 30-foot angle shot fired by blonde Dave Creighton, whistled past goalie Bill Durnan in the Montreal nets. Another two minutes later Eddie Sarbach banged home the winning score, sliding it past Durnan as he sat on the ice.

Most of the scoring in the Chicago game was packed into the second period, little Tony Leswick of the Rangers rapped in three goals within a space of three minutes and five seconds. The first was a little short of the record for a short space of time, Carl Liscombe of Detroit having hit for three in 1938 in 1938.

New York rang up the initial counter at 5.24 of the second period when Buddy Boivin Esposito in a pass from Bud Polle. Jimmy Conacher tied it up for the Hawks five minutes later.

Then Leswick scored twice, Rookie Bronco Horvath of the Hawks connected with Chicago's second goal and Leswick fired his third counter, a Polle effort the only third-period goal.

Next games in the league are Wednesday night when New York and Detroit tangle in the border city and Toronto takes on the Bruins at Boston.

AN ORIENTAL ART

The belief that jiu-jitsu was founded by a Japanese physician who learned it in China is not correct, for the art was known and practised as early as the seventh century B.C.

Marlies Coast To 4-2 Victory Over Biltmores

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Marlboros, top team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" League, have shown in 15 games this season the know-how that makes champions in any circuit.

Marlboros handed out a lesson to the Guelph Biltmores in the first game of a Junior "A" doubleheader at Toronto Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the Blits 4-2. The win stretched their first place lead to seven points over St. Catharines Teepees.

The second game saw the fast-improving St. Michael's College Majors draw into a second place tie by banging a 5-3 defeat on Barrie Flyers, the second in two days.

In other weekend O.H.A. games Owen Sound Mercurys increased their second-place lead in the senior race over Kitchener-Waterloo to three points by defeating the Dutchmen 6-1. Windsor played host to Stratford Kroehlers on Saturday night and made their stay uncomfortable by trouncing the classic city team 6-5 in four Spiffirae sheet of Barrie Indys to Oshawa Generals 9-3 in the only other game.

Marlboros showed vast superiority over Guelph, and by clinching the Blits hold into the after taking 3-0 lead in two periods made the game history. Left-winger Plashy George Armstrove opened the scoring midway through the first period and play leaned until the 10 minute mark of the middle session when Jack McKenzie counted to make it 2-0.

Score in Open Net

McKenzie was sent off for hitchsticking shortly after and Guelph's team was thus handicapped Larry Regan shouted through the entire Guelph team to score. Biltmores hit the black column early in the third period. Vic Dimarco slamming home the disc they added another with less than two minutes, the goal coming off the stick of Vic Guidolin. Jimmy Lewicki wound it up by firing the puck into the empty net after goalie Bob Bailey pulled goalie Cliff Hicks in favor of an extra forward.

In the opener, St. Michael's and Barrie Flyers put on a real show. Starry Irish centreman Billy Marshall gave St. Michael's the lead early in the opening session on a pass from Bonhomme. Barrie evened the count after six 45 seconds of the period had elapsed on a marker by Rich Hogan. Marshall collected his second counter and Red Instoldsby notted another to give the collegians a two goal lead which held up until the final frame, when Rich Hoge clicked for his second time and was followed by Stan Long to even it up. Late in the third period Bill Reay and Rod Roy's pass and sank the winner, Bill Dineen added one with Barrie two men short.

Powerful Oshawa Attack

At Oshawa, Galt took an early lead but a powerful Oshawa attack took the game. In hand Oshawa led 3-2 at the end of the first on two goals by Bill Derwick and a single off the stick of Alan McGillivray.

Chuck Conacher and Bruce Simms tallied for the Black Hawks. Eddie O'Connor and Frank Hooper counted for Generals in the middle frame and were followed by Don Hall and Cooper in the third, before Galt came back with a marker by Conacher, his second. Oshawa made it a rout and closed out the scoring in the last five minutes, Lou Jankowski and Eddie O'Connor being the marksmen as they beat it 9-3.

Jack Bailey shot Windsor into a one-goal lead over Stratford in the first period. Dinny Flanagan tied it up in the second but Windsor came right back with marker Earl Reibel added. Eddie Stankiewix to take the lead again. Doug French tallied for Kroehlers and Earl Reibel notched his second for Windsor before the session ended. Windsor outscored Stratford 2-1 in the final frame, Glen Skov and Earl Johnson clicked for Spitfires and Doug French tallying for the losing side.

At Owen Sound, Art Hayward, Harry Kazarian and Bruno Favero with two tallied for Mercurys without a Kitchener-Waterloo reply, finally copped a goal for the Dutchmen, the last score of the second period, Doug Gillespie got that one back in the finale to send the Dutchmen down 6-1.

No games are on tap tonight is either loop but tomorrow brings St. Michael's to Galt and Stratford to Guelph. In the senior series, Hamilton travels to Owen Sound.

RECOMMEND SIGN

Toronto, Nov. 19—(CP)—A coroner's jury Friday night recommended that a warning sign be erected at the intersection of 3-A Highway and Service Rd. to warn traffic against driving west from the cloverleaf. The recommendation stemmed from the death Oct. 3 or 38-year-old Frank Wilson, whose car was struck by a truck in the late evening. It drove west along the eastbound lane.

Frankford — The race in the Frankford Bowling League has tightened up considerably, with only one or two points separating several of the teams. Unique were molded in their bid for second place, as the surprising Head Pins took two games and four points from them. Top Hatters increased their already sizeable lead, by knocking the second place Merry Macs for two games, one of which they won by three pins. Happy Gang and Aristocrats remained in a fifth place t., but climbed to within one point of fourth place, as they took five points from the Skyliners and Greenhorns respectively. Miles Sharpe rolled a new high single for the ladies, her first game, with 268, only to have it taken away from her in the next game as Joan McCrea knocked off a 290 game.

Western Wins Title Playoff From McGill

Toronto, Nov. 21 — (CP) — The Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union title went back to roost today in familiar surroundings at the University of Western Ontario and, to bear coach Johnny Metras tell it, it's there for a long stay again.

Metras declared flatly to one and all following Saturday's upset 12-9 victory over McGill that his Mustangs from the standpoint of courage against odds, had played "the greatest game in the history of intercollegiate football." But he also found time to enthuse about next season's prospects.

"We've got two big ends — both about six foot five — coming up, two grand middles and that Andy Sokol should . . .

At this point the scholarly-looking coach, whose spectacles give him more the appearance of a faculty member than director of athletics, was wafted off by the dressing room victory celebration. But he made it clear as he expects Western is in for a title-reign as long as its 1935-36 tenure.

The Mustangs, while losing six players by graduation, still will have a big nucleus of the injury-riddled team that fought McGill to a standstill before a Varsity Stadium crowd of 17,500. The inspired way that they came through would give any coach confidence in the future.

Odds are a repeat performance for the little London university, whose total enrolment of about 3,000 is way below any of the others in the four-team league. But this was considered true of

Parry Out

They went up against a McGill machine that had gone all out — in finance and football — to give Montreal its first Vanier Cup since the Redmen beat Western 9-0 in the 1935 final. McGill had beaten them 15-10 the previous Saturday to finish in first place with a record of seven wins and one tie apiece.

Milton, Mustangs captain and triple-threat star, Jack Parry, was out with a leg injury. His replacement, 160-pound Gray from Sarnia, should have been sidelined with a painful shoulder separation. Added to that were such assorted ills as Western never having won a playoff game in three previous tries, and not having won in Varsity Stadium since 1947.

But they pushed coach Vic Obeck's Redmen all around in the first quarter, then scored their opening touchdown on a break on the first play of the second. End Bill Ford pounced on Harold Fairhead's fumble of quarterback George Arnott's punt into the McGill goal area. Then Arnott then scored a rouge to leave Western leading 8-1 at halftime.

When Rocky Robillard raced 58 yards for the game-tying touchdown in the third quarter, McGill started carrying play with what looked like unbeatable power. But Western wasn't finished — not with Gray playing his heart out.

Struck Like Lightning

The 21-year-old chip off an old block (he's the son of former Sarnia great Ross Gray) struck like lightning with two successive forwards for a touchdown. The first went 26 yards on a line to Ford, the next 38 yards to Dick Hill who took it over for a major. Gray converted.

The nearest McGill could get after that was a three-point placement by Harry (Bud) Irving the former Calgary Stampeder.

Parry, who is in fourth year medicine, missed what would have been his last game for Western. Others due to graduate next spring are such George Wearring, quarterback Bob Bear and linemen Ticky Duck, Bill Downe and Doug Blackaller.

Bob and Den McFarlane both have another year in medicine. But both fear the intercollegiate's impending rules - tightening will, among other things, limit a player's career to four seasons. That would make them ineligible as this was their fourth season.

BIG SEVEN

(By the Canadian Press)

Sharp-shooter Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings garnered a goal and three assists during the weekend to widen his leading margin in the National Hockey League scoring race. With 21 points for eight goals and 13 helpers, he has a three-point lead over teammates Gordie Howe and Sid Abel and Chicago's Doug Bentley. Three points further back in third place, are Paul Ronty, Boston, and Roy Conacher, Chicago, each with 15 points. They have a single point edge on two more NHL puck-pushers—John Peterson, Boston; George Gee, Detroit and Bill Mosienko, Chicago.

The Leaders:

Lindsay, Detroit	8	13	21
Howe, Detroit	9	9	18
Abel, Detroit	8	10	18
D. Bentley, Chicago	5	13	18
Ronty, Boston	7	8	15
R. Conacher, Chicago	5	10	15
Lee, Detroit	7	8	15

President Says Use of Material Breach of Ethics

(By The Canadian Press)

Prod. Nelson C. Hart, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Sunday night at London, Ont., criticized a recent Vancouver story predicting the possible expenditure of five boxers from Canada's British Empire games team.

He declared in a statement that material for the story apparently was gleaned from the games of this month's annual meeting of the A.A.U. which contains his presidential address.

The use of this material "was a breach of ethical standards of the press," his statement said. He declared the story, which appeared in the Vancouver Daily Province, was "somewhat misleading to the readers."

The boxers concerned were Jimmy Muir of Montreal and Franky White of Winnipeg. Prof. Hart's statement said these two are mentioned as sure bets to dress, nor is any other boxer, fit to represent Canada, even in the question of amateurism and if the officials of the British Empire Games Association are satisfied with their amateur status, there appears to be no reason for barring them from the competition in New Zealand next February."

At Manchester, England, 50,000 fans saw Freddie Mills win the Manchester November Handicap Saturday but the horse's owner stayed away.

Darcy Halford, London wines and spirits merchant, was so disgusted with Fidonia's performance in a recent race that he went to the track at Lingfield, Sussex, instead.

The five-year-old Fidonia paid off at 40 to 1 in conquering a one-second field of 6 starters. Trainer Sonny Parker and Halford paid "a couple of cases" of whiskey for the gelding and could thought of giving him away.

Alex Shibicky, former National Hockey League forward with the New York Rangers and Washington Sepday he has agreed to sign as coach of Fin Flin Bombers of the Northern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

Byron Herstal, another former Ranger star, previously had taken the post but found later that it would conflict with personal business arrangements. Shibicky was coach of New Westminster Royals in the Pacific Coast League last season.

Laurent Dauthuille of France will clash with New York's Kid Gavilan at Montreal tonight in a scheduled 10-round middleweight bout.

Dauthuille, who has scored impressive ring victories over Montreal's Johnny Greco and Jake Lamotta of New York, is rated an even money bet by the gambling fraternity tonight.

Gavilan holds two victories over Ike Williams and carried Ray Robinson to the limit and is highly rated in middleweight brackets.

At Cobourg, Ont., Dundas defeated Cobourg 8-3 Saturday to win the intermediate A O.R.F.U. title 17-3 on the round.

The Ghosts appeared at a disadvantage on the slippery field with rain and snow falling intermittently. Their passing attack was hamstrung by conditions and they were minus Cooper, quarterback who suffered a broken finger in a game some weeks ago.

Professional champion Jack Kramer continued his domination over Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, this year's United States amateur tennis champion at New York's Madison Square Garden with a 12-10 contest before 2,500 spectators.

The victory was Kramer's 11th in a row over the Los Angeles youngster and gave Kramer 18 to 18 triumphs in 18 matches.

Frankford (Ponchi) Segura former South American champion, downed Franklin Parker, 6-3, 6-2. It was Segura's 14th victory over Parker in 18 meetings.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By JACK GRAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 21—(CP)—One of the strongest links with local baseball of the last century snapped last week in the death of Charlie Good, one of Canada's best-informed baseball writers.

"There couldn't be another like him in our business," wrote Gord (Globe and Mail) Walker.

Good's record spoke for itself. His death at 76 ended almost 50 years of reporting diamond doings for the Globe, the now-defunct Toronto News, the Toronto Daily Star and The Star Weekly.

"Mention any old-time Toronto baseball player, no matter how far back," wrote Red (Daily Star) Burnett, and Charlie could rattle off the highlights of his career and top averages."

Writing Classic

"His colorful comment on games, his outspoken views which found expression in his long-time Knock and Boost columns in The Star, gave him a large following," wrote Walker.

"Naturally he became involved in several rimbarks with players. Once he was threatened by a Toronto player whose name happened to appear frequently in the Daily Knock, but a wire across the swinging the press box from the playing field averted blows."

Walker tells a story of Good's late years when he played golf and became quite proficient.

"A trigger temper lent a savory touch to his links language," said Walker.

In one game Good played with two sports-minded sons, Charlie Jr., and Jimmy, he missed an easy putt and threw his putter high in the air in disgust. The putter didn't come down and it was spotted high in a tree.

"Jimmy climbed the tree to retrieve the club and much to the surprise of all, he found two putters," wrote Walker.

"Mild surprise turned to amazement when, upon closer examination, the other putter turned out to be one that mysteriously disappeared in the air the previous season when Charlie had reacted similarly to another missed putt."

Hamilton Jrs. Retain Title By a Whisker

Vancouver, Nov. 21 — (CP) — A desperate Hamilton Wildcat team struck through the air Saturday to down Vancouver Blue Bombers 14-13 and retain by a whisker the Canadian Junior football crown.

Hero of the piece was little Peter Withers, just 16, whose winning touchdown — his second on the game — came with less than two minutes to play. He wiped out Bombers 11-9 lead and stunned a crowd of 6,000 fans who thought a victory for the locals had seemed assured.

The game was a ground-against-air battle until the end with the lead changing hands three times. Powerless along the ground, Hamilton's Brian Timmins, Pete Woolley and Glen Dawson fired 21 passes — mostly in the third and fourth quarter.

Cats offset a Vancouver first-quarter major by Wendell Green with a converted touchdown and added a rouge in the second to lead 7-5. But Vancouver came back swiftly early in the third. Keith Bennett scoring a touchdown, then collecting a rouge on Vince Casey's kick.

Then they hung on grimly yielding only a single and a rouge until Dilker final thrust.

A weak pass defence spelt Vancouver's downfall. While Hamilton, completed only seven passes, they were good for both touchdowns and a total of 170 yards. Bombers completed only one pass in eight tries but revelled in the ground offensive. They had the visitors to 93 yards rushing and piled 159 themselves, mostly by the running of Pete Mully, Casey and Bennett.

Cleveland Barons Making Shambles Of League Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland Barons are making a shambles of the race for first place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League.

The Barons made it 10 games without a loss during the weekend with a 7-6 victory over Providence Reds Saturday and a 4-4 draw with Cincinnati Mohawks Sunday.

The goal-happy Clevelanders now lead the runners-up St. Louis Flyers by seven points and still have a game in hand.

Meanwhile, the league's eastern section remains a four-team race with the fifth squad completely out of contention.

Providence Reds hold a slim one-point lead over both Buffalo Bisons and New Haven Ramblers in second spot. Springfield Indians are four points off the pace and the tail-end Hershey Bears trail by nine points.

The Reds maintained their slim margin Sunday by downing Hershey 4-2 while Buffalo edged Springfield 4-3. The injury-riddled Ramblers held Indianapolis Capitals to a 22 deadlock in the only other Sunday encounter.

Red Almas picked up his first shut-out of the campaign Saturday as the Flyers blanked the helpless Cincinnati Hawks 2-0.

In other Saturday games, Springfield blasted Indianapolis by a 5-2 count and Hershey defeated Buffalo by the identical score. New Haven and Pittsburgh Hornets played to a 1-1 tie.

British Horses Won All Five Of Year's Classics

London, Nov. 21 — (CP) — The British flat-racing season ended Saturday amid Manchester mud and with heavy falling from the trees which circle the course at Lingfield, Sussex. Until spring rolls around again, horse lovers will have to focus their attention on steeplechasers.

Meantime they can spend the long winter evenings in happy contemplation of the fact that British blood lines finally are winning back their old prestige through Europe and in recalling that 1949 was the first year since the war that home-breds won all five of the year's classic races.

Three horses shared the five major prizes. Shipping magnate N. F. Donaldson's Musidora took two female blue ribbons — the 1,000 guineas at Newmarket and The Oaks at Epsom. Mrs. M. Glenister's Nimbus scored in the 2,000 guineas and the Derby over the same courses.

Sir E. Leger at Doncaster, went to Geoffrey Smith's Ridge Wood, a 10-to-7 shot ridden by veteran Michael Beary.

Nimbus won his two classics in spectacular fashion, coming from behind in the Guineas to head the red-hot favorite, Abernant, in the last stride. In the Derby he just held on to score by the same margin over the fast-closing French-bred Amour Drake.

French Remain Power

The French remained a power on English turf, however, and in the latter part of the season the visiting continent often raised the shout of "Bousssa! Boussac!" as some horse from the textile millionaire's Ecurie Boussac romped home.

French owners altogether lifted £34,404 ($106,652.40) in British purses, substantially less than last season.

The leading owner again was the Aga Khan, who picked up £66,719 and the leading trainer was Frank Butters, employed by the Aga Khan, whose earnings amassed £71,720. It was the eighth, and probably last, time the Newmarket veteran has topped the trainer lists. Near the end of the season he was seriously injured in a motor accident and through a mutual agreement the Aga Khan string was removed to the neighboring stable of Marcus Marsh.

Champion Jockey for the 22nd time was evergreen Gordon Richards, who racked up the second-most successful season of his career with 261 winners. For a time it seemed Richards might break his 1947 all-time mark of 269 but he ran into a minor late-season slump which ended his chances.

Boston's Ed Harrison whose winning tally in the third period broke a 1-1 deadlock helped Bruins and Montreal Canadiens Sunday and gave Boston a 3-1 win.

Tony Leswick who led New York Rangers to a 3-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks Sunday by firing three goals and an assist.

Joe Carveth of Detroit, who collected three goals and assisted on another pair in two weekend games against Toronto as the league-leading Red Wings bounced the Maple Leafs, by identical scores of 5-2.

Alouettes Drub Hamilton Tigers By 40-0 Count

Montreal, Nov. 21—(CP)—How 40-0 drubbing of Hamilton Tigers can properly be assessed against a coming clash with Calgary's Stampeders plagued many a supporter of Montreal Alouettes today.

The big red Montreal team left nothing to be desired Sunday in dragging a toothless Tiger ignominiously by the tail through the mire of Delorimier Stadium.

It was a conclusive victory in the Eastern Canada football final for the Montrealers who will meet the defending Calgarians next Saturday at Varsity Stadium in Toronto for the Dominion championship.

Coach Lee Lear of Stampeders personally scouted the game for Calgary's Grey Cup holders.

A paid-attendance crowd of 18,342 saw Alouettes, winners of the Big Four League playoffs, piled up seven touchdowns and three singles against the luckless Upholders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Coasting on a 17-0 lead at the end of the first quarter, Alouettes added insult to injury by playing a flock of second-stringers almost the rest of the way. Coach Lew Hayman was particularly chary of using Franky Filchock, quarterback field general and ace passer, and Virgil Wagner, the league's leading scorer.

Heaved First TD Pass

At that, Filchock heaved the first touchdown pass that Alouettes their first touchdown, and Wagner's sensational broken-field running with sprints of 75 and 26 yards accounted for two more.

Bobby Cunningham scored the opening touchdown in the first quarter and added another in the last quarter, both majors coming on passes. Clem McCance and Keith English dragged in passes for two more touches and Jack Harper accounted for another, on a line plunge.

Hamilton's weakness was a surprise. The Tigers saw little of Montreal territory and never seriously threatened the Montreal goal line. Their offence, both on the ground and in the air, was weak and their pass defence ragged.

Their best offensive thrusts were two completed passes of 12 attempted and ground-gaining dashes by Joe Chicoki, Jim Caine and Doug Smith. The two forward passes netted 4 yards and Chicoki broke loose for the Tiger's longest ground gain with a left-end sprint for 30 yards.

In bridge we have a saying: The four no-trump bidder should have the last say. The idea is that he is in the best position to decide what the best final contract of the pair should be.

A player who bids four no-trump after partner has many aces and kings he has. However, in the Horse Sense convention he does not ask this information unless he holds at least two aces and a king.

There are two other conditions to the four no-trump bid. Such a player admits having discovered no less than 12 tricks in the pair. He also admits having decided what the trump suit will be, if any.

When such a player finds out about partner's aces and kings, therefore, consider what he knows. This should tell you that he is in the best position to decide their final contract.

We have been discussing this pair of partnership hands:

	SOUTH
	♠ None
	♥ A 4
	♦ A K 3
	♣ K J 10 7 4 2

	NORTH
	♠ A K Q 6 4 3
	♥ 5
	♦ 7 2
	♣ A 8 6 3

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 C	2 S
3 C	4 S
4 C	4 NT
6 S	7 NT

In answer to four no-trump, six spades is Horse Sense signal for showing two aces and three kings. See the information north commands by this bid. It tells you why he can decide their final bid.

By now he knows they have all the aces and kings; that south has an unusually long club suit; that his own top spades can take care of any south losers in side suits.

His normal decision would be to bid seven clubs. But he also knows that if it makes seven clubs it will surely make seven no-trump.

A bird in a grand is worth two in a rush.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 21 — (AP) — Don't expect too much of child movie stars, advises Deanna Durbin.

"The trouble is," said the Winnipeg-born Deanna, herself one of the screen's greats as a youngster, "that people set child stars on a pedestal.

"They expect them to be perfect little darlings, and to remain that way even when they grow up. No one can be that good.

The comments arose as we discussed her problems and her future in the den of her stylish Beverly Hills home. Her opinions were as frank as any I had heard from her.

"Many child stars are the object of adoration since before they can remember," she said. "People criticize when these stars grow up and prove themselves to be human beings with their own faults.

Boost for Shirley

"I give Shirley Temple a lot of credit. She knew her marriage had become an unhappy one. She also knew that if she got a divorce her public would be disillusioned. But she did it.

"Believe me, it takes a lot of courage for a person to undergo a divorce under any circumstances.

"People criticize when Judy Garland and Vincente Minelli have their marital troubles. 'Why can't she have a normal married life?' they say.

"She has a great talent, one of the greatest in our business. That's why she can't conform to other peoples' ideas of 'being normal'."

Parents, Deanna said, should exercise caution before pushing their children into theatrical careers.

"The desire should come from the children themselves," she added. "They should earnestly desire and enjoy the applause and the attention. Otherwise they will be bewildered and unhappy."

Deanna at Crossroads

Deanna is now at the crossroads of her career. She has spent the last year sitting out her contract with Universal. That's not bad at about $350,000 for the year's sitting.

"I must say they paid well to make me miserable," said Deanna, who added that she spent the year studying voice and waiting for word from the studio. It never came.

"The public hasn't been clamoring to see my pictures," she admitted, "because they know I can't play 'Three Smart Girls' any longer. The public knows that, but the studio didn't."

As for the future, she is going to Europe next spring and will consider the many stage and screen offers she has. "I might just make one more picture and quit," she said.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, — (CP) —An attempt to revive the ancient Cornish game of kayles which has been played in isolated west country districts since time immemorial is being made by the St. Merryn branch of the British Legion.

Parochial grandfathers had sadly thought the game had quite died—then they find the youngsters are taking to it now.

Kayles is a form of skittles. The parish of St. Merryn—always famous for the game, as well as for Cornish wrestling—has two open-air kayle alleys.

Along the alleys, for generations, St. Merryn men had hurled the big 16-pound lignum vitae ball at 10 kayles or pins of sycamore set up on the "town," triangular, timbered platform, sunk into the ground 20 feet up the alley.

Even when the cricket, football and darts invaded the district, kayles went on just the same until the Second World War. Then all the young men left the village and the game died out.

But, after a lapse of 10 years the British Legion repaired the derelict alleys and put up prizes for a new kayles tournament. Of a population of 800, more than 100 turned out for the first night's play.

It cost Bill Kitchen, Wembley speedway star, £500 ($1,250) to map out of a slump.

He broke his favorite racing frame in a match at West Ham several month ago. He was riding in brilliant form at the time of the mishap, but right after that nothing went right.

Kitchen lost races by heart-breaking close margins, took a series of nasty falls and slid way down the rider's table.

He tried tonics, lay-offs and new riding techniques but the slump persisted.

Then he started spending money like water on five new machine frames, engines and a stock of spare parts. He finally hit the right combination again at his first track, Wem Hum, and has been winning regularly ever since.

He figures the new "ideal" machine cost him £500 to put together—and was worth every farthing.

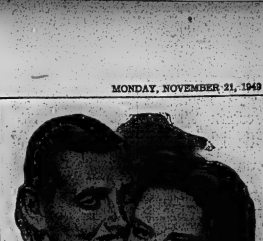
The picture, directed by Jules Dassen, serves to introduce Valentine Cortese, Italian film star, to American audiences. Matinee daily at 2.00 p.m.



AT THE BELLE — It's a new Gable sweetheart in a new Gable picture, in 'Any Number Can Play," continuing at the Belle, until Wednesday, with red headed Alexis Smith playing opposite M.G.M.'s box office champ for the first time. Wendell Corey, Audrey Trotter, Frank Morgan, Lewis Stone and Mary Astor are others in an exciting cast.

AT THE McCARTHY — Ann Blyth and Robert Montgomery gaze fondly at each other during a tender love scene in Universal-International's romantic comedy, "Once More, My Darling," starting today at Odeon's McCarthy Theatre. There's many an amusing adventure, however, until the path of true love runs smooth.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 21. (AP)—The boys around the hockey beat are getting a lot of laughs out of retelling the story of a recent rhubarb between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens during which Gus Mortson made the mistake of tangling with the fiery Maurice (Rocket) Richard ...Maurice let fly with a right to the chin and Gus took a count ...afterwards a critic questioned Richard's boxing ability, asking why he didn't lead with his left. "Why" asked the Rocket, "should I let him have the easy one first? ...Proving that somebody can do something about the weather, the Crossinger Country Club in the Catskills (north of New York City) is building an artificial skating rink. With a lake and skating pond already there, the customers can bust limbs regardless of the temperature.

Boom or Bust

Football now has reached the annual boom or bust season — when the alumni either are booming some kid for all American or trying to bust a losing coach out of his job—offhand, we'd say the coaches on the worst spots are Bill Cemanski of Holy Cross, Art Valpey at Harvard, Slick Morton at Mississippi State and Chick Atkinson at Brigham Young. But so far the wolf howls haven't been too loud .... Morton, for instance was smart enough to tell the alumni to advance they'd have to wait a couple of years for a winner and they at the Mississippi State freshman roster reads like the roll of a United Mine Workers Local in Pennsylvania ... other reports, not guaranteed, say that Alabama's Red Drew and Southern Methodist's Matty Bell may advance to the long-term duties of being athletic directors.

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

I found a hunk of black hoss cocking like a solid iron bar on account of being so black and everything, and I took it in the house and ma was up in her room sewing, and I walked in bent over carrying the hunk of hoss as if it was so heavy I couldn't hardly lift it, saying, Hay, ma, look, pure iron.

Ma, you must be strong, but I wouldn't ovardo it, ma said, and I said Aw, I bet I could carry it like that, I'm the strongest guy around here. Look, ma, I'm raising it over my head, I said.

Which I was, grunting like anything as if it was a hard job even for me, and ma said, Now that's enough, the first thing you know something will snap.

Meening part of me, and I said, Aw, you haven't saw anything yet. Benny the strong man will never twist this iron bar around his neck, I said.

Oh dear, I careful me said, and I said, I will, don't worry.

And I pretended to strain and push like everything and bent the hunk of hoss around my neck saying, There, I did it. Now how am I going to get it off again, that's the trubble! I said.

Dont ever do it, you've done enough, um said. Just leave it there and I'll send for the plummer to get it off, she said, and I said, Aw, you aint fooling me, ma, you know it's only a hunk of hoss.

And you're not fooling me, either, you knew I knew it all the time, ma said.

Which I did, and we both laffed like everything proving the best jokes are the ones everybody can enjoy.

Far East Bristles With Problems For United States

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The Western Powers having at least temporarily contained the communist drive in Europe, the United States is making energetic moves to strengthen its position in the Far East where communism's mounting success threatens to turn that part of the globe into the political Armageddon of the time.

With this in view, top U. S. diplomats in Eastern Asia have been ordered to hold a regional conference in Bangkok, Thailand, in January to consider the general situation. Meantime, the Washington administration's top diplomatic troubleshooter, Ambassador Philip C. Jessup, also will make a survey of the situation and then meet with his colleagues in the Siamese capital. That will be a major policy conference.

Difficulties Outlined

This whole vast area falls bristles with problems. Foremost among these are the questions of Japanese peace treaty; the position of strategically - located Korea, which is a divided land against itself as communist in the north and democratic in the south; the complex Chinese situation where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist government has all but been knocked out in the military sense.

From the American standpoint the Chinese situation has been emotionally complicated through the imprisonment of U. S. Consul-General Angus Ward and four of his staff by the communists in Mukden, President Truman has denounced this as an outrage. The reds charge Ward with having beaten a Chinese employee, and they have ignored official American inquiries regarding the prisoners.

One of the immediate results of this ugly controversy has been the declaration by State Secretary Acheson that the United States would even think about recognizing the red Chinese regime in Peiping until Ward is released.

Yalta Question

There now arises the thrilling question of just what hope is in Peiping — the red leader, General Mao Tse-Tung, or Moscow. The American communists of course have boomed themselves to Moscow and diplomatic quarters in Washington are uncertain whether Mao has the freedom of action Russia is suspected of having special influence with the communists in Manchuria and elsewhere in Manchuria.

For this reason one possible move by the State Department is to ask Russia to intervene with the red Chinese government.

Youth Drowns, Pilot is Saved In Plane Crash

Longford Mills, Ont., Nov. 21. (CP)—A youth of 20 was drowned 50 feet from safety and an airplane pilot was saved from possible death from exposure Saturday when a plane crashed while trying to take off from Trout Lake in Haliburton district.

The youth, Ernest Windover, a clerk from Minden, was drowned while trying to swim to shore after the plane capsized and sank about 200 yards out.

Pilot Sam Rowe of Orillia, was saved by Orillia's flying doctor, Dr. W. H. Woodrow, who heard the engine of the Rowe plane cut suddenly.

Dr. Woodrow was hunting near a nearby lake and suspected trouble. He ran to his own plane took off and circled over Trout Lake until he spotted the wreckage. Then he saw Rowe, who had swum ashore but collapsed, unconscious.

Dr. Woodrow landed, gave the freezing pilot emergency first aid, put him in the plane and flew him to a nearby hunting lodge.

Trout Lake is about 130 miles north of Toronto.

Le. Parent Claims Self-Defence

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 19. (CP) —The trial of Leo Parent, 19-year-old Cornwall youth, charged with murder in the death of Michael Skelton, 72, is expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

Parent testified in his own defence Friday that, in self-defence he hit Skelton "twice or three times at the most "with a piece of pipe during a struggle in the yard rear of a hall at last Feb. 26.

Parent accused Skelton of committing indecent acts.

He said that following an argument Skelton "picked up a pitcher and hit me on the left cheek with it. Mike grabbed a chair and rushed at me, and, in self-defence, I picked up a piece of pipe and hit him a couple of times, three times at the most."

Parent said he had gone to the chair Feb. 25 because he knew he could get food and shelter there. He had been on his way to Toronto to get a job.

Relations Between France, Poland Badly Strained

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)— Diplomatic relations between France and Poland were badly strained today as the result of the arrest in Warsaw of a French consulate employee.

The arrested man, Andre Simon Robineau, of the Sixth consulate, was detained as he was boarding a Polish plane Friday. He was charged with espionage involving two other French diplomats in Poland — Armay de Bresain de Mere and Fernand Renseaux, members of the Embassy staff.

Asking official notice of the arrest of Robineau, French authorities filed homicide charges against seven members of the Polish airliner crew and impounded the plane. The seven, including the interpreter, were held for a time at the Interior Ministry but later were permitted to go to a hotel, under restriction.

The Polish radio Saturday night announced that Robineau, who is the son of the Secretary-general of the French Institute in Warsaw, was arrested guilty to the espionage charges and will appear in a Polish court later.

'Miss California' Is Swapped At Football Game

Kentfield, Calif., Nov. 19. (AP)—"Miss California" was swapped for a student body president here last night at a football game in which Santa Rosa Junior College defeated College of Marin, 47-19.

The victory gave Santa Rosa an undefeated season, championship of the Northern California Junior College conference, and the right to meet the Everett, Wash., Junior College in a Shrine game Thanksgiving Day at the Puget Sound City.

The human-swapping ceremonies took place on the playing field just before the start of the game. Miss California, Jone Ann Pederson, Santa Rosa student who was homecoming queen for "Miss America", was exchanged for Marin student body President Jack Coleman.

College of Marin students had invaded the Santa Rosa Campus Wednesday and captured the 18-year-old beauty queen. They packed her off the Marin campus as a hostage—after calling her parents to explain that she was safe.

Thursday, Santa Rosa students staged a futile rescue invasion and failing to deliver their queen managed to capture Coleman. She was held for the exchange at game-time.

Youth Robs To Avenge Death Of His Father

Platsville, Mass., Nov. 21 (AP) — An 18-year-old youth charged with armed robbery told state police Sunday she held up a liquor store to obtain fare to Montreal to kill the man charged with blowing up a plane in which his father and 23 others lost their lives last Sept. 9.

The youth gave his name as Patrick J. Parker, a Brown University freshman, and said his father was the late Russell J. Parker of Rye, N. Y., former vice-president of the Kennecott Copper Corporation and president of the Quebec Iron and Titanium Company.

The elder Parker was one of three Americans killed when the plane crashed near Sault Au Cochon, Que., after a bomb in the baggage compartment exploded.

J. Albert Guay, a Quebec jeweller, is held without bail on a murder charge in Quebec. He was accused of arranging for the bomb to be placed in the plane so his wife, one of the passengers, could be killed. She was one of the 23 victims.

Young Parker told his story of the planned "vengeance trip" in Montreal after he was charged with the $35.50 armed robbery of a liquor store.

State police quoted Parker as saying after his arrest:

"I was short of money. I needed money to fly to Montreal. I had made a reservation on a flight from Boston. I was going to Canada because I wanted to get revenge and kill the man responsible for my father's death—the man who had the bomb put on the plane before the takeoff."

Clyde Marshall, owner of the Cranston, R. I., home where Parker was staying, told police the youth was "deeply shocked" by the death of his father.

Marshall said Parker "brooded constantly" over the tragedy.

Police said they found the money in a hunting bag on the floor of Parker's car, along with a loaded .32-calibre automatic pistol and a box of ammunition.

Study Hutterites' Remarkable Mental Health

Winnipeg, Nov. 19 — (CP) — Two United States sociologists have completed two weeks of preliminary research in Manitoba, seeking reasons for the remarkable mental health of Hutterites.

Dr. Joseph W. Eaton, Assistant Professor of Sociology at Wayne University, Detroit, and Jacob Driker, his associate, claim the Hutterites form a "social order apparently almost free from neuroses and psychoses."

The Hutterites are an extreme branch of the Mennonites, a strict Protestant religious group. Nineteen of the 75 colonies in North America are in Manitoba. With others in Alberta, South Dakota and Montana, they embrace about 7,500 Hutterites.

The sociologists say it is unknown in Hutterite colonies, although they drink wine and beer in moderation. They do not smoke. Crime, delinquency and suicide are rare.

Dr. Eaton said in an interview he was impressed with the general attitude of the members toward living and suggested their "extreme social security" may have a lot to do with their mental health.

"They have no radios, but keep up with world events by newspapers," he said. "We take photographs of each other because vanity might develop through possession of a snapshot of oneself."

Through study the sociologists hope to establish findings that can be incorporated in the treatment of mental ill-ness. Dr. Eaton said a number of selected colonies will be studied intensively in 1950.

The project is financed by a grant from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Motorist Drops Dead Girl at Hospital, Leaves

The girl was identified as Margaret Robertson of Acton, Ont., 21-year-old former student at the University of Western Ontario. An autopsy performed Sunday night showed death was due to an illegal operation, Coroner W. S. Caldwell said.

Hospital officials said the man drove up to the hospital's main entrance Sunday afternoon and told attendants he had a sick girl in his car. He said he had seen her on the street and offered to bring her to hospital.

The man was told to drive to the emergency entrance. Attendants put the girl on a stretcher but while they were taking her inside, they saw that she was dead. When they turned toward the door, they found the motorist had driven off.

Police Chief Frank Keates said a good description of the man was obtained.

Miss Robertson was said to have gone to Toronto after leaving the university about three weeks ago. She rented a hotel room, police said, and told friends she was looking for a job. A few days ago she telephoned her parents in Acton and told them she expected to be home soon."

15 Fatalities In East Canada During Weekend

(By the Canadian Press)

Two Estonian displaced persons have been killed in separate traffic accidents in two years—were killed near Sudbury, Ontario, when struck by a car as they walked along a highway.

The deaths of Felix Erickson, 5 and Peter Moisavalo, 36, both employed at Creighton Mine, were among 10 traffic fatalities reported in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey showed that a total of 15 deaths by violence were recorded in the area—11 of them in Ontario, and four in Quebec.

Of the remaining five, three were drowned, one was shot and one died in a fire.

At Consecon, a village miles north of Toronto, Mrs. Sarah Ann Lapsley, 74, was fatally burned in a flash fire in her kitchen when a liquid cleaning container exploded.

George Praiegh 9, was shot dead in a hunting accident near Port Arthur. His 14-year-old brother Robert, who was with him, was in a hysterical condition and could supply no details.

At Big Trout Lake, 1,200 miles north of Toronto, Junior Ernest Winsdow, 20, a clerk in the department of Lands at Minden, Ont., was drowned when a Canso-bee aircraft sank 50 feet from shore.

Killed by Street Car

In Toronto, Mary K. Bradley, 68, was killed when struck by a street-car. And at Scarboro Junction, east suburban Toronto, Herbert Armstrong, 10, was killed when struck by a car driven by Ted Kennedy, Toronto Maple Leafs captain.

On a shaky highway near London, Ont., Mrs. Ethel May Wallis, 54, was killed when the car she was in collided with another. Miss Hilda Tobias, 40, was also injured when struck by a car while she was walking to her home in Aldershot, Ont., two miles north of Hamilton.

Walter J. Sonner, 14, of Hamilton, was killed when struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle in nearby Burlington.

Edward Parsnipe, 19, of Strathroy, Ont., 20 miles west of London, died from injuries he suffered when pinned under a car overturned car for nearly 30 minutes on the London township, 8 miles west of London.

Convicted on Reduced Charge, Given 3 Years

Brockville, Nov. 21 (CP) — Convicted on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the lead-pipe slaying of 72-year-old Mrs. Sarah Dennis Skelton of Brockville, Leo Parent, 18, was sentenced Saturday to three years in penitentiary.

The jury, which acquitted him of murder but brought in the reduced verdict, recommended mercy after listening to evidence for a week and deliberating an hour and 40 minutes.

Mr. Justice J. C. Genest gave the sentence to the fatherless youth dating from Saturday. Parent had been in custody since Feb. 27, when he was charged with murdering the elderly widow, who died Feb. 26.

Parent testified Skelton committed indecent acts with him after he stopped at Skelton's shack for a meal and bed while hitch-hiking to Montreal.

Questioned by defence counsel John G. Lackner, Mr. Cornwall on Friday, Parent said a struggle began when Skelton insulted a friend of Parent.

Parent said when he upheld his friend, Skelton struck him with a pitcher. Then, in self-defence, he hit Skelton with a piece of pipe.

He said he struck the man "a couple of times, three times at the most."

Cross-examined by Crown Counsel R. P. Millidge of Cornwall Parent admitted hitting Skelton six times with a V-shaped pipe and three times with an earthern bowl.

Defence counsel said the youth came from a home where things were not as they should be and he would not be on trial for murder if he had received more schooling.

Hear plans to collect a $15 sick bounty.

Potsdam, N.Y.—The St. Lawrence Motor Sales Company reports that a man drove into its showroom and paid for a 1950 model car after asked to try out a 1948 car in exchange for cash. That was the last they saw of the 1948 car.

What's worse the company adds the vehicle the "customer" left behind had been stolen.

IMPORTANT FERTILIZER

Farmers in Eastern Canada use 150 per cent more nitrogen fertilizers than they did before the war.

Says Married Men In Canada Deserve New Deal

Toronto, Nov. 21. (CP)—Married Canadian men are entitled to a new deal, too, says Jo Benson, a Dane from Copenhagen.

Mr. Solyom, a representative of the Danish State Radio, in Canada to make recorded interviews with Canadians, Canadiana paused on Saturday at the Royal Winter Fair to make these remarks on Canada:

"I think the husbands over here do too much. In Denmark we put our women on a pedestal, too, but there's no saying for us. It doesn't see that way here.

"And this is what he says of Canadian husbands' duties in the lot of Canadian homes—but not all of them:

"First, the husband sets the table. Then he has to carve the meat at table, but others do slowly only be done on special occasions. That way the wife will appreciate them more."

Six U.K. Warships Soon Will Leave For Hong Kong

Singapore, Nov. 19 (Reuters) —Six British warships will leave Singapore for Hong Kong within 48 hours when the territorial waters naval force there the strongest since the Second World War ended, a Royal Navy spokesman announced today.

The ships, the sailings "purely routine" but Singapore shipping circles believed the movements are connected with Generalissimo Secretary Bevin's recent statement that Communist expansionism outside Chinese territorial waters would be protected from by British shelling and bombing.

The 20,000-ton aircraft carrier Triumph and the cruiser Sheffield will leave Singapore tomorrow for Hong Kong, accompanied by the destroyer Consort. It was learned here.

H. M. S. Jamaica, one of two British cruisers on Britain's far east station, will leave for Hong Kong. The destroyer Alert, carrying Sir Patrick Brind, commander-in-chief, far east station, will call at Rangkok on her way to Hong Kong.

Brighteners

Bristol, England — The old-fashioned three-minute egg-timer has proved to be a valuable aid in dentistry. Dr. Holgaer, a dentist of the Danish State Radio, in Canada to make recorded interviews with Canadians, Canadiana paused on Saturday at the Royal Winter Fair to make these remarks on Canada:

"I think the husbands over here do too much. In Denmark we put our women on a pedestal, too, but there's no saying for us. It doesn't see that way here.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"Hungry? Oh, so you're hungry! Yes, well you won't find much here," Martin answered in dismay. He went to his shelf and produced butter, bread and milk. As Anika began to eat he sat beside her on the edge of the bed and watched each mouthful as if vanished between her firm white teeth. It seemed to him that Anika was good-by to his supper. When she had finished, she snuggled up to him.

"I'm so terribly cold. I'll have to take off these wet rags," she said piteously.

That's the last straw, thought Martin. He looked about for his bathing cloak, but the hump-backed Resi had carefully taken it away somewhere to dry. "Well," he said, turning away, "you can have my raincoat and warm yourself in that." He heard Anika rustling about in the darkness behind him while he took his head out of the window. What terrible situation women always get you into, he thought as he looked out at the rain.

"Wait a bit, I'll fetch some water and make you some tea. That'll warm you up."

At that Anika cried out: and said she wouldn't one moment alone—not for one single moment. But Martin was unmoved he went out and shut the door behind him.

The scene outside had changed, meanwhile. A fine, cold steady rain descended from heavy clouds and an equally fine mist rose from the lake in streaks and moist and clinging drifts. Even more, no mountains were visible. There was no question of encountering anybody on the beach in such circumstances, and this was at once a relief and the reverse. He could not imagine how he was to pass the time with Anika in his cabin until four o'clock in the morning. He yearned for May as for a holy shrine in which he could seek refuge. What was he to do if they searched for Anika and found her with him? He could not leave the silly, thoughtless little creature in the lurch. But the devil only knew what would be the end of it. It was some satisfaction to think of the ducking he would give that count with his blue-back pomaded head if he ever got hold of him.

There were sounds of music from the doorway of the next cabin but one. Little Mata was crouched on the planks there like a lump of clay, and playing on his mouth-organ in the rain. Martin stood still with the filled can in his hand and thought things over.

"Mata," he said, "no one will come bathing today now. But you stay where you are and keep a look-out. And if someone wants me — anyone, whatever, you understand — you're to say, Herr Heil is asleep. And then you're to run to my cabin and knock three times. You're to say, Herr Heil is asleep. Do you understand?"

"Right," said Mata, nodding and still busy with the mouth-organ.

When Martin got back to the cabin there was a strange alteration there. A line had been stretched from the shelf to the window, and in it ordered array every article of Anika's clothing and underclothing was hung out to dry. The window shutter was closed, and the lamp lighted. Anika had put on Martin's pajamas. They looked immense on her miniature body, and she lay in his camp bed smoking a cigarette.

"It's really cozy here now," she said at once, as Martin entered and quickly shut the door behind him.

"Very cozy," Martin muttered. Anika glanced across at him with a suspicion of modesty and self-satisfaction as he stood looking down at his little spirit lamp and absent-mindedly burning his finger with the match.

"What are you thinking about, Bulli?" she asked guardedly, as he made the tea.

"Have you money to take you home?" he said, as he handed Anika tea in the glass he used for brushing his teeth, Anika pulled her bag from the foot of the bed and began with knit brows to search about among its confused contents.

"I've no idea what I stuffed in—everything there was in the bathroom. The police took away everything else. If that isn't rotten luck!" she said, grumbling. Then she uttered two cries of joy. The platinum watch was there. And her purse as well. In the purse were twenty schillings. A ticket to Vienna cost nineteen.

"You must give me seven," Anika concluded from that.

"Where am I to find seven schillings?" was all he said.

He shut his lips tightly and looked thoroughly annoyed. Every muscle from head to toe in his hard-trained body braced itself in obstinate refusal. And with reason. Martin had a secret. He was not so poor as he seemed. He had denied himself a number of things lately, it is true. His brown shaggy coat was sealed, and his meals had become more irregular than ever. But he was not without resources. He was saving. He had a treasure hidden in the table drawer. He was saving money for that walking tour into the mountains with May. He had all in all nine schillings, forty-two groschen. He would rather have been ripped open than give a groschen of this money away.

"Then I can only get as far as Salzburg," Anika decided, and resigned herself. She was like a cat — so elastic that no fall could hurt her. Actually she was happy in spite of her disaster. She was happy in the passing minute and did not go to meet the minutes that were to follow. Her hair was drying once more to its silken lacquered blackness. Her body looked young again, and when in addition she had powdered her face, she beamed once more like a rose in porcelain.

It struck six from the Frauenkirche. The fine rain had been a monotone on the iron roof. Built and painted by Resi's rather unsavoury lodger, which tasted of menthol. Built had formerly rather strong squidding and set beside Anika on the bed.

"Do you remember?" asked Anika, and then one reminiscence followed another always with the same refrain:

"Do you remember? You have not forgotten?"

"Yes, it was jolly in those days," said Martin, who had forgotten nothing. The time passed. It struck seven. It struck half past. Martin sat on the edge of the bed and chafed Anikuschka's feet, which utterly refused to get warm. The rain murmured on. Now and then Mata's harmonica could be heard. So could one dance music from the Peternann. There was a lot of irresistible charm in all the tangoes and Charlestons heard in the distance.

Eight o'clock. Anika stroked Martin's hair, and then asked her about his invention. May strolled through the lounge of the hotel and glanced across the square. As a rule Martin turned up at about this time just before dinner.

The Peternann was in a state of suppressed excitement. Two exclusive circles made conjectures in undertones, but nothing definite was known. Herr Peternann was discretion itself. The count and countess had vanished from the hotel under a cloud that concealed the exact circumstances. Martin had been seen talking to the porter in the morning, nobody knew the details except Herr Lysenchop, whose forehead now and then flushed with anger beneath his iron-grey hair.

"Let's go in to dinner," said Carla. "It's such a temper today there's nothing to be done with him.

"He has good reason to be," answered May.

Nine o'clock. The motorboat hooted. Otherwise not a sound. Martin and Anika were silent. She played with his hair, and he could not help laughing to see how small her arms looked in the large sleeves of his pajamas. Anika had one great charm — she forgot very easily and made others forget. She was restful.

May stood on the terrace and looked through the telescope. It was a dark and cloudless evening. "I wonder whether he's over there with the Dobberersbrg? Or doing his training? Can anything have happened to him? one can't see a thing," she said anxiously to Carla, who, not less anxious, walked to and from on the terrace. Herr Lysenchop was in the lounge trying to get out of a game of bridge with the Frau Generalrat. People were laughing at him behind his back. He looked so lost without the fascinating Countess Cerensey, to whom he had been paying such assiduous attentions.

Ten o'clock. It rained on and on and on.

There was a knock at the door. Three knocks, and then someone pushed at the door and knocked again three times. Anika pulled the clothes over her head.

"They're here, They've come for me," came in a muffled cry from under the quilt.

Martin held his breath. "What is it?" he asked hoarsely through the door.

Again there were three knocks. Martin pulled himself together. His face grew tense and collected. His face grew tense and collected. In two strides he turned the key and threw the door open. "What do you want?" he shouted breathlessly into the darkness with his two fists ready for the gendarmes who came to arrest Anikuschka.

Outside in the darkness stood a small figure. It was Mata, who, true to his orders, had kept watch on the doorway of the cabin. There was another figure too — a tall, slender one in a cloak, smoking a cigarette, with head turned aside. The red gleam glowed and paled again as if it was being vigorously puffed. There was no one else. No detectives, no arrest, no police. Martin pressed his fingers through his tousled hair.

"May—" he said in a suffocated voice.

"No. You're wrong this time. It's Carla," came the reply from the darkness.

"Oh — Carla —" said Martin. Behind him in the hut Anika was stirring stealthily. Curses on the woman. Martin stood outside

What can I do for you, Fraulein Carla?"

"May turned back at once when she heard there was a lady with you," Carla replied, after she pulls at her cigarette.

"What do you mean? Why do you say a lady with me? I don't understand."

"Well, we were anxious about you, Martin, and so we came to look for you. Resi Heil is asleep." Mata said. "There's a lady with him." And May said, "Oh God, that's all right then, I'm relieved."

"That's so," said Mata, expecting some recognition for having performed his duty. Martin was frantic. His empty stomach made him giddy. His only thought was: This is a horrible mess. Aloud he said to Mata: "Right. Clear out, you young rhinoceros." Carla took out a flashlight and turned the ray of light on Martin's dismayed and despairing face. "Well!" she asked with a flicker of pity.

"I must tell May the whole truth," he stammered after a moment.

"No doubt," replied Carla.

Martin seized Carla by the shoulders with both hands. "Do you know who it was that was with me?" he asked, getting angry.

"I've some idea. It might be that woman who has turned all the men's heads in Frauensee. The woman who has relieved Uri of twelve hundred schillings. The woman they're keeping a watch for at the station."

"Is the station being watched?" screamed Anika—the real Anna Poxwaurek—and she darted out of the hut.

She had put on her clothes meanwhile, and now, in her dishevelled white frock, she faced Carla in the uncompromising lights of the flashlight.

"Are they still keeping watch at the station? It's all up with me. You've only to denounce me, Fraulein Carla. But they shan't get me. I'll walk into the lake. I shan't let them arrest me," Anika wailed, holding her tightly clasped hands up to her face.

"What concern is it of mine? Why should I denounce you? Anyway you'll find the lake cold and you can't swim," said Carla, thoroughly contemptuous.

Martin thrust Anika back into the hut with one hand and pulling the other under Carla's arm drew her away in spite of her resistance.

Musical Play Comes Into Its Own As a Medium of Entertainment

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 19 — (CP)—A glance at current dramatic life on Broadway and at memorable shows of recent seasons shows that the musical play has come into its own as a medium of entertainment.

The musical comedy has been a standby for centuries but for North American audiences the musical built around a serious theme has emerged into prominence during the last decade.

"Lost in the Stars," a tragedy based on Alan Paton's novel in a South African setting, falls into this category. And it is one of the top current attractions. So does "Regina," a musical adaptation from Lillian Hellman's straight drama, "The Little Foxes." "Lost in the Stars" has music by Kurt Weill; the score for "Regina" is by Marc Blitzstein.

Other outstanding shows which come to mind as skilful blends of music and drama are "Street Scene," a musical adaptation of Elmer Rice's play of the same name; "Carousel," based roughly on Ferenc Molnar's play, "Liliom"; and "The Medium," by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

Musical plays in lighter vein which are on producers' lists for later this season include a musical version of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "Guys and Dolls" in which some of the Broadway characters created by the late Damon Runyan will appear on the stage.

Long-Liver Madwoman

"The Madwoman of Chaillot," an adaptation in English of a play in French by the late Jean Giraudoux, has just passed its 800th performance without showing undue signs of wear and tear. Martha Hunt remains in the title role, that of an elderly woman who is droll rather than insane.

"Harvey" is to embark on another cross-country tour, starting in Cleveland Dec. 26 with James Dunn as Harvey's friend, Elwood P. Dowd . . . "A Streetcar Named Desire" reaches the end of the line Dec. 17. Tennessee Williams' psychological drama then will have run for approximately two years.

Wreckage of Plane Carrying Refugees Found in Norway

Lone Survivor is 12-Year Boy, Bodies Found in Dense Woods

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 22 — (AP) — Police announced today that they recovered 26 bodies from the wreckage of a Dutch plane which had carried 39 Jewish refugee children and seven adults. The police said one child is known to have survived.

The survivor was only the slimmest chance that there were any more survivors, the rescue parties reported. The searchers found the twin-engined DC-3 transport after searching since Sunday through the dense forests of Southern Norway. It was lost enroute from Tunis, North Africa, to Norway with the 33 undernourished refugees, two pilots, a steward and a crew of four.

The plane smashed into the forest, cutting a broad swath through the trees. The front part of the fuselage in which the pilots' craft was badly damaged, but the rear section, where the children were, has been almost intact. As rescue workers came upon it, some of them carried tiny coats, hats and little feeble cries.

It was reported that the lone survivor was a 12-year-old boy.

Several rescuers were found near Fillvet, a small town on the west side of the Oslo fjord, after they had come from the Norwegian capital. The nearest house to the crash scene is almost two miles away, and apparently its occupants did not hear the explosion when the plane crashed.

Even though hopes were slim for any more survivors, squads of ambulance and rescue teams were sent to relieve those at the scene, a hilly, heavily-forested area difficult to penetrate.

The child who survived was taken to hospital at Drammen, 20 miles from Oslo. Reports from the doctor there was quoted as saying the boy has a good chance of recovery.

The boy, one of the pitifully undersized refugee children who had been on their way to rest and rehabilitation in Norway, speaks French, officials said, but it was impossible to question him until he persuade him to tell his name.

All the children had been described eventually to go on to Israel.

SPIRITED DEBATE STOPS PROGRESS ON TWO BILLS

Two Roll-Call Votes Are Forced by United Opposition

Ottawa, Nov. 22. (CP)— Government attempts to put an end to a junior-sized filibuster ruptured Monday into a four-hour procedural debate which side-tracked the Commons in its hurry towards December conclusion of the session.

Two roll-call votes—one on a speaker's ruling, the other on a government resolution were forced by a united opposition.

At the core of the spirited debate are two bills sponsored by private Liberal members asking Parliament to incorporate companies which want to build pipelines to carry natural gas across the provinces.

These measures are known as "private bills." As such they come up only during two one-hour periods—on Tuesday and Friday each week.

With so little time permitted for discussion of private legislation, it has been an easy matter for members to "talk out" the bills. It has been going on for weeks.

Chief objection—most of which comes from opposition members—is that the bills do not in any way specify where the pipe lines would be laid. Some members have expressed fear that the idea is to pipe the gas out of Canada before taking care of Canadian needs.

PROVINCES NEAR AGREEMENT ON HIGHWAY PROJECT

Dominion Shoulders 50 Per Cent of Cost

Ottawa, Nov. 22 (CP)—The federal government and the provinces are nearing agreement on plans for the completion of the "first — class, hard — surfaced Trans-Canada highway, Reconstruction Minister Winters told the Commons Monday.

He made the statement in introducing legislation authorizing the federal government, to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing the 5,000-mile highway. He did not estimate the likely total cost to the Dominion. But other estimates will be between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Some opposition members, while welcoming the legislation suggested that agreement may get the full cost of the highway.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the Dominion-Provincial conference should not "shirk its duty" and that the highway will be financed and to choose the route.

Hazen Argue, (CCF—Assiniboia) said his party wanted to see the federal government assume full cost of the highway. Social Credit leader, Low, supported the suggestion. He said if the federal government will pay the full cost that it should not ask the provinces to contribute more than 30 or 33 per cent.

Indicate Agreement

Other speakers included A. A. Macdonald (L—Edmonton East); Hon. Brooke Claxton (L—St. Antoine-Westmount); Gordon Higgins (PC—St. John's west); Bruce Stirling (PC—Peterborough); John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) and A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West).

Parliament's Man of Ideas Comes Up With New One, Joy Rides to Malta

Sunday, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Smiling, sun-bronzed Dr. Monk Follick, parliament's foremost man of ideas, has just come up with another nifty — joy-rides to Malta.

To help solve Malta's money problem, Dr. Follick would like to see Britain fit out four obsolete aircraft carriers for pleasure cruises. Profits would like to Island. Each ship would take about 500 passengers.

"The cruise would stretch over three months," the member told the House of Commons. "That would be a week going, a week coming and a month or more on the Island."

The 66-year-old Labor member for Loughborough, whose pet project includes printing tooth brush and a system of phonetic spelling, said that if the cruises went on all year the cost would be £1 ($3.10) a day for each traveller.

He didn't get much support from his colleagues.

C. R. B. W. Morgan, Labor member for Rochdale, wanted to know how many ordinary workers could afford to spend three months' wages on such a "fantastic" expedition.

Stephen Taylor, Dr. Follick replied that a holiday at Margate or Blackpool, two of Britain's principal seaside resorts, would cost more than £1 a day.

About 30,000 Maltese a year could make the trip. Whisky would cost about 5s. a bottle and cigarettes would be cheap. If the ships weren't needed for tourist trade they could be used to take Maltese emigrants to Australia.

(Increase emigration is regarded as the quickest way out of Malta's population crisis. Increasing birth-rate has left standard of living on the island with its population of 300,000 exceptionally low, what amounts to 65 square miles of barren rock).

Colonial Secretary Creech Jones, replying to Dr. Follick, said the member of Loughborough had ignored many practical problems. He promised that his department would refer Dr. Follick's proposal to Malta in developing tourist traffic and in obtaining ships for emigration.

First and Only Siamese Twins Born in Canada 'Doing Fine', Doctors Study Separation

Tofield, Alta., Nov. 22. (CP)— Four days old and reported "doing fine," Siamese twins born to Mrs. R. A. Townsend, 20 were being nourished today in an incubator while medical authorities pondered the question of separating them by surgery.

First Siamese twins born in Alberta, the children were delivered last Thursday morning in the tiny log cabin home of Tofield Municipal Hospital, 35 miles southeast of Edmonton. They are joined at the abdomen by flesh.

Their father, a son of Art Townsend, of Edmonton, hockey player, said that aside from the union the children are "perfectly developed."

The attending physician, young Dr. W. H. Freeburg, said it is impossible to say yet whether the twins can be successfully separated by an operation.

He said he hopes the girls can be saved although it is unusual for such cases to survive.

Meanwhile the mother was reported making remarkable progress in hospital although "it was quite a blow" to learn of the condition of the babies—her first. She had expected twins.

They weighed a total of nine pounds 12 ounces at birth.

Ottawa (CP)—The little town of Tofield, Alta., may hold the distinction of being the home of Canada's first and only Siamese twins.

Officials of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, told of the birth of Tofield, Alta., of Siamese twin girls, said they could not recall any similar birth in the Dominion.

The Siamese twin girls, born to Mrs. Bud Townsend, 20, at Tofield, some 35 miles southeast of Edmonton, may create a problem for the bureau.

Asked if we should record it as a single, or double birth," and a puzzled official,

Princesses Might Have Equal Right to Throne Says Journal, Proposing Act to Remove Doubt

London, Nov. 23 — (AP) — The right to the throne of England is in day that Princess Elizabeth is not the sole heir to the Throne.

According to law, the Journal states, Princess Margaret might have just as good a claim to the court.

The Journal suggests that they might even have to be enthroned as co-queens upon the death of the King.

It seems to be commonly considered that on the death of His Majesty the King without male heirs the crown would unquestionably descend to the Princess Elizabeth, the law provocating article in the Journal.

No Precedent

"However, a survey of English constitutional history reveals that there is no precedent to cover such a situation, and that while common sense points to a doctrine of equal value."

Nonsense, a Buckingham Palace spokesman told reporters.

The spokesman said the issue was settled in 1877, when Elizabeth was 10 and Margaret 7. The new offices of the Crown looked into the matter, he told newspaper men, and they found that it was established that Elizabeth will have sole claim to be Queen.

But the Journal article points out that the title to the throne comes from the Royal Act of Settlement passed in 1701.

Under that act, it says, claims

Faces Charges Of Smuggling

Hamilton, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Roy Machesney, 28, appearing on eight charges of smuggling including illegal possession of an automobile bearing Ontario licence plates, today called his first defence witness. MacNamara, who allegedly drove the car around Hamilton, is acting as his own defence counsel.

David J. Eberly of Tonawanda, N.Y., said he owned the car and had left it in the garage of a friend for repairs and had also driven it to Brantford on two occasions. He said MacNamara had repaired it and had been asked to drive it to Fort Erie. He said anyone driving it in Canada would have had his permission to do so.

Police Constable Lester Butcher admitted he may have been mistaken, that it might have been Harold MacNamara, Roy's brother, driving the auto when he saw it at Brantford and not Roy.

Mr. Eberly said he had no interest he had in the case was as to when he could get the auto back to the United States. It was seized by R.C.M.P. March 7.

The case is continuing.

WILLIAM J. MOORE DIES IN HOSPITAL

Two Brothers Are Released

Ottawa, Nov. 22—(CP)—Edgar Burke, 28, and his 39-year-old brother Harold, both of Mayo, Que., were released by Quebec provincial police Monday night after being detained for questioning in connection with the death of Rene Paradis.

The men were taken into custody after an autopsy showed that Parent, 44-year-old municipal road foreman, had been shot and killed by a blow from a sharp piece of pointed iron found lying beneath the bosoms of his horse last Thursday.

Authorities said the two brothers had been held only for questioning. They said both had been cleared of any connection with Parent's death.

Montreal detectives were assigned to the case after the autopsy was performed by Dr. Gerard Lacroix. The horse's bosoms were inflicted after the fatal blow. Parent's head wound in Parent's head might have been caused by a blow from an "object like a railway spike."

39 PASSENGERS DROWNED

Rangoon, Burma, Nov. 22 (AP) Thirty-nine passengers drowned Wednesday when ferry lost their lives in a rebel attack on the Irrawaddy River 100 miles north of Mandalay, according to reports reaching here today. The ferry sank in mid-river. Many of the 90 victims were drowned although others were killed by rebel machine-gun fire as they struggled in the water, survivors informed sources here said. Twenty passengers reached shore safely, it was reported.

COSTLY PROGRAM LOOMS FOR INLAND PASSENGER SHIPS

New Safety Measures Must be Installed

Ottawa, Nov. 22—(CP)—New safety measures on inland passenger ships, involving extensive reconstruction, were in prospect today in the wake of a critical judicial report on Toronto's Noronic fire disaster.

Implementation of the report would call for ships to expand fire-fighting equipment, at an over-all probably running into the millions.

The government, in tabling the Noronic report in the commons Monday, indicated it would bring down early legislation to tighten safety provisions

Commissioner, Mr. Justice R.L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada, recommended a series of such measures and also blamed the owners and master of the Noronic for the Sept. 17 fire that claimed 118 lives as the liner berthed at Toronto.

Mr. Justice Kellock, who investigated the disaster on commission from Transport Department inquiry, also criticized the Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., Hamilton Taylor, 66, of Sarnia, master of the 36-year-old cruise liner.

He also penalized the owners-Canada Steamship Lines—to the tune assessing them for the Department's costs in the inquiry, and the master of the Noronic for the $4,000-word volume of findings, the commissioner placed blame for the fire and the loss of life on the steamship company and the master to have adequate fire protections observed about the $500,000 luxury vessel

Laxity in Inspection

He also said there had been "laxity" in government inspection of anti-fire equipment, and he added this may have contributed to laxity on the part of owners and officers.

He struck out sharply against "complete complacency" on the part of the owners and officers in regard to the possibility of fire. Despite veteran Capt. Kellock criticizing both lack of crew training in fire-fighting and the fact that only 15 members had been left on watch with hundreds of passengers aboard the liner.

Most of those passengers were from the United States, and the mid-season return cruise from Detroit. Of the dead, 104 were Canadians and Americans. The identified dead now number 111, with seven missing.

While the judge's strongest criticism was aimed at the company and captain for failure to train and drill crewmen, he made specific fire-fighting recommendations.

A major proposal was that it be made compulsory for passenger vessels on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River to be equipped with fire-resistant bulkheads.

Norsnle Exempted

This is provided now by international regulations, but the Noronic had been exempted—along

SALESMAN ADMITS LEAVING DEAD GIRL AT HOSPITAL

Gave No Reason but Told Police He Was Confused and Scared

Brampton, Nov. 22 — (CP) — John Gross, Toronto brewery salesman, was admitted to police he left the dead body of university student Margaret Robertson at the hospital Sunday night in day told police he is married, but is separated from his wife.

The girl, 21-year-old second-year arts student at the University of Western Ontario, was pronounced dead as the result of an illegal operation, when she was admitted to the hospital. The man who brought her disappeared and Monday when police began hunting he was the driver of the automobile which took her to the hospital.

The 34-year-old salesman could give no reason for leaving the hospital but said he was "confused and scared."

He told Police Chief Frank Keats he intended to marry Miss Robertson when he got his divorce. He said he had known the girl two years and that he was "deeply in love."

He admitted, police said, being with the girl all Sunday afternoon, then drove to Cooksville. They left Toronto at 8.30 and arrived at 5. p.m. He denied any knowledge of the illegal operation.

Autopsy Performed

Chief Constable Keats said the autopsy performed by Dr. C. C. Fielding, provincial pathologist, indicated the operation was performed within four hours of her death. Police said the operation "was a very amateurish job."

Mr. Gross said he was driving the girl to her parents' home at Acton when he was stopped at Cooksville.

No charge was laid against Gross, he appeared in company with his lawyer.

When the car reached the hospital here Sunday a man reported secretary for the hospital, saw the Salvation Army, will seek speedy the dead girl and that he had found her on a Brampton street. The girl was found in the rear car. Coroner W. S. Caldwell declared her dead.

Heavy Snowfall Covers Northwest And West Ontario

Depth of Eighteen Inches Is Reported in Petrolia Area

Toronto, Nov. 22 —(CP)—Parts of western and southwestern Ontario today are digging themselves out of an early blast from King Winter which brought snowfalls varying from seven to 18 inches during the night, dogging highways in several centres.

Hardest hit were the Lake Huron-Georgian Bay and the Sarnia-Goderich areas where crews and equipment from the Ontario Department of Highways were pressed into service to keep the roads open.

An estimated 18 inches was reported from Petrolia, near Sarnia. From some areas, it was reported telephone lines were grounded.

Estimated depth of snow at Sarnia was 10 inches, Goderich eight and Grand Bend six.

The Owen Sound area labored under a foot, about 11 inches, with heavy drifts at Meaford and Markdale. Traffic was reduced to a crawl. There was a promise of more snow later today in the 24-hour forecast for the Georgian Bay district.

Plows In Use

Snowplows also were pressed into service in the Stratford area. Stratford area where an estimated 10-12 inches of snow fell during the night.

The storm did not reach Toronto, but in northern Peterboro 200 public school students got a holiday because of the cold when the school's heating equipment failed.

Kitchener—(CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate Institute meet Wednesday here Monday night registered 13 degrees above zero. This is believed to be the coldest November night in many years.

It seems to be commonly considered that on the death of His Majesty the King without male heirs the crown would unquestionably descend to the Princess Elizabeth, the law provocating article in the Journal.

No Precedent

"However, a survey of English constitutional history reveals that there is no precedent to cover such a situation, and that while common sense points to a doctrine of equal value."

Nonsense, a Buckingham Palace spokesman told reporters.

The spokesman said the issue was settled in 1877, when Elizabeth was 10 and Margaret 7. The new offices of the Crown looked into the matter, he told newspaper men, and they found that it was established that Elizabeth will have sole claim to be Queen.

But the Journal article points out that the title to the throne comes from the Royal Act of Settlement passed in 1701.

Under that act, it says, claims

Faces Charges Of Smuggling

Hamilton, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Roy Machesney, 28, appearing on eight charges of smuggling including illegal possession of an automobile bearing Ontario licence plates, today called his first defence witness. MacNamara, who allegedly drove the car around Hamilton, is acting as his own defence counsel.

David J. Eberly of Tonawanda, N.Y., said he owned the car and had left it in the garage of a friend for repairs and had also driven it to Brantford on two occasions. He said MacNamara had repaired it and had been asked to drive it to Fort Erie. He said anyone driving it in Canada would have had his permission to do so.

Police Constable Lester Butcher admitted he may have been mistaken, that it might have been Harold MacNamara, Roy's brother, driving the auto when he saw it at Brantford and not Roy.

Mr. Eberly said he had no interest he had in the case was as to when he could get the auto back to the United States. It was seized by R.C.M.P. March 7.

The case is continuing.

WILLIAM J. MOORE DIES IN HOSPITAL

William J. (Bill) Moore, 153 George Street, long associated with the Deacon Bros. Ltd., here, died shortly after noon today in Belleville General Hospital. He had been ailing since a heart seizure. The obituary notice will appear in tomorrow's edition of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Two Brothers Are Released

Ottawa, Nov. 22—(CP)—Edgar Burke, 28, and his 39-year-old brother Harold, both of Mayo, Que., were released by Quebec provincial police Monday night after being detained for questioning in connection with the death of Rene Paradis.

The men were taken into custody after an autopsy showed that Parent, 44-year-old municipal road foreman, had been shot and killed by a blow from a sharp piece of pointed iron found lying beneath the bosoms of his horse last Thursday.

Authorities said the two brothers had been held only for questioning. They said both had been cleared of any connection with Parent's death.

Montreal detectives were assigned to the case after the autopsy was performed by Dr. Gerard Lacroix. The horse's bosoms were inflicted after the fatal blow. Parent's head wound in Parent's head might have been caused by a blow from an "object like a railway spike."

39 PASSENGERS DROWNED

Rangoon, Burma, Nov. 22 (AP) Thirty-nine passengers drowned Wednesday when ferry lost their lives in a rebel attack on the Irrawaddy River 100 miles north of Mandalay, according to reports reaching here today. The ferry sank in mid-river. Many of the 90 victims were drowned although others were killed by rebel machine-gun fire as they struggled in the water, survivors informed sources here said. Twenty passengers reached shore safely, it was reported.

'Sunshine Pals' To Give Program

It was on radio station WHAM, Rochester, New York, that the team "Rae and Carl" originated. Both were veteran radio entertainers before becoming a team. The simplicity and friendliness of their programs won for them the name of "Sunshine Pals" and in the short time of a few months they became one of the most popular harmony teams in the country.

Carl J. Swanson who hails from the North Dakota hills, is well known as the Carl of the original "Nighberders".

Rae is from New Britain, Connecticut, where she sang on Station WNBC and became popular all over New England.

It was while singing at WTIC, Hartford, that Carl met the young lady who was to become his singing partner and later his wife.

Both are now heard each morning over WNDH, Syracuse, New York, as Rae, and Mrs. Sunshine. This friendly couple will be presented in one night stand at the County Gardens next Friday night.

J. A. Matthews Named Vice-Pres. 14th. Fld. Regt.

J. A. Matthews, secretary-treasurer of the 14th Field Regiment Association of this city was elected vice-president of the 14th Field Regiment Association at the Regimental smoker held in the Orange Street Armoury at Montreal on Saturday. Others voted to office for the ensuing year were: E. F. Roache, president and D. G. Allen, secretary-treasurer.

A party from the St. Matthews, Don Hurst, Jim McKenna and Grant Blakely all of Belleville, joined six Battery members at Gananoque and motored to the Quebec metropolis for the meeting. Gananoque representatives included the mayor of Gananoque, Don Carmichael, Bill Nalon, vice-president of the Boys Battery Association Cliff Mastin, Hank Anderson, Joe Tracy and Sonny Roderick and played host to their Belleville visitors at the Gananoque branch of the Canadian Legion early in the day.

The two cars carrying the 34th Battery representatives reached Montreal in the afternoon and were welcomed by a regimental committee made up of Peter MacRae, Toni Mascioli, Lieutenant George H. Keown, District Freight and Passenger Agent for the Pennsylvania Railroad there.

Following the election of officers holding the annual smoker for a Regimental Reunion to be held the first week-end in September 5th, in Montreal.

Following the regimental meeting much-enjoyed entertainment was provided by a troupe of dancers from the Lido Club.

The Belleville boys returned Sunday.

City Hunter Bags Six Deer In Week's Hunt

Thanks to the unerring aim and eagle eye of William R. (Bill) Nugent, vice chairman of the Quinte Lake Liquor Board, a party of six deer hunters arrived home on Saturday with the "big game" quota of venison on the hoof.

Mr. Nugent, who resides in this city, left for the Mill Valley Hunt Club, near Egansville, with five companions a week ago Sunday. Included in the party were Messrs. Frank George and son Harold; Nesbitt Haggerty, W. Bazar and G. Sexton, plus of course, the cook, who plays an important part in this story.

The boys went out to the deer runs and trails faithfully each day. There appeared to be lots of deer but the "lookin' eye of the majority of the party were not so keen.

The Nugent rifle, a .300 Savage, cracked at the first deer that encounted for a deer. Yes sir, Mr. Nugent accounted for six of the fleet animals of which were bucks. Four were shot still-hunting while two were rounded up by the dogs of the party.

And lest we forget, the boys had version of turkey, breakfast and supper. For not to be outdone, the cook produced a fine bird one morning and went shunting. The party waited for him to return. A short time later he appeared with a nice buck slung over his shoulder.

And by way of a finishing touch to this back-woods hunting drama the party was loading its deer preparatory to coming "out", but alas, they stood two pretty fawns apparently bidding a last farewell to the family deceased.

Many Attend Opening Meeting Of Y Bridge Club

A mixed group of twenty-one people attended the opening meeting of the YMCA Bridge Club recently. All present had a pleasant evening of instruction, competition and fellowship and a larger group is anticipated next Thursday, November 24, when the club will be formally organized and the election of officers will take place. The YMCA invites all who are interested in playing bridge, or in learning to play, to join this Thursday night club.

Instructions was given to beginners last week by Joan and Ed Hudgins and Mr. Hector MacGregor. A number of budding enthusiasts are eagerly awaiting the commencement of the game, while the more experienced players are looking forward to competition at other tables. Instruction will be given to those who desire it, who have desire to learn bridge, or to improve their game, will be given every opportunity to do so in the midst of happy surroundings.

Including among those attending the YMCA Bridge Club Thursday night were the following: Mrs. Jean Redfern, Robert Duncan, Vera Duncan, Mrs. Doris Lloyd, Jean Vickers, Mr. and Mrs. Prewer, Hilda Burly, Larry Buck, Frank Nicholls, Monica Walsh, Mary Pigeon, Mildred Hall, Al Davis, Bud Trill, Archie Boyd, Gladys Lumb, Shirley Counsell, Bob Fowler, Retra Fairman, Jack Armstrong, Peggy Harvey, Olive Half, Ted Sheve and Bill Pope.

POLICE BLOTTER

Now housebreakers are taking to robbing the baby's bank.

At least that was the complaint today of Fred Poole, 9 Elmer St. who told police that while he and his wife were out last evening some unknown party entered their house and stole from $15 to $18 from the baby's bank. The bank contained quarters and half dollars.

Two young Brighton boys, Norman Sutcliffe, aged 11 years, and Ross Dillman, 14 years, were reported to provincial police not to have returned to their homes last night. The boys had been missing since noon on Monday and had not returned at 10:30 last night.

Theodore Lee, 14 Frank Street, reported that while driving on Murney Street his vehicle had struck a dog which died a short time later. The city scavenger was notified to dispose of the dog's body.

Important Future Requirement Is Development of Canada's Scientific Effort -- Fulton

The development of Canada's scientific effort was one of the most important future requirements in this country, members of the "local Kinsmen Club were told Monday evening by Brigadier Fraser Fulton, engineer with the Northern Electric Company here.

The former Canadian army officer told club members that there was a vast scientific effort which still had not been touched in Canada and its development would be one of the country's best defence guarantees.

"It would serve two purposes," stated Brigadier Fulton. "Development of Canada's scientific effort would serve industrially and would also serve in defence."

Subject of the speaker's address essentially had to do with utilizing the electronics manufacturing facilities of the Northern Electric. He said the company employs approximately 11,000 persons, 7,000 of them working in Belleville. There were three plants, one covering four blocks and a million square feet of floor space in Montreal; another, the wire and cable division at Pembroke and the electronics division in Belleville.

Three Repair Shops

In addition there were three repair shops, primarily for the repair of telephones owned by the various telephone companies and 26 distributing centres across Canada. They employed 1,000 employed more persons than it did during the war, which, according to the speaker augured well for the industrial future.

Brigadier Fulton answered the question why Northern Electric came to Belleville, "First," he said "the electronics division was originally kicked out in Montreal because of lack of space, and secondly because company officials thought personnel would be happier here than in the big city centre; Approximately 225 of the 1,000 personnel were key employees from Montreal.

Outlines Products Manufactured

The speaker went over a long list of products manufactured in Belleville. These included fire alarm and police communication systems; traffic control lights; radio broadcasting systems public address and music system; aviation equipment, which included communication equipment in a broad field.

In connection with aviation communication equipment Brigadier Fulton said the days of celestial navigation and dead reckoning were about gone. Electronic navigational aids including radar, were taking its place.

Other equipment manufactured at Northern included home radio receivers, in which his firm stood about third in the Canadian manufacturing field. In this field he said there was a lack of publicity from Belleville as to products manufactured in the city.

Hammond organs were another product of Northern. These organs, he said were good and were always in tune. "In fact," he said "they were so perfectly in tune that "spoilers" were needed to make the organ sound natural."

Theatre sound equipment was another product from which Northern found a ready market.

Trained to Think Scientifically

The speaker had great pride in the engineering department at Northern where 300 hundred of scientists were employed. It here that engineers were trained to think scientifically.

Brigadier Fulton then went on to say that Canada would play an even greater part in any future war, if this nation let her development of Canada's scientific potential was most important.

Lieut. Col. J. Ward was guest speaker with club appreciation night December 5th. Bill Ball, club president Kin Ross Colbourne called on two club members, Alex Lennox and Bill Brown to give classification talks the former speaking on the constitution of Canada and proposed amendments.

Authorize Purchase

During the business session club members authorized the purchase of Trinidad Leaschold property on Dundas Street as a site for the proposed Kinsmen community swimming pool. Part of the city skating park will also be utilized for this purpose. Preliminary plans for the pool are now in course of being prepared by W. A. Watson, local architect

'Bop' Definitely Here to Stay, Airman Who Has Collected 700 Popular Discs Says so

Music lover A/C 1 Pete Collett of Vancouver, who by centre dicts recent swing writers prediction that "Bop" or "Bebop" is on the way out.

This lad from the Trenton Air Station claims many of the newer ultra jive rhythm is definitely here to stay and to support his contention added another "Bop" records to his already large collection yesterday. Corporal Collett who recently joined the service has accumulated 700 popular disc music records. Lord Tennyson's "sweet" music to the history of Dizzie Gillespie's "Bebop".

He keeps the largest part of his library at his family home in Vancouver but finds room in his barracks for another 200 "sides" and a combination turntable-radio. His five barracks room pals enjoy his record collection as much as he does, and plan to spend most of the long winter evenings in barracks listening to friend Collett's entertainment.

They agree collectively with their chum that Dizzie Gillespie's "Laura" is the best piece of popular music recorded in the last five years while he prizes the late Sunny Barrigan's last smooth trumpet selection "Can't Get Started" recorded by the great coloured born man a few minutes before his fatal seizure.

JOHN SMITH
(Hungerford Township)

Tweed, Nov. 22 — (Special)— John Smith, an employee of Mr. Harry Coulter, Chapman's Corners, Hungerford township, died suddenly at the Coulter home on Monday morning at the result of a heart seizure.

Born in England, the late Mr. Smith came to this land as a child. He enlisted in England and served during the First Great War. At the close of the war he came to Canada and for many years resided in the Coulter farm.

In the district he was well known and highly esteemed. He was a member of the Anglican Church at Thomasburg and was a valued member of the choir. Fraternally he was a Past Noble Grand of the I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 293, Thomasburg, and at the time of his death he held the office of Recording Secretary. In the Loyal Orange Order he was a member of Thomasburg Lodge No. 392 and was a Past Worshipful Master, at the time of his death he was the Financial Secretary of the Lodge. He was also a member of the Rebekah Lodge No. 139, Tweed.

He never married.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

(Formerly of Moira)

Mrs. Annie McLean, wife of Mr. Archie McLean, and a former resident at Moira, Huntingdon township, died at her home in Summerland, B.C., on Saturday last after an illness of two months duration.

The late Mrs. McLean was born in Moira and was the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ketcheson. For the past fifty-five years she made her home at Summerland. In her early years she was a school teacher. She was a member of the United Church.

Surviving her are her husband; one son, Ross McLean, Summerland, B.C.; one daughter, Miss Dorothy McLean, Vancouver B.C.; one brother, Mr. Ross Ketcheson, Vancouver, B.C.; John Ketcheson, Seattle, Wash.; Edward Ketcheson, Uplands, California; Fred Ketcheson, Moira, and Charles Ketcheson, of Belleville.

The funeral will take place at Summerland on Wednesday and interment will take place there.

LATE EDGAR F. RUTHERFORD

The funeral of Edgar Francis Rutherford was held Monday afternoon from his late residence 23 Alexander Street, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where service was conducted by the minister, the Rev. J. G. Hornsby, who also said the committal prayers at Belleville Cemetery.

Pallbearers were William Coulby, Garfield Carson, Don Thomas, Charles Bolton, Howard Palmer and Cameron A. Morton.

MRS. AMY AMELIA ELLIOTT
(Sister of Mrs. Edwin Foster)

Tweed, Nov. 22— (Special) — Mrs. Amy Amelia Elliott, widow of William James Elliott, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Bateman, at Stirling, on Thursday afternoon, on Sunday last after a lengthy illness.

The late Mrs. Elliott was born in Hungerford township and was in her 71st year, her maiden being the late Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Foster. All her life was passed in this district where she was born. She was a member of the Bethel United Church and was highly esteemed.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Stanley (Edna) Bateman, Bethel, and Mrs. Murray (Marion) Sexsmith, Frankford; two sons, Fred Elliott of Hoelin, and Clayton Elliott of Port Hope; two brother, Harry Foster, and Fred Foster, both of Tweed, two half-brothers, John Beatty of Hamilton and Thomas Beatty of Tweed; two sisters, Mrs. Murney Badgely of Toronto, and Mrs. Charles Rice, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The funeral was held this Tuesday afternoon and the service in the home and at Bethel Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. C. L. Sisco of Tweed United Church.

LATE MRS. ROSELLA BENN

On Monday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Rosella Benn, wife of Mr. Jack Benn, and a former resident of Belleville, who died in Toronto on Friday last, was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Archdeacon the Ven. Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Church.

The bearers were Alex. Quinn, Clifford Rushlow, Stirling Shandrow, Earl King, Richard Rushlow and Alex. Rushlow.

POLICE COURT

Pleads Guilty To Charging High Rental

Pleading guilty to a charge of charging higher rental than was reasonable, Wayne Francis, 50 Dundas Street, East was assessed $10 and costs of $3.50 when he appeared in city magistrate's court this morning.

Rental investigator C.H. McBride stated the accused had been charging $35 per month for a three-room unheated and unfurnished third-floor apartment at the above address when the rent had been previously set at $14 per month, and had been charging $28 per month for a two-room apartment on the same floor when the rent had been set at $10 per month.

Special prosecutor E.E. Follwell, noted that in fairness to the accused, the rent on the two apartments had been set on the application of the present landlord.

Speaking on his own behalf Mr. Francis stated he thought the accommodation had been deconsolidated.

Harry DeBuhlk, Front Street was dismissed on a charge of failing to secure a dog licence for his dog. He pleaded not guilty to the charge andcold the court his wife was the owner of the dog. He said he had been separated from his wife since last May.

Two motorists charged with drunk driving pleaded guilty to the charge and were given seven days' imprisonment in the county jail by Magistrate T.Y. Wills.

HOGS

At Hall, Que. bacon hogs off cars suspected. Heavy grade 3 dressed, $28.75 delivered.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 22. (CP)—Prices continued sliding as activity slowed to a crawl on the Toronto stock exchange. Materials dipped on widely scattered losses ranging from fractions to a full point.

Senior golds relaxed from recent firmness as base metals continued depressed. Western oils moved ahead in early dealings but sagged at half-way mark.

Volume for the first four hours was only 417,000 shares.

Papers went against the downward trend in industrials, holding recent strong gains. Canada Steamship Lines recovered part of Monday's losser which followed the report of the inquiry into the Noronic disaster. Banks were standout performers, continuing their recent steady advances.

Record price reductions in lead depressed base metals. Noranda Mines, a non-dividend payer, dipped the full amount. Losses ranged up to 25 cents in the few issues trading.

Early advances were wiped out in western oils as the session progressed.

Butter prints: No. 1, 61; No. 2, 60.

The local egg market was quiet this morning with receipts sufficient for the demand. Prices remained unchanged. Cases: free: Grade A large 54-56; A medium 45; A pullet 39; grade B 43; grade C 35. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 57, medium 49; A pullet 42; grade B 48; grade C 40.

The live poultry market was steady this morning, with offerings light. Butter solids: First grade, 60 1-2; second grades, nominal asking price, 58-59.

Set-up of Health Unit Outlined To H-S Assoc.

Money, wisely spent on health is the most business-like investment any community can make" declared Dr. John F. Wyllie, Medical Officer of Health for the Prince Edward County Health Unit addressing the monthly meeting of the Queen Alexa Home and School Association, advocating the establishment of a Health Unit in Belleville.

Dr. Wells explained the activities and set-up of the community health unit pointing out that the unit was made up of five members including the chairman, three appointed by county and town councils from among their own membership, one appointed by councils from the district body, and one appointed by the provincial government and known as the Lieutenant - Governor's Representative, in recognition of the province's financial assistance. The first four members of the board hold office for varying periods, and the last for an indefinite period of time, thus avoiding a complete change in membership at any one time, which would be quite undesirable.

Receive Nominal Fee

"The members of the Board receive a nominal remuneration in the form of a fee, which is a living attendance fee for each meeting attended and a travelling allowance," the medical officer said, adding that Board meetings are usually attended by two salaried officials — the secretary - treasurer who receive an annual salary of about $300. He records the minutes of the meetings, handles Board correspondence, pays accounts and prepares the financial statements, and the Director of the Health Unit, who is the Board's executive officer."

Talking about the responsibilities of the Board of Health Dr. Wells mentioned the individual citizen and said that the person who failed to see that he received a "sanitary conscience" is a menace to his fellow men. He added: "The sanitation complex must begin in early infancy in the home, and be developed there, and later in the school, and must continue to be developed and emphasized all through adult life." He added: "When the home training fails down, the school is faced with a much more difficult task in this respect."

"A practical knowledge of nutrition and control of disease possessed by everyone is a sure way of combating disease, Dr. Wells, related to be overlooked the importance of proper sewage and refuse disposal facilities in the home.

Must Always be On Guard

The medical officer later dwelled on the attention given tuberculosis by the board and credited the various nursing orders for helping in the fight.

"We are out of the woods insofar as typhoid is concerned," Dr. Wells revealed but warned the conclusion that an epidemic of catastrophic proportions could break out if sanitation methods were relaxed.

Mr. E. M. Luth tendered a vote of thanks to the speaker.

President of the Queen Mary Association Mrs. L. Hopkins acted as chairman of the meeting and called upon Mrs. W. Follwell to read the minutes of the last get-together while the treasurer's report was read by Mr. Luth.

Miss Jacqueline Avery presented Major Bert Frink on behalf of the 1946-47 graduating class with a gift of appreciation. Later school principal Cl. Frederick spoke briefly before the banner attendance was taken. Miss Blue's class was awarded the Junior School banner, Miss C. Wilson's class took the senior school honors.

Mrs. A. D. Fumess, representative of the health committee from Queen Mary School, had charge of the program while Mrs. Rose David introduced Mrs. Webber of Picton who urged the attendance to give full support toward the establishment of a Health Unit in Belleville.

Mrs. A. Claire introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Wells.

Farmers Taking Steps to Prevent Glutted Market

According to a spokesman for the Department of Agriculture here today apple growers throughout the Province are already taking steps to prevent a glutted market again next year. Part of the new policy is to graft early bearing row varieties to late sprouts while some farmers are cutting down their production by pulling out the older trees.

Senator W.A. Fraser of Trenton told the Rotary Club that last week that the cause for the disappearance of Ontario fruit on the British market was due to the British producing apples in abundance while the trees they planted 15 years ago.

Local apples are not keeping in common cold storage the agricultural representative said and added when the inspectors say that the maturity of the fruit didn't seem quite right this year.

Police Quell Angry Fans

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)—Police were in sufficient force to quell disgruntled ticket-seekers for the Grey Cup game here as 2,000 final were told by a downtown ticket agency there were no tickets for sale.

Some of the crowd, estimated at about 80, threatened to kick down the door and shouted the agency was "holding out."

Ticket officials said there are no tickets to the big game for distribution. All agencies said they received less than their usual quota. One of the largest (Moodey's) reported they got only 25 per cent of last year's quota.

Commercial Art Now Being Taught At Night Classes

Any body want to take a course in commercial art?

If so, the opportunity is open at the Belleville Collegiate classes.

night classes in commercial art are being conducted on Monday and Wednesday evenings. There are openings in the class for an additional 15 to 20 students, it was stated today by the Collegiate Principal C. E. Currie.

The introduction of the course in commercial art was an outgrowth of the regular night school art course when there were too many students for one class. Later a survey showed there was a demand for a commercial art class in the city and so the course was introduced. The instructor is Mr. Paul Burnette, designer for Norman Electric.

15 Students Enroll

"We already have about 15 students taking the commercial art course, but there is room for an additional 15 to 20 students," stated Mr. Currie. "All branches of commercial art will be taught in the class at whatever level the students wish to work."

Mr. Burnette, teacher for the art class, has had varied experience, having been in commercial and in art designing. He attended Montreal Technical School and is now a professional radio technician. He was with the Navy in Montreal for three years doing sign writing and displays and from 1939 was in the sign business for himself.

Since 1940 he has been with Northern Electric as illustrator, industrial designer and stylist.

659 In Night Classes

Mr. Currie stated this year had seen the greatest interest in night classes in the history of the collegiate. Present enrolment in night classes is 659, considerably over 100 more than last year.

This year there are three classes in basic English for new Canadians. Eleven general classes, including welding and carpentry has been so great that additional classes on these subjects have been organized for Monday and Wednesday evenings.

At present there is room for additional students in the beginners' entry class for Monday and Wednesday evening.

ABILITY TO MEET RIVALRY IS EMPHASIZED

Port Colborne — (CP) — Labor Minister Mitchell said Monday night that the ability of an industry to meet competition should be considered in discussing wage agreements. He told the Chamber of Commerce here that in export trade, price often governs demand.

He said he hoped management and labor will have "the necessary industrial statesmanship" to keep high Canada's industrial output. The national rate of production had more than tripled since 1939.

Phalanx Club 66 Holds Successful Party at YMCA

The Phalanx "Club 66" held another successful party at the local Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night.

In the lounge recently decorated by the "Y's" men club members danced, played ping pong and bowling exhibitions took place in the basement. The club plans to start off every social evening hereafter with sports including swimming, basketball and volleyball in the gym.

The Phalanx fraternity is made up of young boys between the ages of 18 and 23, who are not attending school. It is a nation-wide group with headquarters in Vancouver and an annual conference camp at Lake Couchiching.

Each club keeps in touch with each other's activities through the organization's weekly and monthly bulletin. Plans and projects of the different clubs are conveyed by these publications.

President of the Belleville Phalanx Club is Ivan Hall, Secretary-treasurer, Philip Finkle; Editor of Phalanx Bulletin and Press Correspondent, Don Dundley.

Blood of Victim Contained Alcohol Says Witness

Toronto, Nov. 22—CP—A manslaughter trial jury was told today that the blood of William Miller, traffic accident victim, contained 1.6 parts alcohol to 1,000 parts.

Verda Vincent, provincial analyst, said she made the test after Miller's death Jan. 3. She said that by National Safety Council standards, 1.5 parts to 1,000 is on the borderline of intoxication.

"Does that 1.5 basis mean the person is not arrested?" Mr. Justice Dalton Wells presiding, asked Miss Vincent, who was testifying at the trial of Virgil Barkman, 49-year-old Toronto barber on charges of manslaughter and of leaving the scene of an accident.

Herbert Beggs, 26, said he and the 21-year-old Miller each drank four bottles of beer the night of the accident.

Miller was killed and his friend Helen Billson, 19-year-old model, had her left leg so badly shattered that a time doctors believed it would have to be amputated. Beggs and his wife were walking with Miller and Miss Billson on Toronto's eastern outskirts when an automobile struck Miller and the girl.

YOUTH SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Windsor, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Joseph Bedard, 21, formerly of Welland, today was sentenced to two years in penitentiary on conviction of robbery with violence.

At his trial here last week, the court was told Bedard attacked Mrs. Jessie Smith of Kingsville and robbed him of $20 after the pair had got afternoon drinking together here.

Police said Bedard has a record of theft and forgery convictions at Welland.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
223 Front Street,
Belleville, Ontario,
NOVEMBER 19, 1949.

TO THE CITIZENS OF BELLEVILLE AND DISTRICT,—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

The Y's Men's second annual "RADIO AUCTION" is now history. The members of our club sincerely hope that all of you enjoyed our show as much as we enjoyed presenting it to you.

May we take this medium of expressing our sincere thanks to the following without whose wholehearted support "RADIO AUCTION" could not have been presented:

The merchants and manufacturers of Belleville and District for the contributions of merchandise to offer for auction; Radio Station CJBQ; The Ontario Intelligencer Limited; Belleville Printers Limited; The Bell Telephone Co. of Canada; The Phiat Sorority, whose members answered the several hundred telephone calls; The Bellwood Manufacturing Co. Ltd.; The Belleville Utilities Commission and The Walker Stores Limited, for the use of their windows for display; The City Police and Public Works Departments; all those who donated cars; McIntosh Bros. Limited; The James Teets Limited; Bateman Motors Limited and The Wm. Neilson Co. Limited for very generously vacating and donating their radio time to us so that "RADIO AUCTION" could proceed uninterrupted, and finally all of you who telephoned in your bids on the various items offered for auction.

While we have not, as yet, been able to calculate our net proceeds to the cent it is believed that a net profit in excess of $1,300.00 will be realised. We assure you that every cent will be spent to the best possible advantage in the interests of the youth of Belleville and district with whom we come in contact. A complete accounting of our accomplishments will be published at a later date.

Once again, to all of you from all of us, a sincere THANK YOU for your interest and support and may we express the hope that you will give us your same co-operation next year when we plan to make the 1950 Y's Men's Radio Auction, bigger and better.

Y'ally and Sincerely,

THE Y'S MEN'S CLUB OF BELLEVILLE

SAFETY CONSCIOUS

Development of the spirit of safety consciousness is being urged today as never before for the protection of everyone on the highways and streets and in general in every eventuality of life.

There is plenty of room for that spirit of safety consciousness, what with the many accidents which may happen on the street, in the home, or even in the fields.

One of these forms is that carefulness which enables people to prevent as far as possible fires in dwellings and other buildings. Unfortunately there are so many contingencies which may emerge that the mind of safety consciousness finds plenty of opportunity for its test and use.

Playing safe is one of the real investments in life which pays big dividends — that means, refusing to take chances which may mean injury or even death.

No sign has produced more safety measures than this period of history and yet they are all needed to save lives for there are at the same time new opportunities for accidents.

To try to find safety is one of the natural impulses of the human being. One can see it in little children today who are conscious of the threat to safety which carelessness in crossing a roadway may create.

One of the tragedies of this age is the multitude of deaths and injuries on the roadways. Some day such a condition as this will be looked upon as a mark of backward age that was filled with dangers.

That that time will come soon when accidents will be fairly may be far off but everyone should do his part to help bring about the sense of carefulness of risks in so many situations that most people or all of them may come close to the point where they will be able to do a good share in removing such threats and dangers.

Accidents should not be accepted as bound to happen. The public attitude ought to be that everyone would be so conscious of how to play safe in the best sense that accidents would be much fewer.

ADMIRALTY'S BOARD ROOM

In a city as old and famous as London there are many rooms in which great decisions have been taken, where Kings and statesmen have sat and pondered before deciding on actions which have shaped the course of history. Such a room is the panelled Board Room at the Admiralty. Damaged in the blitz on London, its ceiling ruined, its doors blown out and its historic panelling splintered, the pictures slashed to ribbons and the leather chairs tattered and torn, the task of restoring it to its original state must have seemed an almost insuperable one. But it has been done successfully and Audrey Russell of the BBC described the room's appearance now.

The restorers set to work in 1947. Three hundred and seven pieces of woodwork and a barrel of fragments had somehow to be sorted out and put in their rightful places. No exact record of the panelling existed so that each piece had to be numbered and measured and a precise architect's drawing produced. The ceiling was beyond repair and a new one has been made, painted a warm cream and white, with a decorative pattern of interwoven circles and flowers edged with gilt. The oak panelling, now stripped to a fine natural finish, is decorated by classical columns with foliaged capitals topped by a dolphin motive. The chairs are newly upholstered in plum-colored leather, the floor is covered with black linoleum and the First Sea Lord's chair, larger than the rest, stands at the head of it, facing Nelson's portrait. The carvings over the mantelpiece are of sixteenth century navigational instruments, and are of great value to historians, for the moveable parts actually slide up and down as they did in the original instruments. The wind dial shows an ancient map of Britain and the European coastline, and the single gilt hand is worked from a wind vane in the roof. This vane moves fitfully in the wind, giving the seadogs consulting on shore some idea at least of the weather conditions that His Majesty's vessels have to contend with on that day. It is a magnificent room, rich in naval history, and now happily returned to its former proud condition.

AWAY FROM IT ALL

The drift to the towns, so it is frequently said, shows no signs of lessening. Georgie Henschel, in a BBC broadcast remarked that there are always a few people who will prefer peace and isolation. The reason for her statement was an advertisement in an English newspaper, which advertised Copinsay, a remote island in the Orkneys, as to let. The only buildings are a farm, with one hundred and forty four acres of farming land, and a lighthouse. The replies poured in, not only from elderly people, who might with good reason want to escape from the world to somewhere remote and inaccessible, but from young ones too. One was from an aircraftsman of twenty-one and three friends, who thought it would be a good idea for them to settle on Copinsay when their term of service was over.

TOO LATE

Too late the praise that's said
After the soul has fled.
Praise that the heart had stirred
Had but the living heard.

Too late the tributes paid;
The room with flowers arrayed;
All that been withheld though
Such a short while ago.

Too late, too late to send
Notes that were left unpenned;
Eyes closed and cold the brow.
Too late to write them now!

Deepest is this regret:
So often to forget!
Letting the kindness wait
Until the day—too late.

An old landmark in this city was partially destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. It was the frame house situated on Victoria Avenue just west of Immanuel Church. The building which was gutted was owned by Mr. William Ketchenson and in it was stored a quantity of military clothing belonging to the 49th. Battalion, which, however, was saved. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Mr. Fred Stock left today for Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. G. H. Ostrom, ex. M.P.P., Trenton, was in town today.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MAN'S NATURAL HABITAT

Man's natural habitat—his home and his country—was meant to be one of peace, so that he might live out his days in a useful and happy manner. Greed, selfishness, and a love of power try to take all this away—and from the humblest. It is the cause of all war.

The people who have to fight wars are all against it, and those who start them are the one in a million, have to pay for it. All wars are fought by people—just as this earth for a good purpose, not a bad one. Just imagine what a world this would be if all nations gave to peace what they spend for war. It is unbelievable for one.

For hundreds of years the evil aftermath of war goes on. They are never paid for in full, for yet the debt of spilled blood cannot be paid. We don't get excited about peace. They do about war! Even when no one wants war.

Even so great a man as Winston Churchill said that after all war could have been prevented. Then why wasn't it? Half the world has been impoverished and tragically torn to pieces, by the last two World Wars, and now there is continual talk about another. And those who ought to know are afraid another will mean only world suicide. Isn't it about time we got excited about peace?

If peace or war were put to the vote of all the people in every nation, not a single one would vote for war. It would be an overwhelming vote for peace and good will among all nations. That would be the only path to tread towards prosperity and happiness among all the peoples of the earth.

Bebs and death are the two great watchwords of war. Where are Alexander's and Napoleon's empires today? What a fading affair is mere glory and the temporary acclaim of men! All, as William Knox so truly wrote in his poem, "lead but to the grave."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IN HANDS STRONGER THAN OURS

A young man was called into the army during the war and told that he was out of a job. What would he do? He had a wife to support and it seemed as if there was nowhere to turn.

But never mind leaving college had he held a job that called forth his enthusiasm, a position for which he felt a real call. Always he was looking for such a job. So now he started the rounds of offices. Would he find a job? That was a great question.

What the young fellow did not know was that in the very hour he was distressed, so was a still middle life who held a position in another firm had died, and this was exactly the type of position the boy had always hoped he might someday occupy. Of course, he and the vacancy got together, and now he is the happiest youngster in the state.

But how could it happen that way? Some would say "Fate." Others would say "good luck." But those who have Christian faith would certainly insist that there was a connection between the boy's dismissal and the older man's death in practically the same hour. Call it predestination or anything you care to. God is still running this world, and even the fall of a sparrow is noted by Him who calleth the stars by name.

Mackenzie Column: Monty, Great Soldier of War Says Eisenhower

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press News Analyst)

It's seven years since that North America's distinguished British Guest, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, gave me the toughest chase I ever experienced in rounding up a subject for an interview.

This was in the Libyan desert in December of 1942, just before the crucial battle of El Agheila between Monty's Eighth Army and the Germans under the famous Field Marshal Rommel. The British general was moving his headquarters for the great showdown, and he personally was hopping from place to place so fast that the British press until to which I was attached never could catch up with him.

Finally my colleagues threw up their hands, gave me an armor-plated car with military driver and said: "Go find Monty yourself!" A couple of days later we finally ran to earth the man whom Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander, has described as "one of the great soldiers in the world history." In general was in his caravan — a little "headquarters" office-on-wheels.

The first moment of an interview with a stranger often is the most important for it is in this brief instant that the interviewer sizes up his subject. I find that in my notes of the interview I recorded my first impression:

Flame of Crusader

"There burns in his grey eyes the unmistakable flame of the crusader. If he were not a great leader he would be in some other field of leadership and I wouldn't invest a dollar, if I were sized up my man rightly."

There would seem to be nothing in subsequent developments to change that viewpoint, Associated with that thought is the fact that he is intensely religious and in a manner of speaking fought with the bible in his hand. His own battle cry was: "Let God arise, let his enemies be scattered." He told me of messages he was receiving from all over the world from people who

"I was particularly touched by one letter from an Sunday School teacher in Atlantic City. He wrote to say that the boys of his class were praying that I might have strength in the coming battle.

"And don't these messages help you?" I asked. "Don't they strengthen your morale?"

He nodded, and there was moisture in his eyes.

Speaking of morale, Monty's name was synonimous with morale. I was to his men in the desert. It was the rabbit's foot they carried into battle. Morale was a fetish with the general too.

"Morale is the thing," he told me. "You can do anything with an army if its morale is high ... morale depends, on success. Give the troops success and their morale is high."

APPOINTMENT RUMORED

Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Quebec Superior Court has been rumored as one of the two appointees to the Supreme Court of Canada when the number of judges is increased from the present seven to nine. The two additional judges are provided for in the bill to abolish appeals to the Privy Council in London. VETERAN FIREMAN THREATENS CHIEF, SHOOTS HIMSELF

Believed Depressed at What He Considered a Demotion

Toronto, Nov. 22. (CP)— Believed depressed at what he considered a demotion, veteran fireman George Like Monday pointed a gun at District Chief Harry Gaston and then shot himself fatally.

Lee had a lengthy interview with the chief, which Gaston would not discuss. Lee, a fireman for 29 years, had been acting chief of the Keele Street fire station and Monday was informed that another fireman holding the rank of Captain had been posted to the station.

After the interview Lee, known as a moody serious man, left the room with Gaston and as they were standing in the hall, he pulled out a gun and pointed it at Gaston. The latter jumped back into his office and slammed the door.

Lee brushed aside other members of the staff, walked into another room, and shot himself in the breast. He died on the way to hospital in a police ambulance. Det. Sgt. John Atkinson of the Toronto police force found the weapon, a .38 long-barrelled revolver, beside Lee. Examination showed that two bullets in the firing cylinder had marks of the firing pin on them. "But we can't say when Lee tried to fire those bullets," said Atkinson. "There is nothing to prove that he tried to fire at the district chief."

Gaston said "as far as I know he didn't try to shoot me, but I was moving pretty fast. It is quite possible, I suppose, that the gun misfired five when he tried to shoot himself."

The middle-aged Lee had several times suffered injuries fighting fires in his long service. He is survived by his widow and one son.

Fire Chief Peter Herd said Lee had not actually been demoted. "He was only an acting captain because he was the senior man at the station," said Herd. "When a new captain was placed at the station he returned to his regular rank."

NOW IT IS UP TO THE RED CROSS

Nearly fifty years ago Dr. Edward B. Schafer, later Sir Edward S. Schafer, Professor of Physiology, University of Edinburgh, Scotland, after long study and experimentation devised and gave the world the now well-known pleasure method of artificial respiration, now universally designated the Schafer method of resuscitation—except in Red Cross literature.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, 31, 801, 1926, Schafer described his method and included a picture showing the position of subject with both arms, extended well over the head, resting palms down on the ground. In this position the thorax (chest) of the subject is in the most favorable position for inspiration, entrance of air into the lungs. The late Professor Vandell Henderson of Yale University, assured me of this in a personal communication.

The vital purpose of artificial respiration or resuscitation in any case is to get air into the lungs.

The method taught by the American Red Cross and approved by U.S. Bureau of Mines, U.S. Public Health Service, U.S. Bureau of Standards, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the Navy Department, National Safety Council and various gas and electric companies is a modification of Schafer's method. The modification is in the position of the subject's arms—one arm or forearm or hand is placed under the subject's head, the face, nose and mouth are free for breathing.

This modification implies that Professor Schafer did not understand the physiological principles involved in resuscitation. Just who made the modification in the method taught by the American Red Cross and "approved" by all the organizations I presented mentioned, remains a mystery. In years of leading undergraduates to clear up the mystery I have learned only that it is unethical to use the authority superscribed Schafer.

In 1943 the Director, First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention, American Red Cross, National Headquarters, Washington, D.C., stated in a letter to a newspaper columnist (a copy of which I have in my files):

In fact, and I am telling you something that you do not know, nothing that you could be commonly known, the standard and technique for the prone pressure artificial respiration, which includes the procedure mentioned (with one arm under subject's face), was formulated by Dr. Edward Albert Schafer; he was cognizant of the method and agreed with the soundness thereof. This is not a matter of opinion, as I say, but based upon actual correspondence between an outstanding medical authority on artificial respiration in this country and Dr. Schafer himself copies of which correspondence are fortunately extant."

Extant perhaps, but not obtainable so far as I could see the original letter or letters, or even Dr. Schafer's reasonable facsimiles hereof in the Schafer papers agreed with the soundness of the modification taught by the American Red Cross, I'd pull in my horns, stow my fab and cease distributing instructions for the Schafer method.

But the general public welfare why shouldn't the American Red Cross unbend a bit and let me see for myself what Schafer thought of the Red Cross modification of his method?

Lest the reader infer that this is a mere quibble over a trifling technical error, let me say that from personal experience in the resuscitation of a child rescued from submersion in an ice pond I believe it is no trifle, but a matter of life and death, and neither the head man of the Red Cross nor any of the pre-men whose organizations "approve" whatever the Red Cross does or says, can brush it off as lightly as that. In every case of asphyxiation, subnormal sufficiation, gassing or cessation of breathing from any cause there is a commotion, as for instance, when a straw one way or the other may determine the existence of the restorative efforts. That moment, that instant, is of vital importance and be not I purpose to carry on the fight.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Parkinson's Disease

Would it be good for a person with Parkinson's disease to give blood for a transfusion. If not, please explain why. (C. T.)

Answer—In writing Parkinson's disease may donate blood as well as any one else in good health. Send stamped addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet on Parkinson's Disease —otherwise known as paralysis agitans and shaking palsy.

Riboflavin

Please tell me how much riboflavin there is an adequate daily ration for a person with teary, red eyes and a sensation of roughness of the eyes as described in your column a few months ago. (Mrs. E.)

Answer—Nutrition authorities declare a milligram of riboflavin (Vitamin B2) as the minimum daily requirement for adults, but explain daily ration would be 6 to 10 milligrams in a five-pound loaf tablet twice daily, after food. Two milligrams would be approximately contents of a grain.

Growth of the Hair

Please let me know what is good for growth of the hair. (C. S.)

My hair comes out quite a bit when I wash it and is getting thin on top. My mother says I need iodine. Have you anything about this that will help? (C. B.)

Answer—Everybody needs iodine. Space here is limited. Send stamped self addressed envelope and twenty-five cents for booklet, The Hair and Scalp.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Near the end of the war, a man I have known for years and who has been traveling all over the war zones of Italy, Normandy, North Africa by bomber, flying boat and jeep, landed back at the adjoining room to mine in the hotel in Brussels There was a communicating door between our rooms, and I was kind enough one afternoon to catch my friend seated on the bed, his trousers off, a bottle in his hand and a look of grief, in its contents spread about, and my friend in the act of applying a hypodermic needle into his thigh.

"Get out of here!" he commanded, thickly, in a towering rage at my intrusion.

But I stood my ground. And it turned out I was glad I did on taking his insulin. He had been a diabetic for many years. Even though I knew it, he intimately as anybody, I had never known his secret.

When I upbraided him, not for having been a secret, but for being here in Brussels, in the middle of a war, and straying well over the Atlantic and Mediterranean, North Africa, Normandy, in hard and rough circumstances, while dependent for his very life on the insulin he carried, he asked me bluntly:

"Do you suppose I would have been allowed to come, if anybody had known I was diabetic?"

Unfortunately he was right, at that. But none the less, the war medical science is aware that diabetes is not aided by the reticence and concealment of the unfortunate victims of the ailment.

At the suggestion of the Banting Institute, associations of diabetics and their parents, wives, husbands, and children are being formed in various Canadian cities to lend, amongst other things, support to those who suddenly, on applying for insurance, for instance, or on a medical checkup by their family doctor, find themselves to be diabetic.

Professional tennis champions, big business tycoons, and other successful active and thoroughly competent men and women are diabetics, have is nothing to be secret about. The people we should feel distressed over are the other thousands who don't know yet that they are diabetic.

Development Historical Background Quinte Area to Attract U.S. Tourists Suggested by Wallace Havelock Robb

A fortune in American dollars awaits the people of this city and district if the romantic and historical background of the Bay of Quinte area is developed, Wallace Havelock Robb, noted Canadian poet and author, told the Rotary Club on Monday.

Speaking on the theme "The Tourist Future of the Bay of Quinte" Mr. Robb pointed out the "failure" of the Thousand Islands and the success of the Catskill Mountains, Minnehaha Falls and other tourist spots, with historical backgrounds.

"People," he said, "did not exploit 'Manitowan' as the Thousand Islands were known to the Indians, and that is the reason it failed. When the romance of the past is brought out then it will return as a tourist attraction."

Minnehaha Falls named after the famous Indian maiden is the mecca yearly for 100,000 tourists. The Catskill Mountains were made famous by the pen of Washington Irving who wrote the legend of the thunder caused by the Kaatsbergs who bowled in their tumultuous defiles.

American Love History

Referring to the Bay of Quinte area, Mr. Robb said that sailing and fishing have brought in considerable tourist dollars, and will continue to do so, but this will be nothing compared to the revenue if the history of its background is developed, for Americans love history and love stories, and nature with fire in it.

"Perhaps it amazes and annoys some people but the greatest American who ever lived, and talking into consideration, Montezuma, Lincoln and Franklin Delano Roosevelt was Dek-Ana-Weda, famous Indian chief who conceived, organized and promoted the League of the Iroquois, the five nations whose aim was peace. His chief lieutenant was Hiawatha. The League became powerful and before long was joined by the Tuscaroras.

Warring Tribe a Lesson

The Delaware tribes near Washington, were powerful, exacting tribute and warring on weaker tribes in that district. The League sent word to the Delawares if they did not stop their warring activities, it would do something about it. The League did so. The Iroquois joined forces and "made women" out of the Delawares. The victorious League did not exact tribute of the Delawares thus proving their peaceful intent.

Dek-Ana-Weda was born at Eagle Hill on the sacred ground of the Mohawks on the Tyendinaga Reserve. "Some day," Mr. Robb predicted, "his name will be spoken of with great pride in this city and district."

The Mohawks' home extended from Presqu'ile Point on the west to Howe Island on the east and was known as the "Kenty" area, a paradise in itself. The name comes from the Indian word meaning "sacred precinct of the Thunderbird." It is the origin of the word "Quinte" which is of French.

Book Reveals Legends

Mr. Robb told the clubmen that his new book "The Thunderbird" will be off the presses in the near future. It is an epic of the Mohawks of the Kenty, produced after 17 years of careful research in the Indian lore of this area. It reveals for the first time Mohawk legends of historical value and the story of the true and traditional home of the Thunderbird of the Eastern North American Indian.

Speaking of the "Thunderbird" Mr. Robb pointed out that the Vikings who came here 1,000 years ago saw a "white ghost bird." Macon, Georgia, has its Great White Eagle, and the Thunder Bird of British Columbia all are believed to be the same family as the Thunderbird of the Bay of Quinte, its traditional home.

"So you see, gentlemen," said Mr. Robb, "you have a gold mine in your midst, which will bring you a great harvest of dollars if it is developed."

Offers Suggestions

The speaker offered several suggestions for the development of "Kenty's" traditional bird. First he said, get the book "Thunderbird", read it and absorb it, for it will affect your pocketbooks."

Appoint tourist development committee to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce, tourist bureaus, and provincial organizations. Pep up and help form drama groups which could stage pageants drawn from data in the book. The Mohawks of the reserve are eager to co-operate. Start and maintain publicity and keep talking about the Kenty country.

Defining Indian names of the district, Mr. Robb said that "Ganjo" which Big Bay was formerly called, meant "God's Bay."

Deseronto was not named after Captain Deseronto, a white man chief, but is drawn from the Indian word "Day-say-ron-ih-yu" meaning thunder and lightning. "Kento" means a big important entrance to a river and this name was applied to the mouth of the Trent River.

Origin of Muscoie Bay

"Mash-kudo" means the gateway to a plateau and from this word comes the name Muscoie Bay, below the high levels of Mountain View.

The Sagonaska River is the Moira River. "And," went on Mr. Robb "some day it will be known as the Sagonaska. The intruder "Moira" will be kicked out. The river was named Moira because of sloppy sentimentality."

Sagonaska Island, still called by that name means the entrance to a river while "Ge-un-walk-wa" means the "Carrying Place." The white men when they heard the Indians call this place by name thought they meant "get up and walk, you."

Mr. Robb was introduced to Rotary by Rotarian Freeman Burrows, a nephew while club appreciation was expressed by Rotarian Fred Chamberlain. Rotarian Ken Griffith presided at the luncheon in the absence of President Fred Deacon.

Sidney School Area News

Eggleston's school S.S. 24, with a percentage of 99.31 won the attendance banner for October. Miss Gunter's pupils lost only 3½ pupil days during the month. Glen Rose with 98.4 per cent and Johnstown with 96.28 per cent were not far behind. This attendance was all the more commendable considering that the vaccinations and inoculations were being completed. Johnstown had won the banner in September.

S.H.S.A. Finals

Three Sidney representatives took part in the S.H.S.A. public speaking finals in Belleville. Although they did not place among the prize winners, they gave a good account of themselves. They were, Sharo Wilkinson, Turner's School, Yellowstone National Park; Barbara Brown, Marsh Hill, Ghosts; June Livingstone, Wallbridge, The Ten Provinces of Canada.

Board Meeting

The Board held their regular meeting for November at Wallbridge on the 14th with the following members present: Chairman James Campbell, J. W. Sargent, J. R. Harry, H.M. Rutter. Absent, H. E. Brown. Only routine work was dealt with, although it had been expected that a representative from a film company would be on hand to give a demonstration of a movie projector. He was not able to be present, so this was left over.

Several letters were read and filed. The correspondence contained notification that the deed for the three-quarter acre strip of land purchased from E. G. Denyes directly north of and adjacent to the Avondale school grounds was at the lawyer's office. This land will be used to accommodate the larger attendance, should an extension be necessary. There has been a sharp increase in school population in Sidney this year, and especially so in this locality. It was found necessary this fall to transfer a number of pupils from Avondale to Quinteview to relieve the overcrowded condition. Notice was received from the Ontario Teachers' Federation that the Board must deduct the federation fees from the teachers' November salaries. This will amount in most cases to eight dollars per teacher.

Accounts of $6,238

The accounts totalling $4,820.92 were presented and ordered paid. Chief among these, besides the teachers' November salaries were bills for school supplies amounting to over $250 for September and October. Enrolment in the circulating library for the ten schools requesting it, amounted to $100. The other eight schools wished to get the travelling libraries from the Dept. of Education. The Board was able to get a used piano in good condition for $125 for Eggleton's School to replace the organ which had not been working satisfactorily for some time. The secretary was to see about disposal of old organ.

Since only ten of the Bayside pupils now come to school on the 9 o'clock bus and wish to return by the 3:50 bus in the afternoon, it was felt by the teacher and the Board that the time of dismissal should revert to four o'clock in order to give the teacher more time to take care of the latecomers. Those wishing to catch the bus will be dismissed at the usual time in order to do so.

Teachers' November Meeting

The Sidney Teachers' Association will hold its monthly meeting this Thursday night at Johnstown School. Mrs. Wanda Sine will give a demonstration of the most effective ways of teaching by means of the movie projector. This will be their last meeting before Christmas. The Sidney schools which have not already done so will revert to standard time on the last weekend of the month.

WEDDINGS

GOLDEN — FARRELL

A pretty autumn wedding was recently solemnized at St. Charles Church, Read, when Anna Elizabeth Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Farrell of Read, became the bride of Leo Francis Golden, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Golden, of Belleville.

The ceremony was performed, and the nuptial Mass celebrated by the Reverend Father Brickland. The altar and sanctuary were beautifully decorating with pink and white dahlias.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Wm. Hanley, of Read, who also sang, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Farrell, the bride looked charming in a blue gabardine suit with matching hat and gloves. She wore a gold heart-shaped locket, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Edward Fobert, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, gowned in a green gabardine suit with brown accessories. She also wore a gold necklace, gift of the bride.

Mr. Edward Fobert, was best man. The ushers were: Mr. Joseph Golden, brother of the groom, and Mr. Leonard Farrell, brother of the bride.

Immediately after the ceremony, about 35 guests motored to "Ye Old Tavern" where a sumptuous breakfast was served. The tables were beautifully decorated with Autumn flowers with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake centering the table.

After the wedding breakfast, the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a trip to Sudbury, North Bay, and other northern points.

On their return they will reside at Read.

TURNER — GRANGE

A wedding of unusual interest was solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 19th, at 2.30 p.m. when Mary Shirley Joan daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Grange, became the bride of Sub. Lieutenant Gerald Lawrence Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turner, of Belleville. Canon Dean, the Reverend C. Grant Sparling officiated before an altar beautifully decorated with bronze, pink and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Kaye Martin, guest organist, rendered "Trumerei", and "Bridal Fo'Armour" before the ceremony, and during the signing of the register "I Love Thee," by Edvard Grieg, and "Intermezzo", by Henlix Provost.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her bridal gown of white slipper satin featuring an off the shoulder tight-fitting bodice with fine lace yoke, and tight fitting sleeves ending in lilly points at the wrists, and full skirt falling into a long train. Her three-quarter veil of silk tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and white rosebuds with satin streamers.

Miss Dale Turner, of Milford, and sister of the bridegroom was maid of honor. She wore a floor length brocaded taffeta with short puff sleeves, and long white gloves. The tight fitting bodice ended in a large bustle bow, and the skirt was full and floor length with puffed paniers. She wore a matching shoulder length veil held in place by a wreath of matching roses and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Gladys Beatty, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of blue brocaded taffeta, tight fitting bodice and button down the back, which extended below the waist line in an oval to which the floor-length skirt was caught by tiny gathers. She wore a matching shoulder-length veil and halo of matching blue roses, white lace gloves and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

Sub. Lieutenant Robert Maxwell, of Belleville, was groomsman, and the ushers were Sub. Lieutenants R. Boyce and H. Sager, both of Belleville.

Following the church a guard of honor with crossed swords, was formed by the bridegroom's fellow officers, Sub. Lieutenants, L. M. Cole; R. Boyce; H. Sager; H. Symons; and H. Kessler, through which the bridal party passed to the reception aboard H.M.C.S. "Quinte" where the bride's mother received, wearing a suit of navy blue gabardine, with pink accessories and corsage of red Briarcliffe roses.

Following the reception, the young couple left for Montreal and points east; the bride travelling in a wine-colored gabardine suit with black accessories, and brown fur top-coat. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Turner will reside in Belleville.

How to Overcome Dry Skin

If skin has a tendency to be dry, apply a night cream of emollient after you have cleansed it at bedtime. Then leave a little of the cream on all night.

By HELEN FOLLETT

If there were a wailing wall, and the ladies with pulchritude griefs were lined up for sobbing, the loudest and longest cries would come from the woman with the dry skin. She will tell you that she feels as if she were shedding her complexion, that there is no health in it and make-up doesn't help very much.

She is advised to use creams and to use them lavishly. But the question is, does she get creams of the right consistency? If she will first a helpful saleswoman at the cosmetic counter she may learn that there are different creams for different types of skin; she may have been using an emollient that is compounded for the "oilies."

Oily Base

Powder should have an oily base. A cream rouge will give better satisfaction than the compact. And there is the matter of diet, to which of course she will not give thought. She needs more butter on her bread, more oil in the salad dressing, bacon for breakfast, plenty of cream in her coffee. Fats in any form will stimulate the sebaceous glands that have got lazy and refuse to function.

Four or five glasses of water a day will help. Few women drink as much water as they should to supply the body needs; often the dry skin in the direct result of this lack.

During the winter season it is important that the air in the home be moist. If you have steam heat, put water containers on the radiators, keep them filled to the top all the time. Dry air is not only tough on the complexion, but has a deplorable effect upon the breathing motors.

If you are a "dry" stand before an open window for five minutes every day and lap up the ozone. Air conditions your breathing bellows.

Women's Activities

STONE CHURCH W.M.S AND W.A.

The November meeting of Stone Church W.M.S. and W.A. was held in the Community Hall on Tuesday last, with 15 members and 3 visitors present. The president, Mrs. E. Phillips opened the meeting with the theme "God at work among men through the Holy Spirit." Worship consisted of responsive readings, silent meditation and the singing of hymns. The secretary's report was read and adopted. Mrs. Tufts reported that $43.65 on silkscreen had been raised so far, exclusive of the fall Thanksgiving. The next meeting is to be held at the hall on December 20th, with Mrs. Tufts as program convener.

Plans were made for the W.M.S. Sunday School supper to be held in the hall November 25th. Mrs. F. Tucker and Mrs. C. Rusnell were appointed to take charge of the program.

Mrs. F. Jeffery gave as her Temperance report, an account of the mass meeting held at Massey Hall, she also read some other timely articles on the subject.

Mrs. F. Vermilyea took charge of the study book, "Growing with the Years" and was assisted by Mrs. O. Chisolm, their theme was "The Home, School and Church". The importance of Christian training for young people was stressed.

Mrs. Reynolds took charge of the election of officers with Mrs. F. Tucker acting in the role of officers for 1950.

Mrs. Tufts is now of the president. Mrs. A. Wait, vice president of the W.A. took charge of the meeting.

Several items of business were discussed. The group decided to contribute financially toward laying a new floor in the parsonage kitchen. Mrs. O. Chisolm agreed to see a dressmaker about the making of a gown for the minister. Some bills were presented.

It was decided that Mrs. J. Detor, and Mrs. A. Seeley be the nominating committee for the W.A.

The offering was received and after the meeting closed refreshments were enjoyed by all present.

Gifts Feature 25th. Wedding Anniversary

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Finley Scrimshaw and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ellis entertained over 30 friends and relatives at the former's home in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scrimshaw's, 25th wedding anniversary.

The evening was spent playing cards and dancing, until Mr. and Mrs. Scrimshaw were called to take the seats of honor, where they were presented with several gifts, including silver, a wrist watch, cheque, and a purse of money. Mr. Scrimshaw gave his bride of 25 years a black onyx necklace. Mr. and Mrs. Scrimshaw thanked their friends and relatives for the lovely gifts, and for coming to help celebrate this occasion.

Among the guests were: Mrs. Adam Strummel, the maid of honor 25 years ago; also the groomsman, Douglas Bingley. Mrs. Kay Tompkins, sister of the bride, entertained the gathering with some verses concerning the courtship and wedded life of the honored guests.

After this, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Finley Scrimshaw and Mrs. Ellis. The central attraction was a three-tiered anniversary cake made and decorated by Mrs. Frank Stapley, the mother of the bride of 25 years ago.

IVANHOE W.I.

The November meeting of Ivanhoe, Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Clayton Wright.

Mrs. M. Haggerty opened the meeting by reading a poem entitles "My Task". The roll call was answered by 33 members giving an apron parade.

Mrs. C. Mills gave an interesting report on the area convention.

A talk on "Making of Salads" was given by Mrs. John McInroy; and Margaret Haggerty sang, "There's a Tree in the Meadow."

Mrs. Sills introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Wager of Belleville, who explained the Quinte Co-Operative Medical Service to the members.

Mrs. Sills and Mrs. Mills were appointed to interview the homes in the community to find out the members who were interested in securing this type of insurance. Minutes were read and approved, business followed.

Miss McBride, Short Course instructress, read a letter on "Nutrition" with explanations.

Mrs. French showed a small apron with a pocket in it. Each member to make one putting your size of wait in money in pocket No. 1.

The December meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. C. Reid. After the meeting closed refreshments were served.

Girls' Work Board Holds Meeting In Bridge St. Church

The Girls' Work Board met last evening in Bridge Street Church, with the president, Mrs. Ralph Morden presiding. There was a good representation from the Presbyterian and United Churches.

The main feature of the meeting was to discuss the C.G.I.T. annual Vesper Service. A "Leaders' Council" had previously been formed among the C.G.I.T. leaders, under the direction of the Work Board.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

What makes a popover pop?

In case you've never eaten a popover, it's a light crusty shell blown up like a cream puff and served as a quick bread at breakfast, lunch or dinner.

New cooks are both pleased and puzzled by this airy creation that contains no baking powder and rises to about 4 times is original volume.

It's a thin batter made of eggs, milk and flour, and is a sizzling hot iron pan. The magic is simple to understand. The water present in the batter quickly changes to steam when it's placed in the mad hot pan. It increases in volume, very quickly blowing up the gluten in the flour to a high crusty cylinder.

Actually popovers should not pop over. They should rise just as a biscuit or muffin does. After the popping the heat should be reduced sharply so that they bake thoroughly inside while the outside becomes brown and crisp.

Don't use a muffin pan to make popovers; the thin sheet metal will not hold and distribute the heat evenly. Use either an iron popover pan or heavy custard cups. Popovers may be eaten as a bread course or filled with any creamed meat, fish or vegetables as a light main course.

Popovers

Makes 11 Standard Size

Set oven at 450 degrees. Grease well an iron popover pan. Place in oven at least for 20 minutes before filling with batter.

Sift and measure 1 cup all-purpose flour. Sift again with 1 teaspoon salt.

Beat 2 eggs slightly and combine with 7-8 cup milk (1 cup milk less 2 tablespoons.)

Combine liquid and dry ingredients. Add 2 tablespoons salad oil or shortening which has been melted but is not hot.

Beat the batter with a rotary egg beater until very smooth—about 2 minutes. Remove heated iron pan from oven. It should be sizzling hot. Pour batter filling section 1-3 full. Return pan to oven and bake for 15 minutes at 450 degrees. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and continue baking 20-30 minutes or until brown. Do not open oven door during baking.

Cut tops off popovers and fill with creamed chipped beef. Allow 2 popovers per person.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Meaning of Prefix "Step" As in "Stepmother"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am an English war bride, now living here in Canada. Please answer for me a question about which I wish to be sure, for it is possible that the term is used differently here. My brother-in-law was divorced and has since married again. Recently he took his daughter (by his first wife) to live with him and his second wife. What relation is this wife to Pat, the daughter? My mother-in-law says that the second wife isn't the daughter's stepmother, as her own mother is still living. In this case what would she be called if she isn't Pat's stepmother?

A. C.

The second wife of your brother-in-law is the stepmother of his daughter, Pat. Pat's mother is her real mother, and her father's second wife is Pat's stepmother. ("Step" is a prefix that denotes relationship through the marriage only of a parent. . . not a blood relationship.)

Same Mother and Daughter Have Same Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should the names be imprinted on Christmas cards when the mother and daughter have the same name? For example, should our cards be imprinted "The Smiths—Mary, John, George and Mary?" My husband and I haven't sent out family Christmas cards previously, but would like to this year. Several friends of ours, and my sister, too, suggested that we use "The Smiths—Mary, John, George, and Mary, Jr." much like this idea. Would it be correct?

Mother "Smith"

No. "Jr." is a masculine suffix . . . it should not be used after a girl's name.

Since, naturally, Christmas cards would be sent to relatives and friends, I should think it wouldn't be necessary to 'explain' the second "Mary". Wouldn't it be understood that the Mary mentioned last is the daughter? However, since you say that this is the first time you and your husband have sent out "family" Christmas cards, it may be that "Mary" is a baby whose arrival is being announced by adding her name to the Christmas cards. If so, the names may be written, for example, (and please be sure to notice that the father's name must come first when children's names are included): "The Smiths . . . John and Mary, and George, and the new daughter Mary."

Must Hostesses Offer an Alternative to Tea?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been very much surprised when several times lately I've been invited to tea (not a tea, just several friends meeting in the afternoon) and noted that the hostess offered coffee as an alternative to tea. Is this now considered necessary? If so, I must change my ways, for I have never done this!

Margaret D.

Tea is, of course, the "traditional" of the afternoon tea party . . . but this true that lately there is a definite inclination on the part of hostesses, even many quite conservative hostesses, to offer coffee as an alternative . . . and sometimes they go one step farther and offer the choice of real coffee and non-caffeine coffee! On very cold days a hostess may offer chocolate as an alternative to tea. But it is not really necessary to offer any alternative to tea! So don't "change your ways" unless you wish to.

If nasty seems too strong, draw a few Barbara Ann's to it to show's meaner. But... remove them just before serving.

Dark Cotton Jumper

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's District—Mr. Ira Milne, and three sons, of Milliken, called on Mr. J. C. White on their way home after spending the weekend at Odessa, visiting their nephews and cousins. Mr. Milne and Mr. White were neighbours for over 50 years.

Last Tuesday, Mr. Harold Duncan and Mr. Archie Gray of Todmorden, Ont., visited Mr. J. C. White and during the afternoon they took a drive to Picton. On their return they had dinner with Mr. White and stayed over-night at Mr. Dudley's residence.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. H. Blong on the birth of a son, Thomas George, in Belleville General Hospital, on Thursday, November 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stickle were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Dellinia.

Mrs. James Sandercock and Mr. Donald Sandercock left on Friday to visit relatives in Toronto. Donald will visit the Royal Winter Fair while there.

Mrs. D. Bowers, Mrs. B. Westover, Mrs. Leonard Young and Misses Audrey and Marilyn Bowers, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. H. Blong and family.

Sunday School and church services were conducted at White's Church on Sunday afternoon with a good attendance, The Rev. A. C. McCallum chose as his text, "It is good to sing praises unto our God." He said "hymns were not sung in church to fill up part of the time of service but as a praise to God. In social gatherings and church meetings they are sung to bring about a friendly." He related an incident which took place when he was a student minister in Winnipeg.

Mr. Harry G. DeMille passed away at his home on Sunday afternoon. The funeral service will fly.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This Girl Won't Make Any Man a Good Wife

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a fallow of 24, and my girl and I have been planning to get married next June. I haven't got a job yet, but I am going to school to learn a trade. My father owns a business in this trade, and I will still work with him in December. The reason I didn't start work sooner was because I was 8 1-2 years in the army and only got out last April.

My girl tells me she loves me but she wants a house right away as soon as we get married. I tell her I haven't got the money for a house so we will have to take an apartment until we can save enough. She could live rather nicely if I didn't have to go into debt for such a thing. She also wants me to get a car. One day she tells me she'll work after we're married and the next day she says she won't work.

Another thing is that we went to see my friend's wife in the hospital where she was having a baby and my girl got so excited she wanted to break off with me.

I want to get married, because I like this girl very much, and I wish you would give me some advice.

B.F.

Dear B.F.:

Nothing you tell me about this girl makes it clear to me why you love her so much. She sounds to me like a very shallow, unreliable sort of person, and unless she changes a good deal, and develops some character, any man who gets her for a wife is going to have a difficult time of it.

The kind of wife a man like yourself should have would be one willing to take responsibility and help out where it's necessary, not one who would run her husband into debt to satisfy her unreasonable demands.

If you take my advice, you'll think twice before you let yourself get involved in the kind of trouble a girl like this is certain to bring you.

Boys Won't Go to Church With Them

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two high school juniors who have been going with two boys for about two months. We have asked these boys to go to church with us and they said no. All of us are of the same faith.

We are in the church choir, which means we have to go to church quite often, and we have Young People's meeting once a week.

We would like to know how we can get them to go to church with us. S. & R.

Dear S. & R.:

It isn't very likely that you will get the boys to go to church with you through anything you say. About all you can do is to keep on with your activities at the church yourselves, and if the boys like you enough they may decide after awhile that they want to be in your company sufficiently to accompany you. You won't be able to argue them into it anyhow, so don't try.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Give you feet a break, lady

Buying shoes for all occasions —afternoon parties, the merry evening, dancing, shopping? Good enough. Have fun. But, if you are a hearth-and-home body do you ever buy the right kind of shoes for tramping the domestic treadmill? It isn't likely. Considering how many hours you spend going through the daily routine, it is important that your feet should be properly housed.

Perhaps you are wearing floppy, spaniel-eared slippers. Or, perhaps you are slopping around in an old pair of high-heeled pumps that aren't fit for street wear, being out of shape, and you can't bear to throw them away. If you have weak ankles, you can know the reason why. Give your feet a break. They haven't done anything to deserve such treatment.

When feet hurt you hurt all over, and they will hurt if they haven't proper support. They are responsible for grouches and no telling how many divorces.

Get some sensible shoes. Time was when the "sensible shoe" could be spotted a farmer's mile away and the very idea conjured up visions of grussomeness. The "comfortable" oxford of the past was more suitable for the Alpine climber than a young lady strolling down the boulevard.

Do you buy the right kind of shoes for the domestic treadmill?

Different days different ways—and different shoes, thank goodness. Utilizing new materials and new ideas, shoe designers have come up with a sparkling array of footwear with elegant lines that match their down-to-earth comfort. They are built on correct, health-giving lines and fine leather soles that give walking ease. You have but to put your mind on the matter, find an obliging, well-informed salesman or saleswoman and the chances are your pedal troubles will vanish.

This may be the means of your finding more enjoyment out of life, being more attractive and charming at the end of the day when the old man comes home to greet his one-time bride. Ill-fitting shoes are a common cause of fatigue, and when a woman is all played out it isn't easy to be gay and good-natured.

The best shoes for housework is also the best shoe for a hike —an oxford-type model with good arch and ankle support, snug at the heel, with a flexible leather and giving support for the arch. Then you're all set.

Of dressy shoes there are many offerings. High heels won't do any harm if you wear them only for festive occasions. They were never meant to be worn on the street.

Talk on Institute For Blind Work Given Soroptimists

The Soroptimist Club held their dinner meeting Monday evening in Laitimer's Town Room. The decorative theme was patriotic, with red, white and blue streamers and white candles and poppies completing the scheme.

Mrs. Tillie Mazer presented to Mrs. Georgia Smith a gift on behalf of the club, in appreciation of her leadership as charter president, and as president for the second year, of the Past President's pin. This was graciously acknowledged.

Mr. Timmins, Field Secretary for this district for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was the guest speaker and was introduced to the club by Mrs Mary Quinn. The C.N.I.B. is a service organization whose aim is to strive for the complete rehabilitation, as far as is possible, of the blind—to help the blind persons to help themselves. There are many difficulties — some due to the blind person having an inferiority complex, or feeling sorry for himself. They are taught to think positively of what remains rather than of what is gone. They are still a vital part of their families and community. John Milton the blind poet said "It is not so bad to be blind, but it is worse to be incapable of enduring blindness."

Home Teacher Important

The home teacher is a very important person, she visits the blind person in their home, and creates in them, inspired by her example, a desire to learn. They are taught handicrafts, leather work, knitting, sewing, weaving, typing, etc. The main difficulties are encountered with the sighted members of the family, who wish to coddle and protect the blind person, rather than allowing them to do what they are capable of doing, so they will feel that they are making a contribution. Some of the older blind people feel that they are too old to learn to do things. Out of the 36 blind persons in Belleville, there are only five or six who are being instructed by the home teacher. There are some in Trenton and more in Kingston who are taking advantage of this training.

The home teacher is considered as a front line soldier, and all who come in contact with her consider her as their friend.

Financial assistance is often given when needed, or if an emergency arises. Sometimes in the interval when a person applies for the blind pension and when it is received it is necessary to give financial aid.

Special Sales Outlets

The products made by the blind are being sold through wholesale and retail outlets now rather than by telephone soliciting. There have been several imposters, and people have sold articles supposed to have been made by the blind that were not. The blue and gold triangle label is protection that buyers are getting goods actually made by the blind.

The "talking book" was evolved so that many blind people would be able to enjoy reading. The motor of the machine is geared slowly, and each record affords about one half hour's entertainment. The books are available are many and varied and should suit the tastes of all. Catalogues are available and the blind person can choose which books he wishes to read and then they are mailed post free for his pleasure.

Mr. Timmins demonstrated the Dictiphone talking book machine purchased by the Soroptimist Club to be placed in the County Home for the use of the blind people there.

Miss Leona K. Riggs expressed the appreciation of the club members to Mr. Timmins for his educational talk.

The winner of the "Name the Baby" contest was Mrs. Lazietta Stirland.

Several of the club members availed themselves of the privileges of attending the lecture on "The Influence of Indian Folk Lore" by the distinguished Canadian poet, Wallace Havelock Robb, who was speaking to the members of the Arts and Crafts Club at the Corby Public Library. Mr. Robb's new book, Thunder-dealing with Mohawk legends of extraordinary historical value was introduced. A short question period followed, and many renewed their acquaintance with Mr. Robb.

Palominos, Pintos, Band, Majorettes Accompany Team

Calgary, Nov. 22 — (CP)—A dozen palominos and pintos, a five-piece old-time band, five majorettes, a chuckwagon and horses, a 100 - foot miniature train — all were aboard the special train leaving here tonight for Toronto and the Dominion football final Nov. 28.

"Swing your partner" will echo from the train on its 2,000 - mile journey. Square-dancers have a romping room set aside in which to get in their last practice licks in preparation for their world-west parade through Toronto streets.

Harry Freeman, chairman of the special train committee, said Sunday night that 318 persons will be going on the Stampeder Special this year—120 more than last year. All told, he said, there will be about 1,200 Calgarians rooting for Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup final against Montreal Alouettes. Many football fans were going on other trains and by special plane.

Also aboard the special train will be a hand-tooled saddle, a gift from the City of Calgary to Mayor Hiram (Buck) McCallum of Toronto, and a genuine Blackfoot Indian tepee. The tepee will be set up by two Blackfoot chiefs at the front of Toronto city hall.

Recommendations Made in Report Of Ship Disaster

Ottawa, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Passenger-carrying lake steamships should be equipped with fire-resisting bulkheads, automatic fire alarm systems, sprinkler facilities and public address systems for directing passengers in emergency.

These recommendations are contained in the report of Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock on the Noronic fire of Sept. 17. The royal commission report was tabled Monday in the Commons.

Mr. Justice Kellock emphasized the need for a comprehensive organization for fire-fighting and evacuation of such ships.

Any automatic fire alarm and fire detection system should cover the whole ship.

Ships docking with the intention of staying for any length of time should be required to connect with the local telephone system.

The need for proper means of quick evacuation was stressed in the report.

In tabling the report, Acting Transport Minister Howe said:

"The recommendations made by the court will be carefully considered by the department (of transport), and I sincerely hope that this investigation which has been so ably carried out will be the means of preventing disasters of this kind in future."

18 Are Killed In Nigeria Coal Mine Disorders

Lagis, Nigeria, Nov. 22 (AP) — Eighteen persons were killed and 31 injured in coal mine strike disorders near here Friday.

A government press release today said strikers, using crowbars and shining knives, clashed with police at the Iva Valley mines and the police opened fire.

The miners are striking for higher wages. The police were removing explosives from the mine at the time of the clash.

Hunter Accidentally Fatally Wounded During Deer Hunt

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 23 — (CP) — The first local hunting fatality of the 1949 season occurred Sunday when James Binning, 31-year old veteran of the Second World War, was fatally injured by his brother George in the Goulais River district, 30 miles northeast of here.

The two brothers, accompanied by Frank Hallam, had become separated during the hunt. Noticing a movement in a clump of woods, George fired. The green jacketed James fell to the ground and died almost instantly.

Dr. C. R. Eald, coroner and Provincial Constable John Conley investigated. An inquest will be held.

Panama Revolt Brings Change In Presidency

Panama, Nov. 13—(AP)—This little strip of the Panama Canal, changed presidents during the weekend in the bloodless revolt staged by police-force leaders.

President Daniel Chanis, surgeon-politician who had been president less than four months, resigned after barricaded police surrounded his palace. Vice-president Roberto F. Chiari, 64, was sworn in as president Sunday.

Emerging as the new "strong man" of Panama's turbulent politics was police chief Col. Jose Remon, 41.

Chanis was swept out of office because he tried to fire Remon and two of his top aides in the 2,000-woman police department that is Panama's only armed force. Chanis said he demanded the resignation, and three police leaders because they held interests in two monopolies outlawed in the supreme court—beef slaughtering houses and commercial bus companies.

By 4:30 A.M. Sunday — before most of Panama's 700,000 inhabitants knew what was happening—Chanis had bowed to the police chief's ultimatum and resigned to avert bloodshed.

Pilot Perishes In Blazing Plane

Coldwater, Mich., Nov. 22—(CP)— State and Brant County police Mon. were piecing together some bits of information in their attempt to identify a pilot whose flaming aircraft crashed and burned beyond recognition near here Sunday. First clues suggested he may be a Canadian.

Witnesses said the plane plunged from beneath a heavy cloud bank about 4 p.m., E.S.T., and crashed on the farm of Arthur Moore, northwest of here. Coldwater is about 100 miles west of Detroit.

Prosecutor Harold Bristol said a small piece of paper bearing the single word "Canada" was found on the charred body of the pilot but that it looked like part of an immigration document.

Only other identity found on either the plane or the pilot's body was an engraving on the back of a watch. It read the words "token of love and affection".

The aircraft was a three-seater single engine plane.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET

London, Ont., Nov. 22 — (CP) — Mrs. Frank Thompson, 70, of East Side Queens Ave dropped dead on the street Sunday night as she was walking home from the home of her son, William John Thompson on York Street. Her son was with her at the time. She was predeceased 10 years ago by her husband.

Centuries-Old Book Relates Canada's Early Wealth in Forests, Animals

Written For The Canadian Press
BY PERCY GHENT

"Near Lake St. Francis, which is about 14 or 15 leagues above Montreal there is one of the finest groves of oak in the world, as well for the beauty of the trees in it as for its extent. It is more than 20 leagues long, and no one knows how wide."

While a league is a varying measure of distance it is rarely reckoned at less than three miles. Hence, an oak forest more than 60 miles long, and wide beyond the limits of exploration—and only a few miles from Montreal at that—is something to thrill the hearts of all naturalists and tree lovers. What vistas of stately beauty of abundant wild life within its immense reach come to mind at the mere thought of it.

But there's a catch in the story unfortunately. That description of the miles of oak trees was written by Pierre Boucher, a soldier-naturalist of France who was in Canada in Champlain's day. A fascinating book of this telling of the wonders of natural history in New France was published in 1663.

He describes the amazing stretches of pine forest, of oak, elm and of aspens, the latter serving as food for the beavers. And he grows eloquent when telling of the bountiful wild plants, gooseberries and red currants, blueberries and blackberries, and especially the raspberries and strawberries, which, he says, "grow in incredible abundance."

Of the animals mentioned by Pierre Boucher, the mighty moose heads the list. Wild cows are mentioned ("Vaches sauvages") which must have been the wapiti or elk, which were then found in herds west and south of Three Rivers. Then are the wolverines "Enfant du Diable," and modern hunters will agree with him. Foxes, wild cats, porcupines, wolves, and a long list of other animals are mentioned, most of them as being plentiful.

His pictures of the Canadian scene before the slaughter of the forests started, is one of nature at a high level of benevolence, and is an inspiration to naturalists who are also conservationists, to press forward in their aim to restore some, at least, of the glory of those early days.

While not the first naturalist to write about Canada, Pierre Boucher was one of the best of the early ones. He settled in Canada and was rather literally one of the fathers of the country. He had 16 children.

A Canadian amateur naturalist who saw the life-size models of dinosaure and other pre-historic creatures in the Natural History Park, Calgary, and later examined the collection of skeletons of the monster from the Red Deer River Valley, Alberta, housed in the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, is reported his impressions in a limerick:

A figure grotesque and absurd
Is a Dinasaur, disinterred.
But the Old-Stick-in-the-Mud
Tells of Time in the Buff.
And the queer events that occurred.

Fail to Revive Child Suffocated In Bassinet

Picton, Nov. 22 (CP)—Firemen vainly tried to revive two-months-old Patrick William Flue, found suffocated in blankets of a bassinet in the back seat of the family automobile Sunday. The parents found the baby dead after a short trip to visit friends.

CARMEL

Carmel—Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Homan returned home on Friday after a motor trip to Magog, Quebec and Cape Cod, Mass.

The Mission Band and Associate Helpers sponsored a social evening at the home of Mrs Milton Ross on Friday evening. Following a delightful program the fish pond became the centre of attraction for the children; two ladies sold candy and popcorn, and the evening finished up with the usual social hour enjoying the delicious cakes, coffee and sandwiches.

Miss Keitha Phillips, Semans, Sask., was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brintnell and Ruth. Mr. Harold Phillips of Toronto, was also a weekend guest at the same home.

Miss Helen Griffith, Albert College, Belleville, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sills and Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Eggleton were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sills.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sullivan Days and Lyle, left for Toronto on Friday to view the Santa Claus parade.

More Automatic Transmissions To Come in Cars

Detroit, Nov. 21 — (AP) — Most automobile makers will have automatic transmissions next year but they may have to build fewer models without them.

That may sound a bit contradictory. However, it is a distinct probability, some car retailers say they could sell more cars if they did not have to handle so many deluxe models. They say the so-called optional equipment hasn't always been so optional with the buyers as it might be.

Perhaps this is another way of saying the buying of automobiles is getting down to earth once again. Certainly the car buyers no longer are accepting what they can get; they are demanding — and getting — exactly what they want in color and equipment.

As long as car demand exceeded the supply there wasn't much objection to extra equipment. But over-all demand no longer exceeds the supply and price tags are becoming more important.

Of course, there has been an increased demand for automatic transmissions. The car makers and the retailers report that once a motorist has driven a car equipped with the device he is reluctant to go back to the standard transmissions.

"There are many would-be car buyers who feel they can't afford the luxury of an automatic transmission. There are as many others who still insist they would gladly pay a bit of manual gear shifting for what an automatic transmission costs."

Church Advised To Stay Out Of Politics

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
(Associated Press Analyst)

Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's austere Chancellor of the Exchequer, advises the Church of England to stay out of politics.

Such a pronouncement by a cabinet minister would in all events be of great importance, but it takes on peculiar significance as coming from Sir Stafford. The Chancellor is widely known as a Christian who puts his beliefs into practice seven days a week. He is credited with applying his religion to his socialist politics as well as to his personal life. Even his political opponents agree on that.

Not only the Chancellor but the Labor party has been greatly worried lately over speeches by prelates of the Church of England. The political leaders are wondering what part churchmen may play in the next general election which will determine whether the experiment in socialism is to continue.

For example, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, who is head of the Church of England, recently referred to the coming election as a "gathering shadow." He told the Synod of the Convocation of Canterbury that there was "need for United effort to overcome our economic plight." Other prelates have expressed concern over economic conditions.

Some political observers have expressed belief that the church leaders may be attempting to bring about a coalition government. The Socialists have thumbs down on that.

State Church in Britain

In considering the position of the Church of England it must be noted that it is the established church, that is, a state church. Those members of the House of Lords in Parliament who are known as the "Lords Spiritual" are Bishops and Archbishops of the Church of England. The King himself is "defender of the faith."

It therefore is easy to see why there is a difference of opinion in Britain as to how far the church should become involved in political matters. It is doubly clear when one recalls that the clergy of the Church of England, broadly speaking, Conservatives and therefore are not in harmony with socialism.

This statement isn't altered by the fact that occasionally one encounters a "Red Dean" like Hewlett Johnson of Canterbury Cathedral, who is known as the "red dean" because of his extreme left views and his great friendship for Soviet Russia, is one. The good dean visited Canada and the United States a year ago and reproved us for our aversion to communism. Later the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr.

FLYING DOCTOR SAVES UNCONSCIOUS PILOT

Rock-lined Big Trout Lake, near Brachridge, Ont., took the life of Ernest Windover, of Minden, when a light plane crashed on a take-off. "Flying Doctor" W. R. Woodrow of Orillia, Ont., hundred nearby, heard the engine suddenly stop on the take-off, and put his own plane in the air. He rescued the pilot, Sam Howe, but by this time Windover had drowned. — Central Press Canadian.

Geoffrey Fisher, who is head of the Church of England, sharply disowned the sentiments expressed by the dean in Canada and the United States.

Those who oppose the Church of England taking active part in politics do say that the clergy are qualified to pass judgment on events from the spiritual and moral standpoints and should be allowed to speak in Pew fields. As the public conscience, assert the opponents, they are all right.

The average Briton himself finds it difficult to draw a line where he thinks the clergy should stop. It would have been interesting if Sir Stafford Cripps had been more specific in his admonition.

COTTON PICKER JAILED FOR RAPE-KILLING OF BABY

Taken From Car While Parents Away

Fresno, Calif., Nov. 22. (AP)—Paul Guitierrez, an illiterate cotton picker, was held under strong guard today booked on a charge of murder in the vicious rape-killing of a 17-month old baby girl.

Police said Guitierrez gave them a statement admitting that he took the baby, Josephine Yanez, from her parents' automobile Sunday night and spanked her. But he contended that everything after that was "blank," until he woke up at his cabin later in the day.

Guitierrez was arrested Monday, picking cotton in a field 6 miles west of Huron. It was near Huron, 40 miles southwest of Fresno, that the baby was taken from her parents' car, violated and thrown face down in a furrow in a field, her head shoved into the mud.

The parents, ranch worker Joe Yanez, 39, and his wife Teya, 22, had gone to a Saturday night dance to pick up Mrs. Yanez' sister. When Josephine began to cry, Yanez left the dance to get his wife. When they returned, Josephine was gone.

Baby Found Near Hall

Searchers found her body Sunday night, a few hundred yards from the dance hall. The child had been stripped naked, except for her bonnet and one shoe. There were tooth marks on her body. She had been beaten. Her liver was lacerated, indicating she had been squeezed violently, officers said.

Deputy Sheriff Huber Nevins said Guitierrez probably would be arraigned Wednesday on a formal charge of murder.

A man picked up earlier for questioning was released.

The officers said that Guitierrez told in his statement:

He had been drinking Saturday night, then went to see a mulusana cigaret before going to the Huron dance. No one would dance with him, because of his condition, so he left the hall.

As he was leaving he heard the little girl crying. He opened the car door, picked her up and spanked her. Her crying continued, perhaps for 10 minutes.

He said he doesn't remember exactly what happened after that," said Nevins.

Pelicans, Gulls Gobble Sardines While Crew Away

San Monica, Calif., Nov. 22 —(AP)—A flock of pelicans and sea gulls Monday gobbled up a whole deckload of sardines from a fishing boat here while the crew was ashore the crew were ashore.

The boat had tied up for refueling.

Hundreds of hungry pelicans and gulls swooped down and gorged themselves until many were unable to fly. Some finally waddled around the harbor, listing blearily.

Fishermen on the pier said several hundred pounds of sardines must have been consumed.

Two Injured As Slag Pot Explodes Near Cab

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 22 (CP) — Two Algoma Steel Corporation railwymen, engineer Orland Bolleau, 53, and fireman William Lee, 40, were injured reported in serious condition, in general hospital today, as a result of an explosion which occurred Monday night when a slag pot exploded beside their cab engine.

The yard engine Bolleau was piloting was about to enter an open hearth when it passed the standing slag pot. The cab of the engine received the full blast of the explosion. Both railwaymen were lifted from their engine and rushed to hospital.

Hospital authorities said today that the two men were "severely burned."

There has been no explanation for the explosion.

Car Damaged By Deer, Hunters Get Carcass

Toronto, Nov. 22 — (CP) — A young deer injured by an automobile was killed by a party of hunters near Burleigh Falls, 80 miles east of here.

Then the hunters and the motorist, Warren Sherk of Niagara Falls, N.Y., argued over ownership of the carcass. The hunters won, because they had hunting licences. Sherk was left to pay for an estimated $200 worth of damage to his car.

Demers Sentenced To 15 Years On Manslaughter

Sherbrooke, Que., Nov. 22 — (CP)—Tony Demers, one-time hockey star, today was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Sept. 18 death of his girl friend.

The 30-year-old man voted most gentlemanly player in the Quebec Senior Hockey League two years ago, got but an eye at Mr. Justice Cesaire Gervais pronounced sentence.

A King's Bench Court jury which tried the star of last year's Sherbrooke hockey team rejected a charge of murder in favor of the lesser count of manslaughter.

Demers' woman friend, Mrs. Anita Robert of Coaticook, Que., died in a Magog, Que., hospital Sept. 18 after a drinking party which began with Demers the previous day.

She was taken to hospital by Demers and the crown contended Demers beat her because of jealousy and because she called him a vile name as they drove through the night in his automobile. Demers claimed the woman was hurt when she jumped from the car.

Demers' trial lasted five days and daily attracted crowds to the Sherbrooke courthouse.

Mrs. Robert's husband is dead in a Sandy Alley, Ont., hotel.

As End to Career

Mr. Justice Gervais, sentencing Demers, said:

"You owe an immense debt to society and to the sentence which I am about to pronounce will put an end to your brilliant career as an international athlete.

"It is a pity that the strength which you displayed so proudly should have been used brutally and savagely against a feeble and intoxicated woman, which you had subjected to your passions and desires that not even the tearful pleading of her mother could keep her from going out with you.

"You drank a great deal on that day, knowing that liquor would make you quarrelsome and as a result you killed her. You plunged this woman into eternity without any preparation. During your sojourn in penitentiary I hope you will think of the fate of Anita Robert and that you will repent."

Judge Gervais said that in view of the fact that defence counsel as well as the jurors had asked for clemency, he would not impose the 25-year sentence he had in mind but would reduce it to 15 years.

Britain Ready and Able to Co-operate To Build W. Europe Economy—Cripps

London, Nov. 22. (CP)— Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, said in a broadcast to Europe Sunday night that Britain is "ready and able" to co-operate with other Western European countries in tackling economic problems and to build up an expanding economy in Western Europe.

"There is certainly nothing in Britain's position in the sterling area to prevent us playing a full part in the economic integration of Western Europe," he said.

"This is the fundamental objective of all of us: A wide market, large enough for economies and full employment for our peoples.

Reviewing the work of the organization for European economic co-operation, Sir Stafford said three "important progressive steps."

First, the fact that its 18 members were developing a European approach to economic problems was a "very great achievement."

Second the inter-European payments plan, put forward by Britain "would be adapted and developed in the circumstances of the coming year."

Third, what had been termed "the liberalization of European trade," which was also a British proposal "with the object of freeing Europe's trade by cancelling quantitative restrictions on many imports.

By Dec. 15, Sir Stafford said, at least 50 per cent of all private account trade between O.E.E.C. countries would be freed from import licensing restrictions, except where balance of payments difficulties make this impossible.

"We have already done our part, and we look forward to the wider markets we shall enjoy when others do the same.

"I think you will agree it was a pretty good record for two years international work and that Britain can be proud of the part she has played in it."

DOWNED U.S. FLIERS RESCUED IN MOUNTAINOUS SEAS

H.M.C.S. Haida faced to the rescue of U.S. airmen adrift in a canvas boat following the crash of a B-29 bomber near Bermuda. The destroyer's crew manned a lifeboat and picked up 10 airmen in seas as high they broke over the decks of H.M.C.S. Magnificent, 60 feet above the waterline—Central Press Canadian.

Call to Restore Virtues of Family Stability, Peace

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)— A call to the world for restoration of "the virtues and practices guaranteeing family stability and peace" went out Monday from the Roman Catholic Hierarchy of the United States.

In a joint statement, more than 150 bishops, archbishops and cardinals said the stability of family life is threatened by "countless acts and agencies" and faces "a present danger more fearsome than the atom bomb."

The statement was issued at the close of the annual meeting here of the Catholic Board of Bishops, whose membership includes the four United States cardinals.

Worldly practices which are needed to disrupt home life, the bishops said, includes widespread prevalency of divorce and multiple marriage, planned parenthood "by use of unnatural and morally degrading means," and inadequate legislation for "suitable housing, decent material facilities, security in income and prospects."

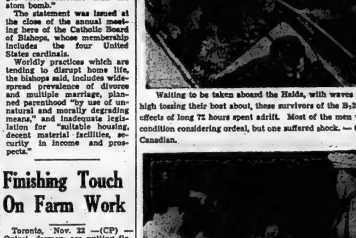
Finishing Touch On Farm Work

Toronto, Nov. 22 —(CP) Ontario farmers are putting finishing touches on their preparations for winter.

The Ontario Agriculture Department's weekly report said today that, with the arrival of cold weather, cattle are being moved from pasture to stable. Fall plowing has been completed almost everywhere.

In the Cochrane district the ground is frozen hard and snow is expected shortly. Here, south, in Nipissing district, land clearing and removal of stone piles and unnecessary fence rows has been carried on this fall with bulldozers.

Waiting to be taken aboard the Haida, with waves 50 to 60 feet high tossing their boat about, these survivors of the B-29 crash show effects of long 72 hours spent adrift. Most of the men were in good condition considering ordeal, but one suffered shock. — Central Press Canadian.



Sergeant Ralph E. Hawes (center) of Ashville, N.C., is congratulate . by Colonel Jack Merrill, commandant, Kindley air force base, after the B-17 from which he was the first to spot survivors of a B-29 which crashed into the Atlantic off Bermuda Wednesday, landed at Hamilton, Bermuda. A gunner aboard the U. S. air force search plane piloted by Lt. Edward Lynch of New Haven, Conn., his dramatic shout "two rafts at nine o'clock," sent the Canadian destroyer Haida to the rescue of eighteen of 20 airmen who survived 72 hours of exposure and battering by big waves. The other two men aboard the B-29 were reported to have gone down with the plane.—Central Press Canadian.

Clipper Slices 13 Minutes Off Record

London, Nov. 22 —(AP)—The Pan American Airways clipper flying 100 mph 13 minutes off from the New York-London commercial flying record this morning.

Carrying 24 passengers, the plane landed at London Airport, eight hours and 35 minutes after leaving the Idlewild Airport, New York.

The plane averaged 449 miles an hour. There was a tail wind of 140 miles an hour.

The previous record time, also established by Pan American Clipper, was nine hours, eight minutes.

Barney the Horse Can Tell Time By His Stomach

Dundalk, Ont., Nov. 22—(CP) —Barney the horse can tell the time—with his stomach. Every mealtime he lets out a whinny and makes for Norman Byers' barn here, 20 miles northwest of Orangeville. Farmer Byers says Barney's mother had the same faculty. Only the advent of daylight saving time stumped the system. But Barney's stomach is back on standard time now.

SMALL COUNTRIES STATE DISTASTE FOR COLD WAR

All but Yugoslavia Vote With Big Powers

Lake Success, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Small countries in the United Nations today are expressing louder than ever before their distaste of the cold war.

All but Yugoslavia continue to vote almost without exception with the big western powers when it comes to an east-west showdown in the U.N. assembly.

The representative of Premier Tito alone gives voice to the idea of a "plague on both your houses" and supports Russian and western resolutions on various issues.

Another showdown vote is slated to be taken early this week in the 60-member political committee. Already the majority have expressed support of the 12-point Anglo-French peace solution outlining the essentials for permanent peace.

And they have rejected the Soviet resolution which call for a peace pact among the big five powers. The most constant themes in major speeches relative to the Russian plan are:

1. That it demands condemnation of Britain and the United States for "preparations for a new war." This is a flagrant and accusation.

2. That it apparently excludes the small powers from the machinery of strengthening peace.

While some of the latter are petitioning support of the Anglo-American plan, most likely they gave no less emphasis to their disapproval of the "sword waving" conducted by Russia and the United States in U.N. conference rooms."

Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines voiced hopes the present session will be known as the "peace assembly" as it nears the mid step in the weekend. Demand that insults be stopped, he called that hope forth such phrases as "satellites of Moscow" and "minions of Wall Street" which have blotted U.N. records.

It is too early to determine whether the pleas to end the verbal part of the cold war in the U.N. will have any permanent effect.

But there are some signs that both east and west deleetries are toning down their attacks

Coroner's Inquest Will be Held In Man's Death

Cornwall, Nov. 22 (CP)— Crown Attorney R. P. Milligan said today an inquest probably will be held into the shooting at Morrisburg last Friday which resulted in the death of Leslie Cramer, 61-year-old Aultgwik Dookkkeeper, and the serious wounding of Arthur Flynn Jr., 17-year-old Morrisburg collegiate student.

Mr. Milligan said the inquest date to be fixed following the recovery of young Flynn, a patient at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Decision to hold the inquest was announced Monday by Mr. Milligan and Inspector Frank Ryan, Ontario Provincial Police Criminal investigating Branch.

Inspector Ryan said today certain papers believed to hold the key to the double shooting still were missing. He doubted the papers would be found.

"It doesn't matter very much if the papers don't turn up," said Inspector Frank. "The jury will be able to satisfy a coroner's jury as to the motive."

The double shooting took place in the rear seat of a taxi cab and followed a heated discussion between Cramer and Arthur Flynn, Sr., prominent Morrisburg lawyer and father of the wounded lad. Cramer turned the gun on himself after the youth had been shot.

STILL UNCONSCIOUS AFTER FALL

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)—Danny Nazwaski, 13, who 10 days ago fell from a tree near his Thorold suburb home, two miles south of Welland, Ont., was still unconscious in hospital today. He suffered concussion and injured in the 30-foot drop Nov. 11, he was operated on Saturday, but results are not known yet.

BOYS AT WHEEL, TRUCK RUNS WILD

Thirteen-year-old driver of this truck, and his 12-year-old companion, both of Sudbury, Ont., had wild ride before it plunged 15 feet into creek. Both suffered broken legs after vehicle hit one car, was hit by a second, then plunged over the bridge. The truck had been reported stolen.—Central Press Canadian.

King's Guineas Presented by Governor-General

Ottawa, Nov. 22—(CP)—Donald Campbell, 14, Monday night led his prize Shorthorn steer in the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show ring to receive the King's guineas from Governor-General Vincount Alexander.

Donald, who comes from Moffat, Ont., won the guineas for showing the best baby beef steer in competition with about 125 other junior Ontario farmers. The guineas were a gift of King Edward VII, who presented a sum of money to the Ontario government when he was Prince of Wales to be used for the improvement of agriculture in the province.

The Governor-General later presented the Governor-General's Cup, won by the Silten Stables of Richmond Hill, Ont., for the best half-bred mare or gelding suitable to become a hunter.

The slow-riding Mexican Army jumping team won the military broad-jump event, their fifth victory in five days, when Capt. Ruben Uriza turned in a perfect performance on Stanley. The Irish team made their best showing of the day by placing second and the Chileans, who usually give the Mexicans a run for the money, third in place. Lieut. Tom Gayford, riding Star Cliff, brought Canada third place money.

Western Canada made a good showing in the best cattle breeding classes. W. A. Crawford of Nanton, Alta., won the Hereford bull grand championship and Wm. Watson of Airdrie, Sask., took reserve position.

An entry of William Harrison of Estevan, Sask., took the grand championship in Shorthorn breeding. Reserve champion went to S. G. Bennett of Georgetown, Ont. Edward Brohier of Watford, Ont., entered the grand champion Aberdeen Angus.

Superstructure Of Vessel Missing

Lunenburg, N. S., Nov. 22 (CP) — With most of the superstructure missing but with all hands safe aboard, the fishing schooner Marilyn Clair was safe in port today, after battling what her captain described as the worst storm he had ever seen.

Capt. Gordon Conrad said the schooner pounded through heavy seas for two days before making land yesterday, sweeping over the schooner's deck buried her bowsprit to the foremast and lopped loose 12 dories, the cable and floating gear.

PUBLICITY PHOTOGRAPHERS ARE STARTLED

Hollywood, Nov. 22 (AP)—"In our country a woman isn't considered a woman until she can attract a man with her clothes alone," Italian actress Marina Berti startled studio publicity photographers with this statement Monday as she obligingly posed for the customary cheesecake art in a silk slip. Miss Berti is here for a major role in the film "Deported."

SIGNS OF RETURN OF NAZISM IN GERMANY SEEN

Allied Occupation Officials Concerned

Berlin, Nov. 22. (AP)— Is the old spirit of German nationalism on the march again?

Western Allied officials in Berlin have been piling up a file of evidence that points that way.

All four occupation powers — British, France, Russia and the United States—appear to be sensitive to the rebirth of the old Bismarck creed of "Germany for the Germans."

Recent examples of this are:

In London, Member of Parliament Frank Medlicott said "signs of the return of Nazism in Germany are increasing."

In Washington, Yelowa Taylor, Chief U. S. War Crimes counsel asserted the Germans are trying to "soft pedal" the war crimes trials behind a riding nationalism.

Ottawa Field Marshal Earl Wavell forecast that Germany would eventually become a greater problem for the west than the Soviet Union. He called the Germans the "most dangerous people in Europe."

Russians, flirting with ex-nazis to win political strength run into old German stubbornness only to find that they gave civil rights back to former nazis then ordered the ousted puppet government they set up in the Eastern zone to instal communist ideas. Immediately the former nazis banded together within the Communist-domestic party, hashed out against turning private enterprise into so-called people's owned industries.

Matter Of Debate

How much of the growing German spirit of independence is "nationalism" and how much is pure nazi is a matter of debate. However, almost any major nazi who has escaped trial for war crimes upto now can face most German courts without too much fear, unless he is personally linked with an individual war crime.

Last week the German men invaded a Jewish synagogue near Darmstadt and toppled the American flag off the wall.

Two days last night a group called itself "Friends of Otto Strasser" tried to hold a political rally in Dusseldorf on the Rhine. The British occupation authorities forbade the meeting. Strasser was one of the seven men with Hitler who founded the nazi party. He has been a refugee in Canada since he broke with Hitler but has tried repeatedly to return to Germany.

Fatally Injured As Truck Upsets

Kingston, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Jerome Stewart Murphy, of Wolfe Island, was fatally injured Monday when a light pick-up truck in which he was riding overturned. He was taken to Hotel Dieu hospital where he died about two hours later. Two others injured were Clarence Card, and Frank McHenry.

The accident occurred when the truck failed to make a turn while proceeding south. It has not yet been determined which of the three was driving.

BUYERS BID HIGH

Toronto, Nov. 22—(CP)—Some of Canada's best hogs rolled and burrowed in a sawdust ring today, oblivious of their fate, as bidders bid for their carcasses.

The champion barrow in the Royal Winter Fair market hog competition, Ralph Dinning, Pinkney and Son, Cookeville, Ont., was sold live to Canada Packers, Ltd., for 75 cents a pound.

Reserve champion, owned by Percy Carscadden of Brantford, Ont., was sold to the same company for 45 cents a pound.

SONG AND DANCE MAN WITH VIRUS INFECTION

PROVINCES NEAR

Before reaching the highway legislation, members debated procedure for four hours on a government motion increasing the time allowed for the discussion of bills incorporating two pipe-line companies.

In the highway debate, Mr. Winters tabled correspondence exchanged with the provinces and said replies from most of them indicated "agreement in most principles."

"Some technical details remain to be worked out between the federal and provincial governments, and specific routes remain to be defined by formal agreement," he said.

He tabled an agreement which said that the highway is to be constructed within a period of seven years. Federal contributions would be based on a two-lane road. Any province thought a three-lane or four-lane highway was need, the federal contribution will be "computed by reference to the cost of a two-lane highway."

After the road is completed it will become the responsibility of the province through which it runs, except in cases of national parks. In these areas, the federal government would be responsible, Mr. Speaker Highway.

The federal government, on account of the highway is not that of a super-highway for high-speed traffic from coast to coast, said Mr. Winters.

"It is rather that of a first-class, hard-surfaced road which should follow the shortest practical east-west route, and should run through each of the provinces, consistent with the needs of the provinces and Canada as a whole.

When completed, the inter-provincial, or Canada route of approximately 5,000 miles should assist in the development of trade and natural resources, as well as our tourist industry."

It now is possible to travel the 4,200-odd miles between Halifax and Vancouver by road on Canadian soil, though not in comfort throughout the length of it, he said. Only about 50 per cent of the total mileage is paved, and much of this is low standard.

The trans-Canada highway will be hard-surfaced. Some of the existing highways will be fitted into the national route.

Mr. Drew said that instead of carrying on negotiations by letter, the government should call the provincts together to work out the formula for paying the route. The conference could settle other problems, including the choice of the route.

Construction of one highway would be held back if the conference was not called. The provinces could not assume added responsibility without knowing where to obtain additional revenues.

Might Be Unfair

Mr. Argue said the proposal that the federal and provincial governments split the cost 50-50 would be unfair to some provinces. It would mean a per capita cost to the people of Nova Scotia of $28.70 compared with only $3.50 in Quebec.

Other per capita costs to the provinces varied between these amounts. In British Columbia it would amount to $18.50, Ontario $13 Manitoba $11.20, Saskatchewan was $10.50, Alberta $7.60, and New Brunswick $7.

Mr. Brown said he hoped there would be an early start on construction of a four-lane highway from Windsor, Ont., to the trans-Canada highway.

The road would be important in view of the heavy influx of tourists from the United States through the Detroit-Windsor area.

Mr. Brown emphasized the need for government supervision of tourist facilities along the proposed trans-Canada highway. There should be care taken in selecting persons for loans to aid in establishment of cabins and other facilities along the route.

Turning to the tourist industry generally, Mr. Brown urged Canadians to develop distinctive national dishes. American tourists wanted something different when they came to Canada.

SPIRITED DEBATE

Want Route in Bills

They give this as their reason for opposing the bill in its present form. They want the route of the proposed pipe lines to be contained in the legislation.

Last week Trade Minister Howe said that unless the filibuster ended soon, he would move to have the private-bills hour extended.

His contention was that the filibuster was undemocratic; that it was denying the House the right to express itself by a vote on the matter.

Monday a resolution to extend private-bills discussion Tuesday night from one to three hours was placed before the Commons by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The Commons spent all morning arguing about whether the resolution was in order.

Speaker W. Ross Macdonald ruled, that the motion was in order.

His ruling was appealed, a formal vote was held, and the ruling was upheld 94 to 43 with the Progressive Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit opposed it and the Liberals supporting it.

That cleared the way for discussion of the original resolution and after another two hours the House voted 106 to 43 to extend the time for the private bills.

Drew Makes Insinuation

George Drew, Progresive Conservative leader, implied that the government had special interest in the pipe-line bills.

The bills are to incorporate companies known as Prairie Transmission Lines and Alberta Natural Gas.

He said he didn't like the precedent that was being set by the resolution. If the government could introduce a motion to lengthen the time for debate on a given subject, it could also introduce a motion shortening time for debate. Standing rules of the Commons then would become meaningless.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a rather heated reply, took sharp issue with some statements made by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre).

Mr. Diefenbaker had referred to the government's big majority and had stated that Trade Minister Howe frequently circumvented Parliament.

Mr. St. Laurent said that if the government had an overwhelming majority it was because it had the overwhelming support of the Canadian people. During the last Federal election campaign he had never failed to mention in his cross-Canada tour the service Mr. Howe was giving the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had not explained why it was so anxious to push through the pipe-line bills sponsored by private members.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government had no special interest in these bills or any other bills. It simply wanted the House to have an opportunity of voting on the measures. It was, in fact, expending the time for discussing the measures.

Four Drama Board Awards Are Made

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 22. (CP)—The Canadian Drama Board awards for 1949 go to Robertson Davies of Peterborough, Ont., Ralph Hicklin of Fredericton N.B. Mrs. Eliza Houde of Norwood, Man., and Maj. M. V. McGuire of Vernon B.C.

The awards made annually for outstanding contributions to Canadian drama, were announced Saturday by Sir Robert Holland of Victoria, chairman of the board.

Citations accompanying the awards said Mr. Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, is making a contribution to Canadian drama that would be difficult to equal and impossible to better.

His influence has extended beyond the boundaries of Canada he has demonstrated that wherever he is personally active, drama flourishes."

The other winners were also praised for their contributions, both as actors and producers, Mr. Hicklin, a native of Chatham, Ontario, for "the prominent part he has played in amateur drama in New Brunswick."

Safecrackers Foiled in Two Attempts

Toronto, Nov. 22. (CP)— Safecrackers in Toronto and nearby Brampton were foiled in two attempts Sunday to crack strongboxes. A west end heavy safe was blown but the noise apparently frightened the burglars who departed in a hurry, leaving some of their clothing.

"They didn't even wait to see if there was any money in the safe," police said. They missed several hundred dollars.

In Brampton, about 25 miles distant, a patrolling policeman noticed a light burning in a store. Entering, he saw the safe all ready to be forced open. A window had been forced and cigarets and some silver taken from the store.

WHITE'S DISTRICT Friends Honor Mr., Mrs. G. Jones With Many Gifts

White's District—A happy social get together took place on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones to honor their son, Garnet, and his bride, Bernice, who were recently married and were making their home here.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum, pastor of White's Church, welcomed Bernice to the community and called upon Mrs. George Billham to read the address of welcome on behalf of the young people, the members of White's Church and their associations.

The young couple who had been called to seats of honor, opened the many gifts of china, glass, linens, tablecloths, pictures and groceries, and amid merry wise-cracking, thanked all for their lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Total Visitors To Province 21,000,000

Toronto, Nov. 23 — (CP) — More United States automobiles entered through Ontario border points during the first 10 months of 1949 than during the whole of 1948, the first annual convention of the Tourist Courts Association was told Monday night.

Deputy Minister Tom C. McCall of Ontario Travel and Publicity Department estimated total visitors to the province for the year will reach 21,000,000. This figure will mark Ontario's fourth consecutive record-breaking tourist year, he said.

He said fully 60 per cent of visitors are repeaters — "People who have liked what they saw here and are returning for another visit."

He attributed the tourist boom to the co-operation existing at all levels of industry, provincial and federal government departments, and "energetic regional tourist organizations."

ACCEPT MASTER PLAN

Toronto, Nov. 22 — (CP) — City Council Monday night by a vote of 14 to 5 adopted the city's "master plan" for future development, an ambitious plan extending over a period of 30 years and estimated to involve expenditures of $179,000,000.

The plan includes development of the islands across Toronto harbor in Lake Ontario by construction of a tunnel and roadway around the lakeshore of the islands, at present reached only by ferry.

Four Remanded On Murder Count At Lindsay

Lindsay, Nov. 23 (CP)—Charged with murder in the stabbing of 37-year-old Jack Loucks, four men, three of them Indians, today were remanded until Friday. Police said Loucks was slain, apparently without motive, in a street fight.

Charged are Paul Zabodnik, 38, and James, 33 both of Hamilton; John Zabodnik, 30, of Toronto, and William Tower, 23, of Hamilton. They also face charges of wounding, assault and attempted robbery.

The charges followed the death early Friday in a melee on the main street here, when Loucks, father of three, was slain and three bystanders wounded.

Citizens quickly rallied to help the widow and her fatherless family. Already a fund to aid them has reached $700.

The four men charged allegedly left a 100-mile circle of violence Thursday night, beating up a refreshment stand operator, and his wife for serving coffee quickly enough before reaching Lindsay.

FORMER M.P. DIES

Ottawa, Nov. 22. (CP)— Funeral services will be held tomorrow for John Wilfred Kennedy, 70, former Progressive Member of Parliament for Glengarry and Stormont. He died Saturday.

Born at Apple Hill, Ont., Mr. Kennedy was a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. He was first elected to Parliament in 1918 where he remained until 1923.

Besides his widow, the former Helen Lindsay of Lindsay, Ont., Mr. Kennedy is survived by two daughters.

Say Brothers Blasted Father With Gun, Rifle

Media, Pa., Nov. 22. (AP) — Police and two brothers are being questioned today in fatal shooting of their father — blasted Sunday by simultaneous charges from a shotgun and deer rifle.

Fred Jack, thief of Delaware County detectives, said Benjamin P. D'Amore, 58, owner of a nursery in nearby Marple township was shot to death as he got out of an automobile to unlock a garage door.

Jack said D'Amore's two sons—Nicholas, 24, and John, 22, both of Philadelphia—met police at the door with the joint statement: "We shot our father."

No formal charge has been placed against the brothers pending further investigation, Jack said.

The two told him, Jack said, they shot their father because he had beaten their partially-crippled mother, Mrs. Constance D'Amore, 56.

Monty Arrives In United States To Talk Defence

Washington, Nov. 22—(AP)—Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein arrives in the United States today for an unofficial but highly-important round of meetings with the top-ranking military men of the United States.

On the record, the famous British warrior with the black beret comes to the United States as the guest speaker Nov. 29 before the English-speaking union in New York.

But during his 12-day trip he will visit with Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, his boss in the second world war; Gen. Omar N. Bradley; chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Joseph L. Collins, army chief of staff, and other military and diplomatic leaders.

Monty already has announced he will "talk defence with anyone who will listen." There is no doubt the military men will be ready to listen. Montgomery now is chairman of the Western Union Defence Alliance. He has been working for the past year on Europe's defences.

These plans for Britain, Belgium, France, Holland and Luxembourg will form the hard core of the basic defence plans for the North Atlantic defence for which the United States Congress had voted $1,000,000,000.

And it is on these plans the western allies will gamble in their fight to hold Europe against any attack from Russia and her satellites.

Many military men believe the Western Union couldn't have chosen a better man for the job than the spartan, precise Montgomery. His campaign in the last war were studied by military officials—and by France's first as commander of the famed British eighth army and later as commander of the 15th army group under Eisenhower. In all of them, Monty never had his defences broken by the Germans.

Princess Elizabeth Spends Anniversary With Husband in Malta

Valletta, Malta, Nov. 22 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth got here in time Sunday to spend at least part of her second wedding anniversary with her sailor husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. She had planned to arrive Saturday night, but fog delayed her departure from London for Malta. The Princess expects to rejoin her husband son, Prince Charles, in London before Christmas.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

WHITE'S W. A. BAYSIDE

Mrs. Albert Jones and Mrs. W. Westfall were hostesses for a dessert and card party on Thursday last with a good attendance of members and five visitors. Proceeds amounted to $2.40.

The president, Mrs. Glen Meyers opened the meeting. The devotional was taken by Mrs. C. Ketchabaw who read the Scripture and gave the story of the lesson.

The minutes of October meeting were read and adopted and the roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture.

It was decided that the caretaker be paid every two months.

It was also decided that there should be an exchange of gifts at the Christmas meeting.

The hostesses were thanked for preparing such a delicious dinner, the proceeds to be devoted to their talent money.

Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Ritchie Ketchabaw and Mrs. Leonard Young were chosen for the nominating committee.

Egg Market Subsidy Plan Is Reported

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)—Officials of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said Monday a subsidy plan for Canada's egg market is being planned by the Federal Government.

The plan would cushion the effect of the recently announced decision of the British government to purchase her eggs from Denmark in future.

Kingsley Brown, editor of the United Co-operator, the O.F.A.'s official publication, said: "Without such a subsidy plan the egg market is pretty well shot.

"There are indications that a floor price on eggs will be established, taking the load off farmers and sharing it over the whole population. This is under discussion now."

The effect of whittled food purchases from Canada has already created difficulties for Ontario farmers, Federation officials continued.

"I've tried them all ..and NUCOA is the winner with me"

says Mrs. G. S. Hull of Toronto *

"The big reason I like Nucoa best of all is that every pound has the same fresh, sweet flavor—so delicate and mild. Nucoa is always delicious on bread, toast or hot vegetables. I always buy Nucoa because I know I can depend on Nucoa quality—every time."

Yes, Nucoa quality is always reliable—every pound of made-in-Canada Nucoa carries a money-back guarantee. So remember, Nucoa is FIRST for flavor with millions of housewives on this continent—FIRST in sales because many women who have tried all brands say Nucoa is the winner.

When Bobby came in with a temperature, Mrs. Brown went straight to the telephone.

Now, a few hours later, the doctor has been around, prescriptions have been filled . . . and Bobby's temperature is down.

In emergencies, it means a lot to have a telephone in the house. Whether you measure it in terms of quick action, convenience or just plain peace of mind, your telephone is big value.

No wonder more people are using more telephones—and that requests for service are at an all-time high. We should like to be able to provide service for all who want it, when and where they want it. We will continue to do all we can to reach that goal.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

With two defeats and a tie flopping in their hockey wake the Belleville Rockets intend getting out there tonight in Memorial Arena and tacking a defeat on the flying Diesels. The youngsters have not been playing the brand of hockey of which they are capable and if they don't snap out of it pretty soon they'll find themselves the forgotten people where the District League playoffs are concerned. But Diesels aren't the sentimental sort of blokes who go around handing out hockey victories just because a team hasn't crashed the win column. Far from it. The Trainmen under Coach Scotti are just as anxious to win tonight and get up there on even terms with the Northern Electric crew at the top of the league heap as are the Rockets to grab their first win. So better come on over and watch a couple of determined teams battle it out.

* * *

Then there's the Northern Electric crew which tangles with the hard-fighting Flyers. Northern have as yet to meet defeat and Flyers have won their first two starts. The air lads are a fast-skating battling bunch of pucksicks who never quit until the last chirp has filtered from the referee's whistle. Electrics are out to maintain their undefeated streak and this clash too, should be well worth looking over.

* * *

The Hockey News carries an interesting story regarding the length of time athletes are in actual action in various phases of their sports. Hockey, it says, last sixty minutes and is the only sport that provides 60 minutes of action. A big league baseball player is in action an hour and half or two hours sees exactly eleven minutes of sustained action.

* * *

In hockey when the whistle is blown to halt play, the clock stops. Thus, there is sixty minutes of actual play. In baseball, the ball itself is actually in play about eleven minutes while the pitcher gets ready to pitch, the batter gets ready to bat and the fielders get ready to field and so forth.

In football, surveys prove that the ball is in play thirteen minutes of the required one hour. Rest of the time is consumed in the huddle, when players are out of play.

That's one reason that the career of a big league hockey player averages seven years while baseball players hang around to ten or twelve seasons. The play is so fast and rugged that hockey players burn out much faster and make it tougher for city owners in that it's hard to come up with new players to take the place of the ones burned out.

* * *

The O. H. A. did not look with all-out favor on the five-team schedule submitted by Toronto Senior Hockey Council as being favored by the potential Senior B Group in this district. It seems the sagrust body desires Markham, Stouffville and Toronto Meicero to have to travel 'pile somewhere and are making some changes to the set-up as forwarded last Saturday by Buckland, president of the long distance telephone yesterday afternoon. Mr. Buckland informed us that no matter what happened, the Kingston Nylens will certainly open the season at Belleville Memorial Arena day, November 29th against the Belleville Diesel Electrics. That's for sure, Red, M'lad, as to your hornets, man.

* * *

The Aloueties and Calgary meet in Toronto on Saturday for the Dominion Senior Football championship. A number of the boys hereabouts are going to see the game and we would go if had the price. Heckes. But for the stay-at-homes who like football, there's a top-flight picture "Father Was a Fullback" being shown at the Capitol Theatre starting Friday through Tuesday. It is just what the family coach ordered for weekend football fare and lovers of the gridiron game should get a kick out of the story of a misunderstood coach and there's plenty of gridiron action in the film besides a dash of romance. There's plenty of comedy, too, and if you're football hungry and want to see a game in comfort go to the "Cap" and see this show.

* * *

Well, that's that. The Toronto Meteors regarded as one of the outstanding Senior "B" teams thriving in the jungles east of Toronto veil'd, but they did not visi. But in that first period, before the Diesels got their act organized a couple of tons of lead from the south side of their hockey brews, it looked as though the blokes brandishing the starry name might pile up a fairly decent margin of points to take back to the bright lights. It looked that way for a time, for a weakerman after a ten-hour stent over the lathe. They could do nothing right, their skates appeared to weigh a ton and their passes were going everywhere but up Front Street and down to Victoria Park. And young Mr. Pumley kept the Meteor score down to a less pair.

* * *

But the second and third chukkers were different, vastly different. Whether the Doc-Kee coach lighted the gang with some Vitamin "C" or what, it was a different team that skated out for the renewal of hostilities in the second period. They zipped into the surprised Meteors and before "Chubby" Lynn in the Meteor nets could adjust his three girdles three pucks had whistled past him and the Meteor spectators from down east were one up. True it was shortlived, for Meteors raced back to tie up the ledger seconds after the locel laddies had grabbed the lead.

* * *

But "Red" Carson's buckaroos then took over in the third period. Don Barrett was missing with a badly gashed foot, but Junior's absence may have spurred his mates. They roared to the attack. Their passes started to click. They checked and back-checked and skated circles for circles with the classy blueshirt front lines. They fired home three goals to clinch the tilt and should have had as many more. Pumley was hurt but gamely returned after being repaired. He turned in another grand game especially when Meteors were in no top of him.

* * *

Meteors proved th be a fast-skating, hard-checking crew who know how to handle their bodies, legally, that is. They bumped and jolted our bucks and were bumped and jolted in return. They are a well-coached team and their forward passing was a treat to watch. Their attack featuring the long centre ice forward pass clicked until the Doc-Kee's figured out a defence for it. It was good hockey, a trifle on the rugged side but eye-pleasing to the 1,000 fans who saw the pastime.

* * *

Fulcons, fellas, lay off those telephones. We haven't any tickets for the Grey Cup finals and furthermore we can't secure 'em. The only way to get 'em is to be the bloke you know has a pair, of if your Aunt Effie knows anybody on Bay Street, you might be lucky. Or better yet, go pluck a Stampeder or Alouette sailcoat and get into Varsity Stadium disguised as a player.

Diesel-Electrics Overcome Two-Goal Lead to Hand Toronto Meteors 6-3 Loss

Spotting the starry Toronto Meteors two goals in the first period, the Belleville Diesel Electrics struck back savagely in the second and third heats to outhanded the visitors their first defeat of the season by a 6-3 score in an exhibition tilt in Memorial Arena last night.

Upwards of 1,000 fans saw the local Senior "B" entry unable to shake loose their lethargic shackles in the first period when the Meteors, their passing plays clicking rammed home a pair of markers to herald what appeared to be a certain victory for the blue-shirts.

The Doc-Kee's came to life in the second period. They fired home two quick goals in the first three minutes of the play, took the lead at the 16-minute mark only to have Meteors come back and tie the score seconds later.

D.E.'s Take Over

The third period saw the Doc-Kees take over. Halfway through the period they had racked up a trio of markers and missed several more by a goat's whisker. They met the hard-checking Meteors at their own game and won going away. Referees, too, missed a lot of scoring chances but Plumley had to retire ten minutes for repairs and gamely came back, turned aside their aerties.

The game was a hard-checking affair with both sides using the body whenever the chance presented itself and on some occasions, when it didn't. Many penalties were handed out by Referees Ken Mitchell and Bill Holway with each team getting a half-dozen.

Delaat and Parks scored for the visitors in the first period with the Belleville team seemingly unable to get going.

Mulvihill rammed home V. Goyer's pass a minute after play resumed in the second heat and MacDonald took Day's pass two minutes later to tie the score. Leo Goyer fired home a pass from Tim Williams and Schreider to grab the lead for the Doc-Kee's but Sprague of Meteors evened the count a minute later.

Have Margin of Play

Diesel-Electrics had the greater margin of play in the third period. Williams, Mulvihill and V. Goyer fired home three goals by the time nine minutes rolled around and Diesels maintained a consistent attack all through the period. Meteors were on the offensive on several occasions but hard backchecking and a stiffened Diesel defence held them scoreless. Lynn, pudgy goalie for the Meteors played a fine game and turned aside a number of what seemed to be certain Belleville goals.

V. Goyer was the star of the Diesels front lines with Mulvihill Keith MacDonald, Leo Goyer, Clare Williamson, also standing out. In fact the entire local 'B's' played outstanding hockey after the first period. Don Barrett suffered a gash in the foot in the first period and was forced to retire from the game.

Lynn in goal, Parks, Kewley, Sadler and Williams looked the best for the Meteors.

The teams:

Diesel Electrics: Goal Plumley; defence, Williamson, Woodman; centre, V. Goyer; wings, Mulvihill, Wardhaugh; subs, Barrett, Day, MacDonald, L. Goyer, Williams, Moher, Jones, Semark, Basiedo, Hurst, Schrieder, Nolan.

Toronto Meteors: Goal, Lynn; defence, Sadler, Kewley; centre, Velgel; wings, Sberban, Parks; subs, Montgomery, Sprague, Brookes, Fornica, Williams, Delast, Sweeney.

Douglas Continues To Lead Scorers In American Loop

New York, Nov. 22. —(CP)— Veteran Les Douglas of Cleveland Barons had a 10-point week and continued to lead the American Hockey League in scoring.

With six goals and four assists, Douglas set his point total to 32. Runner-up Johnny Chad of Providence Reds had 28. Harvey Franc, also of Providence, was third with 23. Tied for fourth were Jack McGill of Providence and Ab DeMarco of Buffalo Bisons with 24 points.

Douglas also had the most goals with 14. Top playmaker in the league was McGill, with 19 assists.

Joe Lepine of Cincinnati Mohawks had spent 49 minutes in the cooler for his hot temper on the ice, to lead the league in that department.

Rookie goaltender Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh Hornets was the leading netminder with an average of 2.25 on 65 goals allowed in 17 games. Connie Dion of the Bisons had his second shutout at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night. They weighed in at 147 pounds.

Among preliminaries middleweight Billy Egan, Toronto, got the decision over Jerry Ellis, Trenton, in five rounds.

Special Train Bearing Rooters Heading East

Calgary, Nov. 22 —(CP) — A special Calgary delegation to promote another Stampeder Grey Cup victory is en route to Toronto for the Dominion football final Saturday.

There were more ten-gallon hats, high-heeled boots and crimson shirts than you could shake a stick at as they left Monday night.

About 2,000 stay-behinds took in the wild-west show on the station platform. A five-piece oldtime band tried to get the crowd into the mood with rollicking renditions of "Calgary" and "Home on the Range." A quintet even made a'stab at "Alouatte."

The 16-car train is loaded down with 312 cowboys, cowgirls and Indians, a dozen palominos and pintos, a miniature train, a chuckwagon and an Indian teepee. It will arrive in Toronto Thursday morning.

One lone figure who gazed on the human stampede with casual cuffed calm was Chief Ben Calf Robe. The Blackfoot Indian chief will set up a teepee on the steps of Toronto's city hall when he arrives.

The chief was almost as noncommittal as Coach Les Lear of the Stampeders when it came to making a prediction on the outcome of the east-west final against Montreal Alouettes.

"I don't want to go out on a limb" he said, "but I think we will win."

Notre Dame Still Leading College Poll

New York, Nov. 22 —(AP)— California has replaced Oklahoma as the runner-up team behind fleet Notre Dame in the Associated Press weekly football poll.

By thumping Stanford 32-14, to move into the Rose Bowl as the Pacific coast conference champions, California took up the rugged task of chasing Notre Dame.

The fighting Irish from South Bend, Ind., captured 113 of the 181 first-place votes from football writers and sportscasters across the United States.

The "Big Four" of Notre Dame California, Oklahoma and Army still dominate the picture. They run 1-2-3-4 with California edging last Oklahoma.

Ohio State, California's Rose Bowl opponent, was fifth by virtue of a 7-7 tie with Michigan.

Kid Gavilan Wins Decision Over Dauthuille

Montreal, Nov. 22. —(CP)— Dusky Kid Gavilan, the Cuban light puncher, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over France's Laurent Dauthuille here Monday night in a dull fight that drossed $54,610 from 11,333 paying customers.

Dauthuille, an adopted Montreal fighting idol, seemed unable to catch up with the bobbing and weaving Cuban who gave the brawler opponent little chance to work on him.

The Frenchman at 154 1-2 pounds, carried a 3 1-2 pound edge over the Cuban.

The Canadian Press score card gave Gavilan six rounds Dauthuille three and one even.

Throughout the affair was the aggressor as he carried the fight to Dauthuille.

Although the fight produced no knockdowns or caused either fighter with any visible injury, it gave the near-capacity crowd a good display of counter-punching and first class infighting.

The announcement of the decision in favor of Gavilan brought a round of protest from the crowd Dauthuille has been the favorite in all his North American fights.

Toronto, Nov. 22 (CP)— Six of the 13 posts on the Intercollegiate Union's 1949 All-Star football team have gone to the champion University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

The powerful Mustangs fell one short of the number of men they placed on the 1948 dream team.

The squad is selected for The Canadian Press by football coaches and writers in the four union cities. Balloting is weighted to give equal voting strength to the four centres.

McGill University Redmen, who lost 13-0 to the Mustangs in the sudden-death playoff game Saturday, gained two positions along with Toronto Varsity Blues. The Golden Gaels of Queen's University got one. The other berth produced a four-way tie.

The team:

Flying wing — George Valelo, McGill; Halves—Jack Parry, Western; Hall — Bruce Cummings, Queen's; Quarter — Dalton Barlane, Western; Quarter — George Arnott, Western; Snap — George Herring, Western; Inside — Elmer Quintyn, Western; Inside — Don Longmore, Varsity; Pete Salari, Queen's, Moe Macdonald, McGill, Wally Kowel, Western (tied); Middle — Fraser Mustard, Varsity; Middle — Reg Ort, Western; Outside — Ted Logan, Queen's; Outside—Jim Milchenzie, McGill.

None of the players chosen to the mythical squad was given the maximum 16 points. Logan was the closest with 15.

Lindsay Sets Pace in Scoring Race of N.H.L.

Montreal, Nov. 22 (CP)—Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings continues to set the pace for the National Hockey League scorers as he leads the way in first place spot for the second consecutive week.

According to official league statistics released today, the swivel-hipped Lindsay commands the scoring parade with 21 points made up of eight goals and 13 assists. The next two positions on the ladder are also held by Detroiters in second place, two points back of Lindsay, is veteran Sid Abel with six goals and 13 assists while Gordie Howe follows with nine goals and nine assists for a 18 point total.

Chicago's Doug Bentley is fourth with 17 and Paul Ronty of Boston Bruins is in fifth place with Chicago's Roy Conacher. Both have 15 points.

Despite a poor week in the goal scoring department, Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard still leads that exclusive division with 12 goals. Lindsay and Abel with 13 assists are tied for the top spot in that department.

Bill Gadsby of Chicago leads the penalty parade with 33 minutes in 16 games spent in the "cooler."

Montreal's Bill Durnan continues to lead the league's goalers with a 1.50 goals-against average in 16 games. The lanky Montrealer is also tied with Toronto's Turk Broda with three shutouts. Harry Lumley of Detroit has the next best average in the goals-against department with 2.13 in 15 outings.

Detroit Red Wings hold a seven point lead in the pennant race for the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs. Wings have won 11 games, lost two and tied two for a total of 24 points in 13 games. Toronto has 17 points and Canadiens, in third place, have 16. Rangers and Chicago are tied for fourth with 13 and Boston hold down the cellar spot, with 11.

Woody Strode Fine Wrestler In off Season

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

No one can say Calgary Stampeders aren't building up for the future.

In the last two years, since Calgary hit the jackpot in Canadian football, three birth notices have appeared in Calgary newspapers to name members of the Stampeder family were training at Oakville, 20 miles west of Toronto.

Latest to receive the good news is end Jim Seymour, with a 6 3-3 pound baby. He heard about it Monday, one day after Dave Berry, another end, got the news he was the father of a six-pound 13-ounce baby. Berry celebrated by passing out free cigars but it was too much for Seymour. He went to bed with a slight cold.

On the eve of the 1948 final when Stamps won the Grey Cup by beating Ottawa, veteran Paul Rowe got the good news in camp here. It was a boy . . .

Seymour says it's "for sure" this time about Rowe, hard-driving line plunger, heading up his cleats. Rowe announced his retirement after the 1948 final, reasoning that he had been here last week, and today came out flat. He declared: "I've said it before but this time it's for sure."

Woody Strode, the long-flingered end who said that would rate at least a runner-up spot in a "Mr. America" contest, has had 200 heavyweight wrestling bouts in the last year around California. His record: 194 victories, six draws.

Toronto hotels have had the "no rooms" sign up the last three weeks. Know the majority of early reservations for Nov. 25-26? They're from Ottawa. Those Rough Rider fans probably didn't figure on Montreal's Alouettes taking the Eastern football spoils . . .

Normie Kwong, Calgary's 19-year-old back, receiving honorable mention honors in seeding for football in Canada, claims another "only" spot. He doesn't know of another big leaguer who wears contact lenses during a game. He's a youngest member of the Calgary club.

The one-man Calgary ticket agency set up last year in a Toronto hotel room by Jack Gregan, who, incidentally, will succeed Winnipeg's Art Chipman as president of the Western Interprovincial Union next year, has blossomed. The Stamps have a hotel suite with two clerks in attendance to look after expatriated Westerners seeking tickets. They are just about the busiest people in Toronto and the stock reply to persons they don't know is "no tickets."

STUKUS REAPPOINTED

Edmonton, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Annis Stukus Monday night was reappointed coach of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

The former Toronto newspaperman and one-time Toronto Argonaut star coached Eskimos to four victories and third place in the Western Union when Edmonton re-entered the conference this year after a 10-year lapse.

"I am very happy to get another chance to finish the job I started," Stukus said.

NEW WORK AGREEMENT

Cornwall, Nov. 22 (CP)—Leo Teasler, director of the region at Cornwall Textile Joint Board, Monday announced ratification of a new work agreement between Canadian Cottons Limited and members of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CCL-CIO).

The agreement provides for payment of bonuses ranging from 25 to 50 cents to each worker with the amount depending on time of service. Other gains granted workers include two paid statutory holidays and improved company-paid insurance.

Pupils Flunking In Their Studies Pose a Problem

(By the Canadian Press)

What to do about students who play hockey with Quebec Amateur Hockey Association teams and flunk in studies posed a problem today for heads of Montreal's high schools.

The school officials saw a distinct cause-and-effect situation. Representatives of Catholic and Roman Catholic schools have already had one meeting with the Q. A.H.A. and another is planned.

At the first conference, last Saturday, school officials said they favored fostering as wide participation as possible in amateur sports but that 15 high school students who joined amateur hockey teams last year had very low marks in their courses.

The school heads suggested a regulation forbidding a student to play on Q.A.H.A. teams unless he has the consent of his principal. At present only parental consent is necessary.

The Eastern Canada Intermediate playoff between Dundas Blue Bombers and Montreal Donnacona will be played at Montreal Saturday, secretary Norman Gillespie of the Ontario Rugby Football Union announced Monday night. For the first time since 1938, when St. Catharines Tech. defeated Montreal Westward, the Big Four will be officially represented by the Canadian Rugby Union.

Managing director Lew Hayman of the Montreal Alouette football club announced Monday night that 6,000 season ticket subscribers, who had applied for tickets for the Canadian football championship game at Toronto next Saturday, will be limited to two tickets each. The demand is greater than the supply, he said.

It was rumored at Galt Monday that two players in the interprovincial rugby football game have signed professional contracts with St. Louis Cardinals of the National Baseball League. The two players, Vern Kaiser of Galt Terriers and Cooper Marsden of Melora, were reportedly scouted by Peppy Smith, coach of Stratford Nationals in the intercounty loop. Smith is an official scout for the St. Louis organization.

It's undefeated, California's against once-beaten and twice-tied Ohio State in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. The champion Buckeyes of the Big Ten and the clear-cut champion Bears of the Pacific Coast Conference Monday were unanimous choices of their respective leagues to meet in the Pasadena Classic.

Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League, announced Monday that the league will change its referee system, Podoloff said that starting with Wednesday's games only one referee and one linesman will be used instead of the present system of two referees.

Joseph Culmo, 20-year-old Ansonia Club football player, died in a New Haven Conn., hospital Monday from a head injury suffered in a Sandlot game.

Soviet Russia's athletes are embarked on a campaign to break all world records in every branch of sport within the next few years and they are going to achieve it, Pravda, the organ of the Czech Communist Party, declared Monday. The newspaper said this monumental task had been set the Soviet athletes by the Russian Communist Party—"the initiator and organizer of all Soviet victories."

INTERESTED LISTENERS

Calgary Stampeders don't appear greatly impressed by the 40-0 trouncing Montreal Alouettes handed Eastern Tigers in Montreal Sunday in the semi-final championship and the right to meet Calgary for the Grey Cup. Here listening to the game at their Oakville training headquarters, are Dave Berry, outside wing, left, and next to him equipment boy, Harold Geddes. Alouettes Figure To Beat Stamps by Small Score

Montreal, Nov. 22 (CP)— Montreal Alouettes may not be over-optimistic about who is going to capture the Grey Cup Saturday at Toronto but the latest Coach Lew Hayman is willing to concede that maybe the rambling fraternity is "about right" at fixing the odds at 6-5 in Alouettes favor over Calgary Stampeders.

Of course, those are Montreal odds. The situation may be different in Calgary.

But the 40-0 shellacking the Montrealers handed Hamilton Tigers here Sunday in capturing the eastern Canada football championship has enhanced the chances of Alouettes in the eyes of the local followers.

Even the usual gloomy Mr. Hayman went about the sour task of deciding what to do about 6,000 applications for tickets with a grin that appeared to be a good attempt at a smile.

The ticket problem presents something more than a mere coaching problem. It calls for the advice from a good mathematician. The Montreal football club has only 3,000 tickets to spread among 6,000 season ticket holders.

The club has decided to dish out two tickets each to season ticket subscribers who have applied by letter for tickets.

The issue will go through workouts today, tomorrow and Thursday and will leave for Toronto Friday afternoon.

Barring any illness that might befall a player, Alouettes are expected to field a full-strength squad Saturday.

The team is expected to take along to Toronto with it an estimated 3,000 fans who will travel by air, train and automobile.

Montreal, Nov. 22. (CP) —Just how wrong can a guy be?

Plenty wrong says Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll, if you're thinking about Merle Hapes, playing-coach of Hamilton Tigers, who once said: "Stop Filchock and you stop the Alouettes."

That was before the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions took that 40-0 drubbing Sunday from the Big Four kings.

Dink gleefully mentions the fact that Flinging Frankie Filchock "played only a few minutes of the first and last quarters" of the game for the Eastern Canada championship and the right to meet Calgary Stampeders for the Grey Cup in Toronto next Saturday.

"The Hamilton Tigers, as was suspected, turned out to be nothing more than a good intermediate team," Carroll notes.

"From what they showed Sunday, the Tigers would have had trouble trying to stop Mother Goose," he added.

Bruce (Bosco) Coulter, Filchock's step-in, completed "so many passes it became monotonous."

Lew Ryes Loopholes

Lee Lear, Stampeders' coach, was an interested spectator at the Montreal-Hamilton clash.

Carroll thinks he "took more notes than a stenographer trying to demonstrate her speed at shorthand."

Lear, who sported a 10-gallon hat and fringed leather jacket, was "looking for loopholes to shoot at next Saturday."

Whether the Westerner and his aides learned anything isn't quite certain, but the Montreal sports scribe says:

"The Stamps think they can beat the Alouettes in the big game, but they are in the minority."

"The fellows who like to bet on those things have made the Alouettes 9 to 5 favorites, which is a big price and may turn out to be a decided overlay."

Calgary Stamps Preparing For Grey Cup Final

Oakville, Ont., Nov. 22. (CP) —Montreal spies hanging around Appleby College probably learned anything to show for their efforts but a good case of the sniffles.

Cold winds were blowing off Lake Ontario, adjacent to the playing field, as coach Lee Lear put his Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders through a two-hour touch rugby and pass defence workout in the morning Monday and a 2 1-2 hour afternoon drill. Lear made sure no Calgary "secret weapons" were displayed.

Coach Lear, usually the non-committal type, said of his own team—"well they are better than last year." Of the Montreal Alouettes, the opposition next Saturday in the Grey Cup final, he was almost non-committal. His description of what he saw in their Eastern final victory over Hamilton was "good." He probably didn't see much as that set Lew Hayman kept most of his stars under cover in the 40-0 triumph over Hamilton Tigers.

One question to be solved in the Grey Cup final is: Can Dave Skene, Franko Filchock of the Bears, Bob Paffrath of York Giant Flinger, or Keith Spaith, Queen's pro with Hamilton Warriors?

If Keith Spaith doesn't change or learns soon to like a bench as a place to sit, Coach Lew Hayman, then the Stamps are still winners, Manager Archie McGillis is positive of that, even if they haven't lost our appetite since the 40-0 trimming Ottawa in last year's final."

McGillis probably caught his Stampeders' workout in Appleton Arboretum, on outside with size 14 cleats and hands like tennis racquets.

Two practices are scheduled for today and two more daily until the club makes the 20-mile jaunt to Toronto on Friday.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

The rules of the rink have changed greatly since hockey's first organized game . . . 74 years ago.
It was a March day in 1873. The indoor ice of Montreal's Victoria Skating Rink was a swirl of uniformed figures. Spectators who lined the rails were watching the first attempt to organize the increasingly popular game of hockey.
The teams had been reduced to nine men a side . . . seven with a definite position to cover. Instead of the familiar rubber ball, a flat, round block of wood was being used. And for the first time, the goals were protected by goaltenders. Regulation hockey had been born.
Hockey holds a proud tradition of sportsmanship for Canadians. And Canadian teamwork has made us world leaders in the game. Together, sportsmanship and teamwork are working for you . . . by keeping your opportunities for work and play in Canada . . . unlimited.
The Stanley Cup, today's symbol of N.H.L. Championship, was first won in 1894 by the Montreal A.A.A. team . . . and for 17 years was a yearly amateur trophy.

THOSE MYSTERIOUS RAYS

Canada has launched a new experiment in her far northern regions to study changes in intensity of cosmic rays in correlation with meteorological changes, magnetic disturbances and solar phenomena. Here Dr. D. C. Rose of the physics division of the National Research Council studies a highly-sensitive ray recorder, similar to those being used on Cornwallis Island, some 580 miles inside the Arctic Circle. One of the benefits that may follow the experiments is more accurate weather forecasts. — (CP Photo.)

Teresa Wright Seeks Return To Stage, Wants Problem to Solve

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 22 (AP)—Fed up with playing Polly-Anna on the screen, Teresa Wright is seeking to return to the stage.

"I don't particularly want to play bad women," she remarked on "The Men" set. "But I would like to play a girl who has a few problems and doesn't always know how to solve them.

"I would like to work with a stock company for a few seasons, then try a play in New York. I don't feel up to facing Broadway now; it has been eight years since I have been on the stage."

Teresa said her role in "The Capture has more "spunk" than she is usually allowed. No wonder —it was written and produced by her husband, Lenny Busch, who agrees with her views.

Cuff Notes

Sterling Hayden is delighted with his hoodlum role in "Asphalt Jungle." "Those pantywaist roles I had before weren't acting," he admits. If he proves himself in the part he will land an M. G. M. contract.

Sterling is a itinerant man since his wartime and postwar days when he sneered at Hollywood. "Everybody has to grow up some day," he admitted.

Another milestone on the road to realism: The evil sheet on "A Place In The Sun" asked for "20 factory girls—not too pretty."

Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin tells me she dined recently with her first husband, Vaughn Paul. He dropped from sight after he and the songbird divorced and has been ailing.

A juvenile actor in his first role wanted Robert Walker fluff a few lines in "The skipper surprised His Wife." Before the kid was hustled off to the classroom, he said to Bob, "Maybe you'd better come back to school with us."

Old Country Letter:

Sniffle Time is on the Land Winter Just Around Bend

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sniffle time is on the land and winter's just around the bend.

In a few weeks Britons, already mist-bound morning and evening, will be groping their way to and from work through the country's fabulous and perennial fogs. Early this year peasouper closed down all road transport in the London area for almost a week.

Already drizzles are the order of the day—accepted uncommonly well by the citizenry, too. "Nasty day," remarked through clogged nostrils to a British acquaintance usually elicits a bright "yes, but what a wonderful summer we've had."

Winter Comfort

Gratefulness for 1949's long months of sunshine and cloudless skies has so far kept at bay the customary resentment to the elements.

Drizzles and cold nights, however, have stirred thoughts to provision for winter comfort. Coal bins—padlocked sheds outside many English houses—are being replenished, if the family exhaustion hasn't been exhausted.

Many English colds are doubtless acquired—and kept—by that early morning prodding through the bin's heaps of dust in hope of finding reasonably-sized lumps for the next night's fire. There are constant complaints about the quality of coal released for the home market.

Though top - quality fuel is cheaper than in Canada, selling at $14.21 a ton, it still is strictly rationed. Households can buy only 1.7 tons a year, which works out to about 100 pounds a week during the cold season.

Citizens who neglected to buy their full ration before ran buy only 1.5 tons between now and the end of the "fuel year" March 31. With this, and unrationed wood averaging $1 a hundredweight, they must heat homes from fireplaces and stoves. Many cook with it as well.

It is a British habit to restrict daytime living during the winter to one or two rooms of the house, sealing off the rest until warmer weather returns.

Night fall comes earlier than ever since daylight time ended two weeks ago. Lighting up time in London is shortly after four o'clock.

The Kibitzer

Nobody knows what the next bridge deal will bring. As sure as taxes it is uncertain. As somebody once said: "For all I know the next deal may bring rain."

A recent kibitzing spell found me at a table that was handling this deal:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ 10 9 7 3
♦ K 7 5 4
♣ A 6 5 4 3

WEST
♠ A Q J 9 8 7 5
♥ 8
♦ None
♣ J 9 8 7 2

EAST
♠ 10 6 4 3 2
♥ 5 4 2
♦ J 10 9 6 3 2
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ K
♥ A K Q J 6 2
♦ A Q 8
♣ K Q 10

This was in a four man team duplicate match. The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
2 H	2 S	3 S	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 H	Pass
6 H	Pass	Pass	Pass

The north three spade bid was an overcall in the opponent suit. Such a bid shows no losing tricks in spades. It promises a void in that suit or the aces or A K of the suit.

Ordinarily, this type of bid is employed by the defence to show a powerful hand. Coming from a responding partner, it shows a hand that could have jumped plus the fact that it has no losers in the suit.

In answer to four no-trump, five hearts is Horse Sense Signal for showing one ace and one king. With this information, south learned they had no diamond losers either.

SETTING NEW STYLES?

The beard and turban worn by this stalwart Indian soldier may soon make Canadian army history. Gunner Ranjit Singh Azad recently applied to Ottawa for permission to wear his turban and beard while serving with the 8th Anti-aircraft Operations Reserve Unit at Victoria, B.C. If his application is accepted, Gunner Azad will be the first Canadian serviceman to wear a "full set." — (CP Photo.)

With all this information, south almost went to seven hearts. But he caught himself just in time. He stopped to consider that the ace held by north might be in spades. Which it wasn't.

Not knowing what else to do, west led a club that was ruffed by east. Not knowing what else to do, east returned a diamond that was ruffed by west. A club came back from west and east ruffed.

Luck for south that he did not bid seven hearts. It was bad enough at the small slam. At a grand slam he would have been down three. As it was he got the business for down two.

But for the fact that I was not playing it could have been me.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma case in the living room after supper, saying to pop, Willum, the house is like an ice box, you've simply got to turn on more heat.

My dear, the house is like an oven, pop bust out, & now I'll turn on more heat, because it's a woman's world and men are merely honorary members, pop said. Ah I hope is, we dont get to be like Jack and Jill Mumbly, he said, and ma said, Whoever they are, if anybody.

Do you mean to say I never told you about good old warm blooded Jack Mumbly? pop said. He used to shovel the snow off the front walk in his bathing trunks. Well, love is a wonderful thing, and Jack married Jill Argues, the only dowter to the cold blooded Arguses. It was a winter wedding, and they spent their honeymoon in a cottage by the sea. At least they spent the ferst 3 days there. On the evening of the 3rd day Jill complained that the house was too cold and Jack insisted it was too hot. To prove her point fairly and squarely, ill put the thermometer in the coldest spot in the house, which happened to be the ice box, and it registered 30 degrees above zero. So Jill turned on the heet full blast and put logs in all the fireplaces. Then Jack, to prove his point, put the thermometer in the warmest spot in the house, which happened to be the oven, and 5 minutes later he took one look at it & turned off the heet entirely and flung open all the windows and doors, and the result was they both cawt pewmonia and spent the rest of their honeymoon in different hospiltles, and they never did get together again, pop said.

Are you going to turn that heet up, or do I have to? ma said, and pop said, It's still a man's world, ma said, and pop said, It's still a woman's world.

Meaning he would.

Which he did.

Operated until now as a summer camp, Woodeden is believed to be the first residential training centre in Canada for children with cerebral palsy. It is estimated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children there are more than 4,200 victims in Ontario. Centre's advisory committee is headed by President G. E. Hall of the University of Western Ontario.

Sympathetic spectator as Sylvia Jean, 7, has a tooth pulled by Dr. H. K. Richardson is the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, during his visit to Hester How Public School. "You're going to have a nice set of teeth," he told Sylvia after it was all over. Extraction was the first His Excellency had ever witnessed. Pupils of school represent 27 different nationalities.

FEMALE WHEAT KING

Mrs. Amy Grace Kelsey of Erickson, B.C., is a three-time winner of the world's wheat championship. She first captured the honor at the 1946 Chicago International Hay and Grain Show. She topped all contestants the following year at Toronto's Royal Winter Fair and last week repeated at the 1949 Royal Winter.—(CP Photo.)

Mrs. Phyllis Cox, one of the nurses at Woodeden, near London, Ont., helps four-year-old Billy use parallel bars to overcome disability resulting from cerebral palsy.

MOTOR MANSLAUGHTER IS CHARGED

Toronto, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Martin Stern today was charged with motor manslaughter following the death Monday night of a man tentatively identified by police as Mike Yunak.

The victim, who had only one arm, was struck while walking on a suburban North York street. Police tried to contact Mrs. Yunak in an effort to make positive identification.

BUSTLING THAMES

The Thames River is England's busiest waterway.

WENDY MEETS MOO-COW

"Hey!" says Wendy Trumler, two-year-old Toronto tot, to a sleepy old calf at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. About that bandage: the calf didn't bite Wendy's thumb; she got it smashed in a door. And she hardly cried at all. — (CP Photo.)

Bullet-making policemen in Kitchener are seen at work saving the city some money. Det. Dick Cowan (left) fills the casting with a charge of powder from the automatic powder measure. Con Alan Coward (right) uses a sizer and lubricator.

NATURE LOVERS

Early Egyptians lived mostly out of doors, their dwellings being made of wood or crude brick.

COUNTRY'S BIRTH

Pakistan was born on Aug. 15, 1947 as a Dominion within the British Commonwealth.

LONELY SPIRE

On the island of Hoy, one of the Orkney Islands, is a detached sandstone rock spire 450 feet high.

LIGHTNING RODS

Of all trees, the poplar, oak, ash, and elm appear most liable to be struck by lightning.

SALESMAN ADMITS

Irene Shaw, the hospital's night superintendent, went to question the man but found he had left. Miss Robertson was said to have left the university at London, Ont., three weeks ago and gone to Toronto, where she rented a hotel room. She told friends she was looking for a job.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson, told police that their daughter had telephoned from Toronto a few days ago saying that she would be home soon.

WRECKAGE

On Way to Scandinavia for Rest

The underfed children were coming to Scandinavia for rest and rehabilitation before proceeding to Israel.

At first there had been reports that nine persons had been found inside the plane, but these reports were not confirmed by officials.

The plane, missing since Sunday, was found near Flitvet, a small town on the west side of the Oslo Fjord, about 30 miles from the Norwegian capital.

The front part of the twin-engined craft was smashed, but the back part seemed intact, and this raised hope that there might be some survivors.

The plane was carrying 26 undernourished Jewish refugee children from Tunis in North Africa. It also carried three nurses and four crewmen.

The plane had cut a 40-yard wide path among the trees as it fell and was badly damaged, but had apparently not caught fire.

Planes from The Netherlands, Denmark, Sweden and Norway combed the North Sea Monday and today in an attempt to locate the missing aircraft. Some 1,500 volunteers following an appeal from the Oslo radio went into the uninhabited woodlands east of Oslo, known as Oesmarka, at dawn today to continue the search.

PENSION PROMISED

Detroit, Nov. 22 — (AP)—The 25,000 salaried employees of the Ford Motor Company have been promised a pension.

The pension program will be similar to that agreed to earlier between Ford and the United Auto Workers (CIO) for 130,000 production workers.

Salaried workers will receive $100-a-month retirement benefits, the same as union members, including special awards at the age of 65 and after 30 years of service. The pensions will be borne by the company.

In addition, employees with a base salary above a stated amount, tentatively set at $13,000 a year, will be entitled, but not required, to join in a supplementary program for additional benefits.

The supplemental benefits will require 50-50 contributions by the employees and company.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

"Come with me a moment, Carla," he said vehemently, "I must explain it all to you. And then you will tell May all about it."

Carla and Martin walked to one end between the huts for a long while, for nearly half an hour; Martin talked and Carla listened. She heard of a world in which men starved and girls sold themselves for two pairs of silk stockings. She heard of rooms in back yards, of stews without fuel, of rent that can't be paid, of folly and comradship of sharing that has grandeur. All this and more Martin brought out in a confused torrent but the earnestness with which he spoke and the emotion that made his arm tremble enabled her to understand him at last. All he said came back to the same thing. Anika had been his first girl; she wasn't to blame and a man who had once loved a body her would be a miserable cad.

It was dark, the rain pattered on the iron roofs. There was a struggle in the deep, impenetrable darkness. Carla tried to bring herself back to reality by lighting a cigarette, and to this she came near to a halt. Martin waited for her and seized hold of her hands.

"There, I've told you everything. Now you know all about me. Tell May. And help me," he said beseechingly, looking at her face, which was lighted up by the dirty red glow of her cigarette.

Her expression was grave and thoughtful. On this remarkable and disastrous evening she looked very like May. Martin thought. She reflected while she smoked.

Meanwhile Anika sat in the hut. Her white shoes and summer frock were still damp. She had lost everything—her lover—her clothes, her title as countess, and she roted over the bed. A pair of morocco-leather bedroom slippers a platinum watch, two silk handkerchief, and twelve schillings were her sole possessions. She had neither hat nor coat and no one in the world to turn to. It struck eleven from the Frauenkirche. Anika put on the lamp and sat in the dark.

It was a long time before Martin returned.

"Come along," he said sternly, "bring your bag. It's all arranged."

Anika followed him dolefully along the front and across the soft, rain-soaked sand, to the end of the bathing gangway. It was raining still.

"What are you going to do, Bulli?" Anika asked anxiously.

"I'm going to row you across. You'd be caught at the station here. Carla Lyssenhop will go round the end of the lake with their car and take charge of you on the other side," he replied laconically.

There was water in the boat, and the seat was wet, Anika shuddered in her summer frock.

"Here," said Martin pulling off his sweater. It was wet too, but warmed by his body. Anika snuggled into it.

In silence they rowed across the lake against a sleeping night wind.

"Are you angry with me," Anika asked once.

"I'm in great trouble," Martin replied, and then they were silent again.

Once across, he chained up the boat. They waited for a few minutes and then a motorcar came along the white ribbon of the road piercing the night with a shaft of light. It buzzed Carla driving the Lyssenhop's gray car, and she was laughing beneath her leather cap because it amused her to play this trick on her duped and enamoured pupil.

"Jump in," she said, without more ado. "I'll take you to Salzfelden station. You'll be in good time for the midnight train."

Anika, who scarcely knew what was happening, got in. Martin took the front seat beside Carla. Trees, roofs, woods standing up black against the darkness, winding descents, sapling pines exhaling their resin, cows asleep in a meadow—all was traced in sleep as the car swept by—The car drew up.

"Here's the station," said Carla. "Stay in the car, Martin, I'll see the lady to the train."

Anika crept out of the car. She was terribly afraid of the very fat Gorn. Nevertheless she tried to laugh, and make the best of it. She would have liked to have good-bye to Bulli, but there seemed no chance for that.

"So long, Bulli," she said and turned her head once more before vanishing beneath the solitary lamp over the station entrance. Carla followed her like a body-guard.

Martin felt a lump in his throat as he looked after the little figure that was to be conveyed into safety. "So long!" he called after her, but she was out of hearing.

Then the train came puffing down the grades, then puffed pompously on again. Carla came out of the station and got into the car.

"That's done," she said. "It's gone very well. I took a ticket for her to Munich and gave her money. That will go in with the rest she has got out of us."

"Thank you very much."

"Don't mention it."

They proceeded in silence through the darkness. Carla seemed to have a devil inside her. She went into high and opened out. She skidded on the wet road, took the corners at full speed, and whirled downhill to the shore of the lake at a reckless pace.

"What's the matter?" Martin shouted in her ear.

Dobsberg Schloss shot past with its park, its stream and sedge-grown pond.

There was a violent jerk as the car came to a stop with its four wheels buried in sand. Against Carla and bit his tongue. "What is it this time?" he asked impatiently.

"Oh, don't ask such silly questions . . ." Carla said impatiently. "I'm a little crazy, that's all. The weather has driven me crazy, up. It's a fine trick to play on Tat to commandeer my car. I'm my car. Can't you say something, Martin? What are you made of?"

"What do you want me to say, Carla? Shall I drive for a bit? Or what?"

"You ought to thank me. Good Lord, haven't I done it all for you? Simply and solely to please you? Listen—to please you. Surely you can say something to me after this thing. Don't sit beside me like that."

"Yes. Of course. Naturally. It was splendid of you, I do thank you very much indeed." Martin stammered in confusion The car trembled and shook. Carla had disappeared in a state of great excitement.

"You ought to say; Carla, you're an amazingly good sort. That's the least you can say. Carla, you're an amazingly good sort. That's the truth." Carla's voice broke. She put her hands on her leather glove on the wheel.

"That's the only reason why I did it—" she murmured uneasily. "You don't know in the least what a good sort I am," she added.

Poor Martin. He was tired out. He was utterly done up and also starving. And the fast driving in the sharp air without his sweater had frozen him to a marrow. He had, too, a shocking misery over May, who had turned from him in disgust. It was past midnight. He longed for his hut and his short bed. But some devil had planted him there in that car, stationary in the darkness by the shore of the lake with this Carla, who seemed mysteriously wrought up.

Suddenly she took her gloved hand from the wheel, threw her arm around Martin's neck and pressed her innocent girls lips to his. There was passion in it as well as inexperience.

From mere politeness Martin resolutely returned her pressure. It was more of a collision than a kiss. Carla drew away from him at once.

"Of course, you think only of May," she said, looking into his eyes.

"Of course I am thinking of May," he answered angrily.

"We've all got the pip," was all Carla said. Then silence and not another word was spoken till they got to Frauensee station, where two silent policemen stood motionlessly watching the road.

For three whole days it rained. The promenade was deserted. The bathing place was deserted. The smart visitors stayed at the Big Peterman, Herr Direktor Wuchenfenning for example, and Bobby and the Lyssenhop family they all stayed indoors and were invisible.

Good. Martin went about whistling. He behaved as if the weather was fine and nothing at all had come to shatter between him and May. Once or twice during the day he left the bathing station and so hid led into the town.

"I'm going to have a meal," he said to Herr Blindl. But he did nothing of the sort. He did not go for any meals to have a meal. Occasionally he cooked himself bacon and eggs on the spirit lamp. It was the post office he trudged in, and came back empty-handed. He fingered thoughtfully the real silver medal he had won for his rowing. He swam in his fifteen-hundred-meter course though the lake was cold and rough. He took twenty-three miles, fifty-eight yards, although he could not be called good time. Again he went to the post. Nothing. He stood in front of Frau Peterman and whistled. No result.

He got a pale face on it and took some money out of his drawer. He laid hands on his sacred cash-box and went into the Cafe Peterman, where on wet afternoons the visitors of the local hotel usually congregated. May was not to be seen. Martin drummed on the table and whistled in tune to the little orchestrel.

"Hullo, Martin, happy as all that?" asked Carla as she joined Martin and paid and went out to the post.

On the third day a letter was handed to him over the counter. It was an important-looking, registered letter, and his heart gave a bound as he signed for it. He tore open the envelope and read the letter while he stood in the entrance, pushed his way and that by people coming in and going out. He grew white, then green, then he flushed a dark red. He gulped several times, and then stuffed the letter into his pocket and went straight across the street and back to the hotel. When he got in he read the letter once more. It was a hateful, beastly letter, a rotten letter through and through. Martin sat up and read it. He threw himself on the small bed.

A healthy man sleeps off pain that is too violent to be borne. So Martin slept, and when he awoke, though it was still bad, the worst of the agony seemed to have passed over. Martin looked for something to do. It was raining too hard. He pulled off his shoes and found a patch and hammer at the worn soles. The Frauensee shingle was sharp and soon made an end of cheap twelve-schilling shoes. A walking tour in them was not to be thought of. How crisscross and contrary everything was! Martin, hooked about him with an expression of raging fury and good-humored despair. His eyes fell on his pajamas, which had had a large tear in the sleeve ever since Anika Rozwaurck's visit. He took up the coat and got out his little housewife. Then seating himself on the threshold near the dripping sprout he began with an immense length of thread to stitch away and forget his troubles.

May found him thus occupied, when shortly after three o'clock she came striding over the wet sand with a cigarette in her mouth and an air of exaggerated unconcern. She was wearing a leather motoring coat and leather motoring cap. The leather cap straps were unfastened and hanging loose, and she was sprinkled all over with drops of rain. She looked altered in a way that might have been due to late nights and exposure to cold. Martin noticed this at once, but he remained at his post beside him, her hands sunk in her large coat pockets. But he was obstinate and did not look up.

"Good afternoon, Martin."

"Good afternoon, May."

"Are you all right?"

"Yes, thanks."

Martin sewed on. May threw her cigarette down and trod on it. Then she took a breath, then said: "I only came to tell you that our walking tour is off."

Martin went white for a second time that day. His needle and pot very shaky during these weeks. "I see. Pity," was all he said.

"Yes, isn't it?"

There was a pause while Martin went on sewing.

"I thought Carla had explained everything," he said next. "I had an idea you had every confidence in me. If not—good. And so—on with your walk and your party."

"That is another matter," said May, keeping her hands firmly in her coat pockets. "We'll talk about our affairs with other women another time. I only wanted to say that we are going away."

"Going away? Why? What do you mean? Who is we?" asked Martin in panic.

"Now, at once. As soon as Tat has packed. The chauffeur has filled up with petrol. The won't stay any longer—he's out of spirits. The lorry was too much for him, and he can't stand all the talk in the hotel. Besides, it never stops raining. And we don't want to go. That's why our tour is off."

May's words began to tremble, and her eyelashes were wet with tears. So she hurriedly took out another cigarette. Martin did not so much as glance up. He merely sewed on blindly at furious speed. He had the feeling in his throat that he would have to swallow his Adam's apple.

"I see. And so you're simply going away, and that ends everything. And I've got to stay on here when it's over?" he asked, in an abrupt, deep voice that was new and unrecognizable.

"Why should you say that? Of course it's bad luck that we are leaving so suddenly and all even I'm angry at you. Yes, it is all true I'm angry at you, Martin. But that doesn't mean that it is all over. What an idea! Why in Spain and Italy, in Berlin? By that time it will all be better and then it will seem more endurable."

"No, no," said Martin stubbornly, and shook his head.

"Oh, now you're just look at me, Martin—"

"No, no," said he. "Nothing will come right. It will never be better. It will all go on as it is. And I will not go to Berlin either. There is no question of my swimming for the club. I'm not going under my name. They've struck me off. I'm disqualified."

"Good heavens—have they? Disqualified? Because you've given swimming lessons here? That's frightful. For how long?"

"Six months. Not just let them wait. They'll be surprised when they see what a hole they've put themselves into. Let them see if they can find anyone who can swim the distance I swam distance in twenty minutes and thirteen seconds for them. They'll find themselves in the soup the whole lot of them in the club. That's all. I shall resign from the club for good. That's what I shall do. That's what they'll get for disqualifying me. Do you know May, this is only the beginning, the beginning of the end. For a time you can struggle on and keep your head above water and play the game as best you can. Then you get knocked on the head and you drop You're finished. I'm not a man to cry out before I'm hurt. I've always stuck it out and kept my heart up. No one has ever known me down-hearted, or poor-spirited or whatever it might be. But when it comes to being disqualified—and then you've been so well and me staying here with all this rotten business and hanging about, then I give up. Let them do as they like, disqualify me and ostracize me and trample on me. Right. Good. I'm not the only one nowadays.

DEALT WITH ON ITS MERITS

Toronto, Nov. 21. (CP)— Every liquor licence application is dealt with "on its merits," officials of the Ontario Liquor Licence Board said yesterday.

They made the statement when asked about reports that the board has decided against issuing licences for any additional liquor outlets on Yonge Street, Toronto's main north-south thoroughfare. The officials declined comment on the reports.

BOSLIN

Roslin—Mr. James Rutherford received word recently of the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas E. Elliott whose death occurred at his home in Lewiston Michigan, on November 11th, in his 67th year.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Mrs. Mae Smith, two nephews and one niece.

Gordon, of Adams, Minnesota; (Margaret) of Detroit; Schaller, of Ferndale, Michigan; (Kathryn) Mrs. Roy Bell, of Wallace Lake, Michigan, and William of Pontiac, Michigan. The funeral was held on Monday, Nov. 14th and burial was at Pontiac, Michigan.

A number of ladies attended a short course in glove making at the home of Mrs. Empson, on Tuesday afternoon when several ladies from Phillipston-Elzo Women's Institute demonstrated the process of manufacture.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. A. Colden and S. Colden opened their home to the ladies of the Women's Association who met together to spend one more evening with Mrs. Pascoe before her departure from the community and presented her with a hand bag, brooch and handkerchief.

Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe and children have resided at the cheesefactory for several years where Mr. Pascoe has been engaged as cheesemaker.

On Wednesday, around 20 members of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Wm. White, and quilted two quilts for the Vance family, who lost their home by fire recently.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Pascoe was asked to come forward.

Mrs. W. Slingerland read an address signed on behalf of the W.I., and Mrs. H. Sills made the presentation of an electric table lamp, for which Mrs. Pascoe graciously expressed her thanks for the lovely gift.

A number of local hunters left last week for their favorite hunting ground, in the northern part of the county.

FIND BODY OF EX-CONVICT IN TORONTO HOME

ROYAL WINNER

A feature of the Monday evening performances at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto was presentation of the King's Guineas by Governor-General Alexander, to Duncan Campbell, 14, of Moffat, Ont. He received the 50 guineas for showing the Shorthorn heifer that he had steer entered by an Ontario junior farmer. His victory also earned him the $1,000 trophy challenge trophy donated by the Ontario minister of agriculture. The Guineas were originally donated by King Edward VII when he was Prince of Wales. — (CP Photo.)

FLOUR-MILLING REPORT DEBATE STILL GOING ON

Opposition Charges Govt. Broke Law

Ottawa, Nov. 23 (CP) — The battle of the session goes on, in fury unabated.

For two weeks the government has been under attack for what opposition members have described as deliberately breaking the law, perpetrating a conspiracy against the constitution and concealment of a public report from the people. End of the debate isn't in sight.

There is the controversial report of price-fixing in Canada's flour-milling industry and the criticism it has brought on the government's failure to make the report public within the 15 days required by law.

The report, author of which was J. A. Bridge, combines investigation chief, was first delivered to Justice Minister Garson last Dec. 29. It was made public two weeks ago. In the interval Mr. McGregor has resigned because of the 10-month delay in publication.

Extent of the debate is illustrated by the fact that Mr. Garson took 10½ hours Tuesday in an attempt to justify the government's actions.

He emphasized three points:

1. The so-called price-fixing actions of the flour-milling companies during the war resulted directly from the policies and regulations laid . down by the Prime Minister.

Considered Unfair

2. Trade Minister Howe had considered it unfair to condemn the millers for something done as a result of government policies.

3. Mr. Howe would have made a statement denying the report

Allied Proposals to Relax Occupation Controls Accepted By Chancellor Adenauer

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 23—(AP) in the hope of unifying European economy.

—West Germany's Chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, has accepted proposals by the allied high commissioners to relax occupation controls.

Agreement was reached Tuesday night after three lengthy meetings. It sets into motion ideas adopted two weeks ago by the Big-Three Foreign Ministers for improving German economy and including at least the western zones the European family of nations.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. They will be made public some time tomorrow afternoon.

Adenauer, however, already has announced that the western occupation powers have proposed to reduce considerably the allied program of tearing down German industrial plants, to permit Germany once again to build up her merchant fleet, to allow the Germans to have consular services abroad and to join some phases of the international organizations

In return for these concessions the Germans have been asked to cooperate in international control over the rich industrial Ruhr Valley, to work with the allied security board in preventing German rearmament and to give guarantees that its big industrial cartels will be broken up.

Diplomatic officials in London reported Tuesday that the agreement would allow Germany to build an unlimited number of small cargo ships and about eight bigger and faster cargo ships totalling some 90,000 tons. Germany now are prohibited from building passenger ships under terms of a western allied agreement of last April.

The proposals, aside from bolstering both German and western European economy, are designed to counteract Communist bids for more popularity put out by Russia in establishing an eastern German satellite regime with diplomatic status and promises of a kind of sovereignty.

LOWERING ROPES HARDY FISHERMEN RESCUE CREWMEN

18 Stranded Seamen Taken off Rocky Ledge

St. Shotts, Nfld., Nov. 23—(CP) —Hardy fishermen of this south coast Newfoundland town early today rescued 18 crew members of the wrecked freighter, Harcourt Kent.

The vessel went aground on Murr Rock about two miles west of here.

The stranded seamen were on a rocky ledge of the shore and were rescued by means of ropes lowered to them by fishermen.

Meantime on the rocky coast, not far from the ship-shattering area known as "The Graveyard of the Atlantic" their vessel was reported breaking up in heavy seas.

The 1,076-ton freighter went ashore Tuesday on Cape Pine, near here. Murr Rock forms part of the cape.

The grounding occurred during a storm which today reached gale proportions. In some sections of Newfoundland with winds up to 70 miles an hour reported at the big Gander air field.

After the freighter went ashore the crew gained a precarious foothold on the sea-level rocks but their progress to safety was barred by sheer-rising cliffs.

They clung to their narrow, ledge-like perch all night and witnesses of the rescue said the men were in constant danger during the darkness hours of being swept out to sea by high, crashing waves.

Owner Unaware Body Was in House As Police Called

Police Describe Dead Man As Notorious Safecracker

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—A body found in the bathroom of a west-end rooming house following a mysterious telephone call to police Tuesday night was identified today as that of Jack Feeley, 40, released a month ago from Kingston penitentiary.

Police said a man, who withheld his name, told them by telephone the body would be found in the bathroom floor of the house, owned by George Wilson.

Wilson told investigators he was unaware the body was in the house, had not called the police and did not recognize the dead man.

Identified by Fingerprints

The coroner's office described the body only as that of a "dark stranger."

For 10 hours police sought to unravel the mystery and establish the man's identity. They said he finally was identified from fingerprints.

Police described Feeley as a notorious safecracker.

Mrs. Wilson said, "nobody seems to know how he got into the house or the reason for his death. And nobody in our house has any idea who telephoned the police.

"It's the strangest thing that ever happened to our lives. It gives us the creeps."

Police today identified the man as Jack Feeley, 40, no fixed address. They said he was released from prison last month.

Had $50 In Pockets

The dead man had $30 in his pockets. Police said there were no marks of violence on the body.

Constables John Holmes and Wilfred Cook were sent to the house when the call was received about 11.40 p.m. They found the body was fully dressed, including a heavy winter overcoat.

All 11 roomers in the house were awakened by the telephone call Wilson said he was home all evening and would have known if anyone had telephoned from the house.

Police said the mystery deepened when they tried to establish the time of death in the house.

Feeley's record shows he was released from penitentiary Oct. 28 after serving two years. He had been convicted in Oakland, Calif., Regina, Calvary, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Sudbury, Barrie and Toronto.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Toronto, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Coroner's jury investigating the death of four-year-old John Shobrook Tuesday returned a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to Dr. Henry Thomas or his anaesthetist.

LITHOGRAPHERS STRIKE SETTLED, SIGN CONTRACT

Pickets From Plants in Quebec and Ontario Are Withdrawn

Toronto, Nov. 23 —(CP)—Pickets lines in front of lithographing plants in five Ontario and Quebec cities will be withdrawn in a few days when a new union contract is signed ending the 25-weeks strike.

Head of the protracted strike, involving 300 unionists in Quebec and 500 in Ontario, was announced Tuesday night by the international president, Lithographers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) when formal signing takes place pickets will be withdrawn in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

The employers, companies represented by the Canadian Lithographers Association, made an offer last week which the union said now has been accepted by a ballot in the various union locals.

The settlement is a compromise between the original company offers and the union's original demands.

It provides for a 17-cent an hour wage increase and a contributory welfare plan. Of the increase, 7½ cents is retroactive to last January. A five-cent-an-hour bonus paid at the time of the walkout last June is incorporated in the new scale.

Employee To Assist

The welfare plan is estimated to cost $1.30 a week per employee, covering sick benefit payments, hospitalization and the cost of hospital physician, including coverage for employees' family. Under the agreement the employee will pay 63 cents a week and the companies the balance.

The companies' original offer, based on a 40-hour week board decision, was a five cents an hour increase and a welfare plan on a 50-50 basis.

The union abandoned its demands for a reduction in the work week from 40 to 37½ hours, and for a pension plan financed by the companies.

Ending the strike, one of the longest in recent Canadian labor history, industries chiefly affected were drug store containers and lithographed labels for their products. Many drug store chain customers turned to other processes for printing their labels and the bulk of the lithographing market for labels may have been lost.

STRANGLES SELF IN WASHER

Toronto, Nov. 23—(CP)—Mrs. Mary Lindsay, 44, strangled herself Tuesday night by looping a cloth around her neck and running both ends through the wringer of her washing machine.

Coroner Dr. Gordon Bell said no inquest will be held.

P-C Attempt to Censure Govt. in Combines Probe Ruled Out of Order

Ottawa, Nov. 23 — (CP) — A new Progressive Conservative attempt to censure the government for its handling of a combines investigation report into the flour-milling industry today was ruled out of order in the Commons. An appeal against the decision of Speaker Rene Beaudoin was defeated 149 to 56.

Mr. Macdonald's ruling was on an amendment sponsored by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre.)

It said that while the Commons always was anxious to improve combines legislation, it regretted the "failure" of the Cabinet to comply with the law requiring publication of a combines report within 15 days of receipt. It also regretted that the government had "failed" to give assurance that there would be no further breach of this or any other act.

Second Amendment

The amendment was to a motion calling for second reading—approval in principle — to a bill tightening some provisions of the Combines Investigation Act. It was the second such amendment moved by the Progressive Conservatives.

Members Tuesday voted 149 to 56 against an amendment by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that would have allowed the banking and commerce committee to delve fully into the government's administration of the Combines Investigation Act.

The committee would have been given power to report on how the government's handling of the recent flour-milling industry case "prejudiced" effective administration of the combines legislation.

The opposition argues that the government breached the law in not making public a report on an alleged combines in the flour-milling industry within the 15 days required by the Combines Investigation Act.

Gold Law Not Broken

Justice Minister Garson has argued the government actually did not break the law. He stated that while a copy of the report reached his office Dec. 29, 1948, revisions were made to it in following months and that it reached its final form until Oct. 22. It was tabled in the Commons Nov. 7.

A debate on procedure preceded and followed the moving of Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment, supported by Progressive Conservatives, C.C.F. and Labor-Progressive members and F. E. Gagnon (Independent-Chicoutimi).

Trenton Plane Used in Search For Missing Man

South Bay Mouth, Ont., Nov. 23. — (CP) — A plane from the Trenton RCAF station today joined the search for Jack Wolford, 43-year-old hunter from Windsor last seen Friday when he walked across from a boat at the nearby Wikwemikong Indian reserve and disappeared into the bush. The plane carried a two-man crash rescue team.

Wolford and three other Windsor men, Eugene Bellecperche, Stanley McMangin and Bruce Williamson, landed at the Manitoulin Island reserve to make repairs to their boat. Wolford went into the bush during the repair work.

Two boatloads of searchers Tuesday continued a hunt started during the weekend. Cold weather and choppy water hampered their efforts.

Police-employees of Wolford at the Ford automotive plant in Windsor Tuesday contributed $200 for a search fund. Officials of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) also said they would help pay for the search.

Mother's Quick Action Saves Three Children

Hamilton, Nov. 23. (CP)— The quick thinking of a plucky Burlington Street housewife this morning saved her children and herself from death as an innocent game with a box of matches ended in a fire that destroyed the bedroom in which they were playing with the year-old daughter, Dorothy Ann, burst from the bedroom this morning. They were playing with Richard 22, and Victor, 1-3, screaming, Mrs. Richard's daughter ran with mother's efforts.

Thick flames licking the ceiling of the tiny room and spreading swiftly along the floor, she ran and clutched the baby from the crib, then snatched up the other two and led them outside.

Firemen doused the blaze.

52-Mile Winds Tie up Craft On Great Lakes

Toronto, Nov. 22 — (CP) — A storm with gale winds of up to 52 miles an hour lashed Toronto and district Tuesday night and storm warnings were issued to all lake ports.

A fresh outbreak of polar weather is moving south and will bring more snow to Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, weather officials say. Some light snow is expected here this afternoon.

Ferry passengers on a water taxi bound here from Hanlan's Point, Police and fire in Toronto harbor, had some anxious moments about midnight when their boat stalled in mountainous waves.

Port Colborne — (CP) — Seven freighters were tied up in the Welland Ship Canal and the harbor here this morning waiting out a strong southwesterly gale that swept across Lake Erie and the Ontario Tuesday night.

A Canadian Steamer station placed the velocity of the winds at 25 to 40 miles an hour, but masters of vessels entering Port Colborne said they believe this was somewhat conservative. They were inclined to place the velocity at 45 to 50 miles an hour.

The freighter Hochelaga Camp, heavily laden with coal from Buffalo, was among the vessels to leave for Toronto today. But three vessels going into the canal loaded with general cargoes from various United States ports for Europe, were held here. They included the Dutch freighters Prins Willem, Van Oranje and Prins Hendrik and the Norwegian freighter Fjell. Two C.S.L. freighters, the Coal Baron and Coal Trader were also berthed in the canal waiting for the winds to abate before moving into Lake Erie.

13 Families in Arrears Evicted in Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Thirteen families, all of them at least $100 in arrears in rent, have been evicted from city-owned emergency shelters this week, board of control was told today.

Harold Locke, who operates the shelters for the city, said they are the first eviction among the 1,350 families housed there in seven months as operator. He said there would be no more until after New Year's.

All of the evicted families were at least three months in arrears, he said.

OVERCOME BY GAS FROM FURNACE

Quebec, Nov. 23. (CP)—Seven persons were taken to hospital Tuesday night for medical attention after they were overcome by gas escaping from a furnace in a rooming house on Cote Du Palais.

Firemen called to the rooming house operated by Armand Couturier reported that altogether 10 persons, including four children, were affected by the gas fumes.

Believe Operation Was Performed In Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—Police will confer with Crown Attorney A. D. Davis, of Brampton today to decide whether any charges will be laid as a result of preliminary investigation into the death last Sunday of 22-year-old Margaret Robertson, of Acton, Ont.

Dr. Gross, 34-year-old Toronto brewery salesman, admitted to police he drove the girl to Brampton hospital Sunday morning. She was pronounced dead when admitted. Gross was released and was not charged.

Toronto morality police questioned a number of persons Tuesday and Police say they are satisfied the illegal operation, which caused the girl's death was performed in Toronto.

Police say they are satisfied the operation did not take place in the hotel where she was staying. Miss Robertson came to Toronto three weeks ago from Acton, where she had been a second-year student at the University of Western Ontario. She told friends she was "looking for work."

Can Build Plane To Carry 400 Men To W. Europe

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 23 — (CP) — The company that built the mighty B-36 bomber said today it has designed a transport plane to carry 100,000 pounds or 400 armed men from the East Coast to Western Europe non-stop without a rivet.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation said it has submitted its production design to the United States Air Force.

The huge, six-engined transport would be called the C-99. It could haul bigger loads in both size and weight than any aircraft now made or known to be planned.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—Synopsis—Ontario was in the path of a deep cold Canada visited by high winds Tuesday. During the night a fresh outbreak of polar weather over Newfoundland and at 8 a.m. gales of 70 miles an hour were still blowing at Gander airport.

The storm which gave Tuesday's gale winds of 58 mph. in Toronto was moving northeastward into Quebec this morning. In its wake a fresh outbreak of polar air will come south again and cause more snow in counties bordering Lake Erie and Georgian Bay. Wednesday will be another cold day over the province but no winds will be high in most sections.

UK May Remove Immunity From Tass Agency

London, Nov. 23 (Reuters)— The government announced today that it may change the law conferring diplomatic immunity on Tass, the official Russian news agency.

The Lord Chancellor, Viscount Jowitt, made the announcement in the House of Lords after Lord Vansittart had asked the government to curb the activities of the Tass agency.

The British court of appeal ruled last June that Tass had diplomatic immunity and could not be sued for libel.

The question arose because of an unsuccessful libel action brought against Tass by Volodimir Krulgova, a former professor at Prague University.

Lord Jowitt indicated today that the law probably will be changed. The government, he said, has decided to ask for an inter-departmental committee to consider and report on the question. "Meanwhile, no matter is in very considerable difficulty in international law."

New Murderer in Chamber Worth 80,000 Visitors Yearly Says Custodian

London, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Around 7:30 every morning Harry Willett takes off his jacket, picks up a brush and sets about visiting the ripest collection of scoundrels ever assembled under one roof.

He gently runs a comb through the raven hair of Dr. Bux Ruxton, adjusts the set of Neville Heath's tie, brushes down Crippen's lapels on John George Haigh's jacket and polishes the spectacles on Dr. H. H. Crippen — just a few of Britain's most notorious murderers.

As custodian of the Chamber of Horrors at Madame Tussaud's famous waxworks, Harry has been doing much the same job for nearly 50 years. First thing in the morning and last thing at night he visits all his charges and makes them as presentable as possible.

First he calls on Haigh, one of the latest additions to the chamber, since he was executed only a few months ago for murder of an elderly woman.

"We usually reckon that a new murderer in the chamber is worth an extra 30,000 visitors in the course of a year... Harry said. "Haigh has brought us 80,000 since his execution."

In a neat dress suit and flamboyant tie Haigh stands near the entrance to the chamber, one of murderers that includes Heath, Crippen, Ruxton and a sinister-looking Frenchman named Marcel Petiot, who was guillotined in 1946.

"Petiot is supposed to have killed 63 people during the war," but he's not what I call really popular with visitors. Too continental, perhaps."

Least popular among visitors to the Chamber of Horrors, Harry says are Hitler, Mussolini and one or two other wartime figures.

"No one ever stops to look at 'em," said Harry disdainfully.

When the gallery opens for the day, Harry moves into a box office near the entrances and takes the money from customers as they go in.

"I've been doing this job so long I almost feel as if the exhibits belonged to me," said Harry. "In his time he has admitted more than 15,000,000 visitors.

Sales Manager Immersed in Thriller When Queen Visits His Booth

London, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Freddie McGrath, Winnipeg salesman was not asleep when the Queen visited his stand at the Building Trade Exhibition here.

He was reading a detective thriller.

Freddie, who served with the Canadian army in Britain during the war and returned here last year, was emphatic on that point but said he was no less unhappy about the whole thing.

"It's awful," he said.

It seems that Freddie, who is sales manager of a construction company, was sitting on the firm's stand, deeply immersed in his thriller when a lady in blue approached. He was not examining the carefully laid-out exhibits.

First she looked at the wrought-iron gate. Then she looked at Freddie. Nearing the solution of the murder mystery, Freddie merely turned to page 247 and read on, blissfully unaware that the Queen of England was looking at him.

The lady then went on to examine a 19th-century Italian marble garden seat and commented favorably on it to her lady-in-waiting. Freddie continued reading.

Then as the queen passed on to another stand, predictably enough Freddie suddenly looked up and realized he had missed what every exhibitor wanted most — a royal visit.

"I don't know what to say," Freddie remarked. "The trouble is I knew that as the queen was coming people would not be allowed to come along for business. So I just relaxed and went on to be told of her arrival.

"First she looked at the queen. I sprang to my feet in a panic but —oh dear it was too late. I only wish I could apologize to her for my behavior."

All 11 roomers in the house were awakened by the telephone call Wilson said he was home all evening and would have known if anyone had telephoned from the house.

Police said the mystery deepened when they tried to establish the time of death in the house.

Feeley's record shows he was released from penitentiary Oct. 28 after serving two years. He had been convicted in Oakland, Calif., Regina, Calvary, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Sudbury, Barrie and Toronto.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Toronto, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Coroner's jury investigating the death of four-year-old John Shobrook Tuesday returned a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to Dr. Henry Thomas or his anaesthetist.

LITHOGRAPHERS STRIKE SETTLED, SIGN CONTRACT

Pickets From Plants in Quebec and Ontario Are Withdrawn

Toronto, Nov. 23 —(CP)—Picket lines in front of lithographing plants in five Ontario and Quebec cities will be withdrawn in a few days when a new union contract is signed ending the 25-weeks strike.

Head of the protracted strike, involving 300 unionists in Quebec and 500 in Ontario, was announced Tuesday night by the international president, Lithographers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) when formal signing takes place pickets will be withdrawn in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

The employers, companies represented by the Canadian Lithographers Association, made an offer last week which the union said now has been accepted by a ballot in the various union locals.

The settlement is a compromise between the original company offers and the union's original demands.

It provides for a 17-cent an hour wage increase and a contributory welfare plan. Of the increase, 7½ cents is retroactive to last January. A five-cent-an-hour bonus paid at the time of the walkout last June is incorporated in the new scale.

Employee To Assist

The welfare plan is estimated to cost $1.30 a week per employee, covering sick benefit payments, hospitalization and the cost of hospital physician, including coverage for employees' family. Under the agreement the employee will pay 63 cents a week and the companies the balance.

The companies' original offer, based on a 40-hour week board decision, was a five cents an hour increase and a welfare plan on a 50-50 basis.

The union abandoned its demands for a reduction in the work week from 40 to 37½ hours, and for a pension plan financed by the companies.

Ending the strike, one of the longest in recent Canadian labor history, industries chiefly affected were drug store containers and lithographed labels for their products. Many drug store chain customers turned to other processes for printing their labels and the bulk of the lithographing market for labels may have been lost.

STRANGLES SELF IN WASHER

Toronto, Nov. 23—(CP)—Mrs. Mary Lindsay, 44, strangled herself Tuesday night by looping a cloth around her neck and running both ends through the wringer of her washing machine.

Coroner Dr. Gordon Bell said no inquest will be held.

Municipal Board Disapproves Restriction By-Law Passed

Members of the Ontario Municipal Board following the public hearing in the city hall last week have disapproved of the city by-law restricting the proposed commercial area in the Parkwood Heights to one block as desired by residents of the area.

The decision of the municipal board was made known today to city solicitor R. A. Pringle.

Arguments for the approval of the city by-law restricting the proposed commercial area were submitted at the public hearing by Ross Bowen, president of the Parkwood Heights Home-owners Association, while the ruling supports to the original plan was Frank Cushing, solicitor for Bertram Dochy, developer of the land division.

The following is the report of the municipal board:

"The board now decides that the plan as submitted to the Department of Planning and Development is a reasonable compromise to give effect to the development as proposed by the owner and approved by the various authorities, but unfortunately was not implemented by any by-law.

The Board provides this by-law 5220 should be amended to provide that only single family detached dwellings may be erected on any lot as per plan 7B5, excepting the area north of Victoria Ave., to Southview Ave., and lying between Bertram Boulevard and Hamewood Drive, in which a commercial development of retail stores may be permitted.

Two Thousand Attend Opening Furniture Store

Well over two thousand persons attended the official opening of the new Percival Furniture Company Store on Front Street Tuesday evening. Long before the doors were opened there was a long line of people waiting on the street and people were still coming when the doors were closed at 10.30.

Chairman of the local Public Utilities Commission Russell Welsh officiated during the drawing of tickets for the prizes.

Prize winners were H. J. Sharpe, 80 Highland Ave., child-ren's rocker; Mme. G. Dompierre, 269 George St., pressure cooker; Mrs. Thelma Marmer, R. R. 1, Corbyville, electric iron; Albert Eves, Corbyville, gladstone bag; and S. Theriault, 69 Grier St., bathroom hamper.

Again at the "open house" at the Percival Furniture Store today where will be four attendances prizes offered, while each day for the next two weeks there will be three attendances prizes offered each day.

All tickets go back into the barrel and everybody a chance on the grand prize of an electric refrigerator, which will be drawn for at the end of the two-week period.

UE Local Supports Parent Body

Local 533 United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, representing workers in Belleville and the American Optical of this city, last night at their regular monthly meeting passed the following resolution unanimously:

That this regular meeting of Local 533 U.E. go on record as supporting the parent body the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America against any attempts for disruption; that we intend to stay with our parent body; that we notify the district office in Toronto to this effect; and also send pledges of unqualified support to those provisional committees set up to carry on the good work of the U.E. in Peterborough, Cobourg, Guelph and Brockville.

We also condemn the activities of those former U.E. members who by unfounded red-baiting seek to disrupt and divide us so that they can attain their own selfish aims."

Percival Furniture Company Opens Ultra-Modern Store At Upper End of Front St.

After fifteen years in the furniture business in the city, the Percival Furniture Company has moved into larger and ultra modern quarters at 380 Front Street where for the past several months extensive alterations have been underway.

The new store was officially opened this evening, while all day today, Wednesday, will be "open house" for the general public. On Thursday the new store will be open for business.

It was fifteen years ago that the Percival Furniture Company opened their first store in Belleville at 302 Front Street. Seven years later they moved into larger quarters at 310 Front Street but the business today has outgrown both premises and the firm management decided on a relatively new location which would provide room for expansion.

Beautiful Appointments

That there was justification in the choice of location for the new store will be appreciated by every person who goes on their first visit to the new store. First of all they will be more than a little surprised at the beauty and fine appointments of the new store. It is exceptionally roomy, covering in all, approximately 13,000 feet of floor space.

And out of town shoppers will appreciate the ease of parking facilities with cars in the spacious parking lot at the rear of the store.

Something unusual in the general run of furniture stores is the wide expanse of show window space. Wide plate glass windows here permit the display of rich and colorful living room furniture to its fullest advantage.

Three Different Departments

The first floor of the new store is in three different departments, all three richly decorated in a motif which instantly strikes the eye but at the same time blending with the general color tones.

Walls are done in specially designed plywood of natural and contrasting coloring. There is adequate lighting, both indirect and artificial, with fluorescent lights and incandescent spotlights supplementing the natural lighting.

The Percival Furniture Company offer a complete line of home furnishings and household appliances. Kroehler chesterfields and furniture of similar high quality manufacture are pleasingly arranged in a manner suggestive of cozy comfort.

New Dealership

Percival's have recently been made a new dealership for General Electric products and a complete line of electrical appliances from this well known firm is offered to customers. One of the downstairs store departments has been designed as a modern display for General Electric products.

The drapery and curtain department, also on the ground floor, has been arranged to catch the fancies of the ladies, with a range of drapes and curtains is attractively displayed.

There are two large display rooms on the second floor of the store where kitchen and dining room suites, and bedroom furniture will be displayed. A splendid new line of Barrymore rugs will also be displayed here. Downstairs store types of rugs, linoleum and other floor coverings will be offered.

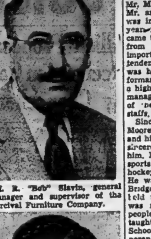
Reserved for Storage

The third floor of the store will be reserved for storage, but the basement will be used for display purposes as well as for additional storage. In the basement heavy types of furniture and equipment such as coal and wood ranges and other appliances, will be displayed.

A large unloading and shipping space has been provided at the rear of the store.

The new Belleville store of the Percival Furniture Company is but one of a chain of furniture stores which are operated by the firm in different centres in Central and Eastern Ontario.

General Manager and supervisor of the Percival chain is I. R. Slavin who with his wife and family of two daughters makes his home in this city. Store manager is Mr. Stuart Martin. Mr.



I. R. "Bob" Slavin, general manager and supervisor of the Percival Furniture Company.

Stuart Martin, local manager of the new Percival Furniture store in Belleville.

Martin joined the Percival organization only a few months ago after being 17 years with the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., the last three years in Belleville. His home town is Toronto but with his wife and six-year-old son, Alan, he now calls Belleville his home.

Seven Stores in Chain

In addition to the Belleville store, the Percival Furniture Company has stores at Brockville; Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Gananoque and Napanee with headquarters and store at Kingston.

Office manager with the Belleville store is Mr. Percy Day who has as his assistants Mrs. Thelma MacDonald and Miss Anna Campbell.

The sales staff includes Mr. Ralph Bridge, Scott Bremner and Miss Betty Hill.

Visitors at the new Percival Furniture Store during "open house" Tuesday evening and all day Wednesday as well as customers who visit the store for the next two weeks will be eligible for attendance prizes, which are to be given away free, by the store management.

Given Attendance Slips

Each visitor at the store during the above period will be given attendance slips and between 30 and 40 prizes, chairs and tables and other appliances, will be drawn for. It is not necessary to purchase anything, as attendance at the store entitles the customer to a chance on the prizes. Prizes will be drawn for each night with all slubs to go back into the barrel for the grand prize of an electric washing machine.

Obituary

WILLIAM JOSEPH MOORE

William Joseph Moore, plant superintendent with Deacon Bros. Ltd., suffered a heart attack at his home, 153 George Street, Tuesday morning and was conveyed to the Belleville General Hospital, where he died shortly after noon.

Born in Gananoque the late Mr. Moore was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Moore and was in his 64th year. Practically years was resided in Montreal and came to this city eight years ago from Kitchener to assume the important position of superintendent with Deacon Bros. He was highly efficient in the performance of his duties and held a high place in the regard of the management and of all members of the extensive staff.

Since coming to this city Mr. Moore made a host of friends and his sudden death has brought sincere regret to all who knew him. He took a keen interest in sports and gave his support to hockey and baseball in this city. He was a faithful member of Bridge Street United Church and held the office of an elder. He was much interested in young people and for some time taught a class in the Sunday School. He was also a temperance Superintendent in the school.

Surviving him are three daughters, Miss Ada Moore, Mrs. Edna Moore, Lake of the Woods, and James Kirkland, Kitchener; two sisters, Mrs. A. E. Lyle, Montreal and Miss Norma Moore, Earlton Corners, near Ottawa. Also one grandson, Jack Moore of Kitchener. His wife, the former Grace Snyder died on July 8rd last.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company's Funeral Home, Campbell Street; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

MRS. ANNIE ETHEL WEESE

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Annie Ethel Weese, wife of D. Henry Weese, College Street, died at her home early Wednesday morning.

Born in Bellevile, Mrs. Weese was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Arthurs and in this city all of 70 years of which she has lived at Maione Ont., had resided in Belleville, where she was a member of the past three years, Mrs. Weese was associated with the United Church.

Surviving to mourn her passing besides her husband, are two children, one son, Clarence Weese and one daughter, Mrs. Harold (Stella) Long, both of Belleville. There are seven grandchildren and one great grandchild. There are also three brothers, James Arthurs of Fort William; Frederick Arthurs of Sudbury, and William Arthurs of Belleville and two sisters, Mrs. John Wills of Belleville and Mrs. R. J. Conway of Toronto.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. AUDREY MARY HUNTER (Bancroftown)

Madoc, Ont., Nov. 9 (Special) — Mrs. Audrey Mary Hunter, wife of Alex. Hunter, died at her home in Bancroftown early Wednesday morning after an illness of three years' duration. She was born in Madoc Township and was 55 years of age. Her parents were Mrs. Mary Chambers and the late James Chambers. All her life was passed in the district where she was born. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and took an active part in the work of the Women's Association.

Surviving her are her husband; her mother; three sons, James of Point Anne; John and Robert of Belleville; three daughters, Mrs. Ronald (Molly) Kerr, Bloomfield; Mrs. Gordon (Gwen) Kennedy, Hamilton, and Mrs. William (Nina) Fournier, Mannwaukosis; three brothers, Milton Chambers of Asenold, Sask.; Frank Chambers of Bannockburn, and Jack Chambers of Paradise Valley, Alberta; two sisters, Mrs. A. B. Venable and Miss Irene Chambers, both of Toronto.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Kiwanians Hear Canadian Poet On Thunderbird

Close to one hundred Kiwanis and guests were present at the club's weekly luncheon in the Bridge Centre when Wallace Havelock Robb delivered an address entitled "Thunderbird."

(This has been covered in the Bridge report.)

The out-of-town visitors included: Delbert McLaughlin of Coulsonee; Bill Stock of Toronto; Frank Donkersley of Toronto; and Roy Jamieson of Toronto.

J. D. O'Flynn and Bud Punchard of Belleville were the local visitors.

President Norm Edwards directed the club's business announcing that the newly-elected Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor Bill Richmond will attend a meeting of district presidents, vice presidents, secretaries and treasurers on December 13th. He read a letter from Mrs. Ross Silver thanking the club for the bouquet of mums sent to her while she was recuperating in the Kingston General. Hospital.

Jack Walters' secured 15 volunteers to help him complete the renovation of the basement of Kiwanis centre. Major Ken Graham of the Salvation Army and director of the Kiwanis Boys' camp on Robbs Lake will tell the three members assist him pull up the beds and close the camp for the winter.

Past Lieutenant Governor Bruce Latimer introduced Wallace Robb and Andy Anderson tendered the vote of thanks.

IN MEMORIAM

WINSTANLEY — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Reginald Winstanley, who died November 23, 1946.
Sweet are the memories that linger around his name.
Sad are the thoughts that no one can understand.
In our hearts a love wonderful problem.
Time will not lessen the pain.
And into the school the angels came,
And took our boy away.
He never said goodbye,
He simply went on ahead.
And left a memory that will never fade.
Written by the wife.
While beside him brimful of hope's sparkle
Untouched stood the goblet of life.
Little thought the heart how feeble,
Little thought the lips how brave,
How bright his possible future,
How fair the form of life's young grave,
God knew all about those who love Him.
Now tells the trial over.
Now tells through it all God is loving,
And heaven is sweet reward.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Mom, Dad and sister Lorraine. N12

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 23—(CP)—Firmer tendencies appeared as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Leading Western Oils moved upwards on moderate advances.

Volume for the first four hours was 711,000 shares.

Liquors highlighted the industrial board. Canadian breweries and Distillers Seagrams climbed to new highs. Papers were mixed with some profit-taking appearing on recent gains. Utilities slipped slightly and steels and agriculturals tended lower.

Labrador highlighted base metals gaining 40 cents at $5.70. Osisko Lake returned to the spotlight for a moderate advance in brisk dealings.

Advances ranged up to 25 cents in key western oils. Jacuiet, Joliet Quebec and Hosco were active and higher among the smaller gold issues.

Mounting Interest Shown By Public in City Elections To Take Place on December 5

With time drawing close to the nomination meeting in the city hall on Friday morning, a mounting interest is being shown on the part of the public and John Public in the forthcoming municipal elections now less than two weeks away.

Already two local businessmen definitely signified their intention of contesting the mayor's chair and there is a possibility there may still be a third candidate by the time nomination rolls around. Also there are quite a number of new faces on the aldermanic horizon.

Certain nominees for the position of chief magistrate in the city are Alderman Jack Allin, chairman of industry who claims ten years' experience in city council. The other candidate is Ex-Alderman J. J. Trudeau who after being out of municipal politics for the past five years, will again offer himself at this time as mayor.

Two Others Mentioned

At least two other names have been mentioned and there is still the possibility it may be a three-cornered fight for the mayor's chair on December 5th with Ald. Charles L. Hyde entering the contest.

In the aldermanic field there are seven of the present aldermen whose terms are running out this year. Of these Aldermen George Everett, Orliff Lloyd or "Sandy" Lummiss will not offer themselves for re-election. It is understood that Aldermen Claude D. Tice and Sherston C. Wilbur will seek re-election. Alderman Allin of course is stepping up to contest the mayoralty, while Alderman Hyde has still not definitely declared himself.

New names mentioned for the aldermanic field include Jack McNab, Max Matthews, Dennis Swan, John P. Howe and C. F. Leggat, though well undoubtedly be in the field at nomination.

Will Run Again

Russell Wotten, current chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, is expected to run and it is reported will again offer himself for re-election. To date no other names have been mentioned for the candidacy.

Terms of office for four members of the local board of education are also concluded. These members are Mrs. Gladys Hall, Josephine Tickell, Harold Sellon, Arthur Burke and Stuart Robb, who replaced Dr. Austin Walters on the board. It is expected all will offer themselves for re-election. At least one or two others are expected to offer themselves as members for the board.

To Hold Meeting

As was the case last year, the Chamber of Commerce have arranged to hold a pre-election meeting at the Belleville Collegiate at which aspirants to the various municipal offices may give an account of their stewardship, or tell the electors just what they hope may be accomplished during the next term.

The Chamber is asking for a good turnout of ratepayers to hear the candidates for the various offices.

TRENTON

Town Only Lacks 433 Population To Become City

Trenton, Special—Trenton is right on the borderline of becoming a city and only lacked 433 of a population to reach the needed 10,000-mark. These figures were the result of a recent survey made by the town assessor J. E. Davis, compiling the assessment 1950 roll.

Civic departments in line for government grant reductions in the event of the town becoming a city won't have to worry now for at least another year.

Friday Nomination Day

With the election date set for December 12th if more than the required number are nominated, nomination for mayor, councillors, public school trustees and members of the public utilities commission will be received on Friday of this week according to clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry who will act as returning officer.

In the event the electors cast their ballots at the polls the new administrators will take office the first of the new year.

There is one office open in the Public Utilities Commission with J. E. Rolland's term expiring. Two public school board offices are open with Mr. Grant Rathbun and Mr. Lloyd York having served for two years straight. Councillors and the Chief magistrate are elected annually.

Will Not Be Candidate

Having already served Trenton for three terms, Mayor Kenneth Couch had not decided to contest the chief administrator's seat in the coming election, when questioned by a reporter Monday. The Mayor is non-committal but spoke of school building problems and sewerage disposal problems that would be the task of the civic heads next year. He stressed putting emphasis on the waterfront's face-lifting job in 1950.

Heavy Court Session

In an exceptionally heavy court session here yesterday Kenneth Patrick of Trenton was ordered to pay a fine of $183 including costs for having in his possession more liquor than his individual permit covered. Magistrate F. W. Wills imposed the penalty.

Ivan Stewart of Trenton found guilty of consuming spirits while listed as an illegal purchaser by the chief commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board paid the usual $13 for his latest drinking bout.

The Magistrate touched Ross Rutter's pocket book for $13, the price commonly paid for being drunk.

John Hayes, who listed his home town as Campbellford, when picked up recently forfeited $13 for his attention of the L.C.B.

One serious charge of wounding was remanded again while many other cases of non-support and minor offences were enlarged to later hearings.

Several traffic violators paid the penalty.

Attended Service

The Civic Administrators Sunday Service the first to take place at Trenton was observed at the Presbyterian Church here Sunday with the Rev. Ross MacLean officiating. All of the civic boards were represented and a total of 30 public servants were present. Mayor Kenneth Couch of Trenton and Judge Anderson of Belleville took part in the service.

REMANDED FOR MURDER

Calgary, Nov. 23 (CP)—William Lee Wallace, charged with the beer-bottle murder of Yvonne Levesque, 14, in an auto cache here Aug. 11, was remanded Tuesday for eight days. It was the second remand request by the Crown since Wallace was returned here Nov. 15 from Detroit where police said he confessed to killing the young woman during an attempted robbery.

HAZARDS

Highway officials are warning motorists that pedestrian hazards are at a seasonal peak and frequent poor weather and early nightfall make for poor visibility which is a fertile source of accidents.

The wise driver takes cognizance of all these facts and governs his driving and speed accordingly.

To these hazards are to be added the new seasonal dangers due to fluctuations of temperature, to rain or snow which can combine to make a road extremely slippery and hence hazardous.

A few days ago, at last weekend, winter came to the highways and roads in some parts of Ontario and death claimed a number of persons and injuries were sustained by many.

LANDING ON GLASSY WATER

An Ontario Government sponsored device is attracting attention. It enables pilots to land on a glassy surface. Many pilots of float planes had complained of great difficulty in coming to a surface of smooth water plainly enough to land safely. In the past cases have been reported in which "pilots landed before they got there."

Speed of planes makes it difficult to judge the distance between the descending floats and the smooth surface of the water. In the past the pilot usually tried to estimate the distance by fixing his sights on shoreline rocks or trees.

The Department of Lands and Forests which has 40 aircraft flying fire engines to cope with this risk took up the matter and as a result of the development of a safety device was turned over to Prof. K. B. Jack of Toronto University. Flying tests have been made of the equipment and the results cause pilots who have used them to be enthusiastic.

A description of the equipment used is given in the Ontario Government Services for November:

"The equipment itself is contained in a metal case weighing less than 30 pounds and stored in the back of the aircraft along with other electrical equipment. The pilot has two sources of information to tell him how close he is to water. A dial indicator operates as high as 4,000 feet, but when he gets down to approximately 150 feet a series of small neon bulbs light up. They go out at intervals of 50, 25, 10 and, eventually from a height of 20 feet at five foot intervals thus enabling the pilot to make a smooth landing."

WINTER COMES

Winter came to Eastern Ontario with a severe drop in the mercury but it did not bring snow such as blanketed Western and Northwestern parts of the Province, where snow varied in depth from seven to eighteen inches.

This is said to have been the coldest spell in one part of Ontario for many years in the month of November.

Any nature has given warning and he is wise who is prepared for any of the eventualities which may arise by a change in the routine of the elements which make up our climate and our weather.

Whether this is a hint from the Weatherman that the coming winter may be something of the old-time winter remains to be seen. On the other hand there is the word of science that temperature is moderating, that even the glaciers have been melting at an accelerated rate. There are two writers just behind us which were not severe and which did not bring a great volume of snow.

A KIND WORD FOR OUR "CULTURE"

We propose three rousing cheers for Sir Andrew Murray, lord provost of Edinburgh, who said in Toronto that "Culture in Canada will up to international standards."

We do not know what are the international standards of culture, or who sets them or measures them, or what a visitor can know about our own situation in that respect, but the question having come up we applaud the tact of the Lord Provost's statement — probably a reporter said to him, "What do you think of Canadian culture, Sir Andrew?"

Constantly, as we have mentioned before in this place, our home-grown intellectuals are deploring, and publicly, the sad state of our national culture. We have, they say, no real literature, no art, no music, no soul: we have no dominating characteristics, one gathers, but a crude commercialism, a desire to get on in the world so that we can buy bigger cars and bigger diamonds.

It is good that the Lord Provost of Edinburgh declines to have any part of this remarkable point of view.—Ottawa Journal.

CAMPAIGNING LOVER

When I was courting Nellie, I
Was outstanding all things fine;
Like gowns of silk and satin and diamond pins and rings.

As man who run for office and would elected be,
I pledged that I'd be faithful
If she would vote for me.

The candidates were many who sought her heart to win,
I charged them all with folly;
I branded them with sin.

I praised myself most highly.
Now let it be confessed,
I told her I had talents I never have possessed.

Then came the happy evening
she cast her vote for me.
Believing every promise of what I'd do and be.

But done the honeymooning,
my Nellie found this true:
That all they pledge as lovers
fow husbands ever do.

Frank Bonnerville, Ray Futsell, Jim Thompson, Jim Thorpe, Floyd Martin, Paul Orlando, C. H. Greenfield and Grant Goode sell have returned from the North Country after a successful deer hunting expedition. The party got their full quota.

Settlement including two of the finest bucks seen here in many years. Hunting headquarters were maintained at the cottage of the Long Lake Hunt Club and the outing was enjoyable in every respect, good fellowship, hunting and good fellowship.

Miss Bessie Vanderwater was home from Toronto to spend the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Muir, Pine Street, have returned home from Rochester, N.Y., where they visited their daughter, Mrs. R. M. Hall.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 23rd, 1919

Eggs reached a record price on the market here today, selling 90 cents per dozen. Butter sold at 60 cents to 63 cents per pound; chickens 22c to 25c; ducks 22c per pair; ducks $1.50 to $1.60 each.

Miss Farley of this city was appointed Departmental Superintendent for Medal Contests at the annual meeting of the Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union which was held in Guelph last week.

Mrs. R. Andrews, Hillside Street, has returned home from Edmonton and Calgary where she spent several months.

Mr. G. H. Sinclair is spending a few days in Montreal.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 22nd, 1909

The meeting called by Mayor Lorne Marsh to consider holding an Old Boys Re-Union here next summer was poorly attended and no action was taken. Another meeting will be called shortly.

Mr. William Burley, Cedar Street, reported to the police that a valuable brown spaniel pup was stolen from his premises yesterday.

The prospects are bright for a first class junior O.H.A. team in Belleville this winter. At a meeting held recently the following officers were elected: Hon. President, Thomas Hicks; President, J. W. Johnson, M.P.P.; First Vice President, F. H. Bingham; Second Vice President, Dr. Dolan; Third Vice President, A. E. Reynolds; Secretary, Ed. O'Flynn; Treasurer, A. E. Spangenberg; Committee, Arnott. The proposal to reduce the age limit to 19 years would make a hit in this city.

Mr. J. R. Smith of this city, spent yesterday in Brockville.

Mr. W. Gordon of Tweed, is the guest of Mr. W. Gordon, Church Street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Elliott have returned home after spending several months in the Old Country.

For the size of its population the City of Belleville has more fine musicians within its borders than any place in Canada.

Mr. Willis Dolan went to Brockville today on business.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

KITCODDLE COMMERCE

The late Joe Penner—may his sinoidal sinner rest in peace—made a career for himself in the theatre out of the question, "Any body wanna buy a duck?" today, with your indulgence, I'd like to make a column out of an equally pertinent question.

Anybody wanna buy a fleas time? A tahi-hael? A dingaling-pertishnod or, maybe, a drahibaar . . . ?

These tongue twisters came into my life a few days ago, along about sunset, when I was sauntering up Sixth Avenue and spotted a dachshund romping and roughhousing in the window of a pet shop.

"That's for me," I said to myself. "He's built so Eleanor and I can pet him at the same time."

I walked in and asked the proprietress how much she wanted for the mutt.

"He'll cost you $350—and he is no pup to be had for anywhere near that."

"Isn't that a little steep?"

"It's very reasonable for a good dachshund. If you wanted a full-blooded one, like this, you'd have to pay $500 and up."

"I don't get this full-blooded business," I said. "What have these pups got in their veins—Shasta water or Bourbon?"

"You don't understand," said the proprietress, with a trace of irritation and have papers to prove it."

Well, there was no one else in the shop, and so I asked the lady to show me the papers. I came down on how champions are selected. What with one thing and another stuff to Fido fanciers, but on the off-chance that you're no more dyed-in-the-wool than I am, here this . . .

For one thing, including the tongue twisters already mentioned there are 111 recognized breeds of dog in the world. And for another, a purp isn't officially a purp until registered with the American Kennel Club—the Burke's Peerage of the pooch-dom.

During 1948, there were 239,495 new arrivals listed with the A.K.C., the only criterion for membership—and this is Big Business, mind you—being that it's quite a few of the registered Rovers are sold for a thousand dollars or better.

Last year, the local clubs around the country sponsored 1,464 dog shows, and you could easily elect a Congressman with the patronage of judges, handlers, tail-trimmers and ear-snippers involved in the racket.

To rate a "Ch." before it's name, a dog must first win a blue ribbon at one of the dog clubs. This entitles it to compete for "best of winners." If it wins that, it's given a certain number of points towards its championship, depending on the number of dogs it has been beaten. Then, to be declared a champion, it has to win 15 points, getting them in at least three different shows and under at least three different judges.

I asked the owner of the pooch-atorium to tell me something about the gentlemen who do the judging.

"There are more than 8,000 of them licensed by the A.K.C.," she said. "The Club has set certain standards to guide them, but the judges don't have to pay any attention to them unless they happen to like the looks of a dog. Consequently, in selecting a 'best of winners,' a judge may pick a blooded mutt over a pure bred, or one day, and a week later reverse himself in another show.

"The tendency, however, is to go along with the decision of a previous judge, and this sometimes results in strange selections. Why, I remember a few years ago a highly-touted European judge pinned the blue ribbon on and amused by the higgledy-piggledy appearance of a fox terrier whose hair had been curled—presumably to get him past the entry committee. As a result he was disqualified if the dog was for sale.

"One of the most overbearing hins, and not knowing that the European was joking, awarded a prize to a mangy St. Bernard lapdog pooch. And at subsequent shows, other judges, influenced by that decision until the animal had piled up enough points to win a championship. Finally, Miss Higgledy-Piggledy is a big name in the dog world and makes a lot more than a thousand dollars."

"It's a lot like show business," I said to the lady. "I know several Broadway and Hollywood stars who started out looking like thousand-dollar class by a very similar process."

"See food," he said. "Haven't you got a favorite city?"

"Well, the time I spent in my life, the idea occured to me that it is wicked to have a favorite food or city. It is unfair to rank among your children; or to prefer Mother to Father, for instance. If you back up far enough away from anything, it is impossible that a city is not an institution, but a personality. Any one of them can be a friend, a lover, a home. In any one of them you can be lonely, desolate, or in a crowded room," whose laughter will sing in your dreams. In each of them are streets, vistas, spirangles of misty beauty: book store faces looking, plaintive and, or whatever in the world your love or hatred may be. I'm lonely, jealous, people, as lonely and searching and single as you, swarming in the wintry night, desolate, wondering . . . . . .

Peiping, headed by Gen. Mao Tze Tung. This bring from Chinese Nationalist sources the report that the Peiping Government has no control over Manchuria, which is a Soviet satellite under Russia and takes orders only from Moscow.

And what's the answer to this? Well, the Chinese Nationalists, who have been insisting all along that Manchuria has been marked down as a possession to be grabbed by Russia. Manchuria is strategically situated; it lies up against Siberia, and it has rich iron ore resources.

In short, Manchuria is an ideal base for any country which has ambitions to control eastern Asia. As a matter of fact, Russia did provide the Soviet Union with an invaluable defense position in event of another world war.

As far as Ward is concerned, Chinese Nationalists insist it is quite possible that the Manchurian Reds acted on their own responsibility in locking him up. The charge that he manhandled employes may be dealt with severely in Nationalist circles. However, it is pointed out that the Chinese General likely is possessed of much information about Manchuria and Russia that may be worried because of this.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS TO DO

People who have things to do, rarely get into trouble. They have no time, and they know they are valuable as Work. Even when disappointment comes, and sorrow, or temporary defeat, if you will make it a point to have things to do, you will find the way done to brighten.

Busy people are the happiest because they see things being accomplished, and they find added joys incentive to us all. I once knew a secretary who told me she always left work on her letter, the desk of her employer a little tidier than when she came in that day. No part of the day is so important as the first few hours of the day. In that time the mind is freshly clear and so much more can be accomplished than in the more mediate program awaiting one.

Even when the work of the day is over, if we have things to do that will be in contrast to the doing at one's place of business the day is that much more enriched. It's interests and things to do that often keep us from being sorry for ourselves, or from needless worries.

Jesse Stuart, in his latest book about teaching, entitled "The Thread That Runs So True," tells how, as a teacher, he kept others busy and surely quite busy and happy—because he gave them things to do that interested them, arousing their curiosity and stimulating their desire to learn.

Idle people are always complaining people. Our police have no time to listen to them, and they have things to do. I have a friend who has always plenty of time and whenever we have had the opportunity to meet, we have enjoyed visiting in his mind, and I cannot recall ever meeting him that he didn't have a book in his pocket.

A child, with nothing to do, is unhappy and troublesome. It is the same with us who are mature. All days are too short for the one who always has things to do. Reading in the delightful books of David Grayson, I have come across so many instances where he gained great joy and profit in the little things that he did, in his home and about his farm. His presence in the world is missed by thousands who knew and loved him—But he lives in the books that he wrote.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A taxi driver in Montreal, presuming I came from Toronto, asked me which city I preferred. The answer him, I told him I came from Winnipeg, but spent a great deal of my time in Montreal. The

"Which city do you prefer?" he pressed doggedly.

"Halifax," I told him. "I love sea food."

"If you can get wonderful sea food right here in Montreal," corrected the taxi driver.

"It's imported," I parried. "In Halifax, it's fresh."

"I never been in Halifax," admitted the taxi driver, "But Montreal be de best everything. I been in New York, at that."

"Good sea food in New York," I agreed. "Also in Bari."

"Ontario!" checked the taxi driver.

"No, Italy," I evaded. "Wonderful sea food."

Coming to a stop light, the taxi driver turned. The driver turned around and had a good long look at me.

"Have you got a favorite city?"

"Well, the time I spent in my life, the idea occured to me that it is wicked to have a favorite food or city. It is unfair to rank among your children; or to prefer Mother to Father, for instance. If you back up far enough away from anything, it is impossible that a city is not an institution, but a personality. Any one of them can be a friend, a lover, a home. "Montreal," asserted the taxi driver, as the light changed, "has got everything."

Mackenzie Column:

Has Mukden Been Ordered to Make Quick Decision?

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The world is informed indirectly through a Mukden, Manchuria newspaper that the Communist People's Government has imprisoned in Mukden with four of his staff on a charge of espionage a Chinese employee in the consulate.

This comes on the heels of Washington's formal diplomatic request to 30 countries, including Russia, to join in bringing pressure on the Chinese Red regime to free Ward and his colleagues imprisoned there. It could mean that the Mukden People's Court has been ordered to act quickly and severely so as to render it unnecessary for Moscow to respond to any action which may result from the United States' appeal.

Problem Arises

If this concerted manoeuvre materializes, it may put the spotlight on a highly interesting situation. In the first place, the Ward proposition is that the request regarding Ward be directed to the Chinese Communist regime

SUNSHINE, COD LIVER OIL AND VITAMIN D

Vitamin D is a chemical substance normally found in the body. It's chief purpose is to facilitate the absorption of lime and phosphorous from the contents of the stomach and intestines. Both lime and phosphorous are absorbed from the digestive system slowly. A lack of vitamin D will decrease the absorption to the point that insufficient lime and phosphorous will be available for the normal growth and structure of the bones. This condition developing in infancy and childhood is known as Rickets.

Vitamin D is produced by the action of ultra-violet light upon the skin. Vitamin D activity can also be generated in certain foods by exposing them to the rays of ultra-violet light. The main source of vitamin D occurring in substances suitable for food, is found in the liver oils of certain fish, such as the cod, the halibut and the halibut.

These facts have been reiterated so often that everybody would seem to be pointless, but I mention them again to emphasize the limitations of the usefulness of vitamin D in the treatment of many disorders.

Vitamin D is used in medicine principally to prevent and cure rickets. Evidence indicates that other purposes may be served by the vitamin. It has been suggested that vitamin D emulates the action of the thyroid gland secretion of the parathyroid glands to a slight but effective degree. The action of vitamin D in reference to the growth and structure of the bones may be fundamentally governed by the statement that it prevents rickets.

It makes no difference whether the vitamin is developed within the body by the action of sunlight or ultra-violet irradiation of the skin, or ingested orally in the form of fish liver oil or extract, or other irradiated food, the ultimate action is the same in any case.

Vitamin D has been used experimentally in the treatment of hay fever, asthma, arthritis and many diseases of the skin. The value of this type of treatment has not been generally accepted although evidence of its effectiveness, and harmlessness under proper control has been brought forward.

A very general concept is that vitamin D supplied either in the medium of cod liver oil, or by irradiation, is of value in the prevention of respiratory disorders and their cure, if infectious or contagious in type. Many persons resort to taking cod liver oil or ultra-violet light treatments during the cold months to prevent or to treat colds. In order more widely known as the "common cold." If there was any division in the ranks of medicine as to the value of this procedure, I would be found lined up with the doubters.

Insofar as the tonic action of vitamin D is concerned, one outstanding fact is that anything that can be accomplished by treatment with an expensive nostrum can be accomplished as well—or better with cod liver oil or other vitamin D preparation taken internally. The exception to this statement is that vitamin D taken internally will not cause burning of the skin, which in some skin disorders appears to be of some value. But hopeful persons who invest in a sun lamp can be satisfied

Major Factors in Promoting Safety Precautions Outlined at Meeting

In an after-dinner address given to the Belleville District section of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association at Bateman Monday night, Mr. George Stanton, Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Ltd., emphasized that in getting safety across to workers, three major things should be considered. These were the new individual, who requires more knowledge of safety the old employee who is apt to forget the hazards and humanity's great weakness in that people will not generally accept things as they are.

Mr. Stanton emphasized that he knew of some plants that were so hazardous that it was hard to imagine how anyone could work under such conditions. He said he also knew of a good many industries that were doing an outstanding job in safety without the whole hearted backing of their management.

Safety should not be thought of principally because of its monetary value to a company but, also for humanities cost such as the cost of attitudes resulting from serious accidents. Attitudes, he felt, could be considered under four headings—the attitudes of displaced persons.

The attitudes of younger generation.

The attitudes of older generation.

The attitudes of management towards safety.

Displaced persons found it difficult to think in terms of security with regards to such injuries as amputated fingers and crushed feet, because they were accustomed to seeing hundreds maybe thousands of human suffering as a result of bombing during the second great war Mr. Stanton said.

Young people had been accustomed to certain ways as a result of the war and perhaps now require some training in readjusting or preparing them for the job as it should be carried out in peacetime. Evidence of the younger generation's behavior may be gotten simply by picking up the newspaper, where countless numbers of articles may be read concerning the youth of today. "It is evident that we must get people down to earth to think seriously of the penalties of unsafe acts."

The older worker, he continued, who has the attitude that I've worked here 30 years and never had an accident is indeed a difficult person to sell the idea of safety to. It is our job to convince these experienced workers that a big part of their job is to think and act safely. He must be the one to set a safe example for the new employee.

And lastly management who is prone to look upon safety as something set aside from production. We must convince management that accident prevention is a big part of his production. We must overcome management's reluctance to accept safety and until we do this we will not get the all out co-operation of management in safety.

"We are apt to forget at times, that people are human beings and that there is a definite human interest to be considered when we look upon the problem of accident prevention.

"We must change the thinking of people, generally, from that of the negative to that of the positive. In other words don't take the attitude that it can't be done, but tackle the problem of safety with the thought in mind it can be done and if we do you can rest assured that all of our safety records will improve greatly."

The meeting was under the chairmanship of Mr. J. W. Thompson, who in his opening remarks stated that progress of the section this year was to be commended.

Mr. Stanton was introduced by F. C. Ethier. Dinner was served in the cafeteria of the Bata Shoe Company.

P-C ATTEMPT

When Mr. Diefenbaker rose to resume a speech he started Tuesday on the combines legislation he renewed attacks against the government for withholding the flour-milling report.

Speaker MacDonald called him to order and said the question of publication of reports had nothing to do with the legislation before the House. Mr. Diefenbaker objected and said members should be given an opportunity to answer statements made by Mr. Garson in a 2½ hour speech Tuesday.

Mr. MacDonald said there had been a fairly-extensive debate on the flour-milling report and he planned to stand by an earlier ruling that only sections of the report pertinent to the legislation before the House could be discussed.

Moves Amendment

Mr. Diefenbaker then moved his amendment.

Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Temiscouata) said it was out of order from the "point of view of common sense." The first part stated members were anxious for remedies against combines, but they were stifling them by the amendment and the speeches.

Mr. MacDonald spoke and said that in his opinion the amendment was out of order.

"Surely in this parliament we have a right to argue a case," interjected Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker thumbed through a journal of the United Kingdom House which showed that an amendment similar to his had been moved in 1858. It was accepted and since then the form of such amendments had not been challenged.

Mr. Garson said Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment might be in order if it had not been preceded by Mr. Drew's amendment. There had been a lengthy discussion on the flour-milling report on a motion to go into supply. Mr. Drew's amendment opened up the whole matter again. Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment would raise the matter for a third time and Mr. Garson said for that reason he felt it was out of order.

Reason for Amendment

Mr. Drew replied that his amendment was for a reference of the subject matter in the Combines bill to a committee. The amendment contained some direction from the House as to the terms of reference of the committee.

The House had rejected that amendment and, as a result the bill would not go before a committee.

Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment was a straight motion criticizing the government's actions in the administration by the Combines Investigation Act.

Retiring President Bay of Quinte Y.P.U. Recipient of Gifts

Madoc—On Saturday afternoon and Sunday, the executive of the Bay of Quinte conference Young People's Union of the United Church met in Trinity United Church, Madoc, for the purpose of preparing their program for the coming year.

During the sessions, the retiring president, Jack Campbell, was presented with a book, and a set of book ends, in recognition of his services for the past two years. Mr. Kenneth Symons of Harwood, is the president-elect and Mr. William Piercy of Peterborough, is the vice-president.

At the morning service on Sunday Jack Campbell, Ken Symons and Wm. Piercy assisted the minister of the church. During the weekend the young people were entertained by members of the congregation.

WEDDINGS

CARMEN — CLEMENGER

Madoc—A quiet wedding took place at the United Church parsonage Madoc, on Saturday, Nov. 16th, when the Reverend Alfred Poulter united in marriage Marjorie Clemenger, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clemenger and Kyra J. Carmen, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Collingwood Carmen. After the ceremony the bride and groom left for Toronto and other points north. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Madoc township.

McMATH — HERRINGTON

Empey Hill—A pretty Autumn wedding was recently solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, when Ruby Fancy, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herrington, became the bride of Robert James MacGillivray (Mac), only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMath, Empey Hill. The double ring ceremony was performed under an archway of streamers and bells, by the Rev. W. R. Merrick. The wedding music was played by Miss Mabel Tucker.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin with nylon yoke. She wore a full-length veil with coronet headdress and carried an arm bouquet of red roses and white lilies.

Miss Jeanne Tucker, cousin of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of pale blue taffeta with braided headpiece and shoulder veil. She wore matching mitts and carried an arm bouquet of yellow lilies.

Mr. John Herrington was best man.

Miss Sharon Clark, niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore a floor-length frock of pink taffeta with matching mitts and carried a rose-spray of roses and baby's breath.

After the ceremony, the wedding dinner was served to approximately forty-five guests by Mrs. Jas. Haggerty, Mrs. A. H. Uens, Miss Judy Kinnaird and Miss Mary Herrington. Canon Kidd, of Deseronto, proposed the toast to the bride, which was responded to by the groom.

Later, the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for Niagara Falls, Buffalo and other points in the United States. The bride travelled in a aqua wool dress with wine coat and black accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were to the bridesmaid, a compact, to the flower girl, a gold locket, to the groomsman, a cup and saucer, and to those who served, boxes of chocolates. The groom's gift to the best man was a leather billfold.

Mincemeat Made With Venison

Toronto—Nov. 23 — The Old Timer, once more, will be looked around the Lands and Forests Department exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair here. Then he moistened the tip of the pencil with his tongue. "And then, Lady," he said, "you have enough for 10 to 12 nine-inch pies."

"And you say that the mincemeat is good? You see my family has been picky, Mr. Ranger."

"Yes Mam!" he declared with emphasis. "But let's just check the ingredients."

Christmas is coming on. And Christmas suggests the rich lean venison—neck meat and one pound of suet. Add two pounds of apples and two pounds of currants, a pound of citron and raisins; half pound of citron and six cups of brown sugar. Add two teaspoons nutmeg; a tablespoon allspice and one of cinnamon. One teaspoon ginger and another of cloves; a tablespoon of salt; two oranges and eight cups of cider or grape juice.

The Old Timer drew another deep breath. Then he went on:

"Now you bake the venison 40 minutes in a moderate oven, say 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Cool and chop. Mix with the chopped suet; grated, sieved and chopped apples; currants, raisins and citron. Add the sugar, spices juice of two oranges, finely chopped rind of one orange and the cider or grape juice. Simmer for 30 minutes. Pack the mixture hot into jars, seal and process (60 minutes for a pint jar; and 70 minutes for a quart jar) at 15 pounds pressure; three hours in the boiling water bath."

"H-m-m-m," commented the Forest Rangers who was leaning on the bear cage. "So now the Overseers are making mincemeat! One of these days, lady, I'll give you my recipe for venison salad." He borrowed a pencil stub. The reporter left. Deadlines, you know.

Male Best Suited for Culinary Art Say Noted French Chefs

By WILLIAM ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — Cartoonists had a field day when Commonwealth Secretary Noel-Baker suggested in Canada that Britain ought to exchange 10,000 men with France. But not so two French chefs in London.

While the illustrators pictured the barricades going up in Paris marching English cooks bearing English cook books and pots and pans, Noel-Baker and chef Monsieur Jean Conil and Monsieur J. Vincent drew pained sighs.

And as the cartoonists sketched "They-shall-not-pass" Frenchmen above the barricades, the two Frenchmen, within minutes in life to teach English boys the art of cooking said Mr. Noel-Baker had it all wrong.

It wasn't the men. It was the women.

"Women can't cook," said Conil, chef de cuisine at the Imperial College of Science and Technology and general secretary of the Vincent Academy of Cookery.

"Women never could cook and never are likely to. The trouble is they just have not got the right creative instinct for the job. And it means that the boys will be the better English cooking lies in the men."

Won't be Long Before the Ladies Are Showing Their Knees Again

By FLORENCE MILLS

Paris, Nov. 23 — (AP) — It won't be long before the ladies are showing their knees again.

This is the prediction of the current mid-season fashion showings, where the new autumn dresses are featured by almost every house, and hemlines are considerably higher.

Captain Molyneux is showing winter skirts with slim silhouette reach a bare two inches below the knee. Jackets of these are either tightly fitted or slightly waisted.

Pierre Balmain gives top billing to the short evening dress, favoring those with straight skirts and halter necklines. All are sharply nipped in at the waist, banishing, for the time at least, fears that the "sack" silhouette of the 1920s may be on the way back.

Rochas offers a heavy wool jersey shot with metallic threads for many of these brief sheath evening gowns.

One of the sensations of the current openings is Schiaparelli's pullover fur coats.

She makes a high-collar jacket of seal which looks exactly like a mild blouse, and uses mink for a circular-cut pullover with short sleeves.

Elsa Jackets Introduced

The eccentric Elsa also introduces "kilt" jackets this season, strictly hazardous for wear in high wind. These have stitched pleats that stand out at least two feet from the body back and front. Her kilts have high-waisted necklines that sag down in front, often aided by fancy buttons. Her jackets are correctly belted, with side slits to reveal coffer-shaped kilt pockets.

Lanvin shows skirts at modest mid-calf lengths and likes slim day dresses in pastel wool with discreet drapery and patent-leather belts. Vionnet, too, favors the slim dress.

You need Betty Grable legs and a colossal amount of nerve to wear some of the new winter sports fashions created by Paquin this season. Street stare-catchers in his winter collection is a skating outfit with fire-engine red wool stockings and a black jersey flared skirt cut so short it barely meets the stocking tops. With it he worn a princess-style black coat and hood lavishly trimmed in white fox fur, lined in red wool to match the stockings.

Jacques Griffe goes all out for buttons this season, using as many as 50 bright bone ones on a single suit. He also shows short party dresses with unwieldy crinoline skirts. These have extremely full rectangular made of layers upon layers of net, set over strapless

Paralyzed Woman Found Nearly Starved, Husband Lying Dead

New York, Nov. 23—(AP)—Police Tuesday night found a paralyzed woman nearly starved to death in a rooming apartment while her aged husband lay dead in the next room.

Nearly 50 persons in the apartment building were unaware of the tragedy for at least two days.

Police said Druckerman probably died of natural causes.

Miss Greta Willis Honored by Shower

A pretty miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Foxon, Grafer Street, in honour of the bride-elect of this month, Miss Greta Willis.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with bouquets of bronze and white baby chrysanthemums, and the tea table was artistically appointed with lit candles, centered with a miniature bride's cake, flanked on either side by pink and white candles in silver candelabra, and silver services.

The evening was passed in singing the old favorite songs, and in playing bingo, after which, Master Michael Foxon, drawing a decorated wagon in pink and white, and loaded with gifts, came in, and presented them to the bride-to-be, seated in the place of honor, beneath a bower of pink and white streamers, which ended in two large bows at the chair back.

After opening the many gifts, Greta graciously thanked everyone for their kindness to her, extending a cordial invitation for all to visit her.

Refreshments were served later by the hostess, Mrs. John Foxon, Miss Joan Bogart; Mrs. Morley Craig, and Mrs. Isaac Wannamaker.

Author Addresses Arts and Crafts Club

A special meeting of the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club was held Monday night in the Corby Public Library at which members and guests were privileged to hear Mrs. Wilson Macdonald, Canadian Culture", and concluded with the reading of selections from his new including several from "Thunderbird", his new novel concerning itself with Mohawk legends of the Bay of Quinte district which Mrs. Macdonald visited shortly.

Mrs. Harold Robbins, president of the Club, introduced the speaker and Mrs. G. Hornsby expressed the appreciation of the members for the message Mr. Robb had given them.

ST. ANDREW'S C.G.I.T.

The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church C.G.I.T. group was held in the church parlors on Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

The opening service was under the direction of Agnes Elvins, who took the scripture lesson; and following this, Audrey Mitchell led, with the election of officers being as follows: Audrey Stirling, president; Peggy Parks, first vice president; Margarete Wilson, secretary; Nan Elvins, treasurer; Beverley Pigden, press secretary; Betty Lou Mitchell, pianist; Lyndanna Hasley, pianist and Barbara Helm, supply pianist.

Those who had material, worked on their projects, while the others played games.

"Taps" was sung and the meeting dismissed. There were 13 girls and two leaders present.

THOMASBURG Community Honors Mr., Mrs. D. Calvert With Fine Gifts

Thomasburg — On Tuesday evening a large number of friends, relatives and neighbors from the community assembled in the Oddfellows Hall here to honour Mr. David Calvert, and his bride, the former Miss Illa Latchford, whose marriage took place at Bethel United Church recently and to wish them best wishes in the years which lie ahead.

Mr. Cecil Green was chosen to be the chairman for the evening, a position which he filled in his usual capable manner. An interesting program was presented, and among the artists were Douglas Aubry and Donna Sharpe of Campbellford Mrs. Harry Harrison of Plainfield, Mrs. Nelson Welsh and Mrs. Donald Hulbert of Moira and Mrs. Fred Porter as pianist.

The guests of honor were given also as the platform, and after a few humorous remarks by the chairman, who called on Miss Shirley Morland to read the community address and Ila and David were presented with a handsome studio couch in green and a set of dishes for which they both expressed their thanks in an able way. Both are lovely gifts and also for the evening and extended an invitation to everyone to visit them in their new home.

Refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

Crookston Couple Wedded 58 Years

Crookston—Mr. and Mrs. James McGuire, of Crookston, celebrated their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary at their home on Nov. 11th. They both enjoy very good health. Mr. McGuire was born on the farm where he now resides. Mrs. McGuire was formerly Allison Stevenson, born in Sydney, Australia. They have one son, John, who resides near them, also two daughters, Mrs. Wellesley Holland and Mrs. Austin Ray, where family and most of their grandchildren were present on the happy occasion. A delightful lunch was served.

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

You can't define a pudding.

It's one of those wastebasket words, a convenient catch-all that includes clambakes, concoctions hot or cold, heavy or light, bitter or sweet. You can make a fish, suet or meat pudding, a pudding as light as a chocolate soufflé or as heavy as a basin of prunes.

In medieval times they called a good cook a good wife, and while the human stomach was described as the pudding house.

In America, most puddings have come to mean baked desserts. Steamed pudding, rice pudding and cornstarch pudding are all pleasing stand-bys.

One of the most interesting is the New England pandowdy. A pandowdy is a sweet stewed fruit covered with a thin drop biscuit dough and baked until the crust is light and brown. It's really an old fashioned shortcake with fruit and dough baked together. It should be served while some of the oven heat still keeps it warm and fresh.

A typical New England pandowdy is made with fresh sweetened cranberries and orange rind. It should be served warm with heavy cream poured from a pitcher, not whipped.

CRANBERRY PANDOWDY
Serves 4-6

Wash 4 cups of cranberries. Chop coarsely and mix with 1½ cups sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind and ½ teaspoon salt.

Grease a square baking dish. Add cranberry mixture. Bake in a hot oven 425 degrees for 20 minutes.

While mixture is baking, prepare the following batter: sift together 1 cup previously sifted flour, 1½ teaspoon salt. Cut in 2 tablespoons shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add ½ cup milk or light cream all at once. Stir only until flour is dampened and coarse looking.

Spread batter over cranberries. Return pan to oven and continue baking 12-15 minutes or until top is well browned.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Not Correct: To Have Groom's Parents' Names On Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle this controversy: Is it proper for the wording of a wedding invitation to include the names of the parents of the groom as well as the parents of the bride?

M.C.

No. The invitations to a wedding that is to take place in this country should abide by the traditions of this country. Traditionally here the correct procedure is for the bride's parents, who are to be the hosts of the wedding, to issue the invitations, to sponsor it with their names only. The parents of the groom are not mentioned in the invitation. At the wedding the groom's parents are the guests of honor—they sit in the first pew at the right of the aisle in the church, and at the reception. If the service is a seated service, the groom's mother sits on the right of the bride's father, who is the host, and the groom's father sits at the right of the bride's mother, who is the hostess.

Thank You Note To His Host

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I was introduced to a very prominent business man in this city, and he invited me to be his guest at an afternoon entertainment. I had a most pleasant time, and would like to acknowledge his hospitality by a note that is absolutely correct. Will you please help me by suggesting an appropriate note? (His wife died about two years ago—in the note should I extend my sympathy to him?)

H.H., Jr.

Your note might read somewhat like this:

Dear Mr. Bronson,

You were most kind and thoughtful to invite me to go with you to the concert (or whatever the type of entertainment) last week, and I thank you most heartily for your hospitality and for the happy time I had. I enjoyed every minute of the concert and it was a great treat for me for I love bar good music.

My friendly salutations to you, Mr. Bronson, my deep appreciation, and I hope our paths will cross again soon.

Sincerely yours,

Gay Envelope Linings For Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Are brightly-colored envelope linings in good taste for Christmas cards?

Anita W.

Yes! For Christmas cards envelopes may be as gay and bright as you wish them—and they have never been as gay and bright as this year, and so many with radiant metallic papers, shot with golden and silver, red and green and blue.

Bride On Her Father's Right Arm

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My friend maintains that a bride goes up the aisle on her father's left arm. I say that she goes up the aisle on her father's right arm. Which of us is right about this?

M.G.

Customarily the bride comes up the aisle on her father's right arm. This means that to get to this position at the bride's left during the ceremony, he will have to step around her train when they arrive at the foot of the aisle. Also when the bride and her father arrive at the first pew, he draws her slightly to the left so that he takes his place directly in front of the minister's right hand, the groom opposite the minister's left hand.

Enclosing Small Gift with Christmas Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to send a small gift, such as a bookmark or one handkerchief, in the envelope with a Christmas card? Or should the gift be sent separately?

E.D.

It's a charming idea to enclose such a gift in the envelope with the Christmas card. But you must be sure it's not too bulky for the envelope—and you must be sure that you put sufficient postage on the envelope.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't Leave Your Husband Impulsively—It May Boomerang

There is a tendency among women who are unhappy with their husbands to believe that a divorce would solve everything. If they could just get rid of the problem child their husband has become, they think, everything would be fine, and they would live happily forever after.

What most of them fail to realize, however, is that things might not work out that way at all. On the contrary, the loneliness that usually follows after a woman has dissolved a relationship to which she has become accustomed often turns out to be worse than the unhappiness she had been enduring.

A wife who has made that bitter discovery tells me that her four years' separation from her husband have been years of regret and despair.

"I left my husband," she writes, "not because I didn't love him, but because he started going around with another woman. She knew he was married, and I went to her and she promised to stay away from him, and for a time did so. Then, because I was very sick woman at the time, when they found they could be together easily, they resumed their relationship.

"He was a good man and I believe he loved me and still does. I still love him, and would like to get in touch with him, but I cannot because she is always around. It is over two years now since I spoke to him, and I cannot get in touch with him by letter because this woman gets the mail. They are living together now.

"Please tell me how I can get in touch with him, so this woman won't know. Sometimes I think I cannot go on another day without seeing him. I am lonesome for him I was sorry the same night I left him."

It seems to me that a second slogan should be side by side in the book of quotations with the one that says: "Marry in haste, repent in leisure." The second saying should read: "Leave your husband impulsively, repent on sober thought," the emphasis being on the word "impulsively." For it often happens that when a woman has the patience to sit out a period when her husband has his eye and mind on another woman, wins out in the end. I would venture to say, in fact, that the number of women in whose lives an episode of the kind has occured, and who have had the good sense and the fortitude to wait patiently for years of distance hastily, is far greater than the number of women who have done the latter. Because broken marriages become matters of public information, we often believe them to be more numerous than they actually are. There is no way of gathering statistics on the marriages that have teetered for a long time on the edge of disaster but righted themselves again eventually.

In a pathetic situation such as this woman describes in her letter, I wonder how much there is she can do. If her husband were really anxious to come back to her, it seems as though he would have made some move in that direction. The "other woman" can hardly be keeping him an actual prisoner in the house.

There is one thing that she might try that has a possibility of success if she could discipline herself to hanle it right. Presumably she knows where her husband works. If, by arranging, some time, to be in the vicinity of that place either when he might be going to lunch, or at the end of the day when he was going home, she could pay him a surprise visit, his reaction would almost certainly give away his true feelings toward her. If he was glad to see her, and greeted her with affectionate warmth, he would undoubtedly make an opportunity for them to talk together. But if, on the other hand, he tried to avoid her or hurry away, or showed impatience or annoyance at her sudden appearance, she might have to reconcile herself to the fact that he was satisfied to have everything over between them.

The surprise visit would be worth a try, however, if she could do it without creating a scene. That would be the worst mistake she could make.

I suggest she think it over, plan it carefully, and then carry it through with dignity and self-control.

DR. DORRANCE DIES

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Dr. George Morris Dorrance, 72, internationally-known surgeon and chairman of the Board of the Campbell Soup Company, died Monday night at his home. Dr. Dorrance was one of the first plastic surgeons, beginning such work in the First World War.

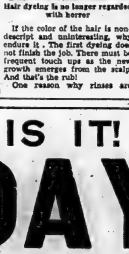
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Color Rinses For The Hair

Patrons of beauty shops now take it for granted that, when the shampoo is finished, the operator will ask "And what about a color rinse?" This attention has become a madness. Cometicians are taking advantage of it and there are rinses galore, of many shades. Some women fancy that it would be nice if the old mop were just a wee bit different.

Hair dyeing is no longer regarded with horror, as it was in the days when the bleached head was regarded with suspicion—as if it has something to do with the character or morals! What a clever, experienced operator can do in the way of color changes is nothing less than miraculous. But home treatment is something else again. A few locks can be touched up successfully, but a complete ducking in the dye pot may bring surprises not happy ones. By placing the dye step another, a woman can turn her hair green or taupe colored. One must understand about chemicals.



Hair dyeing is no longer regarded with horror

If the color of the hair is nondescript and uninteresting, why endure it . The first dyeing does not finish the job. There must be frequent touch ups as the new growth emerges from the scalp. And that's the rub!

One reason why rinses are popular is that the new color stays with one only until the next shampoo. Quite often a woman's hair is pretty enough, harmonizes with her complexion and eyes, but she gets a notion that she would like a bit brighter tone. She won't be satisfied until she gets it, and maybe she won't be satisfied when she does. She will enjoy a certain amount of pleasant excitement and that is something in a distraught world.

To give red glints to brown hair, a henna rinse is used, and that produces a permanent change. Henna leaves are steeped in water, the liquid cooled and strained, poured over the head repeatedly after the hair has been shampooed. A henna pack is made with the powdered product. It is a messy treatment; no woman should attempt to do it herself. The right tinting is important. Used carelessly on white hair, it may produce an ugly carrot shade.

A distressed beauty customer is the girl who once had locks of a lovely, coppery tint. They are gradually getting darker at the roots. Seeking professional services, she can regain the pristine shade. Expensive? Yes, a powdered form is used, mixed with hot water and peroxide. No, my friend we will not give amounts of ingredients. This is not for you to play with.

Fashion Flashes

BUYERS say they can't keep a white hat in stock, and no wonder, for it is so flattering and downright pretty. White velours make an afternoon hat, a pillbox, with a twisted black wing boasting off on the low side.

IT ISN'T EASY to resist the lure of a velvet suit, considering the charm of the fashion, and the fact that it has been out of circulation for so long. Lovely-tone velvet, in black, is used for a handsome suit, the skirt slim, the jacket lined with white satin. Arrow and slot details are outlined in self piping to slim the jacket line and add a novel touch to the three-button closing.

IT'S A CHINCH to add a bit of velvet to any costume this year. The shops are well stocked with velvet gloves, velvet bags and clutch purses, velvet handbag accessories, velvet belts and there are plenty of velvet-trimmed suede shoes.

ALL DRESSED UP is the wool knit glove. A very fancy number in dark tones of wool knit has a hand-crocheted sugary cuff in contrasting color trimmed with pearls dotted here and there.

ANOTHER REVIVAL is that of the ring watch, but with good improvements. A solid looking gold ring has a satin-finished lid that swings up to reveal a watch face beneath.

A BIG FAVORITE in finer fashions is that of velvet jersey combined with satin. A slope-shouldered top of navy blue wool jersey has a skirt of matching blue slipper satin with kangaroo pouch pockets.

Reform School Graduate Admits Life of Crime

San Francisco, Nov. 23, (AP)—A 21-year-old reform school graduate who says "society doesn't owe me anything," decided of his own volition to quit the life of crime he learned as a youngster.

Police were dumbfounded Sunday night when Floyd Christy walked into a police station here and confessed to some 150 burglaries committed since last June.

Christy, a boyish-looking youngman, told officers he had averaged $400 a week in his career as a full-time burglar.

"I thought that was something," he said. "I spent the money in night clubs and on girls. I gave them the jewelry I stole."

An orphan, Christy said he had been on his own since he was five. "Many times I have to steal to eat," he said, "I was a good for a gang of boys. I started out stealing milk bottles, then bicycles, then blankets from cars and then the—cars themselves."

The young burglar said his only education was in the state training school for boys at Woodburn, Oregon.

"I'm going straight after this one," he told officers who booked him for investigation.

Christy said he wanted to return to Tokyo to the Japanese wife he married secretly when he served there as an air force military policeman. He told officers they have a small daughter.

Dream Railroad Would Open up North's Riches

Vancouver, Nov. 23 (CP)—British Columbia has a vision. It sees its vast north country splitting open like a ripe melon some day to yield its riches of mine and forest, farmland and stream. But B.C. knows that it will take hundreds of millions of dollars and many years for that dream to become a reality.

British Columbia's hopes are pinned on a railway that would slice north through the interior of the mountainous coast province almost from Vancouver in the southwest corner to Fairbanks

The Pacific Great Eastern Railroad, say British Columbians, runs "from nowhere to nowhere." But there are big plans — and hopes — to extend its 346 miles of track into the full, rich heart of B.C. untapped natural wealth. Rails are being laid from Quesnel, northern terminus of the P.G.E., to Prince George to link the provincially-owned line with the Canadian National Railways main line. The next step, British Columbians say, should be to extend it through Northern B.C. and the Yukon to Fairbanks, Alaska. The United States government is favorable; Canada is reported uninterested because of the cost. Inset shows a proposed paved highway between Vancouver and Squamish, the southern end of the P.G.E. — (PC Photo.)

in the centre of Alaska. It would run some 1,000 miles, tapping areas rich in forests, roaring rivers and fine ranching country, breath-taking in its crags and grandeur.

In being it is the Pacific Great Eastern, the railroad that is said to run from nowhere to nowhere and soon is going to go somewhere. B.C.'s vision is that this 346-mile line, soon to be linked with the trans-continental Canadian National Railways at Prince George, deep in the interior, will some day form part of a railway to Alaska. United States financial help will be required—an estimated $800,000,000 worth.

The P.G.E. owned by the Provincial government, extends from Squamish, 40 miles northeast of Vancouver at the top of Howe Sound east and north to Quesnel, almost in the centre of B.C. With financial assistance from the federal government — expected to total $1,345,000—rails are being laid from Quesnel 82 miles northward to Prince George, there to meet the C.N.R. main line. Cost of the extension will approximate $10,000,000.

Safe From Attack

What B.C. wants eventually is a further extension of 1,600 miles to Fairbanks. In addition to opening up the country, this would provide a rail route relatively safe from attack in the event of war and relieve the United States anxiety occasioned by dependence on vulnerable shipping for supplying strategic Alaska. Washington is favorable; Ottawa is believed not interested because of the high cost.

When the Prince George connection is completed the P.G.E. will have gone somewhere. Squamish is to be linked with Vancouver by a paved highway running along the rocky coastline of Howe Sound. The immediate target then is an extension to the Peace River district, the great area in the northeast corner of B.C. that extends eastward to northern Alberta — a potential treasure house of coal and oil, timber and pulpwood and electrical power.

The P.G.E. was begun in 1912 as a private undertaking by the firm of Foley, Welch and Stewart, the bonds being guaranteed by the British Columbia government. High prices for materials in the First World War forced abandonment of the task after 135 miles of steel had been laid from Squamish north to Clinton. Eleven miles of rail also were laid from North Vancouver toward Prince George.

The government, taking over, continued building toward Prince George. Again, high prices halted the work in 1918 when the road had reached Quesnel, its present northern terminus. The 11-mile North Vancouver-Whytecliff section was operated on a limited basis to serve the small area until 1928. Completion of a paralleling paved highway ended the short road's usefulness. Tracks were lifted. This highway will be extended at a cost of $2,000,000 to connect Squamish with Vancouver. Trucks and buses will connect with the P.G.E.

Has Big Debt

In the last 20 years many attempts have been made to finance further construction of the P.G.E. which now has a debt of $121,000,000. These failed. But the government says it is determined to push it through to the Peace River. John, Hart, former B.C. premier and now P.G.E. president, says 1,000,000 tons of freight annually could be obtained from minerals and forest products alone in the Peace area.

Two routes to the Peace River have been surveyed. What is known as the Pine Pass Route, running northeast from Prince George to Summit Lake along the Parsnip River and Pine River to Dawson Creek, is favored by the government. The second, known as the Peace route strikes north from Prince George through Fort McLeod and Finlay Forks, eastward to Hudson Hope, Fort St. John and the Beatton River.

Completion of the P.G.E. to the Peace River district would be a tremendous achievement for the Pacific Coast province. But it is upon the eventual development of the line to Alaska that B.C. pins its ultimate hopes. It has a staunch booster in Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington state who thinks an Alaska rail line is of "supreme military importance."

President Truman has been authorized by the United States Senate to negotiate with Canada for a joint survey of the projected Alaska route. No move yet has been made officially, Canadian government officials are believed to be not interested at present.

Two Thugs Fail To Find $100,000 Hidden by Recluse

Valleyfield Que., Nov. 23—(CP)—Two young thugs Monday night slugged and robbed a 77-year-old farmer at nearby St. Louis de Gonzague but failed to find more than $100,000 in cash which the farmer had near him, provincial police reported Tuesday night.

Pet. - Sgt. Maurice Ribeault identified the victim as J.-Alphirte Doutre, a recluse who lives on a farm with a 52-year-old invalid sister, Dalbia.

After the attack, he was taken to hospital at Ormstown, Que., and Tuesday night was reported recovering from severe head injuries and a fractured jaw.

Police said the youths stole a pail containing valueless personal papers but missed two old, wooden pails which held the cash. The robbers were undersood to have entered the farmhouse early Monday night while Doutre was in a nearby barn. When told by his sister where he could be found, they went into the barn and attacked him. The thugs then returned to the house and ransacked every room.

Police said that although living in apparent poverty with his sister, Doutre was well-known throughout the district as a wealthy man who owned two farms in addition to his own.

Valleyfield is about 23 miles southwest of Montreal.

100 Arrested As Members of Huge Spy Ring

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 23—(AP)—More than 100 persons have been arrested as members of a spy ring which Polish authorities say was linked with the French Embassy here.

An alleged confession by Andre Simon Robineau, secretary of the French Consulate at Szczecin (Stettin), Poland, was said by a spokesman of the foreign ministry here to have led to "liquidation" of the spy ring.

Robineau was arrested at the Warsaw airport last Friday just as he was about to board a plane for Paris for a vacation.

Foreign correspondents heard part of the wire recordings said to be Robineau's confession and were shown photostatic copies of documents allegedly signed by him.

(In Paris the French Foreign Ministry denied the Polish charges. A spokesman said the French were worried about Robineau because he was not the first Frenchman to have disappeared inside Poland. The spokesman said an employee of the French Consulate at Breslau and a French student had been missing for four months and Polish authorities have given only "evasive" answers about their whereabouts.)

Poland has protested both verbally and by diplomatic note the arrest in Paris of the Polish plane crew which was to have flown Robineau to the French capital Friday. The crew was arrested when the plane arrived without Robineau—and the plane was impounded.

Robineau was said by Wiktor Grosz spokesman for the Polish Foreign Ministry, to have confessed that the secretary archivist at the French Embassy in Warsaw, Aymar de Brosin de Mere, was his direct superior in the French Intelligence Service espionage activities.

Grosz said Robineau named Fernand Renaud, Embassy Secretary Translator, as an assistant to de Mere.

The Poles have ordered de Mere and Renaud to leave the country immediately.

More Than $6,000 In Public Funds Spent on Family

Timmins, Nov. 23 —(CP)—Leopold Lefebvre, 35, Tuesday received six months for non-support of his three children when the magistrate heard that more than $6,000 in public funds was spent on his family since 1939.

Relief officials testified that the only time since 1939 that Lefebvre supported his family was while he was in the army before he deserted.

At present, the youngsters are being cared for by the Children's Aid Society here.

A woman Lefebvre is living with, relief officer George Reid said, also has a family in the Children's Aid Shelter.

Arctic Canoists Hunt White Whale for New Industry

Churchill, Man. — (CP) — Catching whales from a small motor-driven canoe may sound like a spine-tingling proposition, but it's just routine for crews of one of Canada's newest industries.

During the whaling season Eskimo and half-breed hunters employed by Adanac Whale and Fish Products Ltd. may venture daily into the chilly wind-swept waters of Hudson Bay to hunt the beluga, or white whale.

From the company's headquarters and processing plant 1,00 miles north of Winnipeg, they head out into the frigid waters in 20-foot canoes, usually manned by three men.

One man operates the engine, another stands in the bow and the third rides amidships armed with a high-powered rifle.

When the whale is sighted the hunters work the canoe up close until the Eskiman can throw a harpoon. The wounded beluga leaps into the air, dives, or streaks through the water trying to free itself. The canoe is towed carefully along — often at a 25-mile-an-hour clip.

Since the beluga is a mammal—it is related to the porpoise and the dolphin — it comes up to breathe frequently during its head-long flight. When it does, the riflesman fires at it from the bucking canoe.

Sometimes it takes as many as five shots to kill a wounded whale. The prey averages 1,200 pounds and may reach a length of 16 feet.

The carcass is towed to the company's $150,000 plant at the mouth of the Churchill River. There it is stripped of "blubber," —a thick layer of oil-bearing fat under the hide.

"Cook" Blubber

The blubber is "cooked" to render the oil and the rest of the carcass — bones, meat and entrails — is ground up as finely as hamburger, put into 50-pound cartons and stored in a quick-freezing plant.

An average whale yields about 350 pounds of edible oil and 600 pounds of ground meat. The oil is used in the production of oleomargarine and the meat used as feed on fur farms.

W. J. Ward, 55-year-old member of parliament for Dauphin, who is president of Adanac, says the future looks bright for the new industry.

"There appears to be an unlimited number of belugas in Hudson Bay," he said recently. "There were some days last season when we could have netted more belugas in one square mile of Churchill harbor right in front of our plant than we could process in a whole season. The plant will process 40 belugas a day."

And netting the beluga is what the company plans next year, when it goes into full production. Special nets, made of Italian hemp, have been ordered from Scotland. They have a 24-inch mesh and will be weighted with concrete blocks.

Whaling boats have been built at Winnipegosis, Man., to be used in the netting operations. They are 40 feet long with a beam of 10 2-3 feet and are powered by heavy marine engines.

With the new equipment Mr. Ward hopes the plant will be kept operating at full capacity next year, handling 2,000 whales during the three-month season.

Rommel Ended His Life by Taking Poison

Washington, Nov. 23—(AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery said Tuesday that German General Erwin Rommel, whom he defeated in North Africa during the Second World War, ended his life with poison after being implicated in a plot against Hitler.

He told the story to the National Press Club in reply to a question as to whether Rommel's death was fitting end for him.

Lord Montgomery said that toward the end of the war a son of Rommel was captured. He said the son made a signed statement along this line about his father's death:

During the Normandy Battle Rommel was wounded. While convalescing he was visited by two generals from Berlin who gave him the option of appearing before a people's court or taking poison. Rommel went off with the two generals and took poison.

Child is Born In Plane Speeding Mother to Hospital

Stornoway, Scotland, Nov. 23—(AP)—A boy was born Tuesday night in an airplane speeding his mother over the barren outer Hebrides Islands to a hospital. He was the third infant born in a plane over the Atlantic in the last 35 days.

He was delivered in the poorly-lighted cabin of the plane. His mother is Mrs. Margaret MacLellan of Loch Carna, on the Island of South Uist off the northwest coast of Scotland. His father died four weeks ago.

A nurse dochsetty, who delivered the child, said, "we had no difficulties—not even hot water—but we managed somehow without much difficulty."

Hospital officials said both mother and son were "quite comfortable." The boy's weight was not given.

On Oct. 18 Mrs. Dorika Parker, 20, wife of a United States air force sergeant, gave birth to a four-pound boy in an American Overseas Airlines plane shortly before reaching Shannon airport in Ireland.

Last Wednesday a girl was born to Mrs. Leokadia Robilecki, Polish displaced person, on board a Scandinavian airlines plane en route from Prestwick, Scotland, to New York.

Trained Police Dog Disarms Woman Who Defied Police

Bouctouche, N.B., Nov. 23—(CP)—Wolf, a trained police dog, Tuesday night disarmed a 60-year-old woman who defied a police detachment for 24 hours with a loaded shotgun and wounded one officer slightly.

All day Tuesday, in a heavy snowstorm, Mrs. Marie LeBlanc, of nearby St. Mary's set in a row-boat in the middle of the Bouctouche River with a shotgun in her lap while a detachment of R.C.M.P. officers patrolled the shore. No attempt was made to arrest her until she came ashore at darkness fell. Then the police dog leaped forward and seized her gun arm and police took her into custody.

Suffering from exposure, she was taken to hospital in this Northumberland Strait town 25 miles north of Moncton, N.B., by special C. S. Cruickshank of Moncton said the wounded officer was hit by several buckshot pellets Monday night when police first attempted to arrest Mrs. LeBlanc at her home. His wounds were minor.

The police did not "shoot it out" with the woman, who was said by Inspector Cruickshank to be deranged. The R.C.M.P. detachment contended itself with driving Mrs. LeBlanc from her home with tear gas bombs and waiting for an opportune moment to disarm her.

Began Monday Night

The detailed nature of St. Mary's, where the incident started, was believed to be the reason why it was not reported until Tuesday night.

Mrs. LeBlanc's struggle with the law began Monday night when an R.C.M.P. detachment went to her home to investigate reports from neighbors that she had fired a shotgun at passers-by.

A shotgun-blast greeted the police and Mrs. LeBlanc ignored their order to stand them.

The police party split into two groups and approached the house from front and rear with the group in front attempting to draw Mrs. LeBlanc's fire while the other group tossed tear gas bombs through the windows.

One of the policemen handling the bombs was wounded slightly by several pellets from a charge of buckshot while tossing a bomb into the house, Inspector Cruickshank said. His injuries were not serious enough to keep him off duty.

Police maintained a night-long vigil around the house and shortly before dawn the woman was seen leaving the building, still armed with a shotgun.

Police followed her, waiting for a chance to disarm her without causing her injury. The pursuit ended temporarily at the bank of the Bouctouche River. Hemmed in by her pursuers, the woman entered the only rowboat available and poked it to midstream, where she remained most of the day in a heavy snowstorm.

Senators Debate Question of Daylight Time

Ottawa, Nov. 23 (CP)—Party lines were split in the Senate Tuesday as members argued last time versus "God's time." It was one of the liveliest discussions this year in the upper chamber.

The Senators debated the topic for two hours. Fifteen speakers, mostly farmers and representing all parts of Canada, had their say. Eleven opposed daylight saving; four expressed approval.

Senator W. D. Euler (L-Ontario), whose persistence got the Supreme Court to rule on the legalization of the sale and manufacture of margarine, initiated the discussion. He moved a motion to make daylight time compulsory and uniform throughout Canada for periods specified by the government. He insisted, too, that the railways should follow suit.

The motion carried no legislative weight and was merely an "expression of opinion" of the Senate. However, as a matter of form it was declared carried without a vote.

Senator Euler said the principle of daylight time seemed to clip of daylight time seemed to preferable to an hour of darkness. This was generally accepted, but the present system, with railways and various communities on different times at different times of the year, caused "inconvenience, confusion and chaotic conditions."

No Fear Farmers Problem

The railways made the problem more serious since they did not conform to daylight time, even in the summer.

Daylight time had "come to stay" and should be made uniform. He recalled that the government had passed a bill to make it uniform in 1918 but the bill lapsed following year and was never renewed. He suggested the government bring a bill next session to bring this into effect.

Senator R. B. Horner (PC—Saskatchewan), a farmer, led off on a list of speakers who opposed daylight time. He sympathized with the difficulties the confusion caused, but felt the answer was to stick with standard time "Daylight time had never worked with farmers and last year the province of Alberta had outlawed it entirely.

An Eternal Issue

Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) described himself as a farmer. He had some sympathy with urban dwellers, factory workers and baseball fans, but felt it would be an external issue between "town and country" and would cease to be insoluble. He insisted on being "governed by nature." Cows could only be milked at certain time of day. The birds and poultry woke up by the sun and not by an artificially-imposed time.

He was supported by Senator W. Rupert Davies (L-Ontario) who said the matter had been "up and down" in Kingston many times. The United Kingdom had maintained it throughout the war, but possibly this was because it was a small country.

He felt Canada should continue the present practice. Farmers did not like daylight time but consideration had to be given others.

Man Who Installs Burglar Alarm Loots House

Tokyo, Nov. 23. (AP)—Kazuru Fujii hired Shikazo Sakamoto to install a burglar alarm in his house.

But Fujii's house was robbed anyway. Undisturbed by any alarm he slept soundly while a thief made off with all his clothing.

Police went to work. They arrested the burglar.

It was Nakamoto.

He told officers he had failed to ring the alarm so he could loot Fujii's home undisturbed.

Saws off Arm To Release it From Shedder

Bialsville, Pa., Nov. 23(AP)—A farmer who sawed off his arm with a penknife to free it from a corn shredder today was given a fair chance to live.

Milton Grumbling, 50, was helping a neighbor cut fodder Tuesday when his glove caught in a gear. His left hand and forearm was ground into the machine before Grumbling's son, Deano, 16, could shut it off.

The machine could not be reversed. Seeing he would bleed to death, Grumbling cut off his arm three inches below the elbow.

Grumbling held a tourniquet on his arm while a brother-in-law drove him to hospital.

Car Drops Over Culvert into Ditch Three are Hurt

Peterborough, Nov. 23.—(CP)—One man is in hospital and two others are recovering from a severe shaking up when their car failed to make a turn on the old river road, three miles south of Peterborough, early today.

The vehicle failed to make the sharp curve and dropped over a four-and-a-half-foot culvert into a ditch.

Gordon Might, 28, of Millbrook, a passenger in the car driven by Allan Dawson, 29, of Baillieboro, suffered a broken cheek and a pierced upper lip.

HALF PRICE TICKET FOR DEAF

Tokyo, Nov. 23. (AP)— Japan's largest movie chain probably will start a new policy on the first of the year. Practical-minded Japanese felt deaf mutes were getting only half value when they attended the talkies. So, said a chain spokesman, a special half rate ticket probably will be sold to the deaf and dumb after Jan. 1.

Two Brothers, Sister of Survivor Died in Crash

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 23 (AP)—A 12-year-old Jewish refugee boy woke this morning from a good night's sleep—his first since he survived the nightmarish plane crash Sunday in which 34 persons died.

Little Isaac Allal, one of 28 North African Jewish children flying to a Norwegian rest camp, was the only survivor.

Isaac's whimpers led two searchers Tuesday to the forest-hidden wreckage where he had lain trapped among debris and bodies for two cold nights and a day. Two brothers and a sister died in the crash.

Isaac doesn't know yet that another brother is dead at home in far-off Tunis. That brother, a 17-year-old, fell dead when he learned of the tragedy in Norway.

The Dutch-chartered plane crashed in the forest 30 miles southwest of Oslo Sunday night as it neared the end of a flight from Tunis, in North Africa. Besides the 28 refugee children, the plane carried a crew of four and three nurses.

Elecricician Thorolf Hagen and lumberjack Hilding Martinsen heard whimpering from inside the battered tail section of the plane as they neared the wreckage. At first they thought it might be a dog whining but suddenly realized a human was still living among the mangled bodies scattered around the smashed plane.

Hagen ran for help and Martinsen began to free Isaac who had been lying for 42 hours with his face pressed against the ground, trapped by a sheet of metal and broken plane seat across his back.

After 20 minutes the sturdy woodsman held the lone survivor in his arms.

The fact that Isaac was in the extreme rear of the plane probably accounted for his escape. The front end of the plane was destroyed as it plowed into the trees but the tail section came to rest virtually intact.

Hospital authorities said Isaac suffered only a bruised wrist, scratched nose and slight burns.

CONDEMNS SITUATION

Ottawa, Nov. 23. (CP)—Lack of hot water and enforced use of drinking fountains as wash basins in some of the city's 21 public schools was condemned last night by Dr. L. P. Prince Charles Public School On Ridley Ave. Nearly Ready For Occupancy Says Board

First public school building to be erected in the city since the construction of the Belleville Collegiate back in 1928, the new Prince Charles School on Ridley Ave, is rapidly being brought to completion.

Harold Seldon chairman of the sites and accommodation committee of the local board of education, stated today that it was expected that at least some of the classrooms in the new school would be ready for occupancy shortly after the new year.

"I'm almost certain that some of the classrooms will be completed early in the new year," he said. "This will enable some of the pupils to be taken off the crowded accommodation in the west end of the city."

As chairman of the sites and accommodation committee Mr. Seldon has spent much time in looking after construction details at the new school and in urging contractors toward early completion of the building.

One-storey School

Ultra modern in its planning, the new Prince Charles School is one storey construction, containing five classrooms, kindergarden room and auditorium. The building is as fireproof and modern construction methods can make it.

Exterior finish of the school is of brick with entrances of cut stone to relieve the plainness of the structure. The main body of the school is built with concrete block, as are the partitions between the various classrooms. The floor base is concrete, while the ceiling is also of concrete supported by steel truss joists and structural steel.

One Centre Hall

Centre hall construction has been followed in planning for the new school which is L-shaped with classrooms along the south and east elevations. Across the T-shaped hall is the kindergarten room with separate entrance, and the auditorium and stage measuring 36 by 56 feet. There are three main entrances to the building, the front of the school looking south along Ridley Ave.

Each of the classrooms measures 23 by 32 feet with two feet additional for closet space. Floors of the classrooms and halls will be of battleship linoleum with a terrazzo border coved at the walls for easier cleaning. Artificial lighting is of the indirect type.

Space For Furnace

The only excavation under the new school is the space for the furnace and fuel bins. Heating is forced hot water with individual thermostatic heat controls for each class rooms. Each room also has an air vent with motor control to draw off foul air. Fresh air is brought in through special ventilating sash.

In addition to the five classrooms, kindergarten and auditorium, the school contains principal's office, dental health room office, school nurse's room, and staff room. There is also a steel vault and adequate school supply storage.

One of the features of the new school will be an inter-communication system allowing the school principal to contact any room in the school. This system may also be arranged for broadcasting radio programs or records to any or all of the classrooms.

Ready for Plaster

Workmen are currently engaged in finishing the terrazo border which will encircle all the rooms and hallways. When this is completed gyprocking of the walls will commence in readiness for plastering. A Toronto firm has been awarded the plastering contract.

General contractors for the new school building are the St. Lawrence Contracting Company of Belleville who despite delays for lack of materials have made good progress with the construction.

Concrete walks will encircle the new school building, while cement parking area and fuel delivery space has been provided at the east side of the building. To...andscape Grounds

Plans call for terracing and landscaping the school grounds, while it is also hoped that a special outdoor space, bordered with hedge, may be provided for kindergarten pupils.

Overall dimensions of the new school building are roughly 100 by 110 feet with cost for the completed structure, including school equipment, to be approximately $180,000.00. The property contains about eight acres.

Planned as a junior public school, the new school is the first of two planned by the board of education. The second school, a 12-room structure, will be built in the east end of the city.

UNION LEADER'S LAWYERS JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

Scathing Attack Given by Judge Before Sentence Passed

San Francisco, Nov. 23—(AP)—With Harry Bridges taking a back seat during his perjury trial, the Longshoreman Union federal lawyer Tuesday was sentenced to six months in jail for criminal contempt of court.

The lawyer just missed having to go to jail immediately. Federal Judge George B. Harris imposed the jail sentence on counsel Vincent Hallinan after a bitter, scathing excoriation, the likes paralleled in local federal court history.

The judge ordered the colorful and stormy figure of the San Francisco bar taken into custody immediately. But he later relented and granted a stay to permit Hallinan to continue to represent Bridges for the duration of the trial.

Bridges, 48, a naturalized Australian, is head of the left-wing C.I.O. Longshore Union. He is charged with falsely swearing in his 1945 naturalization hearing that he never had been a Communist. He and two Union aides, J. R. Robertson and Henry Schmidt, are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government.

Bridges would be subject to deportation if convicted. Two previous government attempts to deport him failed, in 1939 and 1941.

His face dark with anger, the judge raked Hallinan over the coals for "improper" and "inflammatory" conduct during the first week of the trial.

During the height of the torrid, acrimonious clash, Hallinan shouted demands for a mistrial and tried unsuccessfully to disqualify Judge Harris from taking any further action in the contempt proceeding. He charged bias and prejudice.

Western Canada Farmers Win Bagful of Prizes

Toronto, Nov. 23. (CP)— Even if Calgary Stampeders don't win the Grey Cup in Saturday's football final, Westerners still have a bagful of Royal Winter Fair cattle trophies to take home.

Western Canada farmers predominated in cattle judging at the fair Tuesday. William Harrison of Delos, Sask., won the shorthorn trophy donated by the Shorthorn Society of the United Kingdom. Richardson Stock Farms of Winnipeg won reserve positions in the junior and grand championship in female divisions of the same breed.

Grand champion female shorthorn was shown by Grant Campbell of Moffat, Ont., whose 14-year-old son won the Kings 50 guinea Monday with his shorthorn calf.

Grand and senior champion ships in the dual purpose female shorthorn classes went to H. M. Atkinson of Nestleton, Ont. The United Kingdom special prize for dual purpose shorthorns was won by Kilgour Wilson of Lachute, Que.

In female Hereford classes, senior, junior, and grand champion places were shown by W. A. Crawford-Frost of Nanton, Alta., whose sweep was described by stock men as one of the cleanest in fair history.

Champion swine and sheep went to the auction block Tuesday and the grand champion of the latter in market sheep classes brought $1.50 a pound. It was owned by W. J. Brodie of Stouffville. The grand champion barrow of market swine classes was sold at 75 cents a pound.

Mexican riders, who have outclassed Chilean, Irish and Canadian military teams in the horse show competitions, racked up another clear-cut victory Tuesday night when they won first and second places in the military knock-down-and-out stake. Chile was third and Canada fourth.

Parents Surprised To Find Son In Hospital

Picton, Nov. 23, (CP)— Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stanley visited hospital Tuesday to see their daughter Caroline, and were called into another ward where they found their son, George. The 18-year-old boy had been admitted with a fractured left arm as the result of a shooting accident. That was the first the parents knew of it

Roman Catholic News Vendors Knowingly Selling Red Papers Must be Refused Sacraments

Vatican City, Nov. 23. (AP)— Roman Catholic news vendors who "knowingly and freely" sell communist newspapers must be refused the sacraments, the Holy Office ruled today.

It made allowances, however, for news vendors "under effective pressure" to handle communist publications.

The Holy Office ruling explained provisions of the historic papal decree of last July excommunicating Roman Catholics who militantly defend communism and denying the Holy sacraments to those who "publish, read or disseminate books, newspapers or leaflets in support of communist doctrine ..."

It was in reply to a request from Ernesto Cardinal Ruffini, Archbishop of Palermo, Sicily, for clarification of the decree.

In his request, the Cardinal said that certain news vendors were in a "difficult situation." He explained that certain union organizations had threatened to withdraw all newspapers from vendors refusing to handle communist publications.

The Holy Office's reply said: "It is clear that if the news vendor can, without grave danger to himself, avoid selling the prohibited papers, such news vendor, if he does not comply with provisions of the known decree of the Holy Office, performs 'knowingly and freely' the actions for which the known sanctions are provided.

"If on the contrary, the news vendor finds himself under the effective coercion of said unions, his actions in cooperation can be tolerated provided his obligation of conscience to limit such cooperation as far as possible remains unchanged."

The Holy Office, charged with defending the faith against false doctrines, thus sought to encourage those Catholic newspaper distribution to limit the sale of Communist publications "as far as possible."

Yugoslavia Rich in Raw Materials, Suffers in One Commodity, Manpower

Belgrade, Nov. 22 — (AP) — A wealthy country in raw materials, Yugoslavia suffers from one commodity in short supply — manpower.

It needs muscled men to get out the goods and skilled technicians to process them for use at home and for sale abroad, as much, and perhaps even more, than its needs machinery.

Both problems — men and machinery — stem from Marshal Tito's ambitious five-year plan to balance the country's fruitful agricultural productions with industrial development.

The plan he and the country have set for themselves has been made doubly difficult by the Moscow-directed Cominform's campaign against Yugoslavia.

Border provocations, the Cominform economic boycott and Russian propaganda pressure — all of them adding to an uncertain threat of war — have forced Tito to maintain an army of about 800,000 men.

In a country with a population of approximately 15,000,000, this represents a heavy drain on the manpower reservoir.

Part of Problem Met

Part of the problem has been met through use of "voluntary" work brigades drawn from factories and farms and universities to push completion of certain priority projects.

These work brigades are building a completely new city of Belgrade at the confluence of the Danube and Sava rivers with government buildings, apartment houses, shopping centres and schools.

They are laying out a new road between Belgrade and Zagreb. Yugoslavia's second city, which is scheduled for completion late this year. Thousands of army troops are shovelling here also.

In many ways, all these projects have been a back-aching chore; an expenditure in sweat and toil which could have been cut substantially by a few score more bulldozers, cement mixers and steam shovels.

The Yugoslav authorities recognize all that. But it takes hard cash — or loans — to overcome the difficulty.

The country is approaching a solution from two directions: first by pushing production with all available manpower and machinery; second, by seeking financial assistance in the West to increase its mechanical output while decreasing its manpower outlay.

MANITOBA MAY EXPECT GREATEST HOPPER THREAT

Winnipeg, Nov. 23. (CP)—Dr R. D. Bird, Dominion entomologist, Tuesday night told a conference on Provincial and Municipal Control of Grasshoppers that Manitoba next June will face its greatest threat from the insects since the 1930s. Grasshopper eggs have been found indistributing large numbers over areas totalling 10,727 square miles he said.

Believe Heads Taken Off Sixty Rebels to Avoid Identification

Rangoon, Burma, Nov. 23(AP) —The headless bodies of 60 rebels were found today after the government troops drove a group of communists and Karens out of the village of Mezalikangon. It was believed that the leaders took the heads of their dead comrades so that the bodies could not be identified.

School Principal Held by Police

Buffalo, N.Y. Nov. 23—(CP) —A 54-year-old school principal was arrested Tuesday and charged with sending and receiving obscene matter in the mails.

Postal inspector James N. Burns said a 10-month investigation of a nudist magazine "Pen Pals" advertisement culminated in the arrest of Principal Schultis.

Burns said Schultis was arrested outside a postoffice, reading a letter taken from a box in the name of "Ras Phillips".

We are convinced that Schultis and Phillips are one and the same man," the postal inspector declared. "He told us Phillips is a travelling salesman who hasn't been in Buffalo since last May."

Schultis, held without bail in jail, has served in the school department for 30 years and been principal of three grade schools.

Jewel Thief Pays His Debt To Society

Mineola, N.Y., Nov. 23—(AP)— White-haired Arthur Barry, who in the roaring 20s master-minded jewel thefts that netted him an estimated $4,000,000 or more, becomes a free man Tuesday.

Barry appeared before Judge Henry J. A. Collins for sentence. Last week he pleaded guilty to six felony indictments, involving 18 counts and dating back 20 years.

When the shackles were removed, Collins told Barry he thought he had paid his debt to society — and suspended sentence. Barry was released recently from Attica State Prison after serving 12 years for a $60,000 jewel robbery.

He was arrested immediately on charges which grew out of the $100,000 robbery of the home of financier Jesse L. Livermore in 1927 and robberies of four other fashionable residences.

HOPES FOR EARLY END TO FILIBUSTER ARE DIMINISHED

Eleven Speeches and Division Prevent Bills From Advancing

Ottawa, Nov. 23 (CP)—Government hopes for an early end to a filibuster against two pipeline bills were blasted in the Commons Tuesday.

Eleven speeches and a division on an opposition amendment prevented the bills from advancing during the extra time allotted for discussion through a special government motion.

The motion set aside the three-hour evening session for discussion of the bills, and even a plea for action from Fisheries Minister Mayhew failed to spike opposition.

The bills would incorporate Prairie Pipe Transmission Lines Limited and the Alberta Natural Gas Company, both are seeking charters to build natural gas pipelines from Alberta fields to western United States and British Columbia centres.

In recent weeks the bills have been opposed every time they have been called during the one hour on Tuesdays and Fridays devoted to measures sponsored by private members.

Opposition has centred on the ground that the companies plan to build lines mostly through United States territory and serve American cities before Canadian points. Members on both sides of the Commons have argued that the companies should build the lines over a Canadian route and serve Canada first.

Sponsored by Church

The defeated amendment, sponsored by T. L. Church (PC—Toronto Broadview), would have killed the Prairie Transmission Lines bill for this session.

Members voted 152 to 44 against the amendment. However, they no sooner had disposed of it when another was moved by Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East). This amendment, still undisposed of, asked that further consideration of the bill be deferred until parliament is given assurance that the pipeline will be laid out to serve Canadian requirements before leaving Canada as well.

When the debate was adjourned at the end of the sitting there was no indication of whether the government will make another special move to provide more than two-hours weekly for discussion of the measures.

Speaking 15-minutes before the adjournment, Mr. Mayhew said that by blocking passage of the bills members were bringing about one of two results.

Trans-Canada Highway Bill AdvancedinHouse

Ottawa, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Legislation authorizing the federal government to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing a trans-Canada highway was advanced through preliminary stages in Commons Tues. after members asked that correspondence dealing with the subject be tabled.

In opening debate Monday on the legislation, Reconstruction Minister Winters said that British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia had not yet authorized the tabling of correspondence exchanged with them. Mr. Winters was ill Tuesday and missed resumption of the debate.

Wants Correspondence Tabled

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) said Nova Scotia should be asked for permission to table the correspondence. If the provincial government refused, it should be told that the correspondence was going to be tabled anyway.

Works Minister Fournier, handling the legislation for Mr. Winters, said he did not think he could agree to such a proposal. He asked George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, if he would accept such procedure.

Mr. Drew, former Premier of Ontario, said he could not recall any occasion when he was asked by the federal government for permission to table correspondence exchanged with Ontario.

"Well, there was not much correspondence," Mr. Drew interjected Mr. Fournier.

Mr. Drew replied that there was a good deal of correspondence and that much of it found its way into the Commons.

The opposition leader said he agreed that correspondence was changed between national governments must of necessity be confidential. But in a single country where there was an exchange of correspondence between governments it could not be considered, and all the governments were legislating for the good of the country and legislators needed to know what was in correspondence for the purposes of government.

Should be Confidential

Mr. Gillis said that he believed that interdepartmental correspondence could be regarded as confidential. But in this case the correspondence was not of an interdepartmental nature. It dealt with expenditures of public funds on a national project—the Trans — Canada Highway. There was no law which gave the highways minister of Nova Scotia the right to withhold the correspondence.

Mr. Fournier said he would ask Mr. Winters to make a new request to Nova Scotia for permission to table the correspondence. If permission was again withheld he did not know what could be done.

Captain Taylor DoesNotComment

Sarnia, Nov. 23—(CP)—Captain William Taylor, whose certificate has been ordered suspended as a result of the Noronic disaster, says he has thought about plans for the future.

Interviewed at his home in nearby, Mooretown, the 66-year-old veteran of 42 years service on the Great Lakes said he has not had time yet to study the report of a federal inquiry into the Sept. 17 fire in Toronto which destroyed his ship.

Capt. Taylor said he will make no decision on the report which ordered suspension of his certificate for a year, until he has conferred with C.S.L. lawyers.

He also declined comment on whether he will appeal the order suspending his certificate.

Deer Hunter's Story Is Bear

—(AP)—Andrew Kunkel, 21, of nearby Pearl Lake, comes up with a deer story that's a bear.

Kunkel said he was standing on a huge hollow stump, about seven feet high, waiting for deer. He heard a noise in the brush. Out stepped a big bear.

Kunkel shot. The manoeuvre caused him to slip inside the stump. His gun fell outside. His feet wedged and unable to get out, he yelled for help but no one came.

After being in the stump for about six hours he again heard noises. He looked up. Backing into the stump was a bear. Kunkel said he seized his hunting knife and jabbed at the bear's handiest area, at the same time grasping a paw. The stabbed bruin shot away from the stump freeing Kunkel.

The youth said the bear charged off into the brush. Kunkel picked up his rifle and went back to camp.

Russia Claims Discovery of 3 Small Planets

London, Nov. 23. (AP)— Russia said Monday night that her astronomers have discovered three small new planets this year.

Tass, official Russian news agency, said they were named, "Russia, Moscow, and Komsomolia." The Komosmols are the Soviet Young Communist Leagues.

The dispatch said the planets moved around the sun in orbits between Mars and Jupiter and had been sought for 150 years.

In Cambridge, Mass., Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard College Observatory, said the three new planets the Russian astronomers claimed to have discovered "are just additions to a large group of asteroids." He said the first one of this group of "minor planet's was discovered 140 years ago.

Deaf Mute Aids In Arrest and Conviction

Brantford, Nov. 23 —(CP)— James W. Daniels, a deaf mute, provided police with information leading to the arrest and conviction of two burglars. He grappled with them Nov. 13 but couldn't shout for help.

In court Monday Magistrate R J. Gillen commended Daniels and remanded for sentence Clarence A. Clements, 22 of Toronto, and John L. Ross, 20, James, of Chatham. Both pleaded guilty.

Police said the two broke into two buildings Nov. 12. The next night Daniels found them in his backyard. He said they escaped Daniels wrote a complete description for police.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

May did not reply at once to this outburst. She moved nearer to Martin, who was still bent over his work. She took one hand from the pocket of her coat and laid it on the blond wet head. She looked at once vacantly and intently, at the water flowing from the sprout. When she found that Martin had nothing further to say, when he stopped his sawing and merely laid his head in her hand, she quickly sat down on the threshold beside him.

"So that's how it is," she said. "You must go across to the hotel and have a talk with Tat."

"What is there for me to say?" Just talk to him. You can rely on Tat. It's true he's a bad humor. But just talk to him. Tell him about your invention. It's sure to interest him."

"Do you believe in it then, May?"

"I? Oh, it does not matter about me," said little practical in lying. "Of course I believe in it."

"I sometimes wonder whether I do myself, May. I feel I'm a fraud sometimes, talking about my big invention. It has gone on so long and never a word. I have to keep telling myself that I'm not a fraud and that I've really hit something good and that it will all come right."

"Well, look here. Just go now and talk to Tat. But don't waste any time."

Suddenly the pajamas were sent flying into a corner, and Martin's feeling exploded without the least warning. May was astonished to find herself caught in an embrace that took her breath and her senses. The furious endearments that followed each other on a tide of tenderness and anger, hope and despair, utterly incomprehensible. She had only a confused sensed, mixed with a certain happiness of having several bones broken, of being devoured and swallowed by a giant who was made of iron.

"What is the matter with you, you foolish boy?" she stammered when she recovered her breath.

"Shall I tell him this?Shall I tell him how madly, how cruelly, how utterly I love you? Shall I tell him that I must have you for my own though the world goes to bits. Then I shall simply go to the dogs if I can't have you? Shall I tell him that?"

"No . . ." May murmured, smiling happily.

"Shall I tell him how it's going to be with us? How happy we're going to be together, May? And all about our castles in the air. And that I'll hold you fast and never let you go and that I don't care a bit whether you're angry or not? And that I won't give you up even though my hands are hacked off, and that it's none of his business if we mean to stick together? Shall I tell him that—"

"No—no—you baby, you dear—" May sat distracted and dishevelled on the threshold with her leather cap awry. "Only be quick.' She was between laughing and crying.

"Oh! we go then," Martin said with an air of grim determination.

Herr Lyssenhop, when May found him, was sitting on his trunk, which was packed too full and wouldn't shut. He was dressed for travelling.

"One moment, Tat. Martin wants to speak to you," she said.

"Who?"

"Martin. Martin Heil. Dr. Heil —from the bathing place. We're going to be married, as a matter of fact."

"Indeed. Very good of you to tell me, I'm sure. You don't stand on ceremony, I observe."

"Well, Tat, there might indeed have been more ceremony about it. But when you leave at a moment's notice what chance is there? We're pressed for time."

"Pressed, I suppose! If you're pressed for time he'd better come in," Tat said, not without humor.

Martin came in with his resolute air. May placed herself at the door as if to guard and waited.

"Good afternoon, Herr Heil" said Tat. "Bad day for business, eh? not many customers."

"Very bad," answered Martin with embarrassment.

"Would you be so kind as to shut this trunk for me? I simply can't get it shut," said Tat.

Martin got it shut at once. He must have charged like a dynamo. He had the strength of a giant.

"Well now—tell me all you have to say," said Tat, sitting down and offering Martin a chair.

Martin hesitated, and May scratched her fingers inside her coat pockets.

A pause.

"Well, I just tell me all about it," said Tat, and pulled out his cigarette. It struck four faint chimes.

Martin took the plunge.

"What I want to say is that I've got to marry you're daughter."

"One moment. Which of them do you mean?" asked Herr Lyssenhop.

"May."

"I see. So this one is May?" said Tat, inspecting the girl in the doorway with a benign air. "So he has got to marry you. Have you got to marry him?"

"Of course, Papa!"

Herr Lyssenhop looked at his daughter. Clearly he had conducted the convention half unconsciously. Now he became a shade more serious.

"My dear Herr Heil," he said, "I don't want to make difficulties. I stand me. I am not a tyrannical stage father, and my girls do pretty well what they like. Well, look here. If I had a son, the girls might marry whom they pleased and do as they liked. But as I have only this pair of girls, it is a very important matter whom they bring along. The continuance of the family is involved—and in fact everything. I have, as you may know, built a rock-work engineering works, the Sewamag. May could tell you better than I what that means. She has been of great help to me in it since she was nineteen. In so far then as it means that my future son-in-law must come and be useful to my business, I have a right to say in the matter. Good looks and all that takes a woman's fancy don't count here. Do you agree, May?"

"Certainly, Tat."

"Good. Then just tell what industrements you have to offer. There is no need to be modest about it."

Martin looked down at his feet. He was very conscious of his old trousers and washed-out flannel shirt. His sweater had gone with Anika.

"I have good health," he said in a constrained voice, "and I'm moderately young—twenty-six next birthday. And I'm fairly strong. I can always do good deal—I'm a demon for work . . ."

"Mm," said Herr Lyssenhop, not impressed and walling to hear more.

I come from a good family. My father died long ago. He was a clerk in the magistrates. I have no brothers or sisters. My mother is still alive—I hold the record for Austria for two hundred metres," he added.

Then he reflected while Tat waited.

"I have no money," Martin said quietly, and his hands laid this he came to a stop. May at the door clenched her hands in her pockets.

"No money. Well, many are in the same case nowadays. But you earn something? Or do you teach swimming only for fun?" Tat asked rather impatiently.

"Yes, Tat, of course. That is only—only a little holiday amusement. I am an engineer by profession."

"Ah— that is better. Anything to do with machinery?"

"I know something about machinery. Of course, I look my degree in chemistry. But to, get the diploma in engineering you have to know something about machinery. It interests me too. In the Gnom Works I even introduced an improvement in a machine, and it is in use now—"

"Are you in the Gnom Works?"

"I was. Unfortunately they cut down their staff after amalgamation and I had to go—"

"The Gluma Works are in a rotten way, my dear fellow. Anyone who holds shares had best sell out before it is too late," said Herr Lyssenhop, speaking inadvertently in his usual tone. What was that improvement you spoke of by the way? Can you explain it to me or is it a secret?"

"It's like this . . ." said Martin and handed a pencil from his pocket he began to make a drawing on the margin of a hotel bill that lay on the table, Tat caught only snatches of phrases. "This is the—machine, and here I—It is driven from this point. So you see I can work the—from both ends at once. Quite a saving in that—"

May looked at their two heads bent over the paper in common enthusiasm. They had forgotten her. And Martin—why, Martin had become a little distant. He was no longer the foolish boy, the lover, the husband. He was somebody gone young fellow, so forlorn and helpless.

It was curious how different men became as soon as they got on their professions. All the directors and chief engineers and foremen in the Sewamag had this same air. May could see Martin among them. A little of warm-hearted esteem broke over her. Tat took the hotel bill, on which were entered several items of champagne for Count and Countess Cerenyi—and put it in his pocket. So they let you go! Well, and now . . .

Martin shrugged his shoulders. Tat's cigar meanwhile had accquired an immensely long ash—a sign, as May knew, that his interest was aroused. And now he sank into reflection.

"Listen, Herr Heil," he said. "You must not mind what I am going to say. I am going to be perfectly frank. I should have preferred my girls to choose men of means. Girls like mine, the daughters of old Lyssenhop, naturally run the risk of being married for their money. And the risk is less when the man himself has means and has no need to marry for money. It is less, I say, but it is not excluded. You see, my dear Herr Heil, a man in my position must be a little on his guard. He would be aloof otherwise. I have been always too little on my guard, much too little. If I were to tell you all that can happen—even to one of us case-hardened men of the world and among the best sort of people —but I won't talk of all that." He glanced uneasily at May, who glanced back with a twinkle in her eyes as they both thought of the count and countess, and he flushed red beneath his smooth gray hair, hen he said hurriedly and with a slight irritability: "So you like myself—mm! this young Dr. Heil be accepted right away? Is he to have May right away and be old Lyssenhop's son-in-law? He wouldn't be better for a start, if he were to be given some subordinate post, an appointment that might eventually lead on to something somewhat—within limits, of course."

"Tat, I think you ought to be ashamed of yourself," said May from the door. Martin, who did not immediately see the snag in Herr Lyssenhop's proposition, agreed his mouth too soon.

"It would suit me down to the ground to be given such a post," he said. "I'm not unreasonable. I have never thought much of money. That is not my way . . ."

"A great mistake. Everyone has to think of money. How can you marry May if you have no money?

Suddenly Martin's patience and self-control gave out. He struck the table and sprang to his feet.

"There you are," he cried out to May. "Didn't I tell you I would not go as a beggar to your Tat? And look at me now! What am I to say to him? 'Speak to Tat' Well, then I must. I've a lot of use speaking to him! He does not believe in me—and I don't blame him!"

Herr Lyssenhop calmly surveyed the excited Martin, who was gesticulating with his large hands. Young people are a bit queer nowadays, he thought. But they have their merits. They're easily seen through! May has found herself a decent, straightforward fellow . . .

"Martin has forgotten the most important thing, Tat," said May from the door. "He has made an invention that has a great future. As soon as the necessary formalities have gone through he is a made man. After all, I am not an idiot and I know I couldn't expect you to accept anybody. It is only a matter of days or weeks, and Martin is on his feet. Isn't that so, Martin?"

"Certainly. I hope so" said Martin.

"What sort of invention? And what are the formalities? Has it to do with machinery?"

IVANHOE

Rev. O. E. Wagar Conducts Anniversary Service at Beulah

Ivanhoe — Sunday Nov. 20th marked the 57th anniversary of Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, and special services were held both morning and evening, conducted by a former minister, Rev. O. E. Wagar of Belleville.

Large congregations were in attendance at both services with friends of sister churches joining in the worship.

The guest minister preached two stirring sermons delivered in a clear and forceful manner. The morning message was based on Rev. 1:8 "I am the Alpha and the Omega, saith the Lord, which is and which was and which is to come, the Almighty."

"What are the foundations of our life? The dreamers talk of a 'Utopia' where evil and poverty are banished. The doubter chooses skepticism, not realizing that it takes more faith to believe in skepticism than in affirmation. The materialist chooses power, believing that if economic power can be delivered life will be easy and worth while. Forgetting that power can also be put to wrong uses.

Belief in God

Christianity's answer is simple and plain. A man must begin with God and build his life on God, and his religion must culminate in God. He is to be built on belief in God. A scientist recently provided a thought provoking answer to the trouble of society. There is no salvation in democracy. We must have a moral renewal; there can be no moral renewal without a living religion and no living religion, or true unity without God.

In spite of its divisions there is more unity in Christianity than in any other force in the world.

We must each decide for our lives to God or we shall lose the truly worthwhile things in life. God is the beginning and the ending, the Alpha and Omega.

Religion Versus Communism

In the evening Mr. Wagar chose for his text Rev. 3:22. "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

The subject of his discourse was Religion and Communism.

Part of the Statin Constitution of 1936 reads — "Freedom of religious worship and freedom of anti-religious propaganda is recognized for all citizens." At a casual glance this looks like freedom of religion. Freedom of religious worship means that anyone may go to church, but there is no holy day for religious purposes, and religious leaders are only permitted to conduct worship, but cannot teach anything which is not approved by Communist leaders. Also all religious leaders and clergy are paid civil servants, subject to instant dismissal.

On the other hand, there is freedom for anti-religious propaganda. Religion cannot condemn this literature. Communism teaches there is no God, that religion is a superstition to be done away with as soon as possible; that the life of Jesus was a mythical failure and the Resurrection was nonsensical superstition. Religion is unable to teach any religious truths that conflict with the official position.

What of religion in the free world?

Religion in the World

Many people avail themselves of their freedom to ignore the institutions and customs that actually provided the leadership that has made them free. The civil beliefs of decency, freedom, human dignity have grown from the finest and best in our religious history."

Special music arranged by Miss Phyllis Twiddy, organist, was rendered by a full choir at both services. In the morning the choir sang "Three Meetings With the Saviour;" Mrs. Wm. Grant of Halloway sang Geoffery O'Hara's "He Giveth Me."

At the evening service, the choir rendered the anthem "Announced With Jesus." Mr. Frank Palmer of Bannockburn gave a solo, "The Haven of Rest."

PROOF! THAT BRUSHING TEETH RIGHT AFTER EATING WITH

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM HELPS PREVENT TOOTH DECAY!

Exhaustive Research by Eminent Dental Authorities Proves How Using COLGATE DENTAL CREAM Helps Prevent Tooth Decay!

NOW dental science offers proof that when always brushing teeth with Colgate right after eating helps prevent tooth decay. Proof—based on hundreds of case histories, two years of continuous research at leading dental colleges—the most conclusive proof in all dentifrice research on tooth decay.

Under the direction of eminent dental authorities, one group of college men and women always brushed their teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating—while another group followed their usual dental care. The average of the group using Colgate right after eating was a startling reduction in number of new cavities—far less tooth decay! The other group developed new cavities at a much higher rate.

Modern research shows tooth decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst after meals or snacks. When you brush your teeth with Colgate Dental Cream right after eating, you help remove acids before they can harm enamel. And Colgate's patented foam reaches crevices in teeth where food particles often lodge.

THE MOST CONCLUSIVE PROOF IN ALL DENTIFRICE RESEARCH ON TOOTH DECAY!

The Colgate now at your dealer's is the same famous formula used in the tests. Colgate contains all the necessary ingredients, including an exclusive foaming ingredient, for effective cleansing. Get a tube today! Use it after every meal—and see your dentist for regular check-ups.

"On a Friday early last March," writes Mr. Marr, "we set out in our Hillman from London, Ont., for our regular weekend trips. We stayed in Ottawa overnight, and reached St. Jovite in the Laurentian mountains, after a lovely scenic drive over snowy mountain roads. We thoroughly enjoyed a wonderful weekend, then left for London at 9 p.m. on Sunday, arriving at 10.30 next morning. Much of the credit for this wonderful winter trip goes to our Hillman! Even in deep snow, we cruised securely along with ample power and traction. We covered a total of 1150 miles, at an average speed of 48 m.p.h. Average gas consumption was a very welcome 28 miles per gallon."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Well, it had to happen some time. These Rockets Juniors couldn't go on playing hockey like they've been dishing it up since this District Hockey League started, unless they had error on the part of the championship. Some of the hockey of which they are capable of playing came to the surface last night and was exuded in large chunks at the expense of the CNR Diesels. And the guy with the "can of referee" open was young Mr. Tripp, custodian of the twine for the beardless ones. He turned in a remarkable effort in the second and third periods after young Master Garry Schreiber had held the Diesels to a duck-egg in the first chapter.

* * *

Meanwhile up front, Captain Don Hogan and his cohorts were golfing their usual offensive hockey off their booms with the result that the scoreboard read 5-0 for the junkers when the first period cease-fire sounded. Diesel reared back in the second period and rammed home a single marker while holding the kids scoreless. But they had to work to do it for the Rocks were matching them strides for stride and check for check.

* * *

The boys started to make matters a bit lively in the third beat and the six-bin started to clutter up. Rockets scored some kind of a goal from a goal - mouth melee the upshot of which saw the goal in a horizontal position as was Rockets' the remaining bit of the gate, but the puck nestled smugly over the red line and on flashed the light. Minutes later the kids racked up another one with a man advantage and although Diesels got one of them back, the Rocks checked like fiends until the final whistle blew and victory was "their's".

* * *

Flyers deserved a somewhat better fate than the 2-1 defeat they suffered at the hands of the league - leading Northern Electric team. The boys in blue carried the play into the Electrics zone in the second and third stanzas but although Flyers perhaps having a bit of edge in territorial play.

The second period of the Flyers - Electrics tilt was a scramble. Scramble of Electrics lay sprawled on the ice in argument. Scramble of Electrics lay sprawled on the ice in front of the Flyer net when he pushed the puck, it is stated, to the side where MacDonald, who promptly batted it in. The rules definitely state that a player may push a puck along the ice with his hand, but if he deliberately passes it to a team-mate the play must be stopped and a face-off take place. From the press pew, it appeared that Scramble used his hand under his fist and gently but firmly propelled the rubber to the waiting stick of his mate — but the referees ruled it a legal goal and that was that.

* * *

Northern Electrics now lead the league with an undefeated record of four straight games. Diesels and Flyers are tied for second place, although the Trainmen have the advantage in goals for and against. Next comes the Rockets with a win, two losses and a tie and in the cellar are the gallant lads from 6 R. D. who have yet to win a point but have tied once and dropped three losses. Thursday night sees the beginning of the second half of the schedule, with Diesels and Northern Electrics clashing in the first tilt and Trenton Flyers meeting their service mates from 6 R. D. in the second jousting. This should be a honey of a twin bill for the league fans as important bearing on the league the results will have on the relative positions in the standing. Besides, the teams have now entered the home stretch and the playoff spots loom in the distance. What should make for some exciting hockey melees during the next pair of weeks.

* * *

The heartfelt sympathy of the sports department of this newspaper and all Belleville sportdom goes out to the relatives of the late William J. (Bill) Moore, of Deseronto Brothers, who passed away yesterday. "Bill" lived and breathed sport during his lifetime and he was a staunch supporter of all recreational activities in town. He was a popular favorite with the Montreal Canadiens Club of the National Hockey League and a special personal friend of Coach Dick Irvin of the Habs. He was also well known in the dressing rooms of the Montreal Royals' Baseball Club and of the University of Western football club. Johnny Metras, coach of the Muskies was another personal friend of Bill's.

Bill was a good fellow to have around. He never forgot a friend and we, in this department, will miss his cheery remarks and spots of sports news that he so generously passed along to us at times. Above all we will miss a friend. A grand "guy", gone to his just reward.

* * *

Congratulations to Jack McNab, well-known young man about town who opened his new sports emporium this week. Jack's new spot is thoroughly equipped to take care of any and all sports needs.

* * *

And speaking of Jack McNab reminds us of the time when we thought the hour had come. We shook hands with the next-seat neighbor, muttered to ourselves as the parade of the past life flashed past, and then after a fourteen sixty seconds discovered we were still in one piece and not yet ready for the Lucifer League.

* * *

We were travelling with the Senior "B" hockey team two years ago for the Ontario Championship and it was a battle with a Peterborough squad. We had eaten the evening meal in Cobourg and had proceeded on our way to the Electric City when disaster struck. The passenger fry was indulging in a spot of vocal exercising. Everything was harmonious and content for the first hundred evening, if you can call a 158-mile safari, a hockey game, the return trip plus two hours work afterwards, a pleasant evening.

* * *

Then it happened. A gent by the name of Jack McNab was at the helm of the road-going flat-top. Suddenly, the overgrown lalopy jerked to a stop. We rubbed frost off the window and looked out into the darkness. Directly ahead of us we could see the gleaming strips of railway tracks. We had stopped squarely across them.

Then we, like the rest of the bus occupants, froze in our seats. Out of the darkness came the roar of a whistle. We grabbed the arms of the chap sharing the seat with us and, like a pair of popsicles. The rest of the reportorial carcass was stiffer than that of a refrigerated Australian rabbit. We waited with bated breath for whatever might happen. It seemed like years to us. Then, with a jerk, the bus slowly moved ahead, and off the tracks.

* * *

A few feet, and the bus stopped. We wiped hot sweat off the brow. Flayers heaved sighs of relief. The blood came back to white faces. Up front Johnny smiled. "What's wrong, fellas?" he shouted in a cheery voice, perhaps a bit strained.

* * *

"Where's that damned train?" someone asked in a quavering voice.

* * *

"Train! What train?" grinned McNab.

* * *

"The one we heard whistle a few minutes ago."

* * *

"Shh," snorted Jack, "that was no train. It was a slow freight and it hasn't caught up with us yet."

* * *

What actually happened was that the bus had stopped astride the tracks of a spur-line running from the main line of the public utility in the west end of Cobourg. The whistle was part of the factory equipment and had hooted the six o'clock quitting-time signal.

Rockets Jrs Defeat Diesels, Northern Electric Edges Flyers In District Loop Hockey Games

A goal that could have just as well been called back; three players more or less seriously injured; a rollicking battle between the CNR Diesels and Rockets Juniors and the youngsters first victory of the season featured the Belleville District Hockey League twin bill at Memorial Arena last night.

The Rockets, sparked by the fine performance of Tripp in the nets, played the best hockey of the season when they defeated the rugged Diesels 4-2 in a wide open game that saw 13 penalties, two of them misconducts, inflicted on the players.

Trenton RCAF Flyers matched speed and ability with the league-leading Northern Electric team but were defeated by a 2-1 score, the winning goal being the cause of a lot of controversy among players, officials and referees.

Northern Electric 3
Trenton Flyers 2

Northern extended their winning streak to four games sweeping the first half of the league schedule without a defeat. Flyers' record drew up on even terms with the second place CNR Diesels, but the victims of the latter's defeat at the hands of the Rockets Juniors.

The game was fast and gruelling with nine minor penalties being handed out four of the players to centre ice ends of the Flyers. The first period went scoreless and was productive of little but body-work with both teams favoring the wide open style. Both goalies were sharp keepers and both defences stood out to keep the sheet clean.

Peter Jones drew first scoring blood early in the second period through the first period, when he took Mulvihill's pass to score. Flyers battled desperately for the equalizer but Plumley in the Northern goal was well-nigh invincible. Play surged up and down the ice with both teams spurting in sudden forays.

Flyers evened the score in the first minute of play in the third period when Ault took Pop Lawlor's pass to drive the rubber behind Plumley. Pop had shot it was nip and tuck and it was not until 13 minutes had passed before Northern scored what proved the winning goal. Semark clashed in the Flyer goalmouth, and fell prone on the ice, it is alleged to swept a pass with his hand to MacDonald who drove the rubber in the net.

Jones, Williamson, MacDonald, Cousins and Semark, with Plumley looked the best for Northern with Lawlor, Keyes, Sargent and Gagnon going well for Flyers.

Rockets Juniors 4
C.N.R. Diesels 2

Displaying the best form of the season, the Rockets Juniors quarried by the line dipped Garry Tripp in the nets, smashed the heavy checking of the C.N.R. Diesels and after a rugged display especially in the third period, when tempers began to flare a bit handed the Trainmen a 4-2 defeat. The Rockets turned home two goals in the first period from Wright and George Graham with penalties meted to Nolan and Williams. In the second heat, Diesels had a slight edge in play and scored the only goal of the semester, when Jerry Moher took Don Williams' pass to beat Tripp.

The squabs opened up wide in the third period. Play speeded up and the checking began to get heavy. Diesels tied the score on a pretty combination play from Leo Goyer to Bob Williams and for the next ten minutes play ranged up and down the ice with both goalies, especially Tripp outstanding.

Stage Ganging Attack

At the thirteen minute mark Rockets staged a ganging attack on the Diesels goal and in the goalmouth melee the net fell over and the puck rolled over the line with the credit for the goal going to Pietsch.

Rockets maintained the pressure and taking advantage of manpower while Nolan was in the clink ripped home another goal from Pietsch to grab a two-goal lead. Play roughened and the penalty box saw almost a parade.

With less than three minutes to go Diesels swept within a goal of the flying Rockets, when Williams scored his second goal of the evening from a pass from Doug Day. Art Wright drew a misconduct penalty with two minutes to go and fifteen seconds later Vern Gardner drew likewise.

Murphy of the Rockets sufferet 'a badly wrenched shoulder at the result of a collision while Bill Turland also of the Juniors sustained a fractured nose during a melee. Mulholland, another junior received a severe shaking up and was forced to retire.

Thirteen penalties were handed out, nine going to the Diesels.

Crowd Will Love Anderson of Calgary Stamps

Oakville, Nov. 23 — (CP) — When Big Ezzard Charles (sugarfoot) Anderson painfully carries his 250-pound and big aching feet on the field for Calgary Stampeders in the Grey Cup football final Saturday the crowd will love him.

That word came Tuesday from coach Les Lear, vigorously putting his Dominion champions through their paces in training camp here as they prepared to meet Montreal Alouettes in the final.

Says Lear, a 32-year-old gridiron ace who managed to win the Canadian title in his first year as a coach.

"He's a wonderful team mate. He keeps our dressing room rocking with his intense spirit and that enthusiasm. And he plays just as good a game as he talks."

Anderson, who wears size 14 running shoes during drills, has fallen arches and before each game a Calgary doctor has to build up his shoes to ease the pain when he runs.

"It hurts him to run," said Lear, "but he runs like a deer."

The Calgary mentor ducked the question of the outcome of the game. "I hope we come up with one of our good ball games" was his only comment.

The Stampeders are in top physical form and the Alouettes should have their hands full Saturday. Lear figures this year's club is a "lot easier" than the year when the Stamps came east and were tabbed as 7-4 underdogs before they defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 12-7 in the final.

Rangers Start Climbing up N.H.L. Ladder

(By the Canadian Press)

New York Rangers are moving up in the National Hockey League standings — they're tied for fourth-place—and a lot of it may be due to Coach Frank Boucher's decision to let Edgar Laprade and Pete Pollo finally getting the scoring habit.

Leswick staged a scoring splurge last Sunday night as the Rangers defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-2. He rammed in three goals, one of them unassisted, in three minutes and five seconds for the fastest hat trick in Ranger history. It fell short of the league record set in 1938 when Syd Howe of Detroit Red Wings tallied three in a minute and 53 seconds. Pollo scored Monday's work. Sunday —he also picked up an assist—the 25-year-old native of Humboldt, Sask., doubled his season's point-total. He now has eight points.

Pollo, who came to New York with George Gee last season in a player-deal with Red Wings, made his first goal of the season a game-winning one Sunday when the Rangers defeated Boston Bruins 3-2. His tallied in the second period of the Hawks Sunday.

The goal-producing tactics of Leswick and Pollo cut the Red Wings' lead to five. Centering them is Edgar Laprade, leading the Rangers with 13 points.

Will Need Power

The Rangers will need that power tonight when they take on the leading Detroit Red Wings in Detroit. In another game the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs meven points behind the Red Wings—meet the last-place Bruins in Boston.

The Leafs, still stung from two 5-4 defeats at the hands of Wings during the weekend, will go into their game with a fresh lineup.

Coach Joe Kennedy, who missed the two games will be back in harness along with Wingman Fleming Mackell, who suffered a knee injury in Detroit Sunday. Mackell wasn't expected to make the trip but the knee responded to treatment.

Replacing the injured Bill Juzda will be Phil Maloney of Pittsburgh Hornets, the Leafs farm club. Injured also was Sandor Kapu but was used sparingly.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Nov. 23, (AP)—Say what you like about United States football's "platoon" system, the present substitution rule has accomplished one thing it set out to do . . . you have the word of Andy Kerr, an authority on the rules, that the rule permitting unlimited substitutions with time out and none with time in, was designed to stop coaching from the bench . . . "I believe it has done that," said the platoon system is something for the rich, not the poor," commenta Kerr. "We want to make football a game for hundreds of colleges, not just for a few with great enough players to substitute full teams."

. . . from an ordinary mind, we offer an ordinary suggestion: Eliminate the automatic time out when the ball changes hands on a kickoff, punt or pass-interception . . . that would limit opportunities for platoon substitution but still provide a good many penalty free chances for substitute for a player who was tired or wasn't playing well.

Third Period Riot Staged At Guelph

(By The Canadian Press)

Of three games played in the Ontario Hockey Association today night, two could be considered hockey. The other was a mixture of mayhem and a Spanish matador battle.

Fists attended the junior encounter at Guelph between Biltmores and Stratford Kroehlers expecting to see the usual spirited junior type of hockey. Instead they saw a third period riot which would do credit to a Hollywood production. The "promises" were only the sixth place Bills 6-3 but who won the third period riot is anybody's guess.

A fight broke out and was continued in the penalty box. The willingness of a nearby spectator to get involved in it was the signal for players of both teams to spill onto the ice accompanied by numerous fists. The "spectacle" held up the game until referees produced some semblance of order a half hour later.

In other games, the second place Owen Sound Mercurys of senior loop went down to a 4-3 defeat at the hands of the cellar-inhabiting Hamilton Tigers. St. Michael's took over sole possession of second place in the Junior "A" series with a 6-4 verdict over Galt Black Hawks.

The final tabulation at Guelph showed 37 penalties were handed out, including 14 misconducts, two matches and one match misconducts.

Referees Ken Holmeshaw and Pearcy Allan finally got the game under way after a backsliding all players but five from both teams to the dressing rooms. Another complication arose when defenceman Vic Dinsarco of Guelph was injured. The situation was solved by taking a player off Stratford to keep the sides even.

Game Fairly Close

The game was fairly close until the third period, being tied 2-2 at the end of the first and 3-3 at the end of the middle frames. Bob Patton, Ron Plumbidge with two and Ken Oberholtzer with the other scored in the final session. Plumb's second coming when the teams were playing four aside. Walter Clune had opened the scoring for Guelph in the first. Doug French tied it for Stratford. The teams split tallies in the second, Frank Bathgate clicking for the Bills and Jim Pernfuss for Stratford.

The senior game at Owen Sound was held up an hour and 15 minutes because of a breakdown of the bus taking Tigers to Owen Sound.

The game was a scrvicing affair until the halfway mark of the final period when Clare Shillington put the Tigers out in front 1-0 on a pass from Johnny Conick. Hal Hornley made it 2-0 six minutes later, again on a pass from Conick.

Owen Sound

St. Michael's and Galt salvaged something from the night's activity. Their game was entirely without event other than a hockey nature.

The Black Hawk took an early three-goal lead of two markers by George Ford and one by Frowde Horvath. The collegians clicked for two before the period ended, and were ahead 3-2 by the start of the third. Bill Primeau and Bill Dineen flashed the light in the first for the Majors and Bill Marshall, Rod Roy and Bill Dineen again counted in the middle frame. Galt potted their fourth and last off the stick of Jack Green in the third, Rod Roy snagged his second to close out the scoring.

Three games are on tap for tonight, in the senior circuit, MacMarrow play host to Kitchener-Waterloo, Marlboro juniors travel to Windsor and St. Catharines take on Sarnia in the other game.

Alouettes Will Be in Peak Form for Stamps

Montreal, Nov. 23(CP)—Come snow or mud, Montreal Alouettes will be in peak form when they tackle Calgary Stampeders in Saturday's Big East-West football final.

They've been romping over a snow-hardened gridiron in light practice sessions after showing their prowess in the mud by routing Hamilton Tigers 40-0 in last Sunday's Eastern Canada final.

Coach Lew Hayman and his sides will take the Ala through their large repertoire of plays again today, but it's not expected that the workouts will be too strenuous.

"We're as fit and ready as we'll ever be," Hayman said Tuesday night, but he admitted that Jack Harper is a doubtful starter.

Nursing a dislocated shoulder suffered in Sunday's game, Harper attended the team drill Tuesday, but watched most of it.

Will Make Trip

Bronco Reese and Chuck Anderson, tossed out of the Hamilton contest because of the United States import limit, are still drilling with their mates and will make the Toronto trip.

The mad scramble for tickets will reach a climax today when the allotted 3,000 duests are distributed to lucky season-ticket holders.

Officials of the Montreal Football Club have been sounded out by letter, telegram and telephone by fans as far west as Vancouver and even by some in Calgary.

Meanwhile, Montreal rooters are suggesting that Toronto-bound citizens contribute to the cow-country regalia of the Calgarians—by wearing the colorful jackets, toques and hats of the lumberjack.

PROHIBITS SALE OF CONES BY STREET VENDORS

Kingston, Nov. 23 — (CP) — City council has decided all street vendors must sell only pre-packed goods on the streets of Kingston. This new regulation will prohibit the selling of ice cream cones from street vendors. Ice cream will in future have to be put in paper cups when sold on the streets.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By AL VICKERY

Winnipeg, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers took it on the chin all season in Western Interprovincial Football Union play, and now the executive is taking a blasting from the press.

Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan says that "in spite of the fact that the club finished with money in the bank, a pinch-penny policy was adopted when it came to paying off the players for their season's work."

"Several players took healthy cuts — and were hostile about it," he adds.

Allan says the American imports took an unexpected 10-per-cent cut, owing to the devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

What chance will Bombers have of signing up American players for next year if the news gets around about the treatment this year's imports received?"

Little Hagging

Eddie (Winnipeg Free Press) Armstrong, president of the Bombers, denies the players took a cut.

"Sure, some of the players squawked when they received their cheques at the end of the season, but they quietened down when chits were produced showing that the difference was drawn as advances while on the road.

"In regard to the imports, there was little haggling on that score. And everybody left satisfied."

A Rich Year?

The Winnipeg football club was not the only one to feel the sting of Allan's pen. He also lashed out at the people of Winnipeg.

"After taking in the Western football finals," writes Allan, "we're downright disgusted. As far as sports are concerned, what a kick town Winnipeg is compared with Calgary or Regina.

"Isn't it ironical that Winnipeg, with a population of 230,000 — or more than 300,000 when you take in the suburbs — can't compete against Calgary (pop. 100,000) or Regina (pop. 60,000)?"

Allan says "it should be obvious that we are never going to have another Grey Cup contender in Winnipeg until there is a change in football stadium — one seating not less than 12,000.

"Regina got its start when Carl Cox did it — and Edmonton has the best in the West.

"What's the matter with the people of Winnipeg? Haven't they an ounce of pride?"

Wrestler, Wife, Three Children Overcome by Gas

Crystal Beach, Ont., Nov. 23—(CP)—Clay Bell, 32, wrestler and former professional football player, his wife and their three small children were found unconscious in a gas-filled cottage here Tuesday.

All were revived Bell and four-year-old May, 3, were reported in good condition, Tuesday night in a Fort Erie hospital. Mrs. Roxanne Bell, 30; Roxanne 2, and Nashelle, two months, did not require hospital treatment.

The family arrived here Saturday from their home in Pass Robles Calif., Constable Arthur Thornton of the Crystal Beach police said they apparently were overcome by gas fumes in their sleep some time Monday night.

Bell played left tackel for Washington State college before turning pro. He played the same position with the Cleveland Rams, Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Bulldogs, Columbus Bulldogs and New York Giants.

Now a wrestler, he has had several movie parts. He doubled for Victor Mature in the forthcoming "Samson and Delilah" and appeared in "Everybody Does It."

Five Amendments Will be Discussed At O.M.H.A. Meet

By The Canadian Press

Five proposed amendments to the regulations governing the Ontario Minor Hockey Association will be discussed and a new executive will be elected at Toronto Saturday at the association's 16th annual meeting.

Proposed amendments are:

1. The regulation permitting a player to take part in all classifications—juvenile, midget, bantam—when he is eligible, would be changed to exclude players in those cities having teams in the "A" series.

2. To enable the executive to replace present home and home playoff series with two-out-of-three or three-out-of-five series.

3. To give the executive authority to say what overtime is to be played in "games" series.

4. To have each association appoint all referees.

5. Redoration of the rule instituted last year by which the executive issues cards to managers and coaches.

Joe Louis, retired heavyweight champion, fought a cautious but lively 10-round exhibition bout Tuesday night at Detroit with Joe Chesbul, young Bayonne, N.J., heavyweight.

A crowd of more than 5,000 saw Louis score but one knockdown, for an eight count.

Louis weighed 223 ½, enjoying a huge weight advantage over Chesbul, at 185.

Two exercise boys were hurt and two horses killed in accidents at the fair grounds race track in New Orleans Tuesday.

Lester Keen, 18, received a broken collarbone when his mount and another horse collided.

Both horses, two-year-old filly Mayiew and five-year-old gelding Capt. Dave, died within a few minutes.

Walter Lilly, 31, rider of Maview was unhurt.

About an hour later Joseph Barmore, 16, received a broken leg when a stirrup strap broke. He was riding Little Taffy.

Dick Curley, veteran boxing promoter and manager, died Monday night at Trenton, N.J., after a long illness. He was 72.

Promotor of the 1917 championship fight between featherweight king Johnny Kilbane and lightweight Benny Leonard, Curley was one of the last of boxing's old guard.

He managed such well-known fighters as Mike Dundee, Sailor Freedman, Cowboy Eddie Anderson, and Walt Doyle.

Comedian Bob Hope still can list himself as one of the owners of the Cleveland Indians.

The baseball team's new president, Ellis W. Ryan, announced at Cleveland Tuesday that Hope has a "rooting" interest in the new corporation, the Cleveland Baseball Company.

Hope, who was raised on Cleveland's east side, held a small amount of stock under the Bill Veeck regime.

In a game superior to Saturday night's, in which the Canadians won 2-0 from the Swedish Alk team, Goela proved tougher opposition. The Canadians got a 2-0 lead in the first period, but the Swedish attack then came back with two in the second against one for Hull. The third period was scoreless.

EMPLOYED IN OFFICE OF LATE SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Ottawa, Nov. 23. (CP)— Joseph G. Pigeon, at one time an employee in the office of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier during the latter's tenure as Prime Minister of Canada, died suddenly at his home here Tuesday. In 1903 he was appointed clerk of revisers, also in the Federal Parliamentary Library and retained that position until he retired in 1945.

Science turned their backs on the target
Science is playing an increasingly important role in Canada's new Army. In heavy anti-aircraft, for example, complex radar equipment predicts to within a few feet exactly where the target is and will be. The gunners, their backs to the target, fire with amazing accuracy by instrument.
Training men in the use of modern scientific equipment is a major requirement in Canada's new Army. Thousands of young men are attending some of the finest schools in the country, specializing in electronics, radar, radio and telephone. In addition, there are openings for clerks, drivers, mechanics and many other trades.
New higher pay, good food and quarters, trades training and the opportunity for advancement make the Canadian Army Active Force one of the most attractive careers open to young men today. You are eligible if you are 17 or over and can meet Army requirements. Visit your nearest recruiting office soon for full details. Bring certificates of birth and education with you.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Harry sounds of tapping feet are again coming from the Eleanor Powell bungalow, long a landmark at M-G-M. studios.

The boards are once more groaning under the onslaught of the long-stemmed tapster. Miss Powell has returned to the studio where she once reigned as a musical queen. She was away seven years, during most of which she was merely Mrs. Glenn Ford, wife of the Quebec-born star.

Thus begins another chapter in the career of the Springfield, Mass., dancer who has travelled from ballet to be-bop.

"I studied ballet for 13 years," she recalled, "to me ballet was everything. But then I tried out on Broadway before such producers as George White, Flo Ziegfield and Earl Carroll, 'Very nice,' they said, 'but can she tap.'

"So I invested $35 on 10 tap lessons. Those were the only lessons I've ever had and I've been tapping ever since."

In a Rut

After starring in many Broadway shows, she came to Hollywood in 1935 and repeated her success in films. After several years of hits, she found herself in a rut."

She left M-G-M. in 1942. She did one outside film, "Sensations of 1945," but it turned out not to be.

One night the Fords were out socially with the Joe Pasternaks when the producer suggested a film return for Eleanor. She laughed it off and forgot about it. But Pasternak persisted. He conquered her fear of returning to the old haunts and signed her to appear in "Duchess of Idaho."

"It's just a brief appearance in the picture," she said, "but it's handled very well. Van Johnson introduced me at a night club. Then he looks right at the movie audience and says, 'Would you like to see Eleanor Powell dance again?'"

"The audience's reaction to this will determine whether or not I do any more pictures."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No bidding system tips you off to the exact split of opponent cards. That is, not in any one deal. But there is a good general rule that tells you what to expect in a majority of cases.

There is a percentage table of probable expectancy. It tells the most probably division of outstanding cards. It tells what to expect most often in each of the opponent hands.

This table is not something just discovered. It has been known for hundreds of years. It applied to the game of whist, grandaddy of later games such as bridge, auction, contract.

The original Edmond Hoyle had the table in his book more than two centuries ago. No noticeable diffgence in the figures can be seen in tables published by modern authors.

The table states that so many cards will divide so and so in so many times out of 100. Another amount of unseen cards will split so and so in so many times out of 100.

There is no reason why you should cram all these figures. No need is there to clutter up your brain with the different numbers and percentages. There is a better way of knowing.

One Horse Sense rule saves all the trouble of learning the big table of figures. Here it is: An even number will divide unequally; an odd number equally as possible.

Look at this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH
♠A 4 2
♥K 6 2
♦A K 6 4
♣A K 6 5

NORTH
♥Q 5 4 3
♦Q 9 2
♣Q 9 4 2

How do you expect opponent clubs to be divided? They have five, an odd number. Equally as possible, expect them three in one hand and two in the other.

How do you expect opponent diamonds to be split? They have six, an even number. Unequally, expect them four and two in their hands.

You don't always find what you expect.

DYNAMITE FAILS TO BRING BODIES TO SURFACE

Sudbury, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Dynamiting blasting in Kelly Lake has failed to bring to the surface the bodies of Jeck Pellati, 15, and Martin Caine, 17, who were drowned Oct. 30 while bathing. It is expected the lake will soon freeze over, locking the bodies in until the spring breakup.

TRENTON ELECTIONS DECEMBER 12TH.

Trenton, Nov. 23. (CP)—Municipal election date has been set for Dec. 12 in this town. Nominations for mayor and council will be received on Nov. 23. Two public school trustees are to be nominated and one public utility commissioner.

SARDINES ARE BABIES

The sardine is not a dwarf fish, but the young of the pilchard, a species of herring.

Directed by JOHN M. STAHL · Produced by FRED KOHLMAR
20th Century-Fox

World's Tallest Christmas Tree 105 Feet High

Los Angeles, Nov. 23 (AP)—Okay, get in line.

The annual season for running Los Angeles' skyscraping Christmas tree into the ground is at hand.

Last year, downtown business men built a 85-footer down from the mountains; called it the tallest in the United States. From city after city came claims of toppers.

This year the business men raised their sights, call the current version the world's tallest. But they expect the same reaction. The beautiful white fir will be put up today, all 105 feet of it.

BRISTOL COAL OUTPUT

London, Nov. 23, (Reuters) — Figures issued last night by the fuel ministry showed that Britain's coal output last week was 4,520,900 tons — the second highest total this year. The record output this year was in the week ending Nov. 5 when 4,521,000 tons were mined.

PAPER WEIGHT WAS BARREL OF 206-YEAR-OLD PISTOL

Kirkland Lake, Nov. 23 — (CP) —A piece of metal used as a paper weight for the last 20 years by J. Alexis Smith, chief forest ranger of the Matheson district, has been identified by pistol expert C. D. Borror of Matheson as the barrel of a pistol at least 200 years old. Mr. Hough found the pistol barrel on a prospecting trip between Matheson and Adolph.

W. J. MORRISON, 70 DIES

Toronto, Nov. 23, (CP)— William James Morrison, 70, governor of the jail farm at nearby Langstaff for some years, died Tuesday at Sunnybrook Hospital. He served overseas in the First World War and for some

Little Benny's Note Book

The telefone rang after supper, and it was Pete Simkins to talk to me about different subjects in general nothing in particular, and when we get through ma said, Benny, did I hear you'r'tell Pete that you're not speaking to Sid Hunt?

Sure, and neither I am and neither I probably ever will, unless maybe he goes down on his hands and knees and ipologizes, I said, and ma said, Goodness, such a thing to say and such an attitude to take.

Yee gods, pop said. How are the far flung nations of the erth ever going to get as friendly terms when even the near fiend yuhildern wont speek to one another? he said, and I said, Well I aint going to let him or any other guy call me a big overgrown gazoo.

Now what in the world is a gazoo? ma said. It's some kind of a musical instrument, isn't it? she said, and pop said, It's not even a musical instrument, it's just a silly nonsensical meaningless sound, and I cant think of a more ridiculus reason for breaking of social relations.

Well heck, pop, I mean jimminy roosavelten, he didn't just call me a gazoo, he called me a big overgrown gazoo, and everybody knows what big overgrown ma said,

Goodness, dont they? I said, and ma said, He probably would not of called you anything if you hadn't given him some just provocation.

No man, I didn't give him anything, I said. We were having a partly friendly argument, and I said, Nobody would talk like that but a big overgrown gazoo, and Sid said, "Then that's what you are." In other words he deliritly called me a big overgrown gazoo, I said.

Oh for land sakes keep quiet, ma said, and pop said, And while you're keeping quiet, do your homework.

FLOUR-MILLING

If it had been made public with apparent government support of its contents.

4. It was decided to withhold publication of the report until the government could investigate Mr. Howe's contentions.

5. The government had found his contentions to be well-founded and thus decided it would be unfair to prosecute the millers on the basis of the report.

6. Technically, Mr. Garson had not received the report in its "final form" until after Oct. 22 if various changes had been made after the report was first delivered to Mr. Garson) so that when it was made public Nov. 7 it was within the 15 days specified in the Combines Investigation Act.

These explanations were not accepted by two opposition speakers who took part in the debate.

The government could not even ask the fact that it had clearly broken the law, said J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood). "We have nothing less than a conspiracy against our constitution."

Breach of the law was serious in this case because the government should be the protector of the principle that all men are equal before the law. The principle was "the very cornerstone of our way of life."

Extenuating Circumstances

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) said the whole effect of Mr. Garson's speech was to plead guilty to the charges of breach of law "with extenuating circumstances."

The question wasn't whether the companies were guilty or not. No government had the right to break the law.

The debate was touched off last week by a government bill to plug loopholes in anti-price-fixing legislation.

A high point was reached Tuesday when the Commons voted 143 to 33 to reject an amendment sponsored by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Described by Mr. Garson as a want-of-confidence motion, the amendment proposed that instead of voting on the principle of the bill, the Commons should send it to the standing committee on banking and commerce.

The committee could make recommendations and send report on the extent to which effective administration of the combines investigation act "has been, or is being, prejudiced by action of the government" in delaying publication of the flour-milling report.

The vote was along straight party lines with the Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and Social Credit parties supporting the amendment and the Liberals opposing it.

Mr. Howe was attacked several times during the combines discussion. Opposition members have suggested he was the guiding hand behind the decision to delay the report's publication.

At one stage Mr. Fleming described Mr. MacDonnell described Mr. Howe as a "fascist, a nier Fascist, who by chance got into a democratic assembly." He withdrew the remark at Mr. Howe's suggestion.

Three Courses Open

Mr. Garson explained the three courses open to the government in deciding what to do with the report.

"We could have published the manuscript at once, as an official report, with comment . . . It seemed to us this would not be a proper course because publication without comment would have implied endorsation of the report by the government, which would have been quite inconsistent with the view held by some members of the cabinet that as to its facts the report was incomplete and misleading."

The second course would have been to publish the report with the statement that the government was skeptical about certain aspects, that those aspects would be checked and the true and complete facts published later.

"But this was unacceptable because it would have advertised the government's doubt in the Combines Commission, which would have had an adverse effect on the administration of the Combines Act.

Course Followed

"The third alternative was the course we followed, to delay publication . . . until we could get and check the facts so that when the report was published the government would be able to state definitely its position in regard to it."

At the outset Mr. Garson said the price rise at the time of becoming a September, 1947 typifies the cleavage of opinion between Mr. McGregor and prices board chiefs Donald Gordon and later C. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor had told the industry at that time that a $4-a-barrel increase for flour and a $10-a-barrel increase for millfeed should be the limit. If this was not adhered to the government might have to reimpose controls.

This, said Mr. Garson, was reasonably the uniform increase throughout the milling industry at that time.

Mr. Garson said the McGregor report was rejected because it was felt that no one could speak with greater authority on the period of wartime control than Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon had been of the opinion that no action should be taken against the milling companies and the government respected his opinion.

Mr. MacDonnell said the fact that "this government has given no assurance, no apology, no promise for the future, I hope that what has been done here will become sufficiently registered in the public mind so that the expression of public opinion will be such that no government in future will dare what has been done here."

Mr. MacDonnell said Mr. Garson had spoken in a manner suggesting that he realized he had done something unjustifiable and inexcusable. He could see no directing hand of Mr. Howe behind the whole affair.

Interventions by Mr. Diefenbaker and M.J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, indicated they were not satisfied with Mr. Garson's statement that Mr. Gordon had given the flour-millers assurance they would not be prosecuted under price-fixing laws.

They said the government had tabled what was to be documents indicating this undertaking had been given. All they had seen were statements quoting Mr. Gordon as saying he had given these assurance.

It meant they had to take Mr. Gordon's word for it.

U. S. PROTESTS SHELLING OF FREIGHTER

With a patch (arrow) over the hole ripped in her side by shell from Chinese Nationalist gunboat, the Isbrandtsen Line freighter "Flying Cloud" rides in Korean waters. Gunboat apparently fired one warning shot across bow before shelling. The U. S. protested the shelling, and has, as yet, received no reply. — Central Press Canadian.

'Met' Glitters As Opera Season Is Opened

By ARTHUR EVERETT

New York Nov. 23. (AP) — Everybody got into the act Monday night as the Metropolitan Opera opened its 65th season.

On-stage, the Richard Strauss romance-dominated opera "Der Rosenkavalier" went off smoothly with Rise Stevens, Eleanor Steber and others singing out their arias to six solidly-packed tiers of opera-goers.

Between acts, the great and would-be great of society put on their own show for the television cameras.

Those who weren't starred in either performance lined the corridors and pointed, oohed and aahed at celebrities on and off the stage.

The opera house was a glittering, brilliant arena, with bejewled patrons strung in a horseshoe around the colorfully tiered-out stage.

The bar was never dim. And never quiet.

A table captain, veteran of 18 consecutive opening nights, lamented:

Before Television Cameras

"This is the worst I have ever seen. They all want to walk around in front of the television cameras. How can we keep the aisles clear?"

Even those such as have enlivened openings in other years, were few.

Mrs. Betty Henderson, who once gained fame by hoisting her leg on a table, was on hand, if she entered the bar, she did it discreetly.

A slight disturbance in the entrance lobby threatened to mar the first act. Noisy arrivals brought short, dignified Earl R. Lewis, the Met's secretary, racing to the corridor.

He wagged a finger and sounded a warning "sh" at the crowd. When that didn't work, he threatened to call the police.

"Performances just can't be normal," he complained. "Other than that it's been a delightful season."

'Boy of 14' Shoots Bear and Saves Father

Midland, Nov. 23. (CP)— Douglas Taylor, 14, of Tarentorus saved his father, Russell, from a severe mauling by a 300-pound black bear near Severn Falls, 15 miles northeast of here, Douglas shot the bear with a 22 calibre rifle through the eye at 15 feet when it grappled with Mr. Taylor, who went to rescue their dog, Lucky.

18 GERMAN PLANTS SAVED FROM DISMANTLING

Toronto Welcomes 300 Whooping Fans From Calgary

Stampeders' Supporters Ready for Saturday's Game

BY JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Toronto opened the door, threw away the key and gave a royal welcome today to more than 300 whooping, football-crazy Calgary fans today.

There were speeches, bands, a few words of welcome-drowning rain and a big traffic bottleneck in the downtown area.

Stampeder supporters wearing ten-gallon cowboy hats, colorful shirts and high-heeled boots, travelled 2,000 miles to watch their dominion championship tangle with Montreal Alouettes in the Grey Cup final here Saturday.

Everything started off on schedule except the arrival of Mayor Hiram McCallum. He was five minutes late.

A fife-and-drum band, larietteing majorettes leading the way, marched up and down in front of the Union Station, with hundreds of rubbernecking Torontonians looking interested.

Welcomed By Mayor

"We're glad to have you back," the Mayor said in his official welcome. "Come down to Hogg and alive with interest in Saturday's game."

Citizens who expected a big show were a trifle disappointed, but that soon came later.

Horses, chuck-wagons, a 100-foot miniature train and a teepee were dropped off just outside the station. They will be used in the big parade—to Mayor McCallum's chagrin—on Saturday morning.

Incidentally, the number of the model train is 12-7—a number Calgarians won't forget in a hurry. It was the 1948 Grey Cup score when the Stampeders beat Ottawa Rough Riders to bring the foothills city its first dominion football title.

"We'll make this town rock with some good, clean, hearty razzle-dazzle," one fan yelled at the crowd.

Toronto — (CP) — Hec Crichton of Toronto will referee Saturday's east-west Grey Cup game between Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders.

This was announced today by Percy Robinson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union. Of the five officials he announced, four are from eastern Canada and one from the west.

Bevidge Crichton, they are: umpire, Seymour Wilson, Hamilton; Judge of play, Jimmy Simpson, Hamilton; Head linesman, Andy Belber, Winnipeg; Don Bowman, Bob Lye, Hamilton.

The kickoff is set for 1:45 p.m. EDT.

BUSINESS OFFICES AP AND UP SEIZED IN BUENOS AIRES

Newspapers Allowed to Continue Publication

Buenos Aires, Nov. 24. (AP)— An Argentine congressional committee today seized the business offices of the United Press and the Associated Press.

Business offices of the four newspapers in Buenos Aires opposing the regime of President Juan D. Peron were seized Wednesday. While federal police stood guard today government auditors examined the financial records of the newspapers.

Led by a two man congressional committee, the business offices of the newspapers were taken over to determine whether they had received money from a Liberal and Left-wing Coalition that unsuccessfully opposed Peron in the 1946 presidential elections.

The four newspapers, the only independent dailies in Buenos Aires, include the widely-quoted La Nacion and La Prensa, the nominated La Hora and the tabloid Clarin.

The newspapers were permitted to continue publication.

The two congressmen leading the investigation ordered seizure of all books dating back to Aug. 3, 1946, when the anti-Peron Coalition was formed.

Steamshovels Beat Rhythmically as Stampeders Dance

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Steamshovels working on Toronto's subway beat out a solid accompaniment as supporters of the Calgary Stampeders staged an impromptu square dance in front of the Union Station today on their arrival from the foothills city for the dominion football final.

Decked out in full cowboy garb, the Westerners were met by Calgary expatriates who helped them break a measure or two shortly after the arrival of their special train. Short speeches piped music to the dancers from the steamshovels called the tune.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP)—Synopsis—The storm which brought gale winds and heavy rain to Ontario Wednesday is passing over the Maritimes this morning centred on its way to the North Atlantic. Another storm developing in the central states is headed towards Southern Ontario. In advance of it, snow which has reached into Michigan, will spread as far as Toronto this afternoon. The snow is expected to change to rain in southwestern Ontario during the morning, with a risk of freezing rain during the transition. The storm is expected to travel along the Lower Lakes during the night and to move into Quebec on Friday. It is to make continued cold weather with intermittent snow in forecast over most of the province on Friday.

MAY BE FURTHER CUTS

London, Ont., Nov. 24 — (CP) — Only full co-operation of consumers in conserving power will prevent further hydro restrictions this winter, Chairman R. E. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission told here Wednesday. P. R. Locke of St. Thomas was re-elected president of District No. 7, along with directors H. R. Henderson of Woodstock, and R. W. D. Lewis of London.

VOTES PREVENTED ON TWO MOTIONS BY HOUSE RULES

Government Charged With 'Hiding' Reports

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Rules of the Commons Wednesday prevented opposition members from obtaining formal votes on motions censuring the government for the way it handled a report into an alleged price-fixing combine in the flour-milling industry.

Twice opposition members moved amendments of censure. Twice the attempts were turned back by Speaker Roy Mandon-ald, who ruled the amendments out of order. Appeals against his ruling were defeated by large majorities.

Both amendments were to a motion calling for second reading of a measure in principle—to a bill aimed at strengthening Canada's anti-combine legislation.

Blocked by the rules from reaching a formal vote, the opposition relaxed their attacks on the government's failure to give the bill to be given second reading. Then John Diefenbaker (PC) of Lake Centre looked up where he had left off earlier and reiterated charges that the government deliberately "hid" the combines report.

Minister Gardiner Garson denied the charges and said that he had not deliberately broken the law. He said the final draft of the report on the flour-milling industry reached him and was tabled within the time limit.

DENIES ALLEGATION

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — A policeman charged with indecently assaulting a young housewife at a birthday party in her home denied Wednesday that he had made improper advances. Bert Fyfe, under suspension from the police force, told Magistrate Lewis Ietstified that he twice tried to get Elsie Gould and her husband to "make up" after they quarrelled the night of the party. After the first time, Fyfe says he and the woman in her bedroom alone.

DONALD FERREAULT LOSES LIFE IN FALL

Ottawa, Nov. 24—(CP)—Donald Perreault, 27,-today lost his last chance to escape the gallows for the murder of Mrs. Mary Ann Mondelet of Montreal policemen.

A spokesman for the Secretary of State's department said: "It has been decided that there will be no interference with the death sentence."

Noel Cloutier was hanged March 11 and Douglas Perreault, no relation to Donald, was hanged June 17 for the murders.

American Consul-General In China Soon to Start Long-Delayed Departure

Washington, Nov. 24. (AP)— State Department officials expressed hope today that American Consul-General Angus Ward shortly would be able to begin his long delayed departure from communist-ruled Mukden, China.

They are anxious to have him safely home and they want to ask him some detailed questions about his imprisonment by the Chinese Reds.

The fact that a Communist court ordered Ward and four staff members deported gave rise to the belief here that the communists would no longer place any obstacles in the way of closing the consulate at Mukden and removing all the personnel.

News of this release was announced by the department Wednesday after Ward himself had sent word of it through consul-General O. Edmund Clubb

Twice as Many Persons Unemployed As a Year Ago

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Nearly twice as many persons are unemployed as a year ago, a spokesman announced today.

The return, tabled for Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) showed 82,925 persons receiving unemployment insurance in September and 105,084 in October. This compared with 44,761 and 53,264, respectively, for the same two months of 1948.

New applications for unemployment insurance in September totalled 51,935 and in October 60,948. This compared with 28,143 and 38,194 respectively in the same months a year ago.

Number of unemployed persons, as shown by applications registered at National Employment Service offices Oct. 31, with figures for the same date last year in brackets:

Newfoundland 7,583 (1948 figures unavailable); Prince Edward Island 105 (585); Nova Scotia 9,772 (6,483); New Brunswick 6,153; Quebec 49,000 (24,131); Ontario 43,811 (31,445); Manitoba 7,276 (3,150); Saskatchewan 4,258 (3,222); Alberta 6,336 (3,948); British Columbia 15,068 (18,417).

Unfilled vacancies by provinces, with 1948 figures bracketed: Newfoundland 31 (—-); Prince Edward Island 151 (231); Nova Scotia 1,066 (912); New Brunswick 710 (1,077); Quebec 7,458 (6,000); Ontario 11,107 (14,071); Manitoba 3,001 (3,483); Saskatchewan 1,131 (1,565); Alberta 1,963 (1,723); British Columbia 1,856 (2,383).

Canada Linked With Both Sterling And Dollar Areas

London, Nov. 24—(CP)—Canada must remain closely linked economically with the U.S. and sterling and dollar areas, L. Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, said today.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the British branch of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Wilgress said it would not be politically expedient to isolate herself successfully from either of the areas, such a move would destroy Canada's economy "out balance."

"Thus it is in Canada's interest to do everything possible to prevent these two great trading areas from being driven by war, depression or divergent groups."

This was the importance of Canada's participation in the Commonwealth conversations, Wilgress said.

HAPPY REUNION

Sarnia, Nov. 24. (CP)— A brief but happy reunion took place at the Sarnia CNR station Wednesday night between Miss Margot Fontayn, prima ballerina of the Sadler's Wells ballet and her 1-2 year old god child, Alexandra Kerr, who lives here. It was Miss Fontayn's first visit to Sarnia.

Miss Fontayn was passing through here with the ballet company en route to a nine-day engagement in Toronto.

ACQUITTED OF ABORTION MURDER

Montreal, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Mrs. Claire Lecompte, 33, was acquitted by Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure immediately freed the woman.

The crown produced medical evidence to show that Fernande Michaud, 23, of St. Hyacinthe died in Montreal last September from abortion, brought about by the administration of a solution which caused air bubbles in the blood stream.

Toronto Watches For Counterfeit Tickets for Game

Toronto, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Police in this city Thursday may be due for a flood of counterfeit tickets for Saturday's Grey Cup game between Calgary Stampeders and Montreal Alouettes is believed Toronto police said.

The investigation was touched off when police learned tickets to the game were being sold Wednesday in a downtown restaurant.

At least six people have been unwittingly bought phoney tickets at premium prices police said. The tickets he purchased resemble those which they are printed is more flimsy.

The bogus tickets in circulation are believed to be of the $2 variety. Police say they have no cases where up to $50 had been offered for a pair of tickets.

Missing Hunter Found Alive By RCAF Squad

Gore Bay, Ont., Nov. 24. (CP) — Mobility and Toronto Harbour hunter missing since last Friday, was found safely today by a Royal Canadian Air Force rescue squad.

RCAF authorities said they received the information from the rescue team saying: "Man is Wolford and is in good health."

The rescue party Sgt. Bill Farr and Cpl. "Dobbie" Dawson, accompanied by Provincial police went into the Manitoulin Island area by canoe on foot and brought Wolford out.

Exact location of where Wolford was found was not immediately available.

TO VISIT KINGSTON

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP)—Field Marshal Sir William Slim, Chief of the British Army General Staff, arrived in Ottawa Wednesday night by automobile from Montreal. The British army chief of staff, will visit Kingston Friday and will leave Saturday for the United States.

COLDWELL DOUBTS MILLERS GRANTED IMMUNITY

Says No Documentary Evidence Produced

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP) —M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, told the Commons today he can't accept the government statement that flour millers were granted wartime immunity from Canada's anti-price-fixing laws.

Resuming debate on clause-by-clause discussion of a bill to plug loopholes in the Combines Investigation Act, Mr. Coldwell said there has been no documentary evidence to support the conclusion that the companies were granted immunity.

Was Result of Orders

Justice Minister Garson and Trade Minister Howe said the flour-millers were told they wouldn't be prosecuted under the Combines Act for any wartime actions. Mr. Howe said this was because what appeared to be price-fixing among flour-millers in that period was the direct result of orders from the Prices Board.

But A. McGregor, Chief of Canada's Anti-Combines Commission wrote a report on the flour-milling industry which he had charged them with price-fixing over the period of the war.

Under the Combines Investigation Act such reports must be made public by the government within 30 days of receipt.

Mr. McGregor resigned because the report was not made public until 10 months after he first sent it to Mr. Garson.

Presents Arguments

Mr. Coldwell summed up his arguments today when he said:

1. He is satisfied that the government was wrong in withholding publication of the report.

2. There has been price-fixing before, during and after the war in the flour-milling industry and Mr. McGregor's report was warranted.

3. Mr. McGregor's contention that the flour-millers should be prosecuted for price-fixing is valid.

4. The suggestion of wartime immunity for the flour-millers was a new brought to Mr. McGregor's attention.

5. This was odd because as an experienced civil servant the Prices Board and during investigations, this immunity, if it existed, would certainly have been brought to his attention.

6. If a prosecution order had been brought to his attention he would have immediately acted.

7. The bogus tickets in circulation are believed to be of the $2 variety. Police say they have no cases where up to $50 had been offered for a pair of tickets.

Western Powers In Return Receive Pledge for Peace

Restrictions Also Eased On German Shipbuilding

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 24 — (AP) — The Western Allies agreed today to stop the dismantling of 18 big western German factories in return for German pledges to help keep the peace in Europe.

The plants to be removed from the dismantling list include the August Thyssen Steel Works, one of the largest in Europe.

All dismantling in divided Berlin will stop under the agreement announced today by the Allied High Commission with the west-German government.

In return for sweeping Allied concessions, the west-German government agreed to join the International Ruhr authority and "to maintain the demilitarization of the federal territory and to endeavor by all means in its power to prevent the re-action of armed forces of any kind."

Allow More Freedom

The communique announcing the agreement said the west-German government "affirms its resolve as a freely elected democratic body to pursue unswervingly by the principles of freedom, tolerance and humanity which inspire the nations of Western Europe and to conduct its affairs according to those principles."

The German government expressed its determination to eradicate all traces of Nazism from German life and institutions. For its part, the high Commission agreed to relax the present restrictions on German shipbuilding.

It authorized the construction of ocean-going ships, including those primarily designed for passengers and permitting tankers up to 7,200 tons, fishing vessels up to 850 tons and coastal vessels up to 3,700 tons.

The Germans were authorized also to build or acquire six special ships exceeding these limitations of size and speed.

Police quoted Sagenluk as having told them he shot himself in hl. room because of family troubles and the loss of his job. The shot had the man collapsed in the lumber yard of a nearby plant.

GRADE NINE STUDENT SHOOTS FIRST DEER

London, Nov. 24—(CP)—John McCulloch, a Grade Nine collegiate student, was the envy of his deer hunting party on his first hunting trip north.

Using borrowed firearms from other members of the group, John bagged four deer—two bucks and two does—while the other 12 persons in the party divided six deer between them.

"I didn't miss any, I got all I saw," he said, "I guess I was lucky being in the spot where they came by."

Son of N. L. (Doc) McCulloch, John has had previous experience with guns. He has shot partridge with his father in the Haliburton district.

COLDWELL'S FIRST ONSLAUGHT TIES UP LAKE SHIPPING

Snowfall Ranged From One to Five Inches With Winds to 50 M.P.H.

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) — Great Lakes shipping hugged shelter and snowplows were busy throughout the province as some areas as Ontario today weathered winter's first onslaught.

The snowfall ranged from one to five inches and drifted several feet deep by winds that reached 50 miles an hour in the Lake Huron and Georgian Bay region. The winds dropped as the storm moved eastward, but another disturbance was to move into Ontario later today.

The forecast was for more snow in southwestern Ontario this afternoon, spreading eastward tonight. Wednesday's cold temperature was 14 degrees above zero at the lakehead, with the mercury at or below freezing in Northern Ontario and just above freezing in London, Toronto and Ottawa. Continued cold was forecast, with temperatures from 15 above in Northern Ontario to around 30 degrees in the rest of the province.

Court Admits Statements Given By Accused Man

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Statements given police by Virgil Barkman when he surrendered to hunting trip north.

Using borrowed firearms from other members of the group, John bagged four deer—two bucks and two does—while the other 12 persons in the party divided six deer between them.

"I didn't miss any, I got all I saw," he said, "I guess I was lucky being in the spot where they came by."

Son of N. L. (Doc) McCulloch, John has had previous experience with guns. He has shot partridge with his father in the Haliburton district.

Court of the statements said: "I'm the man you are looking for about that accident two nights ago on the Kingston road."

In another written statement, Barkman admitted he had changed the right-hand door handle of the car, explaining he had done so to facilitate the opening of the door."

The trial continuing.

Twice Convicted of Murder Druggist Acquitted at Third Trial in Brooklyn

New York, Nov. 24 — (AP) — A long, gas-house battle was over today for a tense little Brooklyn druggist, finally freed from a murder charge of which he had been twice convicted.

An all-male jury Wednesday night 41-year-old Abraham Feldman innocent of the strychnine poisoning of his young wife, Pearl. Feldman with convictions, and was taken to a hospital. Like her mother, she died after months of pain in her feet.

The state charged that druggist Feldman murdered his wife to obtain possession of her share of her mother's insurance.

In none of his three trials, the first of which was held in 1946, did Feldman take the witness stand.

Feldman married his wife, Harriet, in 1940. After a marriage broker arranged their meeting. A year later, the bride's mother died in agony, screaming, "Don't touch my feet."

Feldman's wife got half of the $50,000 insurance left by her mother.

Two years later, Feldman's 23-year-old wife, then pregnant, began suffering with convulsions, and was taken to a hospital. Like her mother, she died after months of pain in her feet.

The state charged that Beatrice Hoffberg, became suspicious. She learned that foot pains are a reaction to strychnine poisoning.

She persuaded authorities to investigate. The bodies of the two women eventually were exhumed and their organs were found to contain strychnine.

The state charged that druggist Feldman murdered his wife to obtain possession of her share of her mother's insurance.

In none of his three trials, the first of which was held in 1946, did Feldman take the witness stand.

Heave-Ho From N.Y. Social Register Generally Laid to Marital Upsets

New York, Nov. 24—(AP — Theirs is not to reason why, but some are out of and some are in the 1950 social register.

The lucky ones met Wednesday, with its usual number of deletions and new additions, on the roster of socially-prominent people.

The 1950 edition of the social register association, which publishes the annual volume, never tells.

But the New York society columnists like to guess—and they usually blame the upsets on marital events.

Notable among those who got the heave-ho from the new roster is Mrs. Ellin Berlin, daughter of the composer, Irving Berlin.

She was divorced during the past year from Dennis Sheedy Burden, whose name remains on the choopy pages.

The irony is that Mary's mother, the former Ellin MacKay was divorced from the same husband time ago when she married the famous composer.

Author Ned N. Townsend, Jr., is off the elite rolls after marrying a pretty but non-social English girl, Gwendolines Radcliffe.

Still listed is representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., despite his divorce from Ethel du Pont, who also stays on.

There were numerous other revisions, all big news among the carriage trade, even if nobody else cares.

Western Powers In Return Receive Pledge for Peace

Restrictions Also Eased On German Shipbuilding

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 24 — (AP) — The Western Allies agreed today to stop the dismantling of 18 big western German factories in return for German pledges to help keep the peace in Europe.

The plants to be removed from the dismantling list include the August Thyssen Steel Works, one of the largest in Europe.

All dismantling in divided Berlin will stop under the agreement announced today by the Allied High Commission with the west-German government.

In return for sweeping Allied concessions, the west-German government agreed to join the International Ruhr authority and "to maintain the demilitarization of the federal territory and to endeavor by all means in its power to prevent the re-action of armed forces of any kind."

Former Warden Charles Rush Dies Suddenly

Reeve of Hungerford township for the past 10 years and former warden of Hastings County, Charles Rush, well-known farmer residing near Tweed, died suddenly at his home shortly after midnight today. He was 57 years of age.

Mr. Rush complained of not feeling very well yesterday afternoon while working on his farm. He retired early and succumbed to a heart seizure about 12.30 this morning. A brother, Frank, who lives nearby was with Mr. Rush when he passed away. Surviving is his wife.

The late Charles Rush was a well-known figure in the political, agricultural and municipal life of this county. He was a township but the county of Hastings as well. He was also well known farmers in his vicinity and he made a close study of agricultural problems and organizations in the county and province.

An ardent student of municipal affairs, Mr. Rush took an active part in the administration of his township at an early age. He was a member of the Hungerford township council for a number of years and in 1937 was elected to the position of reeve, a few years later he was given the post of reeve, one that he held till the time of his passing.

Was Warden of County

In 1947 Mr. Rush was elected to the wardenship of the County of Hastings, a position that he filled with honor and ability. During his tenure of office as a member of the county council he served faithfully and efficiently on various committees, and was known as the ablest orator in county council, and he always had the interests not only of not only his township but the county at heart. He was a popular lar with his fellow councillors not only in Shire Hall but socially also.

His interest in agriculture took him for several years as the first president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and was a member of the Hastings branch of that organization. He was keenly interested in reforestation and was largely instrumental in bringing this phase of agriculture to the Hastings County. In fact the first reforestation plot was planted in Hungerford township.

He was a past president of the Tweed Agricultural Society and took a keen interest in other community activities.

Politically, Mr. Rush was a Liberal and was the president of the Hastings Liberal Federal Association. He took an active part in county, provincial and federal politics. He was married a few years ago. There are no children.

Funeral arrangements will be published in tomorrow's edition of this newspaper.

250-Pound Bear Shot Near Shore Of Jamieson Lake

Hounds on the track of a deer on the shores of Jamieson Lake in North Hastings started up more than a deer for Bill Bishop of Belleville.

Bill was watching a deer trail from the shelter of a lean tooll when he heard a crashing in the bushes. Then suddenly over the knoll only eight feet away loomed a 250-pound black bear.

"Bill almost had to shoot in self defence at first," recounted his brother Bruce when the party returned to camp for hunting" sandwiches. "He shot about nine times with seven of the bullets finding their mark."

The bear was knocked down twice before he came down for the last time. With the first shot the bear turned and went the other way and was about 20 yards away when killed. The Bishops will have the bear skin dressed for a rug.

In addition to the bear, the hunting party of eight members came home with four deer.

FRED E. HEALEY

Picton—One of Picton's most prominent citizens passed away F. E. Healey, B.Sc., passed away very suddenly at his home, Main St. East, Tuesday night. Mr. Healey was tor of the Royal Hotel and of Prince Edward Lumber Co. Ltd., was widely known. Death was due to a heart attack, following his return after spending the evening at his office at the Royal Hotel. Mr. Healey had suffered a heart attack in June while visiting in Hamilton, and was confined to hospital for several weeks. Recovering, he returned to Picton and had been active in supervising his business interests.

Born in Picton

In his 68th year, Mr. Healey was the son of Eugene James Healey, who passed away in March 1947, and his wife, Charlotte Ann Martin who died in March 1944.

Mr. Healey was a graduate of the Royal Military College at Kingston and McGill University, Montreal, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Science. During university days he was prominent as a hockey player, and retained a keen interest in all sports.

He was a railroad construction engineer on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railways, helped lay out the town site of Cobalt. Later, with the Piggott-Healey Construction Co. of Hamilton and Battleford, Sask., he engaged in important construction work. In 1911, the firm constructed Picton Armories. Coming east in 1921 Mr. Healey retired and a year later became associated with his father who had been a pioneer hotel keeper since 1881. He became proprietor of the Royal Hotel in 1947 with many modern improvements following.

Built Service Station

In 1945, Mr. Healey purchased the Livingstone property, corner Main and Chapel Streets, and there constructed the modern garage and service station which operates as Prince Edward Motors.

Mr. Healey was a member of Picton Golf and Country Club, being for years one of its best players. He was a past director of the Ontario Hotel Association a member of Prince Edward Yacht Club, the Belleville Club, McGill University Association, Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, and of Picton Rotary Club. He was a faithful member of St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church and of its societies. In politics he was a Liberal. Though he never assumed public office, he was long recognized as a strong force in political and municipal circles.

Friendly Disposition

He was of an unassuming nature, with a friendly disposition which won him many friends, who were shocked at his sudden demise. He leaves his wife, formerly Blanche Morin; a son, James M. Healey at home, and a daughter, Mrs. J. J. Gibson (Freda) of Penticton, B.C., also three grandchildren.

The funeral is being held from his late residence on St. George's Church for High Mass at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Cost Accountants Entertain Group From Peterboro

The regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario was held in the banquet hall of the Belleville Shrine Club.

An informal get together before the meeting dinner enabled Bay of Quinte members to renew acquaintances with members from both the Peterborough Chapter and the Kingston Chapter, who made the trip to Belleville to join in this special meeting.

Following the dinner chairman Les Lennox formally welcomed the two visiting chapters.

Les Lennox called on co-chairmen, Ray Lennox of the membership and attendance committee with Gord Ireland to report on their activities. Ray introduced new members Doug Boulter and Ed. Bell, and followed up with an outline of their intentions of obtaining new members by means of correspondence and personal contact with various companies concerns in our district.

Carl Casey, program chairman, formally introduced the 1949-50 "Programs", and was congratulated on the excellent work of preparation. It is one of the best yet presented to the chapter both in quality of format arrangement and speaker selection.

H. S. Ireland Speaker

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Harold S. Ireland, was introduced by Carl Casey.

Mr. Ireland's subject "Efficient Marketing through Cost Control" was a subject ideally suited for the occasion, and was well received by those present.

"Management's job is to earn profits silently and use them wisely. In defining profits Mr. Ireland stated that profits is a life-giving force used to give a constant betterment in the way of living. Profits are the only figures detailed persons in charge of specific fields use the facts effectively to produce economically an even better product than before.

Mr. Ireland pointed out six points of a truly democratic way of living:

Free competition—give best value.

Free competition exists only where free enterprise.

Free enterprise depends on profits for survival.

Profits managed wisely maintain wa es.

Wages maintain consumer de-

Nomination Day Will be Held In City Friday

Tomorrow, Friday, is nomination day when nominations for candidates to city council, board of education and public utilities commission will be received at the city hall starting at eleven o'clock.

There is a certain procedure to be followed during nominations and regulations call for both the mover and seconder of each name and the candidate to be in the hall at the time the nomination is handed to the clerk. Also if a candidate is nominated both for the office of mayor and alderman he must notify the clerk the position for which he intends to stand. Otherwise the first nomination stands.

Qualifications close at nine o'clock Saturday night when candidates to be called upon to produce papers showing the fees are paid on the accommodation they occupy.

St. Laurent Will Ask Commons to Sit Three Times Daily

Ottawa, Nov. 24. (CP)— The Commons will another post-war day from a government still hopeful of concluding this session of parliament by Dec. 16.

Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice that he will ask that the House sit morning, afternoon and evening six days a week in an effort to conclude its business.

It already sits three times a day four days a week and twice on Wednesdays. The change would call for three sittings Tuesday and Saturday, instead of three.

Would Not Pay $3 To Spend $30,000

Toronto, Nov. 24. (CP)— An unidentified visiting farmer declared angrily from the audience to the Royal Winter Fair Wednesday he would not spend $2 for the privilege of spending $30,000, or so he told the gateman.

He and a friend drove to the gate. When told admission would cost 50 cents each plus $1 for the car, he said "I'm a buyer at the show."

The gateman replied: "two bucks or you don't go in."

The farmer huffed angrily "I'll be blasted if I'll pay $3 for the privilege of spending $30,000" and drove away.

City Will Revert To Standard Time Sunday Morning

After getting out of bed an hour ahead of the sun since last April, residents of Belleville and immediate district will revert to standard time on Saturday night. Local residents are therefore reminded to turn their clocks back one hour before they go to bed on Saturday night. The actual time for the switch back to standard time will be two o'clock Sunday morning.

It was originally intended to change back to standard time the last week in October but council decided to continue daylight saving time until now in an effort to conserve hydro. Several of the district centres in the Belleville area changed back to standard time some weeks ago.

NEW YORK
Closed Thanksgiving Day

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 24—(CP)—Cattle trade was all on a plain quality supply and prices held steady on the local Livestock Market this morning. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing services were cattle 140; calves 20; hogs 100; sheep and lambs 160. Held over from yesterday were 200 cattle.

Common steers and heifers sold at $14-$16.50 while calls and cutters brought $10-$11.50. A few plain steers ranged from $13.50-$16 a hundredweight.

Calves were steady at $27-$29 for choice vealers and a few plain sold at $17.

Hogs remained unchanged at $29 for Grade A and $28.60 for Grade B1. Dressed sows sold at $19.

Lambs were steady but trading slow at $23.50 for ewes and wethers while bucks sold at $23.50. A few sheep sold from $5.50-$11.50.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Prices continued downwards at the session ungressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

A holidayed New York market put a dsmper an trviing here. Industrials were about balanced with a few of the key issues among the losers. Junior gold producers merged on a wide list of oeanv declines and base metals steadied from early weakness.

Changes were held to nenoies in a very dull outern ell list.

Volume for the first four hou-rs was only 480 000 shares.

Hiram Walker was the considerable attention in Industrials. The price continued strong Wednesday following release of the annual report and continued today, touching a new high at 37¾. Papers were balanced while utilities, agriculturnes and textiles eased. Steel firmed and foods were mixed. Refining oils were higher.

PRODUCE MARKET

Ample supplies were available on a quiet local egg market this morning, with prices showing little change. Country shipper's quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large, 47-48; A medium, 45; A pullet 38; Grade B 43; Grade E 42; Grade C 35. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 52; A medium 49; A pullet 42; Grade B 46; Grade C 40.

Butter solids: First grade 60¼; second grade nominal asking price 58-58.

HOGS

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Hog prices at Stratford remained unchanged today. Grade A from truckers were $29.

Hogs at Hull, Grade Grade A, were unchanged at $28.75 delivered.

Other markets unreported.

DEMERS TO APPEAL

Sherbrooke, Que., Nov. 24. — (CP)—Paul Emile Bisaron, counsel for Tony Demers, said today there will be an appeal in the case of the 22-year-old hockey player, sentenced to 13 years in penitentiary for manslaughter in the death of his girl friend, Mrs. Anita Robert of Coaticook, Que.

Demers was convicted of manslaughter when the jury reduced the original charge of murder.

Nearly $3,000 Needed to Reach Campaign Quota

Over 2,300 subscriptions totalling $13,617 have now been reported in the community chest campaign. This indicates some advance over the last weekend when a special appeal went out to all workers to complete their task and requesting citizens, industry, merchants, employers and employees to do their utmost in support of the fund that the minimum objective of $16,000 will be reached

While the response has been gratifying it will not meet the requirements and unless some who have not yet subscribed will do so voluntarily and do so over an' some others who have already subscribed but may now feel they can do a little better, curtailment in essential services rendered free in hallow ened by the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Y.M.C.A. and the Children's Aid Society will be necessary.

Prize Essay

The following prize winning essay by Robert Gilham of Prince of Wales School has a child's appeal:—

"Why we support the Red Feather Drive."

"The Red Weather Drive is a drive for the purpose of helping keep up three of our most useful organizations in and around the Belleville district.

The amount of money asked is sixteen thousand dollars which will be used by the Young Men's Christian Association to repair their gymnasium and keep the pool in good working order. The Victorian Order of Nurses who work considerably among the poor, are not always well paid for what they do. They need the money to make up for the losses through the poor. The Children's Aid Society needs a great deal is keep up their homes for the children and supply them with their needs.

The aim of th. Drive is to help these organizations in their work for humanity. ly the sixteen thousand dollars is made this year and whatever is asked by the Red Feather Drive next year and the years to come, we have great prospects for our future generation."

SENT FOR TRIAL

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Henry Hall, Wednesday was committed for trial by Magistrate Prentice on 10 charges under the Ontario Securities Act. He was released on $5,000 bail. A charge of selling $5,000 privately owned shares as treasury shares was dismissed.

TOUTH ACQUITTED

Brampton, Nov. 24 — (CP) — A 13-year-old boy who drank 19 ounces of gin and collapsed in a ditch last Nov. 11 was acquitted Wednesday of a charge of stealing the liquor. His father sat outside in an automobile. The father brought into the court by a policeman, was reprimanded for his lack of interest in the boy.

Farmer Denies Ownership of Loose Cattle

Highway traffic patrolmen at the Belleville headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police are getting a bit tired of doubling as cattle jockeys.

On numerous occasions during the recent weeks, while patrolling the highway east of the city at night, traffic officers have had to chase cattle off the highway to prevent possible accident. Cattle were chased back into driveways and into barnyards and on at least one occasion the officer spent some time in attempting to repair a farmer's fence.

The whole thing had its sequel in county magistrate's court today when Murney Ray, Thurlow township, was charged with permitting cattle to run on the highway. The officer said he had chased the cattle off the highway and into the barnyard but at 2.30 in the morning had been unable to rouse Mr. Ray.

In court today Mr. Ray disclaimed ownership of the seven cattle which he said he had found in his barnyard. Magistrate T. Y. Wills accepted Mr. Ray's story and dismissed the case.

Shovel Breaks Water Mam, Cafe Flooded

Toronto, Nov. 24 —(CP)— A power shovel operator on the downtown Yonge Street subway construction project Wednesday dumped his shovel on top of a six-inch water main, sending a torrent of water through an adjoining basement dining room. Other workers constructed a trench to carry the torrent into the main sewer, which rose 18 inches deep through the dining room and kitchen of the adjacent restaurant. An elderly matron, disregarding draggled skirts, told a waitress "I will not go until I have drunk my beer."

RECORD CARGO

Port William, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Largest Canadian Great Lakes freighter, the Hochelaga of Canada Steamship Lines, has shattered a grain cargo record that stood unchallenged for 20 years.

The newest lake giant cleared the Canadian lakehead Wednesday night with 589,290 bushels of wheat in her hold.

The former record was held by the Lemoyne, sister ship of the Canada Steamship Lines, which carried 571,976 bushels of grain from the lakehead in 1929.

INDIA GETS ENGINES

New Delhi (CP)—Ayyangar, Indian transport and railways minister disclosed that deliveries of Canadian and United States built locomotives would be built by the spring of 1951. A number of engines and machinery had already arrived, financed by the World Bank Loan of $34,000,000.

Report of Two Hunters Marooned Proves False

Trenton (Special)—Report that two hunters were marooned on Cronk's island in the middle of the Bay of Quinte last night turned out to be a false alarm when authorities investigated with the RCAF crash boat.

Fear for the apparently marooned men mounted when police found that their life saving motor launch would not stand the buffeting of the wild Quinte waters.

The larger more powerful air force boat was summoned and on reaching the island the searchers located neither hunters nor boat. There are no buildings on the island to provide shelter for anyone who may become marooned there.

Police Chief John Taylor told of receiving a report from two other hunters who had been in the vicinity of the island earlier that the men they saw in a boat nearby and heading for the island appeared to be in trouble with a light boat and a light outboard motor, as darkness was coming in and the gale was mounting.

At press time police had not heard further about the apparently marooned men.

Minister Urges Lower Costs, High Standards

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 24 — (CP) — "If we can achieve lower costs and higher standards, no depression will ever hit the farmers of Ontario," Agriculture Minister Kennedy said here Wednesday in an address to the 300 delegates attending the 20th annual convention of the Ontario Milk Distributors Association.

He advocated greater consumption of milk by adults and children across the provinces.

Paul G. Kemp advocated the use of plastic milk tokens of various shapes and sizes for the dairy products, as an economy measure. He said the tokens can be produced in Canada at a cost below their selling price in the United States. They will last for several years. Where they have been given a trial there have been no complaints from either the consumers or the health authorities, Mr. Kemp said.

This morning the delegates heard Labor Minister Daley speak on Ontario labor legislation and its operation."

DEVELOP NEW BOMB

London, Nov. 24 — (AP) —The Daily Mail reported Wednesday that the United States "has developed a 'baby atom bomb' for tactical use in support of troops." The report comes from Fontainbleu, France. No source is cited for the report.

Big Four Allow Austria to Build Up Stockpile

New York, Nov. 24 — (CP) — The New York Times says today that Russia and the western Big Three Allies have agreed to let Austria stockpile steel, chemicals and certain other strategic materials.

This "major concession" by the Russians, the Times says, brings the drafting of an independence treaty for Austria close to the final stage of negotiations. The negotiations are being carried on here by the Big Four deputy foreign ministers.

The Times says that Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia personally informed representatives of Britain, the United States and France that the Kremlin would abandon its earlier insistence on strict controls for Austrian supplies of materials potentially useful in war.

The Western Powers have argued that such basic raw materials were essential to Austrian recovery and that such Austrian stockpiles would not be a threat to peace.

The Times adds that the Western Powers hoped to have an approved treaty draft by next March at the latest.

BERSERK VETERAN KILLED

Miami, Fla., Nov. 24 — (AP)— A berserk marine veteran was shot and killed by a policeman Wednesday after he slashed his pretty wife with a broken milk bottle and wrecked their apartment. Their one-year-old boy huddled in a bedroom during the fight. He was not harmed. Homicide investigator, B. F. Shields, identified the man as Alexander Sokalsky, 25, and said he was released from a veterans administration hospital only Tuesday. He was committed there five weeks ago as a psychiatric case.

Driverless Car Hits Pedestrians

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP)—Joseph Demers, 74, is in serious condition in hospital today after being knocked down Wednesday by a driverless automobile which had just been involved in a collision.

Police said Miriam Anderson was thrown out of her car when it collided with another. Miss Anderson's car went out of control and struck Demers and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Annette Demers, standing at the curb. Mrs. Demers also is in hospital suffering from injuries.

Neither driver was injured in the collision.

FOXBORO

Foxboro—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stewart and Carol, were tea hour guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. Ted Stuart, Point Anne.

Mrs. Fred Rupert, Mrs. Clifford Watson, and Mrs. Arthur MacFarlane of Belleville, were recent guests of Mrs. J. Chappelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lang, of the North West, were Wednesday dinner guests at the home of Mr. Harold Stewart.

FROZEN BODY FOUND

Englehart, Nov. 24—(CP)—The frozen body of 70-year-old Damyan Bataletz was found in a lonely cabin in Marter township near here Wednesday. Coroner J. F. Edis said an autopsy would be performed when the body thawed out.

BRITAIN'S WOMEN'S LAND ARMY TO END

The Women's Land Army, formed in Britain to meet war needs, is to be brought to an end in November 1950. Labor difficulties after the war made it necessary to prolong its existence but the number of regular workers in agriculture has steadily improved and now the Government regards the prospects of further recruitment as reasonably satisfactory. The 15,000 remaining members of the Land Army will not lose employment and it is hoped many will remain permanently on the land. The organization introduced many townswomen to a new career besides forming a valuable part of the nation's war effort.

RADIOACTIVE EXPERTS

Seventy shipments of radioactive materials are this month being despatched from Harwell, Britain's atomic energy centre, to overseas countries. This is equivalent to an increase of some 60 per cent on exports in August and September. Britain's second atomic energy factory, the Windscale Works in Cumberland, is rapidly taking shape. One of the uranium piles is almost completed, the base of the second is outwardly finished and other buildings are in the course of construction. Production in this factory as in the first atom works in North England will be directed to peaceful purposes, and particular, the provision of a new source of power for industry.

RESCUES AT SEA

One of those great stories of heroism and rescue which stir men's hearts was told a few days ago. In such events human beings are seen in their heroic mood when they risk all for others. It was one of the greatest and finest moments of their lives as they took the risk for the sake of saving others in distress on the sea. This theme has been a constant one of fiction and drama, and to the end of time such thrilling stories will be related for the story teller always has an audience when he has a theme so grand as this story of rescue at great danger to the rescuers.

It is one of the themes everyone has heard in every age and it is one of the spirit of life. The theme is nineteen of others from great peril by those who were great risks to save their fellowmen.

This story was that of the rescue of the survivors of the ditched U.S. B-29 who had spent 79 miserable hours on two life-rafts in the Atlantic off Bermuda.

It was the age-old true tale in a modern setting, a Canadian destroyer the Haida and carrier Magnificent, a fast U.S. bomber and men in danger on life-rafts on the broad seas. The fliers of the carrier Magnificent have earned the highest praise for their courage and skill, for the waves were thirty to forty feet high and Neptune was in one of his elemental moods. The medical officer of the Magnificent went in a small boat to the Haida and attended the survivors of the B-29 when it was felt that there was too great risk to try transferring them in the face of the mountainous seas. The Haida had launched a whaler which took the drifting men aboard.

This was a stirring scene which gives men courage and inspiration everywhere as the story of bravery is told of those who lived up to the best traditions of the life of the sea.

Such a story will inspire men in every part of the world. Man has a warm place in his heart for the gallant men who risk all to save others.

This story is not alone. Just yesterday there came another tale of heroism to newspaper readers. It was the story of the rescue of members of the crew of a freighter which had been wrecked on the Newfoundland coast in a storm not far from "the graveyard of the Atlantic." The crew had got ashore and were in imminent peril on a rocky shore. They clung all night to a rope ashore against the cliff as at any moment they might have been swept away into the sea. Fishermen, with hearts as big as ever men's hearts were, were the rescuers and used all their ingenuity and skill to bring the crew of the wrecked vessel off their dangerous position as the mountainous waves kept breaking on the rocks.

OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

As sure as taxes, the Old Farmer's Almanac comes round every year with its cheery hints. First impulse of an editor may be to throw it where he would like to throw his tax bill. But the almanac usually eludes that unliterary urge.

Same old yellow cover, decorated with an engraving in the manner of yestercentury. Upper left-hand corner, "Spring," a plowing scene. Upper right, "Summer," haying. Midway down on either side, heads of Benjamin Franklin and Robert B. Thomas, the former needing no introduction, the latter introducing himself repeatedly since 1792 as founder of the almanac. Lower right, "Autumn," full piling crops into a wagon. Lower left, "Winter," cows, sheep, human beings in the snow.

This year the almanac boasts photographs printed on coated paper. But the item that caught our eye was the promise that next May would have two full moons. This is just the time of year, now and onward for a few months, when a promise of two full moons for May is especially inspiring — or just a promise of May.

So the almanic gets put on the shelf over the desk where it can look down into the too eager maw of the wastebasket with equanimity. There may be something else in those pages that we'll like to run onto one of these days, such as — but in matters like these, every man to his own almanac. — Christian Science Monitor.

Holiness is the symmetry of the soul. — Philip Henry.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COMPANIONSHIP

I can never forget that remark of a gentleman as he came into my golf club a few years ago. I had been standing at the club and in a happy mood, but I caught the look on his face and it was as having won the game oneself it is to lose to a delightful companion.

"I've been companioning a lot of games and it would be a poor thing indeed. It was the understanding companionship of the late Ernie Pyle that did more for the morale of the soldiers about him than had their commanding general slept in the pillows of kings.

Companionship always spurteau one's journey, and it adds flavor to life. We think better, work better, and live better, with companions about us. It is not unusual that several men, working together, do better work and accomplish more. This is noted in large business organizations.

Living alone is no fun—even with "man's best friend," the dog.

We need mental and spiritual companionship to give us incentive and happy outlook upon life. Our enjoyment of anything is stimulated and increased by appreciative companion. In my travelling about I have passed up many an opportunity to see something notable, because I had no one near to enjoy it with me. I am sure that this is the experience of many.

I have been comradeship, as well as faith, that has saved many a one from a tragic end. We need other people. We get double enjoyment out of a good book if we can talk to others who have read it, or whose interest we can inspire to read it. Even in books alone, men and women have found companionship that met only to human companionship.

How long do you think that Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn could have continued his adventures near to the Mississippi River without a companion? Companionship is one of the great essentials of life. Without it our entire physical and mental makeup would wither away. I would like to have been with Dorothy and William Wordsworth as they walked through that field of daffodils that Dorothy told about in her fascinating diary.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR

Let us be thankful every day for what we have. We may not possess much, but what we have is certainly more than many others have. We may bear heavy burdens but someone else is bearing heavier ones. This is not a cause for rejoicing, but it is a cause for solemn thanksgiving that God has not burdened us beyond our ability to bear. We may not have what we want in life. Neither, by the grace of God, do we have to put up with certain things that would rob life of all its brightness.

The worst almost never happens. The mercy of God has dug a wide chasm between what is and what might have been.

It is well to remember that the night is never so dark that it puts out the stars. Not all the stars, but stars but they are there. Trouble may hide them, but trouble never destroys them. It is the same with the love of God. Sorrow may cover the sky, calamity may hide God's shining countenance, but the love and power are there just the same, even though we, for a time, cannot see them. Just as we do not lose faith in the existence of the stars because the storm clouds hide them, so we should not doubt the presence and love of God because sorrow for a time bets his blotted Him out of our sky.

Mackenzie Column:

Says Communism, Capitalism Can Exist Together

(Editor's note: This column is presented as an indication of American opinion on major world events.)

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press News Analyst

The Russian government newspaper Izvestia makes a front-page splash with the surprising thesis that socialism 'communism) and capitalism can live side by side in peace—and it attributes the view to Lenin and Stalin.

The idea of comparability between the two isms also has been put forward recently in other publications, including the Soviet magazine New Times. This is doubly interesting since both Lenin and Stalin have consistently the idea of co-operation between communism and capitalism. For example Lenin in 1920 said:

"As long as capitalism and socialism exist, we cannot live in peace. In the end one or the other will triumph."

Cold War Is Contradictory

The world revolution for the spread of communism also is in itself a direct contradiction of this theory of peaceful co-existence.

Where then does this leave us? Must we discard the idea that peace between communism and capitalism is impossible?

I think not, but we shall have to qualify our thesis.

Communism and capitalism obviously cannot live side by side within the confines of any one country. Both cannot exist under one roof and cannot mix.

However, there is widespread belief among students of the subject that a communist state and a capitalist state can live side by side in peace— provided each confines itself to its own sphere and didn't try to force its ism down the throat of the other.

There will be many speculation as to the full meaning of the latest Izvestia-New Times line. What, for example, is the real significance of the declaration in Izvestia, echoed by the New Times, that Soviet foreign policy will be directed by the principles of the Supreme Soviet presidium.

Probably a good many observers will conclude that this move is intended as camouflage for further cold-war operations. It also serves to contrast a peace-minded Soviet with the "war-mongering" capitalist states, since the peace declaration was accompanied by charges that Britain and the United States are preparing for a new war and are sabotaging U. N. decisions aimed at abolition of atomic weapons.

However in

However, it certainly is worth noting that the world could have ideological living and prosperity by strong-arm methods ceased.

Three Provinces Not in Agreement With Assistance

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP) — At least three provinces have criticized the federal government's proposed agreement covering construction of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Governments of Quebec, Alberta and New Brunswick have requested changes in the agreement which Reconstruction Minister Winters sent out to the provinces two months ago.

Their views were contained in additional Trans-Canada Highway correspondence tabled Wednesday in the Commons. This correspondence showed no replies from three provinces concerning the agreements. Correspondence with four other provinces — Newfoundland, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Prince Edward Island — merely gave receipt of the draft in exchange of letters previously made public.

In the correspondence tabled today, Alberta suggested that the proposed highway be extended 50 per cent or cost — should be increased to 50 per cent.

"A Trans-Canada Highway of satisfactory standards and worthy of the name would have to be at least two-thirds of its construction should borne by the Dominion government," wrote D. A. Ure, acting premier. "To do it, acting Premier Ure said, would require 27.

W. S. Anderson, New Brunswick's minister of public works said on Nov. 4 that instead of the highway being "a national route" as suggested by Mr. Winters, it should be the "most practical route." New Brunswick would not consider any route which would by-pass Moncton.

Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, on October 26 and November 26, said that the terms of the agreement were not clear enough. He felt assurance should be given that the highway would be constructed with "the most efficiently clear and precise before Quebec would co-operate.

Canberra (CP)— Australia has just bought two whale-catching vessels for operations off the Australian coast. Meanwhile at least 17 whaling vessels, each with up to 3 whale "chasers" will hunt in the Antarctic, during the coming summer months there.

THE LAST ROUNDUP

Winnipeg (CP)— Horses are rapidly disappearing from the local scene. The Winnipeg Humane Society reports that 1,523 horses entered abattoirs here during October. Last year 2,000 were waiting their turn. The numbers were substantially higher than in previous months.

Whitehall Notebook:

Members Not Prepared To Take Salary Cut

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 24 — (CP) — You could almost live on £1,000 ($3,100) a year drop when Sir Stanley Holmes got up in the House of Commons and declared around all his colleagues on their red-leather benches, and let fall the startling words:

"Would it not have been a very fine gesture if members and ministers in this parliament had said that, in view of the present position in which this country stands, they were all prepared to accept cut in their salaries?"

Sir Stanley, 71, is National Liberal member for Wexford, Ireland. He tossed his modest proposal into a debate on British economic crisis. Some like £ 50,000-a-year had been mentioned without an apparent stir. Then Sir Stanley's figures brought an instant response.

No Sacrifice

Frank McLeavy, who sits as Labor member for Bradford East, Yorkshire, pointed an accusing finger at Sir Stanley.

"Sir Stanley is the last M.P. who should pose as a man anxious to make a self-sacrificial sacrifice," said McLeavy.

"He would be making no substantial sacrifice at all. He has something like three rendezvous and directorships running to about 32."

Sir Stanley: "Have you finished with me now?"

McLeavy: "If your electors have got any democratic spirit they will have finished with you too."

£1,000 Crust

At least one commentator was not "finished with" Sir Stanley. A columnist, writing in the progovernment Daily Mirror under the pseudonym "Backbencher," said the legislator wasn't the "stern stuff" he appeared to be.

"He ought to either at 15 Grosvenor Square (that dingy workingclass quarter) or in any row of ale clubs, or from his country residence," Canadian wrote.

"For his daily crust he relies on the £1,000 a year he gets as an M.P. and on a few more mouthfuls that he gulps as chairman of a few companies. That's a large trust.

Last year he managed to scrape up something in the neighborhood of £7,250 from this lean source. But he has plainly generously explained, involved directors' fees being split in companies throughout the world."

Heavy Overhead

Members of parliament receive £1,000 a year. Out of this they must pay all their personal expenses including a secretary. There are frequent complaints that the salary is inadequate to live on long without outside sources of income.

Maurice Webb, member for Bradford Central and chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party said in a letter to the Times his net weekly expenses was only £3 15s.

"This is all I have left from my expenses on which to run my home and keep my family," he wrote. Webb is married and has a son.

THE FREQUENCY OF ADULT TETANY

When Topsy was a colt consumption was prevalent in the doctors of those days had not yet learned to diagnose lung tuberculosis until it had progressed well into the third stage, that of cavity formation, when the hectic fever, sweats, hemorrhages and cachexia caused rapid loss of weight-resulting literally consumption of the body. I lost some of my best patients that way, I mean they or their families, quit me angrily and went elsewhere for their "weak " lungs" or "bronchial trouble" or "cold that hangs on." A diagnosis of pulmonary tuberculosis in the first stage (inciplency) was made with facility hardly, in view of the ruthless financial ethics, and a diagnosis even in the second stage (consolidation) was sometimes a murderous ueliee. Now we had found tubercle bacilli in the sputum.

Of course in the early young and therefore could not be expected to know much in the opinion of people who had been brought up or the almanac and home purifiers, liver medicines and dope for weak women. So it was not remarkable that when a family of one youth refused to listen when I advised open air rest treatment in a tent somewhere at home on the hillside or in Muskoka, Manitoulin or Keuka. Not ny a jugful. They knew better, for already no less than three members of the family had been carried off by consumption in the approximate. From the attitude of the family, one might infer that I was responsible for the family plight, although I had seen the patient only a few times. I have hurried him off to that wonderful climate two thousand miles away—sometimes a climate that is away from home always is wonderful for the tuberculous, for bercuiosis, rheumatism, sinus trouble etc. isn't it. Wiseacre' about the mineral springs of Europe Within the year they brought the sad story home—the family victim, and not the last, in that same family.

Tetany is hardly comparable with tuberculosis as an illness, but there is a resemblance between them from the viewpoint of diagnosis. From early back medical authors, if not practitioners, have recognized and described tetany as a common disease. Nowadays few physicians have recognized tetany or the occasional surgeons who do not get enough calcium to supply the requirements of the growing fetus as well as their own daily requirement. But reports of tetany in adults are rare indeed although the condition is probably as prevalent as incipient (first stage) pulmonary tuberculosis was in the days when the disease was diagnosed only after it had progressed to the second (consolidation) stage or the third (cavity) stage.

I have a pamphlet on Adult Tetany and Growing Pains, available on written request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope..I do not say that all "growing pains" are a manifestation of tetany but I am convinced that "growing pains" cease to occur it most instances after the diet is supplemented with a suitable daily ration of Ca and D.

Calcium and vitamin D, that is the necessity of calcium in form is used to remedy or correct any systemic, constitutional or functional disease or deficiency, vitamin D should be taken along with it, for vitamin D is essential for assimilation and retention of calcium.

In infants and children the state called spasmophilia, a tendency to convulsions of which causes, is usually present. The baby with tetany is likely to have a convulsion or spells which are brought on by temper tantrums, fright, excitement and bone symptoms or asthmatic character are frequent manifestations of tetany in those three years old or older.

Carpal spasm is a familiar manifestation of tetany in nature adults to the best of my knowledge, is the most frequent. Then the feet sometimes in the arms and fingers, that occur usually in the night.

There are only a few of the common symptoms which are due to the deficiency of calcium was responsible for them. If I have inadvertently "hit your case", don't ask me what to do about it. Write for my booklet on tetany and a stamped self addressed envelope. I am also writing for the booklet The Calcium Shortage. The booklet will tell you how to follow a high calcium diet—which is a pretty good all around health diet anyway.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

I saw something in your column about deep breathing for varicose veins. Please let me know. (C. P.)

Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for pamphlet on Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer.

New Nostrum

Would you have any idea where the new discovery for alcoholism can be found or how it might be obtained? (L. W. R.)

Answer—Since the nostrum was discovered by the trick maestro I have found nothing favorable about it in medical literature.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

On those occasions when you feel sour and indignant with your fellow citizens, it is always good for diverting to sit back and try to picture which of your friends and acquaintances would have joined the conquerors if, as was highly possible at one stage of the recent history, Hitler had won the war.

Hitler would, of course, have sent commissioners over to govern us. Doubtless, six months after the conquest, he would have made a personal tour of America.

Now: who among us would have been received, as Laval was, as the accepted the inevitable, and joined the conquerors?

In France, it was not merely the dirty little corner boys, the cheap gangsters, the down-at-heel professional politicians, joint owners with Hitler's specialists and with industrialists heartily thrw in their lot with the conquerors. The Renault motor car company is physical force.

now nationalized in France, because of its collaboration with the German. Many other big, hitherto treated types of tycoon came to the same way in France. Now we will never know who the traitors amongst us would have been if Hitler had won the war and should always bear them in mind.

Hitler would, of course, have the most reliable of the traitors in France, were the riff-raff who formed Quisling's party. Those bullies who might be described as the native Gestapo. They were recruited to a very large extent from the criminal element to be found in all cities everywhere. Whenever you notice a gaud of those young douchys celebrating the most reliable of the traitors in France, were the riff-raff who formed Quisling's party. Those bullies who might be described as the native Gestapo. They were recruited to a very large extent from the criminal element to be found in all cities everywhere. Whenever you notice a gaud of those young douchys celebrating youths assertively loafing about your own cities, ask yourself: to whom do they owe allegiance? And what are they likely to be faithful? As Quislings in the early stages of Hitler's rise, and as in France during the occupation, they are the material from which a new regime draws its physical force.

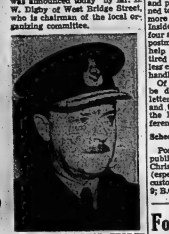
Organizational Meeting to be Held at Armouries

Former members of the Royal Canadian Air Force today announced final plans for the formation of a Belleville Wing of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association.

The first organization meeting will be held on Friday evening in the Belleville Armouries, it was announced today by Mr. W. W. Digby of West Bridge Street, who is chairman of the local organizing committee.



AIR VICE MARSHAL GEORGE V. WALSH, C.B., C.B.E.

Th Royal Canadian Air Force Association, under the provisional presidency of Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner (retired), former Chief of the Air Staff and AOC in C, R.C.A.F. Overseas, has its national headquarters at 434 Metcalfe Street in Ottawa. It is now engaged in sponsoring formation of provincial groups and local Wings. The 200,000 men and women who formed the war time R.C.A.F. are being urged to unite in the new organization, which is officially recognized by the Royal Canadian Air Force. Membership is open to all who served in any of His Majesty's Air Forces.

Guest speaker at the organization meeting here will be Air Vice Marshal George V. Walsh, C.B., C.B.E. (retired) who is provincial vice-president of the association.

Will Show Film

It is also hoped to include in the program will be a documentary film on the operations of the R.C.A.F. Fighter Squadrons overseas. The film dramatically portrays operations and squadron life of Canada's aircrew and groundcrews on fighter operations from bases in the United Kingdom, the Middle East and the Continent. It records the preparations for D-Day, the crossing of the Channel and establishing of the Normandy beachhead, action-filled scenes filmed by our fighter aircraft of enemy targets they were actually engaged in dog-fights and strafing operations. The film follows the advance of Canadian squadrons throughout the campaign to V E-Day.

Mr. Digby has emphasized that all Air Force veterans, whether or not they are at present members of the association, are invited to attend the organization meeting.

90 Helpers Will be Added To Postal Staff for Holidays, Public is Urged to Mail Early

An additional 90 people will be added to the local Post Office this year to handle the usual heavy Christmas mailing, expected to reach its peak on December 16, Postmaster C. Waddell has made preparations for dealing with the big avalanche of letters and parcels with a schedule planned to make the hours shorter and more enjoyable for the workers. Inside workers will operate in four shifts of six hours each as the postmaster learned last year that help unaccustomed to standing hired quickly and results were far efficient. The night shifts will handle the bulk of the mail.

Of the additional help 28 will be directly associated with the letter carriers, 14 sorting inside and the remainder accompanying the letter carriers on their different routes.

Schedules of Mailing

Post Master Waddell asked the public to observe the following Christmas mailing schedule— U.S. (especially parcels to allow for customs examination) before Dec. 9; B.C. Dec. 13; Alberta and Saskatchewan Dec. 14; Newfoundland (for remote points consult the local Post Office) Dec. 14; Manitoba and Maritime Provinces Dec. 15; Ontario and Quebec Dec. 16.

Local delivery before December 17 (if posted later delivery by Christmas is doubtful).

Monday December 26th will be observed as a statutory holiday and there will be no mail delivery on that date. Monday, January 2nd will be another holiday for the mailmen. Mail trains, however, will maintain skeleton crews to handle special deliveries and anything of an important nature.

Canada First in World

Commenting on the Christmas air mail service the Postmaster revealed that Canada's service is different from that in any other country in the world since the Post Office gives first consideration to all first class mail, up to one ounce in weight, and it is delivered by air wherever there is air mail service available. Packages are not considered unless they bear the regular air mail stamps.

$90,000 Damage Caused by Fire In Creamery

Orillia, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Fire of undetermined origin gutted the upper storey of the Orillia creamery early today causing damage estimated at $90,000.

The blaze was discovered about 4 a.m. by W. G. McKechnie, ice cream foreman at the plant, who with his wife and four-year-old daughter, occupies an apartment on the second floor of the plant.

The McKechnies, awakened by the smell of smoke, fled from the building by an outside entrance and then turned in the alarm.

The McKechnie daughter, who usually sleeps in her own room, had awakened earlier and was in bed with them at the time. Her own room was smoke-filled and had she remained there the child would probably have suffocated.

The Orillia fire department fought the blaze in freezing weather for six hours before the last flames were extinguished.

Most of the fire damage is in the storage department of the creamery, and to the roof which has fallen in. Large quantities of materials were destroyed.

Extensive water damage has been done to the ground floor where plans and offices are located, but the fire did not reach this part of the premises.

The creamery business is almost 70 years of age and is a modern plant in every respect. It is managed by H. A. Burnet.

Ford Divisions Exhibit Models For Coming Year

Club Commodore was the focal point on Wednesday evening of key dealers and garage operators from Port Hope to Cannington and north to Bancroft, when the Mercury — Lincoln - Meteor and the Monarch-Ford divisions in Canada presented the 1950 models for inspection. The club was gaily decorated for the occasion, there was music for patrons by the Commodore Orchestra under the direction of Larry Brown, and a splendid floor show with Joe Murphy of Toronto assisted by Miss Dorothy Merrill, Lucordionist, to round out a perfect evening.

Besides the models being exhibited, there was a display shown of the different sections of the models and qualified instructors were present to instruct the operators on their uses and care. Wallace Murdoch, district manager of the Mercury - Lincoln - Meteor division of Toronto, was present along with Paul Rouleau service manager for the same division. Both of these men spoke briefly to the gathering of some 300 operators and dealers, hoping they would have a good time and become familiar with the product they would be dealing with in the coming year.

Instructors present were C. Harvey on the Monarch, Nelson Lovatt on the Mercury chassis, Roy Boffetster on the overdrive, a new feature in the new models, while Jack Brownell instructed on carburation and Joe Pelbert of Belleville, H. J., on ignition displays.

At the conclusion of the floor show, Mrs. J. Chapman and members of the We Four Club served a delicious lunch of cold turkey, ham and all the trimmings.

A number of draws were made with Stewart McGowan of Trenton winning the Rolls razor, A. Harnden of Selby the table lamp, W. N. Card of Napanee the Spinwyn ash tray, C. F. Patterson of Belleville the Silex coffee maker, Harold Burley of Odessa the Ronson lighter and Wes Reid of Kingston the Silex electric heating pad.

It was a most enjoyable evening and the thanks of the gathering was expressed to the Company for their fine hospitality.

Laborer Perishes In Vat of Lye

Winnipeg, Nov. 24 — (CP) — A 47-year-old laborer Wednesday fell to his death in a vat of scalding lye at the Canadian Pacific Railway locomotive shops in suburban Weston.

Dead is Josef Kardasz, whose body was immersed in the 12,000-gallon vat approximately six hours before being lifted out by a crane. No one saw the railway employee fall.

After Kardasz was found to be missing from his post, foreman John Lingwood immediately organized a search. The foreman and other workmen combed the large shops until early afternoon without locating the missing man.

Linzwood then ordered the vat drained of its 12 feet of corrosive contents, seething at 200 degrees Fahrenheit.

Kardasz' body was found at the bottom of the empty cement tank, and identified by the foreman.

House Costing Three Years' Work Is Destroyed

Hamilton, Nov. 24. (CP)— A two-storey frame house on Hamilton Mountain representing three years' work by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lovejoy, was burned to the ground today while Mrs. Lovejoy stood helplessly by without a drop of water to douse the flames, Mr. Lovejoy was at work.

The Lovejoys' two children, Kenneth 3, and Rhonda 3, were playing with matches in the kitchen of the basement apartment where the family was living pending completion of the upper two floors, when a small blaze broke out on the floor, Mrs. Lovejoy told firemen.

After she had phoned the fire department, the young mother took little Kenneth, still in his pajamas, outside, but couldn't get back into the house to find Rhonda, she said.

Bell telephone worker Eli Bersault boosted passerby Frank Sones in a first-storey window, and with flames and smoke filling the unfinished house, found the frightened little girl and carried her to safety.

Insurance will cover some of the $6,000 loss.

Says Restrictions Hold up Oil, Gas Development

Vancouver, Nov. 24 (CP)— British Columbia's "restrictive" oil and gas laws are holding up expansion and exploratory programs, senior officials of Imperial Oil Co. Ltd., said Wednesday in an interview.

"The whole philosophy of government regulations is not conducive to any moves at the present time," said G. L. Stewart of Toronto, President of Imperial, Canada's largest company.

He said the company has led in the fight against price-fixing of gasoline, and has attacked laws that govern oil exploration in British Columbia.

"In British Columbia, the Crown can withdraw any lands at any time as Crown Reserves," said M. L. Haider, director of the company. "It means that a company can't afford to spend millions to find one oil field and no more."

Imperial is not doing any exploring for oil in B.C. now but in past years examined Vancouver Island and eastern sections of the province.

Touch of Winter Accompanies US Thanksgiving Day

(By The Canadian Press)

Snow fell in many parts of the Midwest today as the United States observed its Thanksgiving Day.

The falls ranged from two to six inches in parts of the eastern Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, western Michigan, northern Iowa and northern Illinois.

"The weather was clear and temperatures normal in southern states while in New England temperatures moderated after Wednesday's cold snap.

Holiday travel was lighter than last year as most Americans stayed at home for the traditional turkey-and-fixin's dinner.

Violent accidents claimed the lives at at least 17 persons during the first hours of the holiday. Fifteen of the deaths were the result of traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council did not estimate the probable number of deaths for the period from Wednesday night until midnight Sunday. Over the same period last Thanksgiving 114 persons died in accidental deaths, including 88 in traffic mishaps. The toll in 1947 was 128 and 63 in 1946.

Body of Man Found in Cellar

MARMORA

Marmora—Pete Fecko, native of Czechoslovakia, and employee of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company for the past eight years committed suicide by hanging himself in the cellar of the old boarding house at Deloro with a piece of sash cord.

The discovery was made by William Cross about 7.30 p.m. Dr. W. J. Donovan was summoned and Provincial Constable Hector Gould of Madoc was notified. Dr. R. R. Beatty, coroner of Madoc was also called. It is unlikely an inquest will be held, Fecko, who was about 53-years of age took rooms at the old boarding house a few months ago expecting the arrival of his wife and family from his native land.

More recently he had been taken ill and had spent two short periods in the Deloro Hospital, Peterborough. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of F. N. Marcit and Company, Marmora. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME

Cookville, Nov. 24—(CP)— Eleven-year-old Thomas Duffy was found living in an unheated rooming house—four months after he had been reported missing from his nearby oronto home. Police said he had run away from home three times in the last year.

Woman's Auxiliary of Bridge St. Church Holds Bazaar, Tea

Ottawa, "coming events cast their shadows before" as they did on Wednesday afternoon on entering the door of Bridge Street United Church, where the annual bazaar and tea was being held under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary. Though outside, the skies were cold and foreboding, yet within the assembly rooms, there was warmth and cheer, and the hum of happy voices, and over all, the soft, prismatic glow of little lights of red and green, blue and gold, which mingled with the branches of the stately evergreen that sentinelled the way to the enchanting scene beyond. Here, the guests were greeted by the president, Mrs. Ralph Morden, and her assistant, Mrs. D. C. Amos.

Charming Tea Room

Beyond, enclosed by entwined ropes of red and green, which ran from pillar to pillar, and flanked by little pine trees, was the charmed circle—the tea room, a Christmas symphony, with its tiny tables. Each table had its white cloth, and glowing red candle, and at the rear, backgrounded by crimson curtains, was the tea table, which was centered by a pyramided Christmas tree of glittering tinsel, scarlet, blue, green, silver, gold, guarded by tall, red tapers, whose flames burned sacred and true to the many wailing outside the entrance way.

Those who poured the aromatic tea from the silver services were: Mrs. Joe McLaren, Mrs. Percy Wray, Mrs. Florence Down, Mrs. Murray Lee, Mrs. Harry Rollins, Mrs. W. J. Morrison, Mrs. P. Countryman and Mrs. H. B. Fetherly.

Those who served the delicious sandwiches and confections were: Mrs. E. Fairman, Mrs. Earl Lidster, Mrs. Clare Clarke, Mrs. E. R. Urch, Mrs. C. C. Lewis, Mrs. C. Massey, Mrs. V. White, Mrs. Wilbur Hall, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Mrs. John Thornbury, Mrs. A. E. Miles, Mrs. Ralph Warren, Mrs. W. Brown, Mrs. C. E. Ford, Mrs. H. Becker, Mrs. L. Hudgins, Mrs. John Dickens, Mrs. Bryson Croll, Mrs. Bryson Leslie, Mrs. Franklin Martin, Mrs. R. Miles, Mrs. T. Colden, Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. B. Lattimer, Mrs. Brearley, Mrs. D. Burr and Mrs. Reid.

The tea hostesses were: Miss Cora Clarke and Mrs. J. Deacon, Mrs. C. Burr and Mrs. I. Hefkey, while those who replenished the fast emptied plates of sandwiches and tiny cakes were: Mrs. W. Sherry, Mrs. R. A. Lamphier, Mrs. F. Moon, Mrs. J. McCle, Mrs. A. Curry, Mrs. C. Hermon, Mrs. Taylor Franklin, Mrs. R. A. Elliot, Mrs. A. Gilroy, Mrs. W. Price, Mrs. A. Clare, Mrs. A. LaFrance, Mrs. D. W. Wilson.

At the right of the tea room were the various booths, each in its Christmas colors of red, green and white, and decorated in its own unique manner. That of the Home Cooking booth with Mrs. C. R. Clapp as convener, and Mrs. E. Denyes as co-convener, was ornate in white, with a red strip running from end to end in the centre of the table top over which tiny red Santas meandered at intervals along its width.

There was an array of cakes and confections to lure the most fastidious; little whipped cream tarts; laffy tarts filled to overflowing with nutmeats; angel food cakes; luscious jellies; home baked ham; chicken timbal; potato salads; cup cakes with boiled icing; Christmas pudding done up in red cellophane papers; homemade rolls; canned fruits; golden brownies out of whose side nuts peeped; chocolate loaf cakes rich in piled-up icing; coconut cakes; Christmas fruit cake; and pies whose crusts would melt in the mouth, of pumpkin, apple, and berry, and pies filled meats, all making the already hungry, hungrier. In one short hour this glorious array of delight had been carried away, and all that was left was a few crumbs, doilies, empty boxes, and scattered papers.

The Candy Table was gay with its decorations of red and white, its huge candy canes, and its frilled disks across its top, and deep, wide white flounce across the front. Here, home made candies and packages of creams, turkish delight, fruit cakes, shortbreads, fudges on sticks; divinity fudge; rolls of "peg-leg" and many other tooth some dibbits met ready purchasers. The convener over this was Mrs. H. Rollins, with her co-convener, Mrs. H. Seldon, and helpers.

Variety of Gifts

In the next room was the White Elephant booth, with its array of "What-have-you", and convened by Mrs. Helen Wilson, and her co-convener, Mrs. W. Ormond and helper group. There were bottles of perfumes, and bottles of water colors; leather travelling cases; gift ties and handkerchiefs; bed lamps; jewellery clips; artificial flowers; white elephants with pink ears, and pink tails—a new species; shaving mirrors and mug; hand pulls; vinegar jugs; purses; bicycle cold weather handles, and a fine end an array of little plants which included cactus; baby tears; and begonia.

Across the top of this booth, which was done in black and white, a troop of white elephants slowly meandered along, each thinking his own thoughts and down below was a huge one doing an acrobatic act with acrostinchain wink at the bystanders at the same time. There were also books, trays and magazine racks, and cosy bed socks to ensure comfort while one read.

Lovely Articles

On the fancy work table with its red and white decorations, and little green, snow-covered Christmas tree, again bearing out the motif of the bazaar in red and white, were all kinds of lovely articles, just right for that special gift to that special somebody. In the centre, Santa Claus was just leaving Lapland with his sleigh and reindeer, ready to collect his load at the various work shops along the way. Little red Santas were seen in the snow, some were running, and others were tumbling down the hillside, all looking happy, and ready to cheer some tiny tot with their jolly smiles. Here, ready for Santa to pick up were little woven cloths, knitted in blue and white; pretty blue and white bed socks; crocheted curtain pulls; lovely crocheted handkerchiefs; some with blue lace stitch; others with pink; baby etc; muffs for drinking glasses; a tiny quilted bath robe, and lots of other articles, all nicely made, and pretty to look at.

Catorial Aprons

The apron table was convened by Mrs. B. Howard, and her coconvener, Mrs. Hurlburt, and group of helpers. A pretty Christmas tree centered this booth which was done in Christmas effect with red and white trimming. There were aprons of every hue; little aprons, big- overall aprons; organdy aprons with dotted frills; aprons with big red apples on them; one apron was unlike any other seen so far; it was all black, and sprinkled over with tiny red rosebuds — a pretty apron. Another apron was fawn colored with appliqued flowers across the bottom, and one of mauve done in the same manner. All were lovely aprons, and would make a very acceptable gift, and one always appreciated.

In the little room at the rear, was the kiddies' playroom, with its long, white table, and rows of tiny white chairs for tiny tooters, who sat enjoying themselves eating cookies, and drinking cups of cool, sweet milk, while their mothers enjoyed the stronger cup of tea, and shopped at the various booths.

This play room was under the guardianship of Miss Isobel Munroe; Miss May Griffith; Mrs. E. A. Adams, and Mrs. V. Rowbotham.

The two treasurers, whose coffers were fast filling up, were: Mrs. W. Gilbert, and Mrs. H. McBurney, and the tea room conveners were: Mrs. Herbert McCabe, Mrs. Taylor Franklin, Mrs. T. C. Thompson, and Mrs. Clarence Meyers.

Much appreciation is extended to all those who so faithfully labored to make the tea and bazaar such a success and so enjoyable.

LODER WEDS

'New York, Nov. 24—(AP) — Actor John Loder, 45, and Mrs. Evelyn Carolan Auffmordt, 28, formerly of Burlingame, Calif., were married Wednesday. Loder, 48, is the former husband of actress Hedy Lamarr.

Make Bathing a Beauty Rite

Nice for travelling is this bath set that comes in a plastic bag. It contains talcum, after-bath lotion, soap and tissues; has room for other articles.

By HELEN FOLLETT

When it comes to bathing, some women are keen about the tub others like the shower. A third contingent will take both. And they are on the right beauty track.

This is the system: while the tub is filling, they wash face and neck in the wash bowl, frictioning in the lather, rinsing well. They bop into the warm water, go over th body surface with a brush that takes hold like a guilty conscience, using plenty of soap and making off dead skin scales that are ever present. They give special attention to elbows, knees and the backs of heels; the outermost surface is coarse at those areas, have little creases that pick up atmospheric dust.

Rosy Glow

So far so good. Then for an alternating hot and cold shower that will ring the bell for all the blood streams to get active.

There will be a new luxurious feeling if bath toiletries are at hand. Bath salts will not only impart fragrance, but will soften the water, make the bath more cleansing.

Bath Tonic Friction

To insure against tiny red points that we call goose flesh for want of a better and more elegant name, one should have a friction with a bath tonic, the alcoholic content of which will act as a refining influence upon the skin.

Or, one may prefer a talcum friction. If the skin is inclined to chap, or to become dry because of lack of moisture in the air, use a borated talcum which acts as a medication.

If you go in for fancy soaps you will find some new offerings at the toiletries departments. These items take on attractive forms, come in nifty boxes, make nice presents for your girl friend! Among the newest of these sets of bath toiletries is a green plastic bag which contains after-bath lotion, a box of talcum powder, a cake of quick-lathering soap and a pack of tissues. Also included are miniature bottles of bubble bath and hand lotion. The bag makes a nice travel companion.

Wool Crepe For Daytime

Wall-cut dress of honey beige

By VERA WINSTON

WONDERFUL woollen dresses, marked by deft detail and interesting accents and, beautifully handled lines, play a starring role in this season's fashion parade. Dark wools colorful wools, dressy numbers and, casual frocks, all have their place in the wool lineup. Honey beige wool crepe is used for this model, a nice daytime dress with a slender silhouette which is relieved by a rippling collar which terminates in the seams across the top of the yoke. The high, round neckline, a change after the plunging yoke, adds a nice foil for Jersey. The skirt is a wrap-around and has a loose flared lap-over with side drapery sewn down part way.

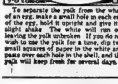
New American Headlines

By ALICE ALDEN

This department's enthusiasm and admiration for fine American design reached a new high at a recent showing. The collection included a brilliant array of colorful hats, designed by none other than an American Indian, Is-Ti-Opi — a name destined to take its place with those of our top flight milliners. As should be, this talented artist likes color and feathers, both of which are particularly well handled. Shown is a gold velour toque, its draped, manipulated crown held by two large curling red and yellow, gold tipped pheasant feathers.

Wife Preservers



To separate the yolk from the white of an egg, make a small hole in each end of the egg, hold it upright and give it a slight shake. The white will run out leaving the yolk unbroken. If you do not wish to use the yolk for a time, dip two small squares of paper in the white and place over each hole in the shell, and the yolk will keep fresh for several days.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

No one has ever seen a fish smiling.

This grim state of affairs is, as you probably know, due to the fact that fish have no facial muscles. Unable to smile, they are also unable to frown. Fortunately they do have muscles attached to their jaws permitting them to enjoy whatever forms of life happen to pass their way.

No fish, even if it had facial muscles, could possibly smile if it knew what its eventual fate would be in some kitchens. Certainly a flounder wouldn't feel happy if it realized that some day it would be served, cold, with the tissue half cold and greasy, with a dull tartar sauce. No halibut could possibly smile over the fact that it is often held in storage until the meat becomes dry, tough and utterly lacking in flavor.

The usual sauce served with fish is a repellant to any fair judge of food—a condition that is completely unnecessary. If you've never eaten a broiled salmon steak with bearnaise sauce or a piece of smoked finnan haddie with a creamy egg sauce, you know how much the right sauce can enhance Friday dinner.

BAKED BLUEFISH WITH HORSERADISH SAUCE

Serves 6

Soak 2 pound cleaned split bluefish for 5 minutes in 2 cups cold water to which 4 tablespoons salt have been added. Remove and wipe dry.

Place fish skin side down in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle with ¼ cup dry white wine. Add enough boiling water to cover fish. Add 1 small bay leaf, ¼ cup finely chopped onion and 3 tablespoons chopped fresh dill.

Place in a hot oven, 425 degrees, and bake 20 minutes. Remove fish from dish carefully with a wide spatula. Keep in a warm place. Strain liquid. Add enough hot water to make 1½ cups. If you have more than 1½ cups of liquid, boil until it reduces to that amount.

Melt 3 tablespoons fat in a saucepan. Add 3 tablespoons flour, mixing well. Gradually add the hot liquid stirring well. Simmer sauce 10 minutes.

Add the sauce 1 bouillon cube, ¼ cup grated horseradish, and ½ teaspoon dry mustard. Add ¼ cup light cream. Heat but do not boil. Add salt and white pepper to taste.

If fish has become cold, place under a broiler flame for a minute or two to reheat. Pour sauce over fish just before serving. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Two Readers Take Opposite Sides On a Big Question

Today I am going to let you read two letters that I have recently received which deal with opposite sides of the same subject.

The first one, written by a man says:

"Several days ago I read a letter in your column from a reader who asked if there was any formula for forgetting. I read your advice and I can't say that I agree entirely with it.

"However, I would like to say to the one who wrote the letter that if her experience was similar to mine there is no forgetting.

"I have tried everything to forget a certain someone. Not that I wanted to forget, but I knew it was hopeless to expect ever to have the woman in question. But she is with me constantly in memory, and I love her more than any woman I ever knew, and always will. I have been trying for two years to forget, but there is no way; absolutely no way. It has been the most miserable two years of my existence, two years of trying to forget.

"Of course this may sound foolish to you, but no matter how hard you try, or what you do, you cannot lose you memories."

And the second letter.

"I must agree with you that the lamentation 'I cannot forget' is rather tiresome. Why on earth some of these people write you is beyond me. They always say I cannot forget, 'Please don't tell me to forget.' Yet they know very well you are going to tell them to forget.

"Forgetting requires will power, maturity, character and, above all, self-respect and intelligence. But it can very easily be done, and is, every day, by intelligent men as well as women.

"After ten years of marriage, with a youngster and a well-established home, I had to forget, and support my child too. In my case, there was bitterness and mistrust of men until I realized one cannot judge every man according to the actions of a few. Years later I met a very fine man. We married, and he has assumed the complete responsibility of being a father to my child, more so than the child's own father ever was. I doubt if any woman can boast of a better husband, and our lives are happy indeed.

"So to all the people who say they cannot 'forget,' I say, as you do, they can and will if they really want to. The individual must rid herself about daily chores as usual. It hurts for a time, but not too long. In fact, it is surprising how soon one suddenly realizes there is no broken heart and life continues."

These two letters show plainly that the writer of the second one grew up and became mature through her unhappy experience, while the writer of the first refused to allow himself to do so. His letter makes it quite clear that he has no intention of ceasing to brood over his frustration and get back to normal living.

Where I think he goes wrong and where all others go wrong who think, as he does, that there is no possible "forgetting," is in the use of the word "forget."

It is quite true that one does not actually forget the crises in one's life. It is quite true, also, as is the writer of the first letter says, "You cannot lose memories." What actually happens is, that while you may not forget, the pain will go out of the memory if you are willing to have it so.

The woman whose marriage broke up after ten years, inevitably suffered cruelty for a while mistrusting all men. But by forcing herself to go about her business at usual, she left herself no time to indulge in the bitterness and self-pity and so keep her grief and disillusionment alive.

The writer of the first letter, on the other hand, by continually reminding himself that he didn't get what he wanted, has so far refused to give live a chance to compensate him for his disappointment. For renewed joy of living can come only to those staunch souls who resolutely empty their hearts and minds of useless regining and regret, thus leaving room for fresh interests and new zest to coarse in. I am sure that if this first correspondent will do this, he will find that while he may not "lose his memories," they will lose their hurt and some unexpected and beautiful new thing will come his way.

Fashion Flashes

ISN'T IT NICE to have velvet back again, especially in the new crease-resistant version? Star sapphire velvet is used for a lovely ankle-length dinner dress, cut with a slim bodice and softly flaring skirt. The scoop neckline is roped with baroque-type pearl beads, and sleeves are short.

AND NOW we have another color—uranium gray, product of the fission age, we presume! Anyway, it is the color of a nice wool costume consisting of a double-breasted, fitted jacket with detachable hood, lapin lined to match the lighter gray of the dress bodice.

INCHING UP in popular favor is suede, not only for coats, skirts and jackets, but for accessories, but for frocks as well. Citron yellow suede is used for a handsome country frock or one for casual wear in town. It has a softly curved, upstanding petal collar with points at either side and a set-in waistband that allows for a soft flare to the skirt. Self button closing all the way down, deep turndown cuffs on the easy sleeves and a wide, tailored belt with recessed buckle are other details.

BLOCKING as an informal but important evening fashion is the knitted dress. Gold metal and black wool combine for a handsome knitted dress detailed with open neckline and moderately full, ankle-length skirt. Nice with a velvet or fur jacket.

WE DIDN'T BELIEVE it could be done, but at a recent showing we spotted a wonderful outfit in various shades of red. The hat of printed velvet, the coat in raspberry-plaided wool, the slim dress of coral red wool crepe added up to a pretty picture.

HAVE YOU NOTICED the emphasis on white millinery? White plumage makes a pretty little dinner hat, with a black velvet edge and a single white ostrich tip for height.

BEAUTY

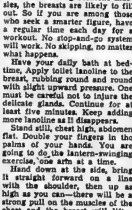
By HELEN JAMIESON

Developing the Bust

Not since the period of the hour-glass figure have the perfectly contoured bust, lovely neck, beautiful back and slimly rounded arms been so important to the fashion picture. The strapless gown is the most revealing mode that has appeared in the history of dress as recorded during the past fifty years. Because it has been an influence, inspiring the good-look seekers to make a special effort to qualify for beauty laurels.

The flat-chested girl, with undeveloped bust, feels that she is handicapped. She can, at courses, put up a good front with falsies, but she would prefer to grow her own. Sometimes development is possible; it is being accomplished at those miracle-working figure remodelling salons. One must not forget that nature has designed different patterns of women's breasts—some only slightly distended; some full and rounded; others pendulous; some placed high, some low. The ideal is firm rounded, of average proportions.

Curves are fashionable and fashion is a force. With a nicely developed bust, and hips of about the same measurement, the waistline is accented, made to look slim by contrast.



Curves are Fashionable

Teacher won't promise that breasts that have never developed normally can be increased in size, but she does say that a flat chest can be made fuller by corrective exercises and on the full chest with strong resilient muscles, the breasts are likely to fill out. So if you are among those who seek a smarter figure, have a regular time each day for a workout. No stop-and-go system will work. No skipping, no matter what happens.

Have your daily bath at bedtime. Apply toilet lanoline to the breasts, rubbing round and round with slight upward pressure. One must be careful not to injure the delicate glands. Continue for at least five minutes. Keep adding more lanoline as it disappears.

Stand still, chest high, abdomen flat. Double your fingers in the palms of your hands. You are going to do the lanoe-swinging exercise, one arm at a time.

Hand down at the side, bring it straight forward on a line with the shoulder, then up as high as you can—there will be a strong pull on the muscles of the chest; now breast will lift—then as far back as you can. Down at the side. Six times with one hand, six with the other and repeat.

In the morning, turn a cold spray on your chest. Friction with rubbing alcohol or eau de cologne.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A good hint for a good day—Thanksgiving Day. Even though, in your home, it is not the custom to say grace, why not at your dinner table this Thanksgiving say some uplifting words to express your thankfulness of heart. this day of this year when we have so many, so very many, blessings and benefactions to be thankful for! A few honest words in the spirit of the good old adage:

"And whether we have less or more,
Always thank God therefore.
Two Problems of Second-Trip-To-Ba-Altar

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My forthcoming second marriage presents two very special problems. Will you help me solve them, please?

1. My finance's father holds a high public office. Considering the number of friends of our combined families, it is entirely impossible for me to write informal notes announcing our marriage, which will be a family affair. Would it be at all permissable to send formal announcements?

2. My second problem concerns a reception. I don't want any reception, but my fiance does. And while my parents are willing to finance one, they will not be able to attend—nor would anyone else in my family. We all live in this section, but circumstances are such that no member of my family could attend. Would you be able to offer a solution to this problem for me.—F.N.

1. Yes, it would be permissable for you to send, engraved announcement (considering your second marriage) I hope it will be, for your sake, to sponsor your marriage announcements.

2. This is a question with such personal angles that I doubt if anyone not really familiar with the angles would be able to answer it authoritatively, helpfully. Wouldn't it be grimly inevitable that the guests would "wonder" why no member of your family, all living in the vicinity, were present on such an important occasion as your wedding reception? I judge that, naturally, this is the reason, or at least the chief reason, why you don't want to have a reception. However, if the reason for the entire-group-of-relatives absence from the reception would be starkly obvious, I should think your finance too would definitely prefer not to turn the spotlight on this situation. A very practical alternative to this difficult circumstances is to wait and give a reception or Open House or a Housewarming after you have returned from your wedding trip.

Street-Length for Afternoon Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To large formal wedding reception to be held in the late afternoon...in a hotel suite, directly following a four-thirty ceremony...should a woman guest wears a street-length dress or a long dress? I thought I should wear a long dress for this formal occasion, but my sister says she is going to wear a street-length dress, that this is correct—Margaret Y.

Your sister is right. For any type of daytime reception, even for a formal and elaborate wedding reception, a woman guest should wear a street-length dress.

A Dessert-Rids Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In our group a hostess very often gives a dessert-bridge; that is, we all have our luncheon, except dessert, at home, then go to the hostess' house, have dessert, coffee, and then play bridge. I am planning to give a shower for a dear friend of mine, must give on a very small budget, and since all the girls I'm inviting like to play cards, was thinking if I would be proper to give a dessert and-coffee party, followed by the shower, and then, if there is time, by bridge.—Fran

Yes, this would be proper, and a leisurely, friendly kind of shower this is. Or, if you prefer, you can give an afternoon shower followed by a simple menu (tea and/or coffee, small sandwiches, cookies or cakes) for a minimum of expense. Generally at a shower there is more chatting than bridge playing!

Canada's Foreign Policy Discussed By Women's Guild

Canada's foreign policy was the topic of study and discussion at the meeting of the Young Women's Guild held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, Dufferin Ave. with the president Miss Hazel Thompson in charge.

After a brief business session the Worship Service, conducted by Miss Joy Nichols, dealt with peace, one of the most often used words in the Bible, it was pecae our Lord came to bring to the world, to obtain it man must (1) make peace in his own heart (2) make peace with his God (3) make peace with his fellow man.

Mrs. A.D. Archibald, topic leader, commended as the source of much of her material. "The International Journal", the quarterly publication of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and told how anxious the Canadia government is to keep her citizens informed about Canada's foreign policy. It is only the indifference of the average persons and the biased slant of some newspapers that make the subject so remote and incomprehensive, as many reports are continually available upon request.

In earlier times Canada looked to Britain for her foreign policy. In 1925 she began to become a nation and during and since the Second World War has attained the status of a middle power among nations. Quoting Prime Minister St. Laurent, Mrs. Archibald stressed the necessity in forming Canada's foreign policy of (1) a common unity within Canada (2) a policy not based on the demands or needs of any particular group (3) respect the law (4) a place given to human values (5) willingness to accept international responsibilities.

Middle Force in U.N.

Canadia foreign policy with regard to the United States was dealt with by Mrs. A. Wells pointing out Canada's partnership in the defence of North America and Canada is a middle force in the United Nations and has often seen fit to differ from the United States on foreign policy.

Taking up Canada and the Commonwealth it was pointed out that each Commonwealth nation has immediate regional interests and can best deal with these e.g.: Canada's policy is to form working arrangements in regard to new immediate zones of defence, and maintain cordial relations with 'all other members of the Commonwealth and keep her ties with Great Britain.

Canada and the U.S.S.R.—At the close of the Second World War Canada felt respect for the U.S.S.R. but in the few years since this reservoir of goodwill has disappeared and consequently there is a stiffening of government policy towards the U.S.S.R. Training Own Diplomats

Canada and the United Nations —Canada has a representative on most United Nations organizations and has succeeded in adding one significant change. Canada's foreign relations have multiplied so greatly in recent years that in Ottawa there is now a training school for foreign diplomats. These must speak for all Canada and not play any party politics.

Reliance on the United Nations is not regarded as an effective instrument in avoiding war and therefore it is necessary to have the North Atlantic Pact.

Canada believes economic revival must go hand in hand with political stability.

Some modifications in Canada's foreign policy were dealt with by Mrs. Stanton:

1. That Canada request the withdrawal of American troops stationed on Canadian soil and provide adequately for the manning of the bases;

2. Canada should eschew joining in the hysteria of American denunciation of Russia;

3. Canada's foreign policy should be a Commonwealth policy, not an American policy. The British Commonwealth today is the only possible power sufficiently strong to lead the middle force, to support the peace-loving democratic peoples;

4. Certain modifications of our economic policy.

In closing Mrs. Stanton quoted from a definition as to what is foreign policy: "assumptions used to relate observed facts and events and make purposive action to influence events and to protect the interests of one's own country in the expected contingencies."

Informal discussion and light refreshments followed this informative program.

NEED SMOKE CHASER

Montreal (CP)— Councillor Roy Wager says there's a good need for an engineer who can take charge of the city's anti-smoke campaign. He said the man would have to be able to make industrialists feel ashamed of the smoke and soot coming from their factories.

American Broadtail

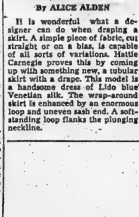
Short fur coat in blue.

by VERA WINSTON

Short fur coat in blue
By VERA WINSTON

The short-fur coat cut on figure-hugging wrap-around lines is the very smartest thing this winter. It is especially nice for afternoon and formal and informal evening wear. Navy blue American broadtail is used for a short topper made with a deep shawl-cape collar that is easily draped to suit the mood or the weather. There are flapped pockets at the hips. This model can be draped to the figure as shown or just allowed to hang loose and boxy, but the draped version is new and smart.

New Line



BY ALICE ALDEN

It is wonderful what a designer can do when draping a skirt. A simple piece of fabric, cut straight or on a bias, is capable of all sorts of variations. Hattie Carnegie proves this by coming up with something new, a tubular skirt with a drape. This model is a handsome dress of Lido blue Venetian silk. The wrap-around skirt is enhanced by an enormous loop and uneven sash end. A soft-standing loop flanks the plunging neckline.

Several Win Prizes At Social Evening In Engineers' Hall

Tuesday evening was the scene of another social evening in the Engineers Hall, Pine Street, under the auspices of the L. A. to B. of R. T.

Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. Flation, Mrs. M. Boyd, Mrs. J. Ross and Mr. J. Gallagher. Mrs. D. Fisher held the lucky ticket on a lovely Christmas cake, donated by Hannah Bakery.

Refreshments were served by the committee and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mrs. J. Ronsky extended her sincere thanks to her committee; to all those who donated prizes and to Mrs. M. Burley, Mrs. Greenwood, Mr. Kerr for the splendid music they provided for old time and modern dancing.

Sponsors Amendment

Mr. Diefenbaker sponsored one of the amendments. He moved it after Speaker Macdonald told members that they could only refer to sections of the milling report that were pertinent to the bill under the discussion. This ruling would have had the effect of preventing any further opposition references to the alleged breach of the law by the government in its handling of the report.

F. A. McGregor, chief combines commissioner, resigned because the report, first delivered to Mr. Garson last Dec. 20, was not made public until early this month, nearly 10 months later.

Mr. Garson said that changes were made in the report after it first reached his office and he did not receive it in final form until within the 15 days before it was tabled.

In his amendment, Mr. Diefenbaker proposed that while the Commons always is anxious to improve combines legislation, it should regret the "failure" of the cabinet to comply with the law requiring publication of the combines report within 15 days. The Commons also should express regret that the government had "failed" to give assurance that there would be no further breach of this or any other act.

Speaker Macdonald ruled it out of order on the grounds that it was not strictly relevant to the bill and that it was similar in some respects to a Progressive Conservative amendment defeated the previous day.

In an appeal against his decision, Mr. Macdonald was upheld 149 to 53.

Wants Bill Delayed

Later, Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) moved a second amendment. It asked that second reading of the bill under study be delayed until the House, through his amendment, censured the government for violating the Combines Act.

The amendment also asked the House to declare that Parliament was "affronted" by the government's action in seeking to strengthen the Combines Act at the "very time" that it was "discovered" that the Minister of Justice, with approval of the cabinet, had "violated" the Act.

Speaker Macdonald ruled that while part of the amendment might be in order another part was similar to that of the earlier amendments. The rules stated that where an amendment was partly defective the whole thing had to be rejected.

In another appeal against his ruling, the Speaker was supported 157 to 56.

The bill then was given second reading without a dissenting voice.

When the measure went before a committee of the whole House for clause-by-clause, Mr. Diefenbaker took the floor and said the fact that the flour milling report had been kept from view was a denial of ... tion of the Combines Statute. It took from any Canadian wanting to prosecute the companies, the right to take such proceedings.

Not Held Responsible

What happened in the flour-milling case amounted to connivance and assistance of the Justice Minister or the Attorney-General to prevent and circumvent operations of the Combines Act, he added.

By "aiding" the report, the Attorney-General became part to placing certain individuals above the law. He wondered if the Combines Act was going to be enforced with any greater zeal by the Attorney-General if he was given the increased powers asked for under the amending bill. Mr. Diefenbaker said he did not hold Mr. Garson responsible because he was a new minister. Then, referring to disclosures made by the minister during the debate, Mr. Diefenbaker said that never before did any minister disclose what went on in Cabinet unless he intended to or was about to resign.

The minister had stated that what he had done was done at the instigation of Trade Minister Howe.

"Will the Attorney-General say that if he gets the additional ... Mr. L. B. Pope ... Commerce will not push him around as he asked Mr. Howe to do?" asked Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Garson denied that he had disclosed any Cabinet secrets. As to the request for assurances that he would not break the law again, Mr. Garson said he would give such assurances on the understanding that they would not prejudice his denial of having broken the law.

WINTER'S FIRST

Had Anchors Fast

One freighter had its anchors fast, weathering the storm with a full crew aboard, at the upper tip of Lake Erie, and a coal barge went aground for a half an hour in the Detroit River. It was estimated that a total of 50 lake vessels took shelter in various ports Wednesday, three at Kingston, seven at Port Colborne and 60 on the long circuit between Sault Ste. Marie and the lakehead.

The J. P. Wells was about two miles offshore when caught by the storm at Colchester, 25 miles southeast of Windsor. With anchors caught, a full crew remained aboard and tugs were to resume efforts to free her. A few miles farther northwest, off Amherstburg at the mouth of the Detroit River, the coal barge Resolute pulled free and docked in Detroit without suffering damage.

Plows Put to Work

The Ontario Highways Department said its plows were having their main battle in two districts one around London and the other in Dufferin County 30 miles northwest of Toronto. The Dufferin County village of Honeywood was isolated for a time Wednesday until plows broke through.

Extra plows worked throughout the night on highways 10 and 24, with visibility next to zero in the wind-driven snow between Dundalk and Owen Sound and in the Honeywood district 20 miles south of Collingwood.

A fall of about 12 inches had made highways dangerous, Owen Sound also reported roads slippery with sleet.

During a snowstorm at Trenton, 100 miles east of Toronto, Picton-Belleville Canadian National Railways train struck a car driven by Malcolm Hall, of Trenton, who escaped injury. Five persons were injured in a collision on the icy road near Brantford.

Beware The End Of November

Delayed return to standard time from daylight saving in some cities and towns will add to the hazards of both driving and walking, warn Department of Highways officials.

Under standard time, the beginning of November sees sunset just after 5:00 o'clock, and just before 8:00 o'clock at the end of the month. The daily peak in traffic accidents is also just after 5:00 o'clock. But this year, the daylight saving experiment extended November daylight through the peak traffic hour in many cities and towns.

With the abrupt return to standard time in the last week of November, hazards normal to the 5.00 to 6.00 o'clock hour are aggravated by almost complete darkness. This sudden shift means that greater care must be exercised by all who use the streets and highways, the officials warn.

In shopping areas, with the Christmas rush coming on, crowds on the streets at night call for reduction of speed and increased alertness by all motorists. Pedestrians also must make extra allowance for the added dangers under conditions of heavy traffic and poor visibility at the close of the working day.

Man Who Gave Away $350,000 Dies in Hospital

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP)— James Powell, recently disclosed as the man who had given away $350,000 to make his friends happy (while I'm still alive,' died early today.

Powell, a 74-year-old retired real estate man, had been in failing health for several years and lived in semi-retirement at an Aurora hotel.

Powell had tried to keep secret the gifts to his friends, charities, and the city government — ranging from $100 to $50,000. He specified only that the beneficiary should not disclose his identity.

"I do not want it to appear that I am doing what I am to gain publicity or glory," Powell said in announcing the various gifts. He urged that he be identified only as "an unknown soldier marching away."

His identity was disclosed after his latest gift of $25,000 to the city of Aurora to start a fund for a municipal auditorium.

Foe of Extreme Secrecy on Atom Reigns Office

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)— David E. Lilienthal, the foe of extreme secrecy on the atom, Wednesday resigned as chairman and member of the Atomic Energy Commission—partly, he said, in order to speak out "with a free tongue."

Lilienthal only last month urged that the United States "stop this secrecy to which we have been driven."

He urged broader sharing of atomic information with Britain and Canada, in the interest of speedier atomic development.

His appeal did not check a new drive in congress for atomic security, spurred by the Russian atomic explosions.

President Truman accepted the resignation, effective Dec. 31, with the "utmost regret". He named no successor for the commission, which holds powers almost unparalleled in Democratic government.

But Truman voiced confidence that "...hould the exigencies of the public interest demand—Presumably, if a war crisis comes—Lilienthal would stay his departure.

Now 50, Lilienthal sprang into the public eye as chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority power project. On Oct. 28, 1946, he was appointed chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. He stayed there three action-packed years, climaxed by last summer's investigation of a charge of "incredible mismanagement" in the A.E.C.

A majority of the Senate-House of Representatives Atomic Committee cleared the agency of this accusation, made by Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep., Iowa).

Nostrand Sprague Heads Legion at Carrying Place

Trenton, Nov. 24 (Special) — Carrying Place five miles south of here on highway No. 33 now has its own Legion Branch—Post No. 509.

On October 28th a meeting of all war veterans in the district was called at Carrying Place town hall where it was decided to form a branch of the Legion. Zone Commander Wilbert Mumby was present and acted as chairman of the proceedings. Comrade Percy Grey, past president of the Marmora Legion Branch officiated while a number of the Carrying Place comrades were initiated and an election of officers was held.

The following are the results of the election of officers: President, W. M. Sprague, of Trenton and Carrying Place; First Vice President, E. V. Young; secretary Treasurer, Wm. Latour; Sergeant at Arms, Jack Harvey.

At a later meeting remainder of the officers were chosen and committees organized. Results were: Executive Committee, Austin Clark, Cecil Andrus and Donald Dempsey Entertainment Committee, Dick Wright, E. Evans, S. Dawson, A. Sleeman, F. Mutls, C. Browning, A. Weatherall, B. Smith; Sick Committee, O. Parsons and A. Hewton; Membership Committee, D. Smith, W. Spreight and W. Weatherup.

The new branch will meet in the Carrying Place town hall the first Wednesday of each month.

First Social Function

The branch has already held its first successful social function providing an evening's entertainment of euchre and festivities with the euchre prizes being taken by the following: Mrs. Lawson Way, ladies' high score; Mrs. H. Hubbs, ladies' low score; George Parsons Jr., men's high score; E. Hennesy, men's low score; Keith Geens, lone hand prize; Don Dempsey, door prize and George Parsons, Jr., hamper of apples.

Zone commander Mumby complimented the Branch on the progress they had made and told the members he was looking forward to their Charter Night meeting.

Hunter Injured

All members of the Otter Lake Hunt Club, the party included: Wm. House Jr., Vic Auger, Ben Hubbs (cook), Wendy Miller, Bill Shute (Toronto), George Brown, Lyc Mallory, Patty Orr (Glen Miller), Sgdr. Ldr. Frank Bowler.

At the same time, but in a different part of the north, Morris Stickle of Sidney township got his count and his family will enjoy their annual venison dinners again this season.

THREE SEVERELY BURNED

Ocean House, Que., Nov. 24—(CP)—Three persons were severely burned in an explosion here Wednesday night. Taken to nearby Montreal hospital in critical condition were Mrs. Alfred Lecoq, 37, Fidelle Tremblay, 48, and Yolande Chartier, 13.

Police said the explosion occurred in Mrs. Rachine's home, a small naptha stove was said to have been placed in the oven of a large oil stove. The small stove exploded causing the larger stove to explode.

$250,000 FIRE

Nelson, B.C., Nov. 24.—(CP)—The Johnstone block Wednesday night was ravaged by fire with damage to stores and apartments estimated at some $250,000. The fire is believed to have started in an elevator shaft in an electrical appliance store.

Y.P.U. Elects Officers for Coming Year

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond opened their home on Thursday evening for the Young People's Union regular meeting.

Mrs. Carl Bateman presided over the inspiring program prepared by Louis Cooke and Sheila Wilson. The Reverend Morley Clarke lead in a fine sing-song with guitar accompaniment.

Mr. Alex McCurdy conducted the scripture reading, and Jean Haggarty contributed a reading.

Officers for 1950 were elected as follows:

President — Jean Haggarty; 1st vice-president — Melbourne Moorcroft; secretary-treasurer — Gerald Cooke.

A new plan this year will see the members divided into two groups with Miss Margaret Haggarty and Russell Sills, as leaders.

The Reverend Morley Clarke gave the special address which was listened to with rapt attention. Mr. and Mrs. Bateman invited the Union to their home in Stirling for the next meeting. There was an attendance of 18 members, and at the close Mrs. Hammond served delightful refreshments.

Pains in Arms, Shoulder, Back Gone Since He Used Syntona; Praises It Highly

Also Free of Indigestion, Gas, Constipation, Nerves Calm—Sleep Better, Says This Man.

Mr. Lloyd Stromberg, 637 Dundas Street, London, Ontario, has come forward with the following statement telling of his recent experience with Syntona Herbal Compound. He does so in the hope that others who suffer as he did may try this famous medicine and find equally good results.

"For about two weeks I suffered with terrific pains in my joints and muscles. My arms and shoulders were particularly sore and painful. I had a dull, aching pain across my back and chest, and I was as on edge all the time. I also suffered all the time with indigestion, gas and sour risings after my meals. Had to be very careful what I ate.

"I felt run down and so lost I had no ambition to do anything about it. Having heard about Syntona helping others, I decided to try some and in only a few days I noticed my food was digesting better. As I continued taking this medicine I also found pains left me and now I am free from pains in arms, shoulder, back or chest. Nerves are relaxed and I am getting sound, restful sleep.

There oughta be a law!

When you pick up a copy of a newspaper you restate your belief in fair play. You express your willingness to let the other fellow get a hearing for his opinion. For opinion is as much a part of the newspaper as fact. Not just the editor's opinion but the opinions of business men and labor leaders, farmers and housewives, public officials and candidates for office—! everyone whose opinions make news.

• • •

Some men and women think you should not have this freedom. They believe you should read only one set of opinions—theirs. They think there should be a law limiting what a newspaper can print.

Those whose freedom these self-constituted leaders are aiming to limit are not so much the editors and publishers of newspapers as the readers. They claim that newspapers have too much freedom but what they mean is that you are too free. They don't talk about thought control but that is what they have in mind. They don't trust you with the knowledge of what is going on in the world —even what is happening in your own government.

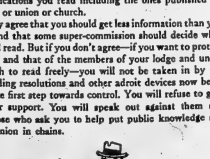
They know that if they can control what you read, they can control what you know. And when they control what you know, they can control your mind. Under the claim of knowing what is good for you, they want to take over your thinking. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin used the same technique.

Of course, the newspaper isn't your only source of information. But if the attack on the newspaper is successful, you can be sure that the magazines and books and the radio won't be overlooked. The newspaper happens to be the first target because it is the main source of your information regarding the events about which these men and women want to keep you in ignorance. Once the newspaper is muzzled, the others will be easy.

• • •

If you think your right to know isn't in danger, take the time to read the proposals that are being offered. Apply these recommended press regulations to this newspaper and to the other publications you read including the ones published by your lodge or union or church.

You may agree that you should get less information than you now get and that some super-commission should decide what you should read. But if you don't agree—if you want to protect your right and that of the members of your lodge and union and church to read freely—you will not be taken in by the high sounding resolutions and other adroit devices now being used as the first step towards control. You will refuse to give them your support. You will speak out against them and against those who ask you to help put public knowledge and public opinion in chains.



Your right to know is the key to all your liberties

Fishing for Smelt In Quebec Harbor Favorite Pastime

Quebec, Nov. 23—(CP)—When silvery smelts invade Quebec's harbor by the thousands every fall, they get a hot reception—in some housewife's frying pan.

Late arrival of the little "merlans" last week had the wharves buzzing with day-and-night activity.

Twice a week from now until mid-December, Edgar teams up with his friend Charles Nadeau, 36, for their favorite sport, night smelt fishing in Quebec harbor.

After office hours they don heavy gabardine outfits and, looking like a pair of seal hunters, they head for an old warped wharf.
